FIRST HONORS FOR GEORGE C. WORTH.

Weekly Competitions at Park Golf Club Links for President's and Hooley Cups.

COURSE IN FINE SHAPE.

M. T. TOWNSEND LOST GREEN COMMITTEE TROPHY TO W. J. R. THIERS.

Eight Cards Turned in for President's Cup — Most of Scratch Men Were Absent With Team—Miss Howell Lowest for Hooley Cup.

Despite the fact that six of the best players of the Park Golf Club were absent from the club course Saturday afternoon, taking part in the team match at Finderne, there was a goodly field of competitors out for the President's cup. A dozen started and eight cards were turned in. First honors for the cup went to George C. Worth. It was his first appearance this season although he competed quite regularly last year.

Worth played good consistent golf and his handicap of 20 made him easily low man for the day's play. Edger I. Serrell, who was second, is steadily improving. He showed good form in his long game but was a trifle weak on approach and putting. But for that, he might have kept his gross score under the even hundred. Herbert S. Rogers tied for third place with Charles B. Morse.

The course was in fine shape and everybody seemed to put up a better game than usual. Even if the scratch men had been present it is doubtful if they would have scored any points as there were four scores below 90. The high wind was rather troublesome on the fifth, sixth, seventh and ninth holes. The greens were very fast, however.

The scores turned in for the President's cup were as follows:

	Gross.	Hand.	Net.
George C. Worth	105	20	85
Edgar I. Serrell	102	15	87
Herbert S. Rogers	109	20	89
Charles B. Morse	119	30	89
George T. Rogers	107	15	92
Charles A. Reed	110	13	97
H. D. Hibbard	1·2	15	97
L. W. Hallock	130	30	100

The standing for the President's cup was little affected by Saturday's play except to put Worth among those who may prove important factors in the contest. Morgan T. Townsend still leads. The standing is as follows:

Morgan T. Townsend	4½
George C. Worth	3
Meredith Dryden	3
J. H. Simpson	3
Allan B. Laing	3
Herbert S. Rogers	2½
George T. Rogers	2
Edgar I. Serrell	2
William B. Faber	2
W. de la R. Anderson	1½
Charles A. Reed	1½
Donald A. McGee	1
Charles B. Morse	½

Only two cards came in for the Hooley cup, ladies' handicap, nine holes, medal play. Miss Saidee Mae Howell was first again, with Miss Daisy Eisberg second. Their scores were:

	Gross.	Hand.	Net.
Miss Saidee Mae Howell	71	0	71
Miss Daisy Eisberg	86	10	76

The standing for the Hooley cup is as follows:

Miss Saidee Mae Howell	11½
Miss Daisy Eisberg	9½
Miss Laura G. Long	3
Miss Adelaide G. Ball	2
Miss Nellie Valiant	1
Mrs. J. H. Howell	1

The Green Committee challenge trophy was played for Saturday morning and the match resulted in the defeat of Morgan T. Townsend, who has held it successfully three times, by W. J. R. Thiers, four up and two to play. Thiers was the first one to win the trophy in an open competition for the lowest gross score. Townsend was not playing in his usual good form, however, or else the match would have been much closer.

The wins for the trophy are as follows:

Morgan T. Townsend	3
W. S. J. Thiers	2
Fred P. Taylor	1

STARTED FOR FELTVILLE.

But the Picnic of the First-Day Sunday-School Changed Its Destination.

The members of the First-Day Sunday-school of the Friends' meeting on Watchung avenue, enjoyed their annual picnic on Saturday. They occupied two of William Hand's stages, and went to Feltville. When they arrived at their destination, they learned that a permission would be necessary to hold a picnic there on the private grounds. They then returned to Dr. Cooley's grove, near Johnson's Drive, where they partook of the noonday meal, and enjoyed a social time. After the lunch they took a ride to South Plainfield, and en route they had a good time singing popular songs.

LEAGUE WILL CONTINUE

REV. G. M. SHOTT SAYS ITS DEFEAT WILL NOT END ITS CAREER.

Will Go on With Fight Against the Liquor Selling in Scotch Plains and Expects Ultimate Victory.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, July 2.—Despite the fact that the Citizens' League was defeated in its attempt to convict William S. Emery of illegal Sunday liquor selling in this village, that organization is not going to give up the fight. Such was the substance of the statement made by Rev. G. M. Shott, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, in a sermon to his congregation yesterday.

That the league failed in that particular case, Rev. Mr. Shott said, was not the fault of the court nor of the evidence presented, but rather in the entire jury system. The necessary testimony was produced, the Judge's charge to the jury was one for conviction, but, in such a case, Rev. Mr. Shott declared, before a mixed jury, it seems impossible to get a conviction.

New complications have arisen, he continued, that will ultimately give the league a complete victory. The league has been eminently successful in the work it has undertaken despite undertaken despite its recent reverse. The majority of the citizens of Scotch Plains are law abiding ones and are with the league in its fight.

CAMP WOLFE OPENS.

Fresh Air Camp at Westfield Began Its Summer Season Yesterday With Special Services.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, July 2—The Westfield Fresh Air Camp opened for the season of 1900 yesterday afternoon. Special services were held in the camp chapel, the several churches of the town being represented and each taking an active part. The camp was opened several years ago under the direction of Geo. Wolfe, for whom the camp was named, for the purpose of giving worn-out mothers and children from the slums of New York a much-needed rest and a glimpse of country life. During the past few years Camp Wolfe has been very successful, and about 200 women and children have been provided for annually.

The camp is supported by the several churches in and around Westfield and by public subscription. The treasury is in excellent financial condition, and the year promises to be a most successful one.

Miss Curry, who has so efficiently performed her duties as matron in past years, will continue in charge of the camp work.

EASILY WON.

Hillside Golf Club Defeated Forest Hill Team By Score of 16 to 3 —On Forest Hill Links.

The golf team from the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club maintained its reputation last Saturday afternoon at Forest Hill, when the team at that place was defeated by a score of 16 to 3 in the East Jersey Golf Association. W. L. Glenney and Frank Reinhart made the 18 holes in 93, which was the best score for the day. The Hillside team played a strong game throughout, and had little trouble in winning the event. Considering that the course was new to the visitors the score was a remarkably good one. The result follows:

HILLSIDE.		FOREST HILL.
W. L. Glenney	0	R. Hunter	0
Frank Reinhart	8	Bury	0
Frank Talmage	0	Geoffrey	1
J. H. P. Wharton	6	A. Hunter	0
Morris Dumont	8	Price	1
F. C. Ard	2	Tuckerman	0

ST. MARY'S WON.

Defeated Carlton A. C. of Brooklyn at Base Ball by Score of 16 to 7.

An excellent game of base ball was played on the Washington avenue grounds Saturday afternoon between the St. Mary's nine and the Carlton Athletic Club, of Brooklyn. The former team won by a score of 16 to 7. The battery for St. Mary's was Montross and Keene and for the C. A. C. Holler and Swam.

During the first inning of the game, Harry Shannon, left fielder for the local nine, was struck in the head with a pitched ball, stunning him for some time. It was feared at first that he was badly hurt, but a slight cut on the head was his only injury.

BURGLARS PLY TRADE WITH SOME SUCCESS

Entered Several Residences in the West End Early Saturday Morning.

DOG GAVE THE ALARM.

WERE TRACKED OUT CLINTON AVENUE TO LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

Sole James Voorhies Best Trousers With His Watch and $12 in Cash —Also Entered Homes of Chas. Eisenman and Frederick Pugh.

The usually quiet neighborhood in the vicinity of Clinton avenue and West Eighth street was widely disturbed early Saturday morning by two reports from a shotgun fired in rapid succession. Windows were thrown up and heads thrust out and the cry of "what's the matter?" was heard on all sides. The question was soon answered for it was found that the shots were fired by James Voorhies, of West Eighth street, and that he had taken this method of informing his neighbors that burglars were in the vicinity. They had just left his residence in a rather hurried manner, taking with them his best pair of Sunday trousers, in the pockets of which were a watch, $12 in money and several small articles of value.

Mr. Voorhies was awakened at 2 o'clock, by the barking of a pet dog, which was in his bed room, and at the same moment heard some one hurriedly descending the stairs. Springing out of bed he gave chase but the prowler was too quick for him and sprang through a side window, through which he entered.

Mrs. Voorhies ran to an upper window and, looking out, saw two shadowy forms running across the lawn. By the time Mr. Voorhies reached the street they had disappeared. He then returned to the house, when he discovered his loss. Dressing himself, he seized the gun and fired it off in the hopes of bringing a policeman to the scene. There was none in the vicinity, however and he was forced to go in search of one to report his loss.

As soon as it was daylight the police made a search about the premises and found the tracks of the two men which, on account of the recent rain, were quite distinct. One of the men was barefooted showing how he had entered the house without disturbing the inmates. The tracks were followed in the middle of the road down Clinton avenue as far as the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Here the burglars separated, one of them keeping on down the track and the other turning into the woods, where all trace of them was lost. On returning, Mr. Voorhies' trousers were found at Clinton avenue and West Eighth street, but the contents of the pockets was gone.

Mr. Voorhies' house was not the only one visited, as two others were entered in the same way, but neither of the occupants heard the burglars. At the residence of Charles Eisenman, at 1207 West Seventh street, they made the largest haul, securing a gold watch, a diamond ring, and a sum of money. Mr. Eisenman knew nothing of their visit until he awoke in the morning.

A side window was opened at the residence of Frederick Pugh, of Clinton avenue, where they also entered, but nothing of value was taken.

FUNERAL OF MISS MARTIN.

Held From Her Home Yesterday Afternoon—Rev. Mr. Herring Officiated.

The funeral services of the late Miss Sarah Elizabeth Martin were held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the house, 64 Westervelt avenue, and was largely attended by friends and neighbors. Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, where the deceased was a member, conducted the services. He made a few remarks in which he spoke of the exemplary Christian life of Miss Martin and of her devotion to Christ and His cause.

After the services interment took place in the North Plainfield cemetery, and those who served as bearers were A. J. Moore, Joseph A. Hubbard, Joseph B. Coward and A. V. Searing.

Reddington Forgot To Go.

Michael Reddington and Patrick Garmon were summoned to appear before City Judge Runyon, this morning, charged with disorderly conduct on Third street, Saturday evening. Reddington failed to put in an appearance, and after waiting some time, the Judge listened to Garmon's testimony, and suspended sentence. Action will be taken against Reddington at a later date.

—St. Patrick's Alliance will hold their first annual picnic at Mountainside Grove tomorrow night.

VAN HERWERDEN CUP WON BY MISS HOLLY

Ladies' Handicap Competition Played on Course of Hillside Club Saturday Afternoon.

CROWD WAS QUITE SMALL.

FINAL MATCH PLAY FOR THAT TROPHY ON OCTOBER 27TH.

Seven Scores Turned in for Van Herwerden Cup—Miss May Holly's Net of 110 Was Lowest—Miss Van Herwerden Was Second.

The smallest crowd of the season attended the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course on Saturday, as there was little to attract the enthusiasts. A good many of the best players were away, including the team that played the Forest Hill team and defeated them. In the morning the only event of the day was played. This was the Van Herwerden cup, handicap, competition open to all women members, whether active, associate or junior, 18 holes, medal play. Miss May Holly won the cup, with a net score of 110. The final play for the cup will be on October 27th, match play, open only to those who have won the cup one or more times. There was a large entry list, but only a few played and turned in their scores. The scores follow:

	Gross.	Handicap.	Net
Miss May Holly	130	20	110
Miss van Herwerden	113	0	113
Miss Edith Tracy	120	0	120
Miss Gertrude Andrews	121	0	121
Miss Margaret Goddard	143	20	123
Miss Marjorie Fleming	169	24	135

In the afternoon a few enthusiasts gathered on the course and enjoyed private play. There was a deserted appearance, however, and very little life was to be seen. Some of the older members of the club were out, and while no low scores were made they seemed to get a great deal of enjoyment out of the ancient game.

PARK CLUB TEAM WON

DEFEATED SOMERSET COUNTY COUNTRY CLUB ON LATTER'S LINKS.

Plainfield Team Was Victorious by Score of 11 to 9—Thiers and Cooley Were Defeated—The Score.

A six men team from the Park Golf Club of this city went to Finderne Saturday afternoon and defeated the team from the Somerset County Country Club by a score of 11 to 9. The Park Club players easily outclassed their opponents but the troubles they encountered enroute around the course evened up things.

A high wind from the west swept over the unprotected fields on which the links are located and played havoc with the long shots of the visitors. Stroke after stroke was badly punished by landing in the high grass that bordered the course.

The best contest was between Morgan T. Townsend and Jack Barcalow. Townsend finally won one up. W. J. R. Thiers, of the Park Club, had his troubles with Mr. Baker. Thiers was driving hard but his unfamiliarity with the course was severely punished and his fine brassey shots were held up in the high grass.

Dr. Charles Pool lost to Fred P. Taylor, of the visiting team, by three. Gustavus W. Faber defeated his opponent, H. Swan Hartwell, four up. Wm. M. McCutchen, of the Parks, played steadily and defeated Alex Mack, three up.

Gifford W. Cooley finished five down to Mr. Windsor. Cooley suffered from any quantity of hard luck. Four holes were lost to him through the loss of the balls. Then he, as well as the others, had his long shots wind up in the high grass to the detriment of a low score.

The team score was as follows:

PARK GOLF CLUB.		SOMERSET C. C. CLUB.
Morgan T. Townsend	1	Jack Barcalow	0
W. J. R. Thiers	0	Mr. Baker	4
Fred P. Taylor	3	Dr. Chas. Pool	0
G. W. Faber	4	H. Swan Hartwell	0

AERIAL TRAMWAY FOR CARTING STONE.

New Project of Garretson & Gray, of Dunellen, to Transport Stone to Railway Lines.

FROM THEIR QUARRIES.

PLAN WILL GREATLY REDUCE COST OF CARTING STONE.

Heavy Traffic Has Cut up Roads—Three Routes for Tramway Under Consideration—Will Apply for Franchise—Will be Mile and a Half Long.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, July 2.—If the expectations of Garrettson & Gray, owners of the stone quarry below Washington Rock, are realized, the citizens of Dunellen will soon see the heavily laden stone carts passing from their streets instead of on them. When the streets were built, there was no stipulation made as to how heavy a load should be taken over them, consequently those used have most suffered, as a result of the heavy traffic. To alleviate this trouble and at the same time cheapen the cost of shipping the stone, this enterprising firm is working on a scheme which they expect to have in operation before the coming winter.

Their plan is to build an aerial tramway from their crusher at the foot of the mountain to some point on the Central Railroad and possibly the Lehigh Valley.

These tram-ways are used extensively in the coal and coke districts of Pennsylvania, one of them being seven miles long. They consist of two cables strung on poles twenty-five or thirty feet high. The lower cable is stationary and supports the weight of small cars or buckes which are run over it. The upper cable is smaller and furnishes moving power to the cars.

At a distance of one hundred feet apart are links or groves to which the buckets are attached and are pulled along the lower cable. Each bucket carries six hundred pounds. At the quarry end of the tram-way, they are switched off by a boy stationed at this point, filled up, and returned to the main cable. At the shipping end of the line the switching is repeated.

In this way the buckets go back and forth, carrying the stone from quarry to railroad. The motive power for the upper cable is to be furnished by a six-horse power engine, which will be placed along side of the present quarry engine, using steam from the same boiler.

The cost of constructing the tramway has been estimated at quite a low figure and will pay for itself in a short time. At present it costs the firm 27½ cents a ton for all stone hauled from the crusher to the railroad. By means of the tramway this cost will be reduced to 5 cents, thus enabling the builders to compete with any dealer in this part of the State.

The projectors have three routes in mind, the most feasible one bringing the line out at West Dunellen, near where the Central and Lehigh Valley railroads come together. Permission will be asked of the Borough Council for the right-of-way at an early date. If necessary the line will be built over private property, except for cross-streets. The length will be in the neighborhood of a mile and a-half.

The quarry at present is working on full time and hundreds of tons of stone are hauled daily to all parts of Somerset, Union and Middlesex counties. With the building of the tramway the output will be doubled, and Dunellen will become noted for its production of road-making material.

PUBLIC MEETING TONIGHT.

Borough Board of Education Will Ask for Heating Apparatus in School.

The public meeting of borough taxpayers will be held this evening in the Public School building on Somerset street, when the Board of Education will ask that authority be given to place a suitable heating and ventilating apparatus in that school. The idea has become current that the meeting would be held tomorrow evening. This is not correct. It will be held tonight at 8 o'clock.

To a New Field of Labor.

DANCE AT NETHERWOOD

SECOND SATURDAY EVENING HOP WAS A GREAT SUCCESS.

Plainfield Society Folk and Hotel Guests Filled Ball Room and Promenaded Piazzas.

The second of the Saturday evening hops at the Hotel Netherwood was held Saturday night and proved an even greater social success than the first. There are now some four score guests in the house, among whom are a number of young people. A large turnout of Plainfield society folk came up the affair. The cool breeze on the broad piazzas was delightful and many spent their evening in promenading its length. A beautiful array of evening gowns was to be seen in the ball rooms and on the piazzas. The conventional evening dress predominated among the young men although a fair representation appeared in outing costume.

Mrs. Coleman and her charming daughter were present and took part in the evening's pleasure. There is already a general disposition on the part of Plainfield society to make the hotel a roudezvous place Saturday evenings that bids fair to make the hotel a lively place this summer.

Beside the regular informal dancing every evening, a large throng is expected on the evening of Independence Day when a dance will be held.

WILL LOWER GRADE.

Temporary Change Made at Watchung Avenue Bridge Pending Improvement at Expense of Trolley Company.

Permission has been granted by Mayor Rockfellow and Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett to the Plainfield Street Railway to make a slight change in the grade of the company's tracks on Watchung avenue at one end of the railroad bridge. By dropping the tracks for a short distance it will be possible for some of the new cars of the company to get through.

Application will be made to the City Council this evening to make a permanent change in the grade on Watchung avenue. The grade will be changed for some distance on either side of the bridge making a gradual slope under the railroad tracks. The improvement will cost the street railway $1,000 or more. The temporary change was made this morning, but the other will, if the permission is granted, take several weeks to complete.

JERSEY DEMOCRATS OFF FOR CONVENTION

Staff Correspondent Writes of the Departure and Progress of the Party.

ROUSING FAREWELL GIVEN.

JAMES E. MARTINE DECLARES FOR BRYAN AND SULZER.

On board special car carrying New Jersey delegation to the Democratic convention at Kansas City, July 2—After speeches from James E. Martine and Congressman Daly from the steps of the special Pullman car, which is being used by the representatives of the New Jersey Democracy to the National convention in Kansas City, the start was made for the great political gathering at 6:20 o'clock last evening.

Gathered around the special car as it stood in the train shed at Jersey City, were two-hundred enthusiastic well wishers for the New Jersey delegates and the cause they represent. A dozen of the party were Plainfielders who had gone down to Jersey City to give "Farmer Orator" Martine a parting send off. The Plainfielders were full of life and bubbling over with Democratic faith and devotion. The delegates and their friends had no sooner boarded the special car than there were calls for Mr. Martine to give the boys a little talk before his departure. The "Farmer Orator" responded in his usual good style for four or five minutes. He said that, of course, everyone knew who would be the head of the ticket that the delegates would assist in naming, but he said that there was no such certainty about the second place. He said, however, that it was his hope that Union county's favorite, William Sulzer, would be nominated for Vice-President.

The sentiment was greeted with applause, but one or two unterrified Jersey City Democrats proclaimed that it was Congressman Daly who would make just the right kind of a Vice-Presidential candidate.

The Congressman had his little say and then the train pulled out amid the shouts of the assembled crowd. Jack Gaffney and W. K. McClure leading the shouting. Incidentally, Gaffney had to give up a suspicious-looking package that he carried under his arm after he emerged from the car.

"That stuff costs $1.50 per bottle," significantly remarked the steward.

There are not as many in the party as had been expected. The only missing delegate is Robert Davis. He is represented by his alternate, Judge Murphy, of Jersey City. The representative of The Daily Press is the only Union county man aboard besides the delegates from that county.

The delegates on board are as follows:

At Large — Judge Murphy, of Hudson; Thos. M. Ferrell, of Gloucester; Johnston Cornish, of Warren, and James E. Martine, of Union.

First District — Colonel George Pfieffer, of Camden, and Samuel Iredell, of Cumberland.

Second District—Harry H. Postell, of Atlantic, and W. J. Harrison, of Ocean.

Third District—David Crater, of Monmouth, and S. O. B. Taylor, of Somerset.

Fourth District—Representative J. P. Salmon, of Morris, and W. Howard Lake, of Hunterdon.

Fifth District—State Chairman W. B. Gourley, of Passaic, and Addison Ely, of Bergen.

Sixth District — General E. P. Meaney, of Essex, and Frank McDermit, of Essex.

Seventh District—Mayor Edward Hoos, of Jersey City, and Representative W. D. Daly, of Hudson.

Eighth District—James J. Manning, of Union, and Michael Doyle, of Essex.

Up to the time this is being written there has been but very little talk concerning the probable action of the Jersey delegation. Congressman Daly will be chairman of the delegation, although Mr. Martine has been mentioned. The latter does not want the place and says Daly should have it. W. B. Gourley, chairman of the State committee, will probably be elected New Jersey's representative on the National committee. There is some opposition to this action, but it will probably Peter out before the election takes place.

James Manning, of Elizabeth, delegate from the Eighth district, is booming Sulzer for Vice-President, and is distributing Bryan and Sulzer buttons and badges.

A BRUTAL MURDER.

Killing of German Minister by Boxers Confirmed.

SHANGHAI DISPATCHES CAUSE DISMAY

Public Execution of Foreigners Said to Have Been In Progress For Ten Days—General Yulu Implores Help to Resist Foreigners.

LONDON, July 2.—Official dispatches received by the consular body at Shanghai July 1 confirm in the fullest manner the report of the butchery of Baron von Ketteler, the German minister, on June 18. The embassador was riding on Legation street, when he was attacked by Chinese troops and Boxers, dragged from his horse and killed. His body was hacked to pieces with swords. The German legation and six other buildings were burned, and a number of servants of the legations were killed and their bodies thrown into the flames.

Official confirmation of this ghastly business has created the utmost consternation among the consul generals of the powers, who expressed fears that war to outrance will be declared against the Peking government. The consuls entertain little hope that any foreigners are left alive in the capital. There were 100 foreigners connected with the legations 50 in the custom house, English and American tourists and others to the number of 150 and nearly 500 legation guards.

The British foreign office, The Daily Mail learned, has received news from the British consul at Chefu that Baron von Ketteler has been killed, but no other information.

A dispatch to The Express from Nankin, June 30, says:

"French priests here have received reports that the public execution of foreigners has been in progress since June 20. The news comes by runners from French priests at Peking, who state that they administered the last rites to the condemned men."

Nankin cables, dated Sunday, say that Viceroy Liu Yun Yih received a telegram from General Yulu on Saturday stating that the German minister has been murdered at Peking. Yulu, who escaped from Tien-tsin to Pao-ting-fu, also wired:

"Position desperate. Implore your help Foreign troops of eight nationalities entering Peking to the number of 30,000 or 40,000. I cannot hold out four days."

Liu Yun Yih has received this from the viceroy of Yuenshikai:

"Foreign troops victorious at Tien-tsin They will enter Peking immediately."

Outbreaks of Boxers appear to be imminent at Canton.

A dispatch from Admiral Bruce to the admiralty, sent via Chefu under date of June 30, says:

"The conduct of Commander Steward of the Algerine and Commander Hauz of the German gunboat Iltis at the bombardment of the Taku forts was magnificent and elicited the admiration of the allied ships. The river route to Tien tsin, 51 miles from Taku, is now open The railway head is now nine miles from Tien-tsin. The road inward is not quite safe, and so communication to Tien-tsin is difficult.

"A fort 13 miles above Taku was found deserted by Lieutenant Commander Keyes and was blown up, leaving the passage up the river free. Lieutenant Commander Keyes reports that the arsenal at Tien-tsin was captured June 23 by the naval brigade. The losses were five killed, Lieutenant Colomb slightly wounded and a gunner and 21 men wounded. There are no further details Warrender is in charge of all our forces on the river and lines of communication

"Vice Admiral Alexieff, governor general of Port Arthur and commander in chief of the Russian forces in the east has arrived on his way to Tien-tsin to take supreme command of the Russian forces landed to date.

"Germany has 44 officers and 1,300 men; Great Britain, 184 officers and 1,700 men; Austria, 12 officers and 127 men; America, 20 officers and 329 men France, 17 officers and 387 men; Italy, 7 officers and 131 men; Japan, 119 officers and 3,709 men, and Russia, 117 officers and 5,817 men, with a total of 53 field guns and 36 machine guns."

IMPORTANT DISPATCHES.

Foreign Ministers Safe Except the German Representative.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The latest advices to the state department, made up of two cablegrams from Consul General Goodnow at Shanghai, have brought the foreign ministers at Peking along one day further in safety, showing that they were still alive with the probable exception of the German minister, who, it seems likely, has been murdered. Some encouragement is drawn by the officials from the fact that some days prior to the latest advices the other ministers were alive on the later date, for officials believe that the diplomatic corps at Peking could not have been preserved through the fury of the first stages of the outbreak, only to fall victims to sober second thought. There is also at least the indication that the Chinese government itself was protecting them. On the other hand, the statement that the notoriously antiforeign Prince Tuan was in complete control at Peking was regarded as an exceedingly grave development and as tending to fix clearly the responsibility for the happenings of the past three weeks directly upon the Peking government. An ameliorating condition is the refusal of the great viceroys themselves of almost absolute power in their provinces to be controlled from Peking in their attitude toward foreigners.

After examination of the plans of the battleship Oregon in the light of the commanding officer's report officials of the navy department express the opinion that if she struck at high tide she cannot be saved. Anticipating the possibility that the lightening of the battleship may enable her to float off the rock upon which she is impaled, Secretary Hay, at the request of Secretary Long, sent a cable dispatch to Embassador Tower, at St. Petersburg, directing him to apply to the Russian government for permission for the wounded vessel to enter its dry-dock at Port Arthur, which is the nearest of sufficient size.

Two important cablegrams have been received by Secretary Hay from United States Consul Goodnow, at Shanghai. The date is understood to be that of Saturday night. The text is withheld, but the consul states in substance as follows.

"It is rumored in Shanghai that the German minister to Peking, Baron von Ketteler, was killed at Peking on the June 18. On June 23 three legation buildings were still standing; the others had been burned. On June 26 a dispatch was received at Shanghai from Yung Lu (believed to be the viceroy of the province of Chi-li, where the principal troubles have occurred) stating that the other ministers were safe. Dispatches to Shanghai from different sources indicate that Prince Tuan, father of the heir apparent, seems to be absolutely in control at Peking and that his attitude is the worst possible and most hostile to foreigners. It is even said that he issued an edict as far back as June 20 ordering all of the viceroys to attack the foreigners in their respective provinces, an order which has so far not been obeyed."

The following message was received at the navy department from Admiral Rodgers:

"Following telegram from Kempff casualties relief expedition, June 25 'Killed—Boatswain's Mate Thomas Thomas, Gunner's Mate Benjamin Benson, Apprentice Broman, Landsman Severson. Wounded—Boatswain's Mate Holiske, Machinist Handford, Landsman Joseph Killacky, Cadet Taussig, Captain McCalla, Fireman Rowe, Landsman Garrety, Cockswain Ryan, Quartermaster Conway, Cockswain McClay, Fireman Flaherty, Seamen Lloyd, Child, Anderson, Jensen and McKervey, Landsman Philip Voellmoeller, Cockswain Thomas Lindom, Apprentices Johnson, Rasmussen and Welch and Private Ordeff.'"

The Killing of Ketteler.

SHANGHAI, July 2.—The German minister in Peking, Baron von Ketteler was attacked while proceeding to the tsung-li-yamen, where he died. The British consul at Chefu telegraphs that Baron von Ketteler, German minister at Peking, was murdered by native troops June 18. Three legations—it is not stated which—were still undestroyed June 23. The American consul here states that Yung Lu telegraphed June 26 that the other ministers were safe that morning, but the situation was desperate, and he doubted whether the ministers could hold out 24 hours longer, as he and the empress could no longer give protection.

Boxer Rebellion Waning.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 2.—According to intelligence received in official quarters here the Chinese population in several localities has placed itself under the protection of Russia. The Boxer insurrection is no longer spreading, but is declining and maintains itself only in the province of Pe-chi-li. The view of the situation in government circles is that with pacific action on the part of the powers and the good will of the Chinese government, the Boxer rebellion will be disposed of in a short time.

The Oregon May Be Saved.

CHEFU, July 2.—The American battleship Oregon, which struck on an uncharted rock 40 miles west of Chefu on June 28, is reported lying easily. The pumps are holding the water down, and there is an excellent prospect of saving the ship. The steamers Nanchang and Iris have gone to the assistance of the battleship.

Three Legations Not Destroyed.

ROME, July 2.—The commander of the cruiser Elba telegraphs from Taku June 30 as follows: "Advices from the German legation in Peking state that all the legations have been burned except those of England, France and Germany All the members of the diplomatic corps have taken refuge in the British legation."

FIRE IN SAN JUAN.

Porto Rican Training School Destroyed—Valuable Records Lost.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, July 2.—The Model and Training school, an insular possession, was totally destroyed by fire yesterday, causing a loss of $25,000. The property was insured for $10,000. The fire is supposed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion among a quantity of phosphates in the laboratory. The building, a huge two story, barnlike structure, was well stocked with furniture and textbooks. It was erected during the winter at a cost of $10,000 and was occupied as a school for six months It contained the offices of the insular board of education, in which were all the records for 50 years. These were totally destroyed. Two pianos and a considerable quantity of furniture were saved.

At 2 o'clock in the morning the watchman discovered the fire in the laboratory and at once notified the police, but as the city does not possess a fire alarm system by the time the firemen arrived the flames had gained great headway, and the firemen were unable to control the blaze They were without even a ladder; otherwise, it is said, the records of the office, which were in the second story could have been saved. The bay and country for a radius of five miles were lighted up as brilliantly as in the day time. Thousands of persons, including Civil Governor Allen, witnessed the fire At 3:30 o'clock nothing but a heap of smoldering ruins remained.

It is expected that the authorities will take immediate steps to erect a more substantial building to replace the one burned.

Governor Allen has issued a proclamation directing the observance of the Fourth of July as a public holiday. He directs the closing of the government offices and schools and orders that the national colors shall be displayed on the public buildings and schoolhouses. The celebration will probably be quietly carried out.

Civil Service For the Philippines.

MANILA, July 2.—The American Philippine commission is carefully studying the approaching necessity for the substitution for army officers performing civil functions of civil service men and has asked the Washington government to send examiners to the Philippines to hold civil service examinations here at the same time as in the United States, with the idea of creating a Philippine civil service board. The commission is determined that every precaution shall be taken to insure honest, efficient civil service among Filipinos and Americans. It is the general opinion that circumstances here require the appointment of the best class of men able to withstand corrupt influences, and it is believed that no political adventurers or their proteges will be able to secure appointments in the service.

Chaffee Starts and Turns Back.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—The transport Grant, with Brigadier General Chaffee, who is to command the American troops in China, on board, started on her voyage to the orient last evening and returned to port three hours later. The cause of her return has not yet been ascertained.

CONVENTION GOSSIP.

Hill Goes to Consult With Mr. Bryan.

NOMINATION TO BE MADE JULY 4.

Democratic Leaders Arrive In Kansas City and Begin Preparations For National Gathering—Vice Presidential Possibilities.

KANSAS CITY, July 2.—Three noteworthy events stand out above the mass of detail marking the approach of the Democratic convention, the arrival of David B. Hill from New York and his departure for Lincoln in response to a telegram from Mr. Bryan, the conference of Chairman Jones of the national committee with Mr. Croker, ex-Senator Murphy and other influential leaders concerning the platform and the first serious consideration by the convention leaders of a plan to reach such an understanding on the platform that the way will be open to nominate Mr. Bryan for the presidency on July 4.

The leaders are losing no time, however, in making their preparations. But it is noticeable that this is not a gathering of leaders in the accepted sense. On the contrary, it is quiet and democratic, and one hears frequently and proudly the remark that in this convention the delegates, representing the people, will frame the platform and name the candidates. The conspicuous men here—Jones, Hill, Croker and Murphy—are not exerting any powerful hand on affairs; the influence in the vice presidency is not discernible, and not until today have they evinced an interest in smoothing away the rough places in the path of the platform. Most of the members of the executive committee are here, including Chairman Jones, Vice Chairman Johnson, ex-Governor Stone of Missouri, J. M. Guffey of Pittsburg and George Fred Williams of Massachusetts, and they hold frequent meetings to determine upon formal features of the convention proceedings. In one respect their determination to have the reading of the Declaration of Independence a feature of the Fourth of July session is both interesting and significant, for it is in line with the strong effort being made to lend patriotic fervor to the presidential nomination by making it on the national holiday.

The Democratic vice presidential nomination is still open for anybody—that is, anybody who can reach it. Here is a list to choose from: William Sulzer, David B. Hill, Elliot Danforth and Judge A. B. Parker of New York, Benjamin F. Shively of Indiana, Charles A. Towne of Minnesota, Carter H. Harrison of Illinois, Benton McMillin of Tennessee, James Hamilton Lewis of Washington, Robert A. Pattison of Pennsylvania, Arthur P. Gorman of Maryland, D. J. Campau of Michigan, David S. Rose of Wisconsin, David Overmeyer of Kansas, William J. Stone of Missouri and George Fred Williams of Massachusetts. There may be some others, but these are "mentioned." Some are avowed candidates, and others are not, and some do not even expect to be presented to the convention.

The active candidates are Sulzer and Towne. Others expect a complimentary vote, but both of these gentlemen want the nomination, and their friends are working for them with much earnestness.

Three hundred laborers are at work in Convention hall. If the convention were to meet today, its members would find difficulty in getting inside the building. The streets in front and on the side of the structure are filled with rubbish, to remove which a large force will be necessary. The entrances are blocked with material which is to complete the furnishing of the hall. The contractors confidently assert that they will be ready to turn over the hall to the national committee tomorrow night. The hall will be opened to the public on that night, when a drill will be the entertainment.

Hill Goes to Lincoln.

KANSAS CITY, July 2.—Former Governor D. B. Hill of New York, accompanied by his private secretary, P. J. Manwiller, and General J. S. McEwan of Albany, arrived here early yesterday from St. Louis, having left Albany on Friday. Within two hours after his arrival Governor Hill departed for Lincoln, Neb., to hold a conference with Mr. Bryan at the latter's request.

HOBOKEN'S HORROR.

Fire Wipes Out North German Lloyd Piers.

APPALLING LOSS OF HUMAN LIFE.

Property Damage May Reach $10,000,000—Three Ocean Liners Burned, One Badly Damaged—Other Valuable Property Destroyed.

NEW YORK, July 2.—The losses sustained in the horrible conflagration at the docks of the North German Lloyd Steamship company in Hoboken Saturday night are conservatively placed at between $7,000,000 and $10,000,000. The loss of life, while merely guesswork at even this late hour, will reach probably as high as 150, and there are over 300 men in the hospitals in this city, Hoboken and Jersey City badly burned.

Up to 11 o'clock last night 18 bodies had been recovered. Eleven of these were placed in a row at the morgue in this city and numbered, this being the only means the authorities have of maintaining any sort of identity over the corpses, as they are so badly charred and dismembered that identification will be made only by trinkets or pieces of clothing that were found about the bodies.

The scene of the great fire presents a spectacular but horrible sight. Over in Hoboken, where two days ago piers reaching hundreds of feet out into the river and rising in the air like great hills stood, alive with outgoing and incoming commerce, a mammoth waste of burning and smoldering beams, with here and there an occasional remnant of a high brick wall, are all that remains of the hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of property. The three immense piers of the North German Lloyd line are burned to the water's ripple. The Thingvalla pier also lies smoldering from the same fate, and a part of the Hamburg-American pier, which had just been added to their great pier city, was in ruins.

Four large storehouses of the Palmer Campbell company are wrecked, and they, with the piers, go to make up the appalling mass of debris that lies smoking, sizzling and steaming over across the North river. It covers over four city blocks and reaches out into the river for over 1,000 feet. Streams of water are being pumped on to the ruins, and they seem to stand out again the black mass of ruins like great threads of silk raveling at the ends. Workmen were poking about among the hot ruins for bodies or any traces of bodies.

The property loss can simply be approximated at this time. None of the officials around the docks could give anything like a precise estimate of their losses and none was prepared to make a statement on this point. A conservative estimate, made by a prominent fire underwriter, places the entire damage at below $10,000,000.

The three docks of the North German Lloyd line are total losses, with all their contents, and they are still smoldering, with many streams from fire hose playing continually on the debris. The pier of the Thingvalla line is totally wiped away, and an extension which had just been built on the Hamburg-American line's expanse of piers was burned down to the spile tops.

The warehouses of Palmer Campbell, which were across the street from the North German Lloyd docks, suffered greatly, and a number of houses along the street were scorched badly. The number of smaller buildings along the water front not directly under the control of the steamship companies cannot be learned, but it is said that there were a number of express offices for smaller companies. One of those is reported to have lost over $10,000 worth of horses and wagons.

The loss on the steamship properties and to other companies is estimated approximately as follows:

The steamship Main of the North German Lloyd line cost $1,500,000 outside of the cargo, fitting and stores. The loss is placed at $1,200,000 for the vessel and about $400,000 for the fitting and stores and cargo that were aboard her.

The steamship Bremen of the North German Lloyd line cost $1,250,000, and her fitting and cargo were valued at $300,000. The cargo and stores were entirely consumed, and the loss to the vessel proper will amount to at least $700,000. She is beached off Weehawken and still smoldering, apparently destroyed save her machinery.

The Saale, the steamship which will have the most horrible story of death to unfold when the divers go down in her, cost the North German Lloyd company $1,250,000, and the fitting and cargo were valued at $300,000. The Saale is beached at Ellis island and still burning. The damage to the vessel proper is placed at about $800,000.

The damage done to the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse is estimated at $25,000.

The three docks of the North German Lloyd line which were burned to the water's edge are estimated to have cost $300,000. The docks were well filled with merchandise just received from abroad and valued at $350,000.

The Thingvalla pier, which was entirely consumed, was valued at $50,000, counting the stores which were on it.

The Hamburg-American line dock, which had just been completed as an extension to their great pier and which was destroyed in order to prevent the spread of the flames, was damaged to the extent of $15,000. This was the only loss they sustained, as the steamer Phœnicia, contrary to reports, was not even scorched.

The warehouses of Palmer Campbell, houses E, F, G and H, were burned. Mr. Campbell said last night that he could not give a definite estimate of his losses, but the damage to buildings alone would amount to at least $50,000 and the contents $1,250,000. Had the fire occurred at any other time of the year, he said, the loss would have been much greater, as just at the present time the imports are very light, and the houses were not well filled.

One lighter containing 5,000 bags of sugar was destroyed, the loss being $37,000.

Eight barges and 11 canalboats were either burned or sunk, with their cargoes, total valuation $125,000.

The Hoboken Shore railroad had a number of cars burned and other property damaged, total loss $7,000.

Minor losses on floating property burned at the fire proper or set on fire by burning driftwood will amount to about $20,000.

The personal losses sustained by those aboard the steamships can simply be surmised, as there is no way of ascertaining this at the present time.

A CASE OF EXTRAVAGANCE.

YOU never cut off three-quarters of a new cake of soap and throw it away! Yet you pay twice the price of Ivory Soap for a cake of "tinted" toilet soap less than half as large. Your little cake of toilet soap costs you four times the price of Ivory, for it lasts only half as long and costs twice as much. No money can buy purer or better soap than Ivory. If it came in dainty paper, all scented and colored, you would pay fifteen cents for a very small cake of it.

ADMIRAL PHILIP DEAD.

Succumbed to an Attack of Heart Disease—Funeral Today.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Arrangements for the funeral of Rear Admiral John W. Philip have been announced at the navy yard. Services will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock, and the body will be taken to Annapolis for interment. Dr. Wilton Merle Smith of Manhattan, an old friend of the admiral's, will officiate at the navy yard services.

The admiral's death Saturday closed a period of suffering during which no groan escaped his lips. During all his illness he was conscious. Until the moment when he turned on his side and his heart ceased to beat his eyes were open, and the light of the calm and clear mind shone through them.

His last words were a request that his nurses should not take so much trouble on his account. That so many persons were waiting upon him seemed to worry him.

"Don't cheer, boys; the poor devils are dying."

Immortal in the annals of the United States navy will ever remain these words of Captain Philip to his crew on the day Cervera's fleet was sunk off Santiago. History, too, will ever record that in spiring scene upon the decks of the victorious Texas when, with bared head Captain Philip made his men pause and offer silent prayer to the God who gave them victory.

John Woodward Philip, born in Kingsbrook, N. Y., in 1840, entered the Naval academy when he was 16. The opening of the civil war found him acting master of the Marion in the gulf blockading squadron. Its closing found him a lieutenant who had done gallant duty in the siege of Charleston, where as executive officer of the Pawnee he had received a severe wound in the leg.

Duty was the keynote of his career. As a lieutenant commander in the Asiatic squadron just after the civil war, as a commander in charge of the Ranger on coast survey, in command of a navy yard, on lighthouse service, detailed to the merchant marine on the Pacific Mail steamers, his superiors praised him as an efficient officer, his inferiors knew him as a strict disciplinarian, yet one whom all could ever approach, however humble his mission.

A man of infinite sympathies, of high moral character, a pious man, yet one whose intimates did not even know whether he was Methodist or Catholic those who knew him best can tell a host of incidents that make it clear why, as a navy officer said yesterday, "Jack Philip was the best loved man in all the navy bar none."

Commissioned captain in 1889, on Oct. 18, 1897, Philip took command of the battleship Texas, which a few months later played an important role in the battle of Santiago. Promotion to commodore and rear admiral came soon after the Spanish war, and on Jan. 15 came installation as commandant of the New York navy yard in Brooklyn.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The City of Seattle brought out 260 passengers from Dawson and $2,500,000 in gold dust.

At Binghamton, N. Y., the extensive laboratory of J. M. Kilmer & Co., manufacturers of swamp root, was destroyed by fire. Loss, $500,000.

The Detroit Journal building was gutted by fire, entailing a loss of $100,000 or more and ruining the editorial and composing room departments.

Pennsylvania won the varsity boat race at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., the Wisconsin crew being second. In the freshman race the result was just reversed.

The seven story malthouse owned by the Farmers' Feed company at Seventy-sixth street and East river, New York city, was burned, with a loss of $100,000.

Roosevelt En Route.

JOLIET, Ills., July 2.—The governor of New York and a former governor of Illinois, each widely known and each a prominent leader in his party, journeyed last night toward Kansas City on the same train, but in different compartments. Governor Theodore Roosevelt candidate for vice president, was a guest in the private car of Paul Morton, second vice president of the Santa Fe, speeding to the far southwest to meet and greet his faithful Rough Riders. Ex-Governor John P. Altgeld of Illinois, with two friends, occupied one of the regular Pullman cars on his way to the Democratic national convention at Kansas City.

THE BOERS ACTIVE.

Botha's Forces Skirmishing—Attacks on the British Threatened.

LONDON, July 2.—General Botha is showing increased activity. His patrols cover wide stretches of country, approach near the British outposts and engage in skirmishes, while larger bodies threaten to attack, declining to allow themselves to be caught by the return blows which the British promptly seek to deliver.

Attacks of this sort were made on Friday last at Pienaar's Poort on General Pole-Carew and at Springs. Generals Botha and De Wet are apparently operating in combination. Botha is reported to have divided his force into two parts, one moving west and the other south to try to effect a junction with De Wet.

Lord Roberts and several co-operating columns are still out within striking distance of De Wet.

The Brooklyn Sangerbund.

NEW YORK, July 2.—At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Major Carl Lentz, president of the Northeastern Sangerbund, opened the convention of delegates at Ulmer park, Brooklyn. There were 148 societies represented by 468 delegates. The question which occupied the greater part of the meeting was whether to abolish at future Sangerfests the single prize singing of the first, second and third classes. It was decided that the single prize singing should not be abolished. This question has been perplexing the delegates of the Sangerfest ever since the second festival. Today there was a general rehearsal in the morning, prize singing in the afternoon, and the first grand concert will take place at the armory at 8 o'clock.

Catholic Summer School.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., July 2.—The ninth annual session of the Catholic Summer School of America opened yesterday at Cliff Haven, on Lake Champlain. An excursion numbering nearly 100 persons arrived from New York. The programme for the week includes an address of welcome this evening by the Rev. Michael J. Lavelle, president of the school; Fourth of July oration on Wednesday by Colonel A. D. Shaw, commander in chief of the G. A. R., and a lecture on Thursday evening on the civil war cause and effect by Colonel Joseph A. Goulden, chairman of the memorial committee of the G. A. R. for the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx. The session of the school will close on Aug. 28.

Don't Kill the Birds.

ALBANY, July 2.—The state department of agriculture has information that in some sections of the state people are killing wild birds because of damage by them to early fruit. This is not only against the law of the state, but against the best interest of all who try to produce anything on the soil, farms, orchards, gardens and all. "Injurious insects are increasing very rapidly all over this state," says Commissioner Wieting. "The worst forms have been imported, and we have good reason to fear further introduction of these destructive pests, as they are at our borders. The brown tail and gypsy moth may appear here at any time."

Rough Riders' Reunion.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 2.—The opening day of the Rough Riders' reunion was all that had been anticipated. Every incoming train has been packed, and the town is filled with visitors. Indians of various tribes, including Sac and Fox, Pawnee, Cheyenne and Delaware, are encamped about the town and are joining the throng. The memorial services at 3 p. m. yesterday was the event of the day. Ten thousand people thronged the Compress building. The music was patriotic and devotional. A brass band participated, and a chorus of 1,000 voices was a feature.

Havana's Mayor Inaugurated.

HAVANA, July 2.—At no time since the American occupation of Cuba has Havana shown such scenes of enthusiasm and excitement as were witnessed yesterday upon the occasion of the inauguration of General Alejandro Rodriguez, the first Cuban elected mayor. Early in the morning every house on the principal streets was decorated, even the palace being gayly trimmed with both American and Cuban flags. The inauguration ceremonies took place at noon in the council chamber.

COMING EVENTS.

July 5—Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A.
July 6—Y. M. C. A Boys' Camp at Lake Champlain.

Lower Grade Needed.

The Plainfield Street Railway Company will make application to the Common Council this evening for permission to lower the grade of Watchung avenue under the railroad bridge so as to permit the new cars of the trolley company to pass under it. A change of six inches is all that is necessary to give the required room for the cars to pass under the bridge. There has been some surprise shown that the company should deliberately build cars that they knew are too high to pass under the bridge in question. The act may have been deliberate or unintentional. However it came about, the plan of reducing the grade six inches is a good one and should be viewed with favor by the Council.

As along as the Watchung avenue remains at the present grade under the bridge, the through trolley lines from the east to the west will not be possible. The old cars of the local company are low enough to pass under the bridge at present but most of the cars of other companies, the Brunswick Traction Company and the North Jersey Traction Company, will not do so. It is possible to pass those cars through Plainfield by going by the way of Grant avenue and West Fourth street. If strangers are going to pass through Plainfield on a trolley line, it will be well to have them see the business part of the town instead of being switched around the side.

A Terrible Disaster.

Many Plainfielders witnessed the terrible disaster that resulted in the destruction of the piers and steamers of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company at Hoboken, Saturday afternoon. It was by far the most appalling catastrophe that has occurred in this country for many a year. The railroad disasters of the past few years and the Hotel Windsor fire pale into insignificance beside the enormous loss of life and destruction of property that accompanied this fire. The exact cause of the fire will probably never be known. It undoubtedly orignated in the large warehouse on the pier. This fire and its terrible results serve to emphasize the need of unceasing vigilance in the care of those great and valuable properties and the necessity of providing proper means of escape.

To the steamship company the loss came at a particularly unfortunate time when the prospect of such a demand for transportation to Europe and the Paris Exposition was so bright. The steamer "Saale," which was burned to the water's edge, was to carry the great party of 300 Christian Endeavorers who were bound for the Inter-national convention of that society at London and a visit to the Paris Exposition.

For everything that is made to be sold there is a buyer. The purpose of advertising, says the Philadelphia Record, is to bring buyer and seller together. The greater the number of prospective buyers who are reached by an advertisement the larger is the percentage of actual buyers. The art in advertising is to tell the largest number of people where they can get what they want, and in the plainest words. It is the testimony of the most experienced and successful business men that the newspaper is always the best medium for reaching people. This makes it the cheapest.

The Borough Board of Education will make another attempt this evening to secure the necessary appropriation for properly heating the public schools of the borough. Nobody denies the need of the schools and there should be no objection to the proper heating of them. It isn't rational to expect either teachers or pupils to accomplish very much if they have to gather in cold school rooms as is declared will surely be the case if new heating apparatus is not provided.

The unfortunate mishap to the United States battleship Oregon seems likely to end the career of that famous warship. If no way is found to save the Oregon, its loss will be considered a national calamity. Of all of Uncle Sam's warships, the Oregon probably stands highest in general popularity as the result of its famous run around the Horn at the beginning of the Spanish War and its excellent showing made during that conflict.

All Democratic eyes are turned on Kansas City at present and thither the cohorts are journeying. Meanwhile the various Vice-Presidental booms are going through various experiences.

In the eyes of the officials of the Jersey Southern Railroad, the active summer season began yesterday. At that time the summer schedule of trains went into effect.

If the last two days are a fair sample of the weather to be expected during July and August this year, the summer resorts will do very little business.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

It was thought by some who heard Senator Kean's speech at the convention that nominated Representative Fowler that he dwelt with just a trifle of suggestive emphasis upon the claim of "experience" in Mr. Fowler's behalf. There probably were some other good arguments, but they didn't seem to occur to him.—New York Herald.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Now that school is over and the long summer days are here, the small boy of Plainfield, as well as of other places, has plenty of time to go swimming. The chief resort for that pleasure is the back pond in the Scotch Plains Notch. While it is quite a distance, the bicycles reduce that distance materially and every day sees a crowd of lads making that way. The water has been fairly high so far and cool enough to give great relief from heat of the air. Not only do the small boys go but some of their older brothers wander that way often in the evening.

Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y:

Gentlemen:—I must say in regard to GRAIN-O that there is nothing better or healthier. We have used it for years. My brother was a great coffee drinker. He was taken sick and the doctor said coffee was the cause of it, and told us to use GRAIN-O. We got a package but did not like it at first, but now would not be without it. My brother has been well ever since we started to use it.

TOO CAREFUL OF CHARLEY.

The Publicly-Manifested Solicitude of a Fiancee Furnishes Sport for a Crowd.

Charley was a spruce-looking man, with a well-fitting new spring suit. He was not young, a goodly quantity of his curly hair had worn off the top of his head and he wore spectacles, though that is by no means a sign of age. The woman with him was a dried-up, commonplace, middle-aged little woman, plainly dressed and unattractive, but it was evident that she was Charley's fiancee. No after-marriage caretaking could have been as complacently received as that she gave Charley, says the Chicago Chronicle.

It was in the car on the bridge and the pair were evidently on their way to the island. The trouble began with the window, for the couple were riding backward in the seat at the front end of the car. The window was let down with much trouble, and then it was carefully put up again, and the woman settled herself to be comfortable.

"Oh, where are the coats, Charley?" she cried. Charley was half sitting upon them and they were half way out of the car.

"Oh, I wouldn't carry them that way. Let me take them," she said, and she took them and a seat facing forward, where she had a good view of Charley.

"I am afraid you are not comfortable, dear," she said. "Don't you want to change seats with me?" But Charley didn't, though he smiled pleasantly and took off his hat and wiped the perspiration from his forehead.

"I wouldn't take off my hat, if I were you," she went on, anxiously. "You are sure to take cold."

Charley shook his head, but after a moment he put on his hat and an apoplectic man on the seat with the woman gave a grunt of disgust. Then Charley was interested in the condition of the bridge and leaned well out of the car to take a survey up and down, much to the woman's alarm.

"Oh, Charley, Charley!" she cried. "Don't do that. You will lose your hat as sure as the world!"

"Madam!" said the apoplectic old gentleman, getting out on the step to go to the smokers' seats, "if I were you I would never take Charley out again without bringing his nurse!"

When Women Look Their Best.

This is the time of year when women should look their best. Warmth is so much more becoming than cold, except to the very stout, and, moreover, one can wear all sorts of light, pretty materials and delicate colors. Pointed bodices, buttoning or lacing behind, are returning in favor, and in these new bodices the points are longer than in the old. This style is particularly suited to those who are short waisted and large hipped. Those who love a touch of scarlet will be glad to hear that just now the shades of red are more fashionable than ever. Though this is to be preeminently a muslin season, our old and tried friend zephyr is much valued. It washes so well and looks so fresh that a girl cannot go far wrong in investing.—Chicago Evening News.

After the Concert.

"You sang that last song with great feeling, my dear."

"No wonder. There was a pin sticking in me, and I had to sing as if I felt it."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

DIRECTOR. That stenographer and typewriter who has been with you so long is a mighty pretty woman by the way; I notice that she appears to be always well. Her carriage is erect; her ways are brisk. She has good color, and her eyes are always bright.

PRESIDENT. What you say is true. For two successive years she has not failed one day in her attendance at the office and has never once been even late in the morning—but she takes Ripans Tabules.

DIRECTOR. What does a person with a temperament of steel and a constitution of iron, as you describe and as she seems, want of a patent medicine?

PRESIDENT. That is what I asked her one day, and she said: "Sometimes I do have a headache, and that is what I take Ripans Tabules for. I don't know the cause of the trouble, but I do know that I can get rid of a headache shortly after taking a Tabule, and that is the result I want to accomplish." PROGRESS OF GUAM.

One of Our Island Possessions Already Half Civilized.

Wonderful Work Accomplished by Capt. Leary and His Associates—Concubinage and Slavery Entirely Abolished.

The new year dawns auspiciously upon our far-away possession, the Island of Guam. Capt. Leary is not only an ideal governor but an ideal reformer. Everything he attempts succeeds and every act of his thus far has been on the lines of good government, morality, progress and civilization. His colonial subjects have proved apt scholars, and although his administration has involved the complete reversal of century-old practices they have taken to it kindly and even with a certain sort of enthusiasm.

Capt. Leary, says the Chicago Tribune, has been naval governor of Guam for barely a year, but he was no sooner in his gubernatorial chair than he entered upon his work of reform. His first step was to cure his subjects of laziness, and this he did by notifying them that they must raise vegetables enough for their own consumption and to supply the tables of the governor and his garrison also. Notwithstanding they had been lotus eaters all their lives and had lived upon what nature so lavishly provided, they took to truck farming with such a will that now every Guamite can have a New England boiled dinner whenever he wishes it. The Guamites had a way of not paying their debts. He impressed them with the sanctity of financial obligation. They had never known the meaning of the word "taxes," but they soon learned it and have manifested no opposition to paying them. They have never known the value of domestic animals. He stimulated their interest in natural history by intimating that every head of a family must have a cow, a donkey and some hens.

As to the last administrative act Capt. Leary found a difficulty in executing

CAPT. RICHARD P. LEARY.
(Naval Governor of the Island of Guam in the Ladrones.)

it. It was simple enough to ascertain who was the head of the family, but it was not so easy to identify the family, for marital relations had been assumed and abandoned at will. The most expert genealogist would have had difficulty in fixing up the family tree of any Guamite, so extraordinary were its ramifications. Capt. Leary solved the problem by cutting the knot. He issued a peremptory order that every adult male must pick out one woman, take out a license, marry her on a given day, love, honor and protect, if not obey her, and settle down to housekeeping. The Guamites made no objection even to this extraordinary proposition. On the day appointed every mother's son of them appeared with the woman he had selected and was legally married to her and concubinage was at an end in Guam.

To crown his reforms Capt. Leary on New Year's day issued his decree that slavery was abolished in Guam. The islanders offered no opposition. They are now launched on the full tide of civilization and they are making such satisfactory progress on their new lines that it may be confidently anticipated by the time the last year of the century closes Guam will be the most advanced of all our new possessions. At the pace Capt. Leary is going the first day of the twentieth century may dawn upon an island with all the essentials and some of the luxuries of modern civilization. It may not be too much to assume that on January 1, 1901, Guam will have its primaries and conventions, its policemen and firemen, its mayors and aldermen, its corporations and tax dodgers, its newspapers, football teams and automobiles, and that the one-year-old brides will be enrolled in women's clubs, studying the question whether Kipling is a second or first class writer and working for dear life to solve the meaning of Browning. As compared with Cuba, Puerto Rico and the Philippines, Guam has fairly plunged head foremost into civilization.

WOMAN AT THE EXPOSITION.

How She Got Her Palace There In Spite of Opposition From Ungallant Frenchmen.

BY ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

Both for good and for evil there is no other country in which sex influence so dominates a race as in France. Perhaps in no other land is the good, capable mother of a family held in such love and reverence as here. "La mere" is almost a goddess. It is a common saying that women influence the life and destiny of a Frenchman—his mother, his wife and his daughter. This on the one hand.

On the other French men and women will commit murder and suicide on each other's account, will wreck themselves soul and body and betray the most tremendous secrets, state, family and social.

"Crime passionelle" is a variety of misdeed that the French wink at least one eye at, even in their secret hearts regarding a particularly desperate specimen with something not unlike admiration. It is the artistic temperament, they say, that drives the French people to such violent outbursts of passion and emotion and stirs up in their souls such tempests over nothing.

The Anglo-Saxon has not this glorious genius for art, therefore the Anglo-Saxon is cold, unexcitable and self contained. That is the Frenchman's explanation of himself—his artistic temperament.

The result of the mutual working of the artistic temperament of the dominating sex idea is so far as the Frenchman's treatment of woman is concerned the strangest mixture of high flown sentiment and matter of fact, unreasoning selfishness that the world ever saw. The average Frenchman devoutly believes that a woman exists only to please him. When therefore she shows a disposition to do things for the purpose of pleasing herself, he is puzzled and disgruntled. It actually seems to him against nature.

A Frenchwoman may not draw her own money from bank without a special understanding with her husband to that effect. Every cent of her property becomes his by law the day she is married unless a legal contract is made beforehand settling it on herself. She may work and support herself and all her family, but her earnings belong to her husband, not to herself, although a law is now before the French parliament righting this wrong, and it is expected to pass and take effect.

For the blessings of law and society that discriminate against them so cruelly Frenchwomen have to thank that illustrious hero and philanthropist Napoleon Bonaparte. I hope and believe he has somewhere had things evened up to him for the wrongs he committed toward women in this life. Perhaps by way of a particular mercy and a special providence he is now serving his time in another incarnation as a woman himself and seeing how he likes it.

And yet, in spite of all the repressive laws—nay, perhaps largely in consequence of them—there is no other civilized land in which woman exercises so much influence evilly and crookedly as in France, and France suffers horribly in consequence of this today. Always the weak and the wronged get their revenge in some way.

When a committee of women, with Mme. Pegard, a well known and influential French lady, at their head, set going the movement looking toward the construction of a special building for women at the 1900 exhibition, they were met with distrust and opposition. Men could not understand what the women wanted a palace of their own for anyway. The social aristocracy of France was dead against a woman's building or women's congresses at the show. High life held aloof from both the women's pavilion and the women's congresses.

In France, as in some other countries I have lived in, the sex stands in its own light, and the obstacle to woman's progress is woman herself. However, in France, as also in some other lands in which I have lived, the women of the social aristocracy are always quite ready to come forward and enjoy the fruits of the legal and other victories gained through the undying toil of the come outers and path breakers of their own sex. Perhaps that ought to be consolation to the path breakers and the come outers.

Sex jealousy appears to be another peculiarity of the artistic temperament among Frenchmen, truly not without reason at present, for the two most distinguished citizens of France in the last part of the century have been both women, Rosa Bonheur and Sarah Bernhardt. The ladies who desired to erect the woman's palace in the exposition grounds waited on the authorities for permission to do so. There was no chivalrous government to meet them half way and give them money to build so much as the walls of the structure. Appropriations flowed like water to pay for other palaces in the show, for the women not one cent.

Mme. Pegard and her devoted committee of women themselves worked till they collected the sum necessary to pay for their pavilion. The work cost the exposition authorities not a sou, yet long before it was finished they took it on themselves to say exactly what should or should not go into it. Not so much as an inch of lace could the ladies put in place until these gallant French gentlemen had sat on it in heavy committee and passed upon it. Talk of French chivalry toward women!

The ladies had their pride and their feelings wounded every step of the way, for a Frenchwoman naturally dislikes above most things the disapproval of men. If she thought less of masculine approval, it would be money in her pocket. For a woman to work to please men is a commendable and fascinating, though in the long run nearly always a disappointing, job.

The building was at last finished, however, and a beautiful one it is. In describing it my blunt and clumsy English will hardly do, therefore I translate a little from the French concerning it. The French writer says:

WOMAN'S PALACE AT PARIS EXPOSITION.

"The palace of woman in its architecture, French and modern, decorated with trellis work, with flowers and fountains, has the elegance and the fineness of aspect which comport with its name and destination.

"The palace of woman has on the first floor a grand hall of theater, of concerts, of conferences, of reading, etc. One ascends by electric elevators and by staircases.

"The palace of woman comprises a main central structure flanked by two pavilions more small, where find themselves on one side a restaurant and on the other a confectioner's.

"The palace of woman contains a grand hall of exposition where is displayed every variety of the works especially interesting to women."

There are likewise rooms devoted to health, beauty and hairdressing for women. Finally the unique French description adds the following:

"The palace of woman, which contains numerous attractions, is a creation which imposes itself. For the first time women have a palace to themselves, a place for recreation, for information and for repose. They will find all that which is able to be useful and pleasing to them under conditions worthy of them and of the elegant public that visits it."

The statement that for the first time women have here a palace all to themselves is—well, it is extremely Frenchy. But those who remember the handsome, commodious and thoroughly interesting woman's building at the Chicago exposition of 1893 will perceive that it is a statement based upon defective information.

Paris, June, 1900.

Rooms that have long been closed have a stuffy odor that is not easily removed. Place a lump of camphor on a shovel and apply a very hot poker to it. Strong fumes will arise which cleanse the air very speedily. It is also a powerful disinfectant.

THE TIPPING HABIT.

Everybody in Washington Has Become Its Abject Slave.

A Species of Legalized Robbery from Which No Man or Woman Who Is Fond of Comfort Can Escape Nowadays.

[Special Washington Letter.]

THIS might be called a story of highway robbery, or, better, a story of legalized larceny.

So long as a man is robbed, and systematically mulcted, it makes little difference to him what form of operation may be adopted by the robber. The purse which contains a dollar may be taken at night by a burglar, or it may be taken at midday by a bandit, at the point of a pistol; and the method makes no difference to the one who owns the purse, but is obliged to give it up.

"I am paying $52 every year in order to secure civility and fair treatment," said a permanent guest at one of the leading hotels of this city this afternoon. "I hand a silver dollar to my waiter every Saturday night. Because of that fact the waiter looks out for me, gets my meals ready for me, anticipates my wants and makes things pleasant for me in the dining-room. If I happen to take a friend to dinner with me my waiter is promptly on hand, bowing low and doing his best to help me entertain my friend. Other boarders at our hotel receive only such service as the waiters are compelled to give them, and often they suffer numerous discourtesies, which are exceedingly disagreeable in the presence of others."

A dollar every Saturday night is not much money, but it amounts to a fine suit of clothes every year, with shoes and hat thrown in. To the negro waiter it amounts to half of his house rent; and every waiter usually has four or five guests who pay about the same amount for special services, although the hotel proprietors pay from

FIGHTING FOR A TIP.

$12 to $20 per month, and board, to good waiters.

The saloons and hotel bar-rooms in this city are closed on Sunday, by law, but regular patrons of hotel bar-rooms are always served with liquor, on the quiet, and the police department seems to be unable or unwilling to seal those places. On last Sunday afternoon the writer observed two colored highwaymen collecting tolls from these drinking men. There is a door in a prominent hotel which opens the way to a small dark room adjoining the bar-room. On either side of that door stood a bell boy, in the hotel uniform. When each drinking man approached one of the bell boys opened the door and escorted the visitor to a seat in the private room. Then, taking his order, the bell boy would bring him the required drink and a card with the price marked upon it. The customer in each instance not only paid for his drink, but gave the bell boy five or ten cents for his service. If any man should neglect to give up this "tip" to the servant, on the following Sunday he would be told that the bar could not be opened, or some other discourtesy would be shown him.

Now everybody will be disposed to say that it serves a drinking man right to be mulcted that way, for violating the law as well as for drinking on Sunday, but that is a separate thought altogether. The fact remains that the "tip" is required for that kind of service, and it is robbery.

The hotel guest referred to above gave a further bit of information which was interesting. He said: "For some time I could not get my rooms put in order early in the day. The chambermaid on my floor assured me that it was impossible for her to get around to my apartments earlier than noon; she had so much work to do. But when I began giving her a two dollar bill at the end of each month she gave my rooms earlier attention, so that now I am well fixed and comfortably entertained. I pay the hotel $250 per month, but I am obliged to pay for every attention which I receive. Even the barber, whose price for a shave is 15 cents, expects a quarter of a dollar; and he gets it, because if he did not I would get butchered instead of barbered."

The system of giving "tips" prevails to a greater or less extent all over the world, but in no city is it more rigorously and extensively practiced than in this national capital. All of the servants are negroes, and they work together with the view of getting all of the extra money the guests can be harried into giving up to them. Not only in the hotels, but in the restaurants, they expect and practically demand extra pay for services rendered. The man about town who takes his meals regularly at any particular restaurant is soon singled out by all the waiters; and if he doesn't freely give he may sit in loneliness at a table, without having even the courtesy of a bill of fare being handed to him. As soon as the waiters know that the guest will, even occasionally, give up a dime or a quarter, they hasten to attend to his wants as soon as he enters the door.

There was a great railway magnate stopping at one of our hotels a couple of years ago during an entire session of congress. He was interested in legislation involving many millions of dollars. Whenever his bell rang the bell boys made great haste to answer it, because on every call he gave up half a dollar. One evening two of the bell boys had a fight in the hotel office on that account. The magnate's bell rang, and two boys started to answer it. Each claimed that it was "his turn" to answer that bell, because each of them wanted the half dollar which would be forthcoming. They wrangled and finally came to blows, and both of them were discharged. Meanwhile another bellboy answered the call; and the magnate, being particularly in a hurry, gave the lucky fellow a dollar.

Everybody knows that this condition is wrong, and some good people declare that they will pay their hotel bills, and will pay nothing to the servants. But, no matter whether it is wrong or not, the fact remains that the condition exists, and those who decline to surrender to the servants receive scant courtesy.

In the barber shop of a hotel one day recently the writer noticed that the shop boy failed to brush the coat of one of the customers, although he diligently brushed the apparel of others. The proprietor of the shop was asked about it, and he replied: "Of course the boys cannot live without money. I pay them no salary, and they live on what 'tips' they can pick up. That man has never given one nickel to the shop boys, and they needn't brush him if they don't want to. He is too mean to live."

What do you think of that? The proprietor backs the boys in their work of preying on the public. He considers him a mean man who does not give away money to support the boys who ought to be paid by their employer. Moreover, the hotel proprietors wink at the conduct of their waiters, chambermaids and other employes. When any guest complains at the hotel office he is smilingly assured that all faults shall be corrected, but nothing is done. The proprietors, and head clerks, and room clerks, and head waiters all conspire to continue the system of larceny.

One of our prominent statesmen, who is a man of great wealth, will attend the Paris exposition, accompanied by his family, very soon after the adjournment of congress. In private conversation concerning the proposed trip he said: "The robbers in Paris will reap rich harvests this year. In addition to my regular expenses, which will be rather large, I have set aside $1,000 to be used in 'tips' for the garcons. That will probably be enough to cover expenses of that character. I not only fee the waiters and all employes in sight, but I give money to the head cook and assistant cooks, whom the general public never see. My waiters will then tell the cook for whom the orders are given, and my meals will come upon the table in perfect condition to tempt the appetite, and everything will be clean. Men who can afford to travel can also afford to pay for cleanliness. Hotel kitchens are not always scrupulously neat, even in the best hotels. In giving away money for comforts the cooks should never be overlooked."

Thus, you see, the people recognize the evil, and pander to it, because even the wealthy seem to be powerless in the hands of these robbers who stand athwart the highway and demand your money or threaten your discomfort.

"MEAN MAN" IN BARBER SHOP.

There is a senator of whom mention has often been made in these columns as one of the bravest of brave men, who resides at a hotel with his wife and two daughters. He pays $750 per month for rooms and board. But the bell boys of the hotel know that whenever his bell rings, no matter whether it is the senator or a member of his family, a silver quarter will be forthcoming every time. Only by thus pandering to the rascally condition can he be always sure of prompt and faithful attention.

Take the advice of experience, and when you come to the national capital be prepared to be robbed. It will be useless for you to set your foot down and declare as emphatically as Mr. Bowser that you will never submit to such extortion. It will be useless for you to complain to the hotel proprietor or manager. If you want prompt service and courteous treatment under all circumstances, you will submit meekly. Otherwise you will have cold rolls and lukewarm coffee or tea, cold roast or overdone steak or chops, and exasperatingly dilatory service.

SCIENCE AND INVENTION.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION.

Its Necessity Made Apparent by Recent Examinations Conducted by the British Government.

Alluding to the fact that out of 11,000 young men of Manchester who signified their willingness to accept the queen's shilling, only 3,000 could be accepted, and that of these only 1,000 were found fit for service in line regiments, Dr. H. Laing Gordon, in the Humanitarian, points out the physical deficiencies of town-bred youth and makes a strong plea for efficient physical education.

"It is necessary," he declares, "that the importance and the real nature of true physical education should be recognized, and that steps should be taken to set it in its proper place beside mental education. The questions of moral and spiritual education are not the present concern. True education has been aptly said to be a drawing out of the whole nature—a converting of the physical, mental, moral and spiritual potentialities into powers. Physical needs must always be our first needs. * * *

"While attempts to improve the environment of the child, his sanitary surroundings at home and at school, his food, his clothing, and so forth, will always meet with approval, and must assist physical development, they cannot of themselves raise the sadly lowered physical standard of our town dwellers. Even education has itself been said to be a help in the right direction, but what child ever increased a fraction of an inch in chest circumference through reading a textbook that oxygen was a physiological necessity? Attempts have been made to show that physical degeneracy is a matter of heredity, and that all attempts to improve the race by exercising and developing the frame of the individual, and by improving his environment are therefore vain. But common experience, as well as scientific consideration of the little that is known of heredity, dispel this fatalistic doctrine, and indicates that by natural exercise in a suitable environment the physical potentialities of the child, even of the child of a degenerate, can be drawn out into powers in such a manner, if generally employed, as to raise the physical standard and improve the well-being of the race."

USEFUL INVENTION.

Surgeon's Circular Saw, the Very Latest Piece of Up-to-Date Hospital Apparatus.

Electric power has proved so convenient and efficient in the operation of dental instruments that it is only a natural step to adopt it to the surgeon's uses as well. No up-to-date dentist is without his electric engine, and perhaps electric mallet, to say nothing of the various other appliances, and the success already gained in electrical surgical instruments in several of the recently equipped New York hospitals has demonstrated that electricity is as valuable to the surgeon as to the dentist.

The illustration, taken from the Electrical Review, shows the latest application in this field, an electrically operated surgeon's operating saw, designed to displace the heretofore slow acting hand saw used in cutting bone or other hard matter in serious operations. The motor, which is of about one-tenth horse power, operates from an ordinary electric lighting circuit, and makes 2,200 revolutions per minute. It is provided with a strap by means of which it may be carried about by the assistant, so as to give the greatest facility in operating in awkward positions. Its weight complete is only 12 pounds. Attached to the motor shaft is a flexible spiral coil incased in a braided sheath, the whole being three feet long. The superiority of the rapidly-driven saw over the slower hand saw is very pronounced. Recent experience has shown that very often it is successful where the hand saw would probably prove fatal, owing to the shock attendant upon its use. In the difficult operation of craniotomy it has found especial use and has made a good record in both this and resection operations. The saw is not attached direct to the end of the shaft, but through a right-angle bevel, which gives it a much more convenient position for use. Of course it can be stopped and started instantly by the operator.

Cauliflowers in Cuba.

Plant a cauliflower plant in Cuba and instead of spreading out in a big fat head like a cabbage, it spindles up for all the world like a sunflower, three or four feet high, with big, rank leaves and a little flower at the top that you never could recognize as a cauliflower.

Just the one word "Coal" ought to be enough at this time of the year to bring you in with an order. By this time everybody in this town ought to know the kind of coal we sell, and the way we handle it. We don't know of any one who ever bought coal of us who was dissatisfied either with the quality, price, or method of delivery. If there is such a man in existence we would like to see him.

VERMEULE DISMISSED.

Mrs. Smith's Charges That He Threatened to Shoot Her Were Not Proven.

Frank Vermeule was arraigned before Judge Runyon, in city court this morning charged by Mrs. Florence Smith with disorderly conduct. Walter L. Hetfield appeared for the defence.

The Smith and Vermeule apartments are directly opposite one another in a flat at 222 East Front street. June 28th Vermeule issued a writ of attachment on a piano owned by Mrs. Smith claiming that Mr. Smith owed him a bill which he would not pay. Constable Frank Gjetlesen served the papers upon receiving the writ.

Mrs. Smith went to Vermeule and told him that she had nothing to do with the debt. Words followed and Mrs. Smith claims that Vermeule threatened to shoot her with a rifle.

Vermeule said that he had but recently borrowed the rifle to kill a cat that had stolen several of his chickens, and made no threats whatever against Mrs. Smith; he also claimed that she called him a liar.

Constable Gjetlesen also testified on behalf of the defense. Judge Runyon, after weighing the evidence, dismissed the case.

Patriotic Decorations and Sermon.

Dr. Schenck, the pastor, delivered a sermon on "Independence Day," taking for his text, Lev. 25, part of the tenth verse — "Proclaim Liberty Throughout all the Land Unto all the Inhabitants Thereof."

David Murray was arraigned in the City Court this morning charged with being drunk and disorderly Saturday evening. POLICE DREW STRAWS

LOT FELL TO PATROLMAN LUNGER TO DRAG WAGON TO JAIL.

Michael Crowley Was so Drunk it Was Necessary to Cart Him Away—Sent to Jail for Twenty Days.

Michael Crowley was arranged before Judge Runyon in city court this morning charged with drunkeness and disorderly conduct.

Saturday evening Crowley and several of his friends indulged rather freely and Crowley became somewhat boisterous. Patrolmen Winzenreid and Lunger appeared on the scene and fonnd Crowley lying at the corner of South Second street and Grant avenue helplessly drunk. Crowley being a rather large man and in no condition to walk to police headquarters, the two policemen at once looked around for some sort of a conveyance. Lunger finally found an old wagon belonging to George O. Stevens and wheeled it to the field of action.

Weizenried suggested that as it was not necessary for two men to wheel the wagon, that straws should be drawn, and the person drawing the short straw should wheel the wagon to police headquarters, and the other should sit in the wagon. Lunger readily consented and straws were presented.

Policeman Wenzenreid was experienced in the game of drawing straws, and knew by their thickness which one of the two to select, consequently Lunger proved an easy victim. By the time that the equipage had reached Front street quite a large crowd was in line.

Crowley was in such bad condition when he arrived at headquarters that a physician was at once summoned, who worked him for sometime before consciousness was restored.

Crowley was sufficiently recovered from the night's spree to appear in court this morning and answer guilty to the charge preferred against him. Judge Runyon decided that, as Crowley was a frequent offender, he might go to jail for twenty days.

Dr. Stillman will give her second talk on "Hygiene" at the rooms of the Young Women's Club, 465 West Front street, this evening at 8 o'clock.

Jockeys Take Many Chances.

Speaking of the accident to Jockey Tod Walsh at Morris park recently, one of the prominent jockeys said: "The public do not realize the chances a jockey takes in such a field and on such a track. Coming down the Eclipse course, if we get two or three lengths behind the leaders, we simply are traveling in a cloud of dust, and it is more by good luck than anything else that we get through so safely. If the captain of a steamship should send his vessel along under a full head of steam in a fog he would be accused of being a fool and probably would be rounded up for it, but we must race every inch of the way from the fall of the flag, and if we ain't in front we're racing in a cloud of dust thicker than any fog. Life is as sweet to us as it is to anybody else, and if there are times when we do not seem to care to take chances the public should not be quick to blame us. It would be a great improvement if the sprinkling carts were kept a little busier. In dry weather the track ought to be sprinkled regularly and heavily enough to prevent the dust from rising in a cloud. When this is neglected, accidents may be expected."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

GLORIOUS FOURTH AT THE DRIVING PARK.

Fine Sport Tomorrow at the Track and Big Crowds Are Sure to be Present.

NOTED HORSES TO COMPETE

EVERYTHING IN READINESS FOR A FINE ENTERTAINMENT.

Flag Drops on the First Race at 1:30 o'Clock--Trolley Connects With Track —Special Arrangements at the Track for Horsemen and Cyclists.

The officials of the Plainfield Driving Club have fixed it up with the weather man. If the latter keeps his promises to the Plainfield delegation who called on him this morning in his workshop at the top of the American Surety building, 100 Broadway, we are sure of cool, clear and altogether delightful weather. Forecaster Emery greeted Mayor Smalley, of the borough and his friends cordially, located the Plainfield Driving Park on map, dropped a plumb line into a deep glass of something that looked like a selzer-lemonade, studied his hydrostatic and thermostatic charts and declared that the grand stand at the race track on Park avenue would be the most enjoyable place in this vicinity for the crowds to spend tomorrow afternoon and enjoy the cool, refreshing breezes. Then the weather sharp "blew off" the crowd by opening a port hole in the river side of his eyrie, and the Mayor took his party down to earth again.

Now that this matter of the weather is so pleasantly arranged for in advance, Plainfielders and their friends from surrounding towns can plan for a good old fashioned Fourth. Just by way of suggestion suppose you get up with the boys and the birds in the morning, make all the noise you can, get an early lunch, and reach the Driving Park about 1 o'clock, before the crowd gets too large for comfort. It is especially requested by the management that visitors leave their cannons, rapid-fire guns and side arms at home, for the benefit of the horses, all of whom are very high spirited animals, ready for the race of their lives. Never has the track been in better condition, and never has there been such an attractive card of sports offered to Plainfielders.

The best evidence that the people appreciate the good sport that will be witnessed at the Park tomorrow is found in the large advance sale of tickets, both yesterday and today. One block of 30 grand stand seats was ordered this morning over the 'phone by a well-known New Brunswick horseman and several hundred admission tickets have been bought or spoken for during the day. Nevertheless there will be plenty of room for the crowds and everyone will be cared for. Special preparations have been made for the accommodation of driving parties, and horses will be taken in charge by a competent force of assistants, sufficiently large so that there will be no confusion when the sports are over.

Several hundred bicycle racks have been built at the track side and wheels can be checked and, if necessary, pumped up or repaired without loss of time. In fact every detail of the arrangements for handling the crowd has been attended to in the most thorough manner. The grand stand has been renovated, fans will be provided free if the day is hot, and excellent refreshments and soft drinks may be had for the asking. Trolley service, connecting with stages for the Park, will be such that those who reach the track in this way will not be subject to delay, either coming or going.

As to the trotting, pacing and bicycle races themselves, little need be said. They will be the best ever witnessed in this vicinity. The committee of expert horsemen who made up the card have kept an eye for the well matched steppers. Exciting finishes in almost every heat are certain. As to the wheelmen, they are as speedy a bunch of non-professionals as can be brought together anywhere within a radius of one hundred miles of New York.

The crack tug-of-war teams from Pond Tool Works have had a special rope made for their use tomorrow. This contest will be held on the turf in front of the grandstand and in plain sight of everybody on the grounds.

Some side features may be arranged for at the track tomorrow afternoon which are not down on the official programme, but there will be enough kinds of fun and enough of each kind to keep everybody in the crowd busy and happy from the time Ed Allen

CONTRACTS AWARDED FOR THE NEW BRIDGE.

Joint Meeting of Freeholders of Union and Somerset Counties Yesterday Afternoon.

WORK WILL START AT ONCE.

WILLIAM T. KIRK, OF THIS CITY, LOWEST BIDDER FOR IRON WORK.

He Was Given Contract for $4,890—Mason Work Awarded to William Farrier, of New Market, Who Bid $2,315—Committee to Supervise Work.

A joint meeting of the Board of Freeholders from Somerset and Union counties was held yesterday afternoon in the office of County Engineer Frank J. Hubbard, in the Babcock building, for the purpose of receiving and opening bids for the mason and iron work on the bridge to be erected over Green brook and connecting Madison avenue and Duer street.

The bids were received from 2:30 to 3 o'clock, when they were opened and contracts awarded to the lowest bidder.

Only two bids were received on the mason work, William Farrier, of New Market, $2,315, and Joseph Knight, of this city, $2,548. The contract was awarded to Mr. Farrier.

There were ten contestants for the contract for the iron work, and the work was finally awarded to William T. Kirk, of this city, his bid being $44 lower than any other bidder. The bids for the work, however, were all very even, eight of them being within $300 of each other.

The following companies presented bids for the contract: Toledo Bridge Co., Toledo, O., $5,025; Canton Bridge Co., Canton, O., $5,100; Wm. H. Gulick, Phoenixville, Pa., $5,800; Variety Iron Works Co, Cleveland, O., $6,000; Wrought Iron Bridge Co., Canton, O., $4,967; Boston Bridge Works, Boston, Mass., $4,934; Dean & Westbrook, New York city, $5,124: Frank L. Long & Co., New York city, $5,200; Wm. T. Kirk, Plainfield, $4,890.

A committee consisting of ten members, five from each Board, was appointed by the different chairmen to supervise the work of the construction of the bridge. The committee appointed was as follows: Somerset county—Lutkins, Mobus, Codington, Bunn and Logan; Union county—Westphal, Farrell, Robison, Scudder and Gerstung.

The work on the bridge will be begun the latter part of this week, and the committee on construction will submit its reports from time to time while the work is in progress.

Two Important Ordinances About to be Adopted in Fanwood—Provide for a Police Force.

The Mayor and Council of Fanwood township are about to adopt two new ordinances of great importance to that community. One relates to the morals, peace and good order of the township, and prohibits any unnecessary noise disturbance, the use of profane language, fighting, or disturbing any lawful assemblage of persons or neighborhood, family or person within the township and anyone convicted of doing these things shall be fined $20 or imprisoned for 30 days, or both, at the discretion of the court. Any person or persons keeping a disorderly house a fine of $50 shall be imposed or imprisonment for sixty days, or both, at the discretion of the court.

The second ordinance provides for the regulation, control and management of a police force. The ordinance provides for a police board, who shall have full control of the department. It does not provide for any certain number of policemen, but this is left with the judgment of the board. The policemen shall have all the power necessary and shall act under the direction of the board, and shall have as well all powers of a constable. These ordinances are to take effect July 14th.

MYSTERIOUS FIRE DESTROYS A BARN

Two Horses, Four Carriages and Other Property Burned in Borough Last Night.

BARN OF MARTIN I. COOLEY.

FLAMES HAD A GOOD START BEFORE THEY WERE DISCOVERED.

Michael Kennedy and Dennis Gavin Were Driving on Greenbrook Road and First Saw the Fire—House Saved—Loss $5,000, Partially Insured.

A few minutes after midnight last night Michael Kennedy and Dennis Gavin, driving home along Greenbrook road, saw flames shooting from some building on Rockview Terrace. On hastening to the scene they found it to be the barn of Martin I. Cooley.

They ran to the house to arouse the occupants, who had just awakened and were telephoning for the department. Securing the keys to the burning structure the men attempted to save the contents. It was almost useless, however, as the barn was a mass of smoke and flame inside.

While Kennedy made an effort to get the doors open, Gavin ran to box 154 and turned in an alarm. The department was quickly on the scene and in a few minutes two streams were thrown on the flames. The heavy doors were broken in and two carriages and a bicycle were dragged out, but the remainder of the contents was destroyed. Beside those taken out there were four other carriages, three bicycles, two horses and a valuable dog, in the barn, all of which were lost. The animals must have been suffocated long before the fire was discovered as there was no sound of any kind when the first men arrived.

The department did good work in putting the fire out and preventing its spreading to the house, which is only a short distance away. It was after 2 o'clock before the flames were extinguished and the recall sounded.

Just how the fire started is a mystery. As near as can be learned it began in a stall occupied by one of the horses in the rear of the main floor. Marshal Wynn passed by the house fifteen minutes before the flames were discovered and there was no sign of anything wrong at that time.

Mr. Cooley places the total loss at $5,000, partly covered by insurance. The horses were a young team and were valued highly by their owner as was the dog also. The carriages were comparatively new. The remainder of the contents consisted of harness and tools, with a small amount of hay.

The efforts of the firemen to save their property was greatly appreciated by Mr. and Mrs. Cooley, who wish to thank them for their good work.

Johnson accompanied the party from Elizabethport, where the start was made, to Albany, returning by rail. His sons, Harry F. Johnson and Herbert G. Johnson, are now in command. Their destination is Mr. Johnson's cottage at Alexandria Bay.

BRIDEGROOM FLED WITH WIFE'S SAVINGS

Disastrous Ending of the Matrimonial Venture of Miss Mary Vankoviah.

WEDDED AT PERTH AMBOY.

HAD SAVED $404 WHICH IS NOW GONE WITH HER HUSBAND.

William Tenfsky, Recently From Poland, Won the Heart of Thrifty Domestic and Married Her Sunday—That Night He Left.

Miss Mary Vankoviah, who on Sunday afternoon found a bank book belonging to Miss Ella C. Howard, of this city, and turned the same over to Chief Burke, of Perth Amboy, may have the pleasure of knowing that the bank book has been safely returned to its owner; but Mary has recently been passing through other and more thrilling experiences.

Miss Vankovich is a Polish woman, who for the past six years has been employed as a domestic by a well known Plainfield family. She has always been industrious and saving and had laid aside quite a little money. A few months ago Mary fell in love with a handsome young Pole, William Tenfsky, recently arrived from the old country. Tenfsky suggested that as he had a goodly income they go away and get married. She at once consented and they left Sunday for Perth Amboy, where they were married by a Polish priest.

After the marriage Tenfsky proposed that she let him take charge of the funds as he could add what he had to her sum and buy a house. She yielded all her savings which amounted to $404. When Tenfsky had received the money he told his wife he would go to the city to transact some business and return in a short time. He kissed his wife affectionately at the station and departed. Mrs. Tenfsky waited in vain for the return of her husband, and finally reported the case to Chief of Police Burke, of that city, who at once took the matter in charge.

Mrs. Tenfsky is very much depressed over her loss, and says she will have nothing more to do with "lovers."

SUDDEN DEATH OF CHARLES F. POND ON BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS.

Was on His Way to Mountains of Pennsylvania for His Health—Heart Failure Caused Death.

Charles F. Pond, an old and respected resident of this city, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock on board the Black Diamond Express of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, en route for Glen Summit, Pa. He was in his fifty-ninth year. Death was due to heart failure.

Mr. Pond has been very sickly for the past year, and recently his heart became affected and his case assumed a more serious nature; he seemed to be making no progress toward recovery at home, and his physician advised that he go to the mountains, where a change of air might restore him to former health. Acting upon his physician's instructions Mr. Pond left yesterday for South Plainfield, where he boarded the train for the mountains of Pennsylvania. The train had scarcely left the station, however, before Mr. Pond was seized with an attack of heart failure and died twenty minutes later. The remains were at once taken to his late home on Washington avenue.

Mr. Pond is survived by a widow, Mrs. Annie Boorman Pond. He has no children. The funeral services will be held from his late residence, 74 Washington avenue, at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, Rev. William M. Downey, of Holy Cross church, officiating. Interment will be at Greenwood cemetery, Elizabeth, at the convenience of the family.

CHIEF GRANT RESIGNS; KIELY SUCCEEDS HIM

Before It Was Decided Last Night There Was War in the Council Chamber.

PRESIDENT SMITH RESIGNS.

SUDDEN AND STARTLING CHANGES IN CITY OFFICIALS LAST NIGHT.

Councilman Buckle Declared Kiely Choice of Police Board—Mr. Dumont, a Member of the Board, Disagreed—Dumont New President of Council.

A sudden and startling mid-summer change of affairs took place last evening at the regular July meeting of the Common Council. In the first place Councilman J. B. Buckle announced the resignation of George W. Grant as captain of the police department, in which Mr. Grant stated that he desired to be relieved of the position and be appointed as a doorman at headquarters, with his present salary to continue this year, and afterward to receive $60 a month.

Mr. Buckle offered a resolution accepting the resignation, and appointing Captain Grant to the position he asked for at the salary he stated. Mr. Buckle took occasion to express the appreciation of the Council for the officer's fidelity and service to this city in the past.

Mr. Buckle said he thought that the time had arrived to fill the position vacated by Captain Grant, and on the recommendation of a majority of the Police Board he would like to nominate Sergeant Kiely for the position. He thoroughly believed him to be the man for the place.

Then there was trouble. Mr. Dumont said that to his knowledge the Police Board had met but once during the past month, and at that time it was thought possibly wise to place Sergeant Kiely in the position temporarily. He did not agree to make the appointment permanent, nor was he in favor of it at the present time. He took exception to Mr. Buckle stating that it was on the recommendation of the Board that Mr. Kiely's name was presented.

Mr. Buckle said he understood that Mr. Dumont was merely opposed to the change at present so far as it has to do with the tenure of office act. He had consulted the corporation counsel and was informed that it would be perfectly legal and proper to make the change as planned.

Mr. Dumont moved to amend Mr. Buckle's motion that Mr. Kiely be made captain, by substituting one that he act temporarily.

Mr. vanHerwerden asked if the change was on the recommendation of the Police Board, and to this question Mr. Buckle replied in the affirmative. Mr. Dumont did not agree with him.

Then came the vote on the amendment, which was lost, Messrs. Buckle, Craig, Coriell, Gloak, Lee, Tolles and Smith voting against it, and Messrs. Clifton, Dumont, Mellick and vanHerwerden voting for it.

Mr. Buckle desired action at once and called for the vote on the original motion that Mr. Kiely be made captain of police. Messrs. Buckle, Craig, Coriell, Clifton, Gloak, Lee, Tolles, vanHerwerden and Smith voted for the motion, and Messrs. Dumont and Mellick against it.

Mr. Buckle then moved that Roundsman Frederickson be made sergeant in place of Mr. Kiely, and in voting for this change all cast their vote for it except Mr. Dumont, who voted against for the same reason as given in the matter of selecting a captain. Mr. Buckle moved that Patrolman Wm. Mattox be made a roundsman in place of Mr. Frederickson, and again Mr. Dumont was alone in opposing the change.

Mr. Dumont wanted to know who had agreed to all these changes, it was all news to him although on the Police Board.

Mr. Buckle said that Mr. Mattox had been recommended as the best man for the position, hence the action.

Mr. Dumont declared that he wished to resign as a member of the Board, and Mr. Buckle immediately moved that the resignation be accepted.

Mr. Coriell moved to lay the resignation on the table, which was done.

At this time President Smith asked to be excused for the rest of the evening, and he had scarcely left the room when Mr. Lee surprised the members by presenting Mr. Smith's resignation as a member of the Council.

Mr. Lee moved that it be accepted, and this called forth a query from Mr. Dumont as to why Mr. Smith left the Council. No answer was given at that

BOROUGH SCHOOLS TO BE PROPERLY HEATED

Another Attempt Resulted in a Favorable Vote to Bond Borough for Heating Apparatus.

THE VOTE WAS 112 TO 93.

BOARD OF EDUCATION AUTHORIZED TO ISSUE BONDS FOR $5,500.

Will Provide Proper Heating and Ventilating Apparatus for Somerset Street School—Appropriations Were Voted on Together.

The borough taxpayers turned out in full force last evening for the purpose of voting for or against the proposed appropriation of $5,500 to defray the cost of installing heating and ventilating apparatus in the Somerset street school. The vote was taken and resulted in a victory for those in favor of the appropriation. The total number of votes cast was 205, of which 112 were in favor of it and 93 against.

President S. St. John McCutchen rapped for order at 8 o'clock and Mayor Newton B. Smalley was made chairman and A. B. Bodine, secretary. The later stated the purpose of the meeting, which was to authorize the Board of Education to install in the twelve rear rooms of the Somerset street school building a proper system of heating and ventilation at an estimated cost of $4,500; also to place closets in the basement of the school at an estimated cost of $1,000, and to issue bonds to the amount of $5,500 for payment of the same.

President McCutchen made a statement in behalf of the Board telling how the question had been voted down at a previous meeting, but the members were unconvinced that the majority of the borough taxpayers were satisfied with the vote. He stated that the present system of heating in the school would not be allowed in a new building, and that there was no means of ventilation except by raising a window and allowing a draught to blow on the pupils. He concluded by offering a resolution to have the apparatus installed and to pay for it by an issue of eleven bonds of $500 each, bearing interest at 5 per cent. and numbered from B 1 to B 11. B 1 is to mature July 1st, 1902, and the others each succeeding year. The last one being paid in 1912.

Senator Charles A. Reed asked if the entire Board was unanimously in favor of the improvement. He was told that it was. It was decided to take a ballot on both of the appropriations together. J. W. A. Bauersachs and L. B. Josephs were appointed tellers and the voting began.

As the men stood in line waiting to cast their vote, heated arguments could be heard all over the room. When the result was finally announced a scene of confusion followed. The successful ones applauded while the others demanded to be heard. Amidst the excitement a motion to adjourn was seconded and carried and the meeting was over.

WESTFIELD'S FOURTH.

Two Baseball Games and a Tennis Tournament are the Principal Events of the Day in Westfield.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, July 3.—Fourth of July will be celebrated in Westfield in the old-time fashion. The local baseball team has arranged two games, both of which will be of great interest to all lovers of the National game. In the morning the home team will entertain the strong Clark's O. N. T.'s of Newark, at Recreation Park. The afternoon game will be of especial interest as the strong Roselle Field Club will cross bats with the home team.

At 2 o'clock the Westfield Club will hold a tennis tournament on their courts. After the tournament an informal tea will be tendered to the contestants by the ladies of the club followed by a reception and dance.

The committee on celebration decided not to hold games and bicycle races as has been the custom in former years, there being so many other important features that it was thought best to do away with that part of the programme.

In the evening many of the citizens will give a display of fireworks at their residences.

RUSH OF ROUTINE WORK FOR COUNCIL.

Big Batch of Petitions Presented at Last Night's Meeting Together With Other Business.

BROWN CLAIMS DAMAGES.

JAMES A. MARTIN RESIGNS HIS POSITION AS TAX COLLECTOR.

Street Committee Decides in Favor of Heavy Macadam Pavement for Park Avenue—New Rules for City Home—Reports.

The regular July meeting of the Common Council held last evening was an important one and a great amount of business, both routine and otherwise, was transacted. All the members were present, but it was 8:35 o'clock before President Smith called the meeting to order.

There was a batch of petitions that occupied considerable time. Residents of Berkely avenue, near Leland avenue, asked for three electric lights. J. Caspar Kirkner resigned his position as constable, and it was accepted. The board of trustees of All Souls church, through its secretary, Edgar Smith, asked for an electric light in front of the church, and the request was granted. Three electric lights were asked for by the residents of Jefferson and Dunellen avenues.

Matthew Roger Brown, through his counsel, Nelson & Wm. N. Runyon, presented a communication to the Council, in which he claims damages for injuries received in an accident Saturday, May 12th, in the evening. The petition cites that Mr. Brown, who is the expert at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course, and a friend, were driving along Watchung avenue, near the rear of the Y. M. C. A. building, and that their rig collided with a pile of stone in the road left there by the city, and that both they and the horse received injuries and the wagon was damaged. The matter was referred to the street committee.

The business merchants on West Front street in the vicinity of Music Hall asked that an arc light be placed at that point. To avoid future misunderstanding, Superintendent H. G. McCully, of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, stated that the company would discount all previous out-of-town calls from the free telephones in use in the city, but that in the future a free limit radius would be established twenty miles from this city. This rule is made especially for the benefit of the telephone at police headquarters, where there has been a number of out-of-town calls, followed by dispute. The company asked the Common Council to agree to the change and thus form an agreement under regulations by which the city has several free telephones. The matter was referred.

The Board of Education, through its president, Dr. J. B. Probasco, stated that at a meeting held June 28th, a resolution was adoped appointing L. N. Lovell and Charles F. Abbott members of the Board of Estimate, and the Council was asked to appoint two members from its body to serve on that Board, as the law requires. The Council then elected Messrs. vanHerwerden and J. B. Dumont.

Silas D. Drake asked for the privilege of operating two locomobiles through Park avenue, to Martine avenue, to Woodland avenue and back to Park avenue, from 6 a. m., to 12 midnight. The matter was referred to the license committee. P. H. Latourette asked for an auctioneer's license and it was granted. Mayor Rockfellow aapointed William Addis, Sr., a special policeman, and the nomination was confirmed.

City Judge Runyon submitted his quarterly report showing that 146 prisoners had been before him, and $176 had been collected from fines. Inspector of Buildings T. O. Doane, reported the granting of 13 permits during June. J. B. Dumont, treasurer for the board of directors of the Public Library and Reading Room, presented his report showing the financial condition to be excellent.

Collector of Taxes, James A. Martin tendered his resignation to take effect July 10th. Mr. vanHerwerden stated that Mr. Martin had written him a personal letter insisting on his resignation being accepted. Mr. vanHerwerden paid a just tribute to Mr. Martin when he stated that he had been faithful, a hard worker and accurate. He also stated that he understood that Mr. Martin resigned on account of health. The resignation was accepted.

Mr. vanHerwerden reported on the petition of Mrs. Mary Skillman, who asked for a just apportionment of her

Every time you read about Doan's Kidney Pills you are told they cure every form of kidney ill, from backache to urinary disorders. How are our promises kept? Ask any citizen who has tried the treatment. Ask the woman who makes the following statement.

Mrs. Valentine Utzinger of 75 Grandview avenue, says:—"I suffered from kidney complaint for six years. I doctored and used various kinds of medicine with little or no result. I had almost constant sharp darting pain across my back, and if I over exerted myself or took cold I suffered severely. I always felt it most when the weather was damp. There was also a kidney weakness which was very distressing and inconvenient. While in this condition I saw Doan's Kidney Pills recommended and my son brought me a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store. I started to use them at once following directions closely. They helped the pain in my back, and relieved my other difficulty. I give all the credit for this relief to Doan's Kidney Pills for they are beyond a doubt a grand medicine for kidney trouble."

DELEGATES GATHER.

Kansas City Thronged With Democratic Leaders.

MR. BRYAN INSISTS ON 16 TO 1.

Vice Presidential Situation Is Not Cleared Up—Shively Out of Race. Sulzer, Van Wyck and Danforth New York Possibilities.

KANSAS CITY, July 3.—The throb and thrill of a great national assemblage is beginning to take possession of this young queen city of the southwest. There is a steady tramp, tramp of incoming thousands by every train, choking the railroad stations with a struggling, travel stained and sweltering throng, filling the streets with slow moving, jostling crowds, emptying into the hotel lobbies, where, amid cigar smoke and piles of baggage and the shout of badge venders, the currents of earnest and excited men eddy to groups, declaiming the merits of candidates and issues, arguing, protesting, gesticulating.

The delegations have been arriving in scattered lots, some of them with bands and banners to add sound and color to the animated scene. Among yesterday's arrivals were many of the interesting figures of the party, including the smooth faced, ministerial looking Oldham of Nebraska, who will make the speech placing Bryan in nomination; Hill of New York, weighted with his long conference with Bryan at Lincoln and weary with three days of constant travel; Perry Belmont of New York, well groomed and debonair; Teller of Colorado, with his Jacksonlike face, thin and worn; Senator Money of Mississippi, tall and gaunt, with a strong contingent from the far south; a distinguished Populist trio, Senators Allen, Heitfield and Harris, here to aid the cause of Towne; John P. Altgeld of Illinois, brown and smiling under his broad brimmed panama; Governor Smith of Maryland, the close confidant of Gorman; Arthur Sewall, the Maine shipbuilder, who ran with Bryan four years ago, and that other unique figure of the senate who has lately brought excitement and sensation to its deliberations, Senator William E. Clark of Montana, heading the deliberations of "regulars" with two brass bands and an abundance of enthusiasm. With this influx of leaders and delegates the holding of caucuses and the organization of state delegations have begun under hot and oppressive conditions.

The real work of the convention began with a meeting of the national committee to determine contests and to select temporary officers. Mayor Rose of Milwaukee, the choice for temporary chairman, is a German-American, reputed to be an orator of fine presence and effective delivery.

But aside from these formal proceedings yesterday brought many developments and some surprises in the general situation. The dominating influence of Mr. Bryan over the convention had been made perfectly manifest, causing some concern and just a little rebellion in some quarters. It is not by any authoritative or formal words or actions by him that this influence is exerted, but in ways none the less effective. Its importance, however, has not been so much in disclosing how strong a hand Mr. Bryan holds on the convention's course as in showing that there is little likelihood of a modification of the silver plank.

The vice presidential situation puzzles, and it is apparently in as much doubt as ever. There was a shifting of the scene yesterday when Benjamin F. Shively of Indiana was taken out of the race by his emphatic statement to the Indiana delegation. Not only the Indiana men, but other delegates in the city accepted the statement of Mr. Shively, and he is not now considered a probability in the race. As the contest stands after Shively's retirement, the two leading candidates seem to be Charles A. Towne and William Sulzer, with some man from New York, like Judge Van Wyck or Elliot Danforth, as a possibility under certain contingencies.

The fact is that the vice presidential situation is interwoven with the platform. If there is a simple reaffirmation of the Chicago platform, some New York man may be selected for vice president in the hope that he will assist in carrying that state. If there is a specific declaration for 16 to 1, then Towne may be made Bryan's running mate. It is pointed out as not quite conceivable that a convention which would refuse to make a specific declaration for 16 to 1 with a view of carrying some of the eastern states would nominate Towne, who left the Republican party solely on the ground of his attachment to silver. It is conceded by all the Democratic leaders that Towne's strength is in the west and on a silver platform and that he would not be strong in the east on a modified platform.

Ex-Senator Hill has returned from Lincoln, and it may be said that his return did not cause as great a sensation as did his departure. The mysterious silence which he maintained and which he explained by saying, "Mr. Bryan and myself agreed that nothing should be said regarding the conference between us," did not serve to whet the political appetite very much.

An interesting story got afloat yesterday concerning a letter said to have been sent to Mr. Bryan by Democratic leaders here. This letter, according to general report, outlined the situation and suggested that Mr. Bryan ought to make concessions regarding the platform so that those who wanted a modification would be conciliated. It was stated that the concession asked made victory possible, while without it the campaign would be a hard one.

Cato Sells, chairman of the Iowa delegation, who spent three hours closeted with Mr. Bryan Sunday, said, when told of the movement to have Mr. Bryan agree to the elimination of a specific plank in the platform calling for the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1: "I talked over the whole situation with Mr. Bryan, and I have not the slightest hesitancy in saying that the gentlemen who have gone to Lincoln with the idea of getting Mr. Bryan to hedge on the proposition of 16 to 1 will do nothing but go up the hill and come down again. I know exactly what I am saying when I tell you that there is not the slightest chance in the world to get Mr. Bryan to accept any evasion or abridgment of the 16 to 1 proposition. He will run on a platform containing that plank or he will not run at all. I am positive that there will be no fight against the 16 to 1 plank which will compel Mr. Bryan to change his attitude. There is nothing in the world that will have the power to do that."

ROOSEVELT'S TRIP.

Warmly Welcomed at Many Points In Kansas.

TOPEKA, July 3.—This, the capital city of Kansas, turned out en masse yesterday to greet Governor Roosevelt. He was cheered enthusiastically as he stepped on the rear platform. He was introduced as "the candidate for vice president, but a candidate for something else further along." His brief speech was warmly applauded. At Osage City the governor was greeted by members of the Twentieth Kansas, to whom he spoke for a moment. At Emporia Governor Roosevelt's speech was the longest he has delivered on the trip to Oklahoma. The governor launched almost immediately into the subject of politics, and this appeared to please his auditors. At one time when he spoke of 16 to 1 a woman in the crowd became excited, threw her arms wildly in the air and shouted, "Thank God, we don't want 16 to 1 any more, and we won't have it."

Governor Roosevelt addressed an enthusiastic audience of 2,000 in the Auditorium at Newton. It was the first time the governor had left the train since leaving Chicago, all his previous speeches having been made from the rear platform of his private car. His address was along the same lines as those delivered at Topeka and Emporia, touching upon the questions of imperialism and silver.

A Strike That Failed.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 3.—Railroad strikes are generally serious affairs, but there was one on the Poughkeepsie and Eastern railroad yesterday in which the humorous side was emphasized to an unusual degree. Russell Sage owns the railroad. There are five engineers on it, and yesterday morning two of them quit work because a demand for higher wages was refused. There was no one to take out the morning trains until Superintendent Hicks and Master Mechanic Light, both novices, got up steam on the engines and ran the trains without accident and kept on schedule time.

Mayor McGuire Indicted.

SYRACUSE, July 3.—Mayor James K. McGuire, 15 aldermen and one or two other city officials were indicted yesterday by the special grand jury ordered by Governor Roosevelt to inquire into the condition of municipal affairs, which resulted in a deficiency of $400,000. The indictments were reported under seal when Judge Wilmot M. Smith of Brooklyn convened court. Deputy sheriffs were sent out with notices asking the city officials affected to appear in court at 10 o'clock today, when it is said they will be arraigned.

The Public Debt.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The monthly statement of the public debt shows that at the close of business June 30 the debt, less cash in the treasury, amounted to $1,107,711,258, a decrease for the month of $14,897,553. This decrease is accounted for by an increase in the cash on hand and by redemption of 2 per cent bonds. The debt is recapitulated as follows: Interest bearing debt, $1,023,478,860; debt on which interest has ceased since maturity, $1,176,320; debt bearing no interest, $388,761,732; total, $1,413,416,912.

The Windward Sails Today.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., July 3.—The Peary steamer Windward, having effected complete repairs here, sailed today for Brigus, on Conception bay, to embark her heavy gear, supplies and crew. Thence she will proceed to Sydney, where she will load a full stock of coal and will take on board Mrs. Peary and her child. Then she will sail for the arctic regions. She may return in the autumn or remain until next season, as circumstances warrant.

Indian Uprising Threatened.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The threatened Indian uprising in the Rainy lake region of Minnesota was one of the subjects considered at the cabinet conference at the state department. A telegram from the governor of Minnesota was submitted saying that an uprising in that region was threatened and expressing the fear that it might get beyond the control of the state authorities.

Gold Stealer Arrested.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Chief Wilkie of the secret service has been advised of the arrest of Fred A. Taylor, an old employee of the San Francisco mint. It is said that he had on his person at the time of his arrest about eight ounces of gold clippings and a quantity of gold buttons aggregating $200, which, it is said, he had stolen.

Will Try Niagara Rapids.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 3.—A Chicago man, who gives the name of F. M. Bowser, is here preparing to make the trip through the Whirlpool rapids in a small boat on the afternoon of Wednesday, July 4. He has brought his boat with him. It is a curious affair. It weighs about two tons, is 20 feet long, 6 feet beam and 4 feet deep.

Botha Released.

CAPE TOWN, July 3.—Commandant Philip Botha, who was captured by the British near Kroonstadt May 17, has been released under heavy bail. He is to reside at Aliwal North until the conclusion of his preliminary examination.

Fever In Panama.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, July 3.—Pernicious fever is prevailing on the Isthmus of Panama, among the victims reported being the son of United States Consul Cobb and the prima donna of an Italian opera company.

BIG STRIKE ENDED.

The Long Struggle In St. Louis Settled at Last.

ST. LOUIS, July 3.—An agreement between the St. Louis Transit company and its former employees was signed last night by representatives of the Transit company and by the executive committee. The agreement follows:

First.—The provisions of the agreement of March 10, 1900, as to rates of pay and hours of service will be continued in force by the company.

"Second.—Every employee of the company to be free to join or not to join any organization and no discrimination to be made for or against him because of the manner in which he exercises his freedom.

"Third.—Any attempt on the part of any employee to induce another employee by intimidation or threats to join or not to join any union shall be cause for the immediate discharge of the person guilty of such attempt.

"Fourth.—Any attempt to influence any employees by an official of the company to join or not to join any union shall be cause for discharge of such official.

"Fifth.—The company will meet any employee or committee of employees, whether representing themselves, other employees or an association of employees, regarding any matter of mutual interest.

"Sixth.—For the purpose of filling vacancies which may now exist or hereafter arise the committee of former employees, of which T. B. Edwards is chairman, shall prepare a list of the men who were in the company's service on May 7 last, and as the company now or hereafter needs additional men it will select them exclusively from this list until it is exhausted, not interfering, however, with men now in the service. No person shall be eligible to this list who has been guilty of any acts of lawlessness or violence."

IN FAMISHED INDIA.

Rains Better Conditions Slightly. Nearly 6,000,000 Receiving Relief.

LONDON, July 3.—The secretary of state for India, Lord George Hamilton, has received the following dispatch from the viceroy of India, Lord Curzon of Kedleston:

"Rainfalls have been fairly general during the past week, but the monsoon current continues weak, causing anxiety. Frequent showers have fallen in parts of the central provinces, Mysore, Bombay, the Deccan, Madras, Berar and Hyderabad, but the rainfall to date is insufficient for a general resumption of agricultural operations. Little or no rain has fallen in northwestern India. In anticipation of the rainy season work near villages and home gratuitous relief are being largely substituted for the large works, and government advances are being freely given for the purchase of plows, bullocks, seeds and subsistence. The poorer cultivators are receiving gifts from the famine fund.

"Even after abundant rain has fallen throughout distressed districts relief will be necessary on a large scale until the early crops ripen. The persons receiving relief number 5,808,000."

Trouble In Morocco.

TANGIER, July 3.—There is great excitement at Fez owing to French encroachments on the oasis of Touat. A mob killed the manager of a French concern, who was an American citizen. The British consul has demanded the assistance of the authorities to protect his house, and the Jewish ghetto is besieged. The legation here is making serious representations on the subject.

Telephone Strikers Riotous.

ROCHESTER, July 3.—The Bell Telephone linemen, who are on strike, started a riot yesterday at the corner of State and Allen streets, where they assaulted a lineman who was at work, knocked him senseless and but for the appearance of a bicycle policeman would have done serious injury to the workman. The ringleader of the rioters was arrested and locked up.

Machinery Molders Strike.

CLEVELAND, July 3.—Six hundred machinery molders are out on strike here against a reduction of 10 cents per day in wages. Nineteen shops are affected by the strike. The cut in wages was ordered by the Foundrymen's association, and the strike was declared only in the shops of that organization.

Conspirators Convicted.

NEW YORK, July 3.—The jury in the Brooklyn Rapid Transit conspiracy case returned a verdict of guilty, convicting Alfred R. Goslin, Eugene L. Packer and Charles T. Davis. Henry Bogert was acquitted according to direction of the court. The jury was out just 30 minutes.

Engineer and Fireman Killed.

MARLBORO, Md., July 3.—The local train from Washington on the Chesapeake Beach railroad collided at Pushow, near Chesapeake Beach, with the west bound express. Engineer Francis E. Maier and Fireman Charles Zeir of Nottingham of the local train were killed.

The Sumner Arrives.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—A telegram has been received at the war department from General Shafter announcing the arrival of the transport Sumner from Manila, with a number of sick, insane and discharged soldiers.

RIVER GIVES UP DEAD

Scores of Hoboken Fire Victims Already Recovered.

NEARLY THREE HUNDRED LOST.

Burned Steamers Still Too Hot For Inspection—Wrecking Companies at Work—Steamship Company Provides Burial For Dead.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Sixty-seven bodies given up by the waters of the North river is the horrible evidence thus far of the disaster at the docks of the North German Lloyd Steamship company in Hoboken. Each hour that passes witnesses additional recoveries of bodies, seared, maimed and burned beyond all semblance of human flesh, and the half has not yet been told, as all of the bodies brought to the surface were caught on grappling hooks. About the first of next week people will realize the appalling loss of life, as it will then be time for the bodies that are now lying at the bottom of the river to come to the surface of the water of their own natural accord. The list of missing is still placed at but few below the 300 mark, and when the bodies begin floating to the surface the grewsomeness of the situation will then be known.

The North German Lloyd company is a great, hopeless cripple for the time being. The general agent of the North German Lloyd company, Gustav H. Schwab, was at his temporary offices in Hoboken most of yesterday trying to straighten out the seemingly hopeless situation. He could not form any exact estimate of the losses as yet, but the company was doing all it could to get itself out of the tangle. They sent money down to the docks and dished it out to the survivors as if it had been so much water. Over $14,000 in cash was dealt out to the men, and suits of clothing, cheap, but new and clean, was given to every man that asked for them. Food and shelter were also provided for the company's men.

Superintendent Max Moeler of the North German Lloyd line late last night returned from his trip to the various vessels that lay in the river. Concerning the general situation at this hour he said:

"The steamship Bremen can be repaired without great outlay. She burned until 6 o'clock last night, when the last trickle of flame was stifled.

"The steamship Main is still on fire and is burning in holds Nos. 4 and 8. I believe the ship will be a total loss.

"The Saale lies deep in the water. The wrecking boats started to work at her right away, and she will probably be floating in several days. Her portholes were shut, and water was pumped out of her as fast as possible. She has raised about 12 feet, but is still so far under that there can be no estimate as to how badly she is damaged. We cannot tell just now how far she is burned, but all above is practically wrecked.

The Main and the Bremen lie beached in parallel positions within 75 feet of each other and about 1,000 feet from the Jersey shore opposite West Forty-second street. The Bremen has a list of 45 degrees and were it not for the huge derricks supporting her she would have her port decks entirely submerged. To say the vessel was gutted from stem to stern is literally true. Only the frame remains. The decks are ripped from the rivets, and what wood remains of them is completely charred through. The general opinion is, however, that the Bremen can be successfully wrecked and will again be placed in commission.

Despite reports to the contrary not one single body has been taken from either the Main or the Bremen yet, and the officers of both ships express themselves confidently that they are of the belief that should any dead be found the bodies will be far beyond recognition. This applies more to the Main than to the Bremen, as the former is nothing but a mass of twisted iron. The plates and ribs are buckled, and the deck plates are redhot ridges and hollows. That the Main is damaged beyond redemption is the concensus of opinion of not only Captain Chittenden and Captain Walcott of the Merritt & Chapman Wrecking company, but also the opinion of Captain Peterson of the Main. The ship is now nothing but a redhot hulk.

Coroner Hoffman of Hoboken has been directed by the North German Lloyd Steamship company to see that all the unidentified and unclaimed dead have a respectable burial at the expense of the steamship company. In many cases the victims' bodies had been burned and charred in such a horrible manner as to be beyond recognition. These remains will be buried first. The bodies that can be identified will be kept a reasonable time for identification by friends.

Finns Object to Czar's Order.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 3.—The Finnish senate has addressed a memorial to the czar declaring its inability to promulgate the imperial rescript regarding the introduction of the Russian language in Finland, the limitation of the right of public meeting and the granting of the right to Russians to carry on certain trades prohibited to the Finns. The heads of the administrative departments of the senate and seven members of the highest court of Finland resigned yesterday.

South African War.

LONDON, July 3.—It is clear that Lord Roberts does not consider the war in South Africa ended, as he has put a stop to the return of civilians and has ordered the mining men back to Bloemfontein. He is credited with thinking that three months must elapse before affairs will be settled enough to permit of the resumption of business. A large body of British are again reported to be in Swaziland.

The President Works at Home.

CANTON, O., July 3.—President McKinley was astir early yesterday morning and after a hasty 8 o'clock breakfast was in his office attending to public business. The mails over Sunday brought many matters from Washington which were attended to here. A number of commissions were signed early in the forenoon. The president, Mrs. McKinley and Dr. Rixey went for a drive.

Virginia's Separation Law.

RICHMOND, July 3.—What is known as the Jim Crow car law, providing for the separation of whites and blacks on railway trains, went into operation in this state Sunday and so far seems to be working smoothly. No trouble is reported on any of the lines centering in this city.

Troubles Of a Minister.

To benefit others Rev. J. T. W. Vernon, of Hartwell, Ga., writes: "For a long time I had a running sore on my leg. I tried many remedies without benefit, until I used a bottle of Electric Bitters and a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which cured me sound and well." Sores, Eruption, Boils, Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum show impure blood. Thousands have found in Electric Bitters a grand blood purifier that absolutely cures these troubles. BAD NEWS RECEIVED Admiral Kempff Confirms Evil Tidings From Peking.

SOME HOPE OF SAVING THE OREGON

Secretary Root Denies the Rumor That More Troops Had Been Ordered to China—Some En Route to Manila May Be Diverted.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Bad news has come from Admiral Kempff, confirming the worst stories which have emanated from China relative to the conditions at Peking, and a feeling of disquiet was noticeable among administration officials and diplomats. The German embassy shows particular anxiety for information respecting the sad end of Baron von Ketteler.

Admiral Kempff's dispatch was from Chefu and bore no date. It read as follows:

"A rumor from Peking reports legations are besieged; provisions nearly exhausted; situation desperate.

"German minister, going to tsung-liyamen, murdered by Chinese soldiers. American, Italian, Duty (probably Dutch) legations burned. Twenty thousand Chinese soldiers inside, 30,000 outside Peking, 3,000 reported bound for Tien-tsin.

"Still fighting at Tien-tsin. Communication with Tien-tsin by rail and river insecure."

Good news of the Oregon came to the navy department in the following from Admiral Kempff, dated Chefu, July 2:

"The Oregon has run aground; is not in dangerous position, about 38 north latitude, 20.40 east longitude. Have sent to assistance of vessel in distress three naval vessels. It is reported that there is water in one compartment. The commander of the Oregon did not request assistance, a Japanese man-of-war having board vessel."

It is said at the state department that there seems to be a unanimous agreement on the part of the powers to welcome with the utmost cordiality Japan's offer to furnish re-enforcements for the forces now operating along the Pei-Ho river in the effort to reach Peking, as Japan, alone of the powers, is prepared to throw into China whatever number of troops may be needed.

A gathering in Secretary Hay's office late yesterday of Secretary Root and Secretary Hitchcock, taken in connection with the fact that Secretary Long had been in conference earlier in the day with the secretary of state, led to the circulation of rumors that important developments were to be expected connected with the strengthening of the United States forces now in China. These rumors, however, were speedily set at rest by the statement from one of the participants that the conference had nothing to do with Chinese affairs, but related to some Indian troubles in the northwest. Secretary Root did not hesitate to enter a specific denial of some of the sensational stories which are persistently circulated every day regardless of facts. He said that he had not ordered any troops to China beyond the Ninth infantry from Manila, now on the way to Taku, and possibly the Sixth cavalry, about to start from San Francisco for Nagasaki.

At the state department it is said that all that has been done toward adding to the strength of the force which General Chaffee will command has been confined to the adoption of measures looking to the touching at some convenient cable port on the Asiatic side of the Pacific of such of the regular army regiments as are to be dispatched to the Philippines to relieve the volunteer troops there in order that they might be diverted to China if necessary.

ALLIES NOT ADVANCING.

Announcement In London Causes Dismay—Frightful News Expected.

LONDON, July 3.—The allies are not advancing for the relief of Peking. This announcement to the house of commons by Mr. William St. John Brodrick, under secretary of state for foreign affairs, was received with exclamations of astonishment and dismay.

Sir Ellis Ashmead Bartlett inquired if any information had been received from the legations at Peking or as to the composition and command of the relieving force and its present position.

Mr. Brodrick read the dispatches received today and said the total allied force available is now about 13,000, as troops have been rapidly arriving, adding:

"We do not yet know know what arrangements have been made locally regarding the command of an expedition, but it has not yet been thought possible to attempt a further advance. The consuls have been in communication with the viceroys in the Yang-tse region, and they are quite aware that support will be given them by her majesty's government in preserving order. It is obviously impossible that the representatives of the powers at Peking should be consulted, as no communications are passing with them."

"The situation is desperate. Hasten." These words from the message of Von Bergen, a member of the German legation at Peking, countersigned by Sir Robert Hart, inspector general of customs, and dated nine days ago, are the theme of all private comment. They are preparation for news of a frightful tragedy. Nine days ago the ammunition of the little garrison defending the foreigners was running low, and their food was nearly exhausted, while around them was a horde of Kan-su braves having at their service Krupp guns and repeating rifles. Peking was in the hands of the revolutionaries.

While nothing but sinister news comes from northern China, southern China is seemingly breaking away from the empire. All the provinces south of the Yellow river, whose viceroys and governors maintain friendly relations with the powers through the consuls, have been informally constituted into a federacy, with Nankin as the capital.

GERMANY AROUSED.

China Will Be Forced to Make Amends For Outrages.

BERLIN, July 3.—From well authenticated reports it is stated that after the detailed statement by Count von Bulow, secretary of state for foreign affairs, regarding the Chinese situation Emperor William made up his mind to insist upon full satisfaction for the death of Baron von Ketteler, for which purpose he resolved to send altogether armed forces approximately as large as those of the other powers chiefly interested in restoring order in China. The precise size of the forces has not yet been determined, but it is expected that they will altogether amount to a score of thousands. A considerable portion of the German fleet will be sent also. This is evidenced by orders issued last night to prepare five large new battleships for sailing. It is understood that Prince Henry of Prussia has requested the emperor to give him command of this division, but it is doubtful whether his majesty will agree to this.

The emperor and Count von Bulow are fully aware that constitutional difficulties render difficult the dispatching of so large a contingent, but both are agreed that it must be done. In this they are supported by the singularly unanimous attitude of the German press. A number of the leading papers seriously discuss means for fulfilling the nation's wish to make reprisals against China correspondingly severe with the outrages.

At the foreign office the situation for Germany is described as most difficult, especially since the latest news shows that serious trouble is impending in Shangtung.

The Chinese legation here is still smilingly snug. Minister Lu Hai Houan said that he was extremely sorry for the bloody events in Peking, but felt sure that the dowager empress was guiltless. From an interesting chat had with him the point seems worth recording that the minister took it for granted that the powers would subdue the revolt in China and arrange a new government.

Vice Admiral Bendemann, at Taku, in announcing the report of the death of Baron von Ketteler, says the bearer of the letter containing the report of the baron's death also reported that the legation interpreter had been wounded and the Chinese quarter of Peking had been burned.

Italy's Position Defined.

ROME, July 3.—In the chamber of deputies the Marquis Visconti-Venosta, minister of foreign affairs, outlined the policy of the government in China. He said: "Harmony between the powers has never ceased since united action was taken. If the nearest nations arrived upon the scene first, they acted in the common interest. The Italian government thus far has not sent any soldiers, but it will soon have six or seven warships with increased crews able to disembark landing parties. Moreover, other measures have been taken in order to enable Italy to be prepared for any eventuality, and we propose to maintain our position in the concert of European powers, all of whom are anxious to re-establish order in Peking and create guarantees for the safety of foreigners and peaceful interests. It would be out of place in the present circumstances to speak of Italy's particular views, but it is necessary to say that we have absolutely no idea of seeking in the present events an opportunity to secure a foothold in China."

COMING EVENTS.

July 5—Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A.
July 6—Y. M. C. A Boys' Camp at Lake Champlain.

The Chief of Police.

When the officers of Uncle Sam's army and navy have served their country faithfully for a long term of years they are permanently retired from active service on half pay. They have done their duty and are then entitled to enjoy the benefits of their long and honorable service. According to law, it is not within the province of the city of Plainfield to retire any of its faithful servants in a similar manner, but as near as it is possible to do so the Common Council has provided for Chief of Police George W. Grant. After 28 years of trustworthy service in the police department, starting from the rank of patrolman at the formation of the department and continuing upward until the highest office in the department was reached, Chief Grant presented his resignation to the Council last evening and asked to be relieved from duty at the head of the force.

This action was only taken after consultation with his friends who advised the move. The Chief's health has not been of the best for the past year or more and the constant activity required of the head of the police department has been a steady strain on his system. The long and efficient services of Chief Grant are fully appreciated by the Council, among the members of which he has many warm friends. By his friends, it was arranged that he should be appointed to another position in the employ of the city which will practically be the same as a retirement in the army or navy. It will be a permanent place where he can serve the city with satisfaction to all and to the general betterment of his own health.

The logical successor to Chief Grant is Patrick Kiely, who has been sergeant of the force for several years besides having served in the ranks for a term. The new head of the police department will undoubtedly be a very good man for the place as he possesses the energy and cleverness required of one who is to assume command of the city's police. Former Sergeant, now Chief Kiely has many friends throughout the city who will gladly congratulate him on the promotion. The appointment was made only after due consideration by the Councilmen and there is no doubt but that the new chief will make an efficient and satisfactory officer.

Independence Day.

Independence Day will be ushered in at midnight tonight with the usual noisy demonstrations and for twenty-four hours the birthday of the American Independence will be celebrated with any quantity of din and clatter. The fourth day of July, 1900, is not likely to differ materially from the fourth day of July of other years. The same number of small boys will insist on looking down the muzzles of loaded cannon and the same number will investigate the explosive power of firecrackers. A great many people will have an idea they have money to burn. Altogether there will be much excitement and noise and gunpowder fumes and incidentally the good folk of the land will call to mind that this great Republic has completed another year of its prosperous career and is now one hundred and twenty-four years old.

The resignation of James A. Martin, as City Collector, presented at the meeting of the Common Council last evening, was a general surprise. Mr. Martin has been a careful and hard-working official. His reason for the step was announced last evening by Councilman vanHerwerden to be on account of his poor health. His successor, Frank H. Smith, comes not without some experience. For years he was head timekeeper at the Potter Press Works. Of late he has been interested in the Monarch Printing Company.

The election of Councilman J. B. Dumont as President of the Common Council last evening in the place of Frank H. Smith, resigned, is a deserved honor. While Mr. Smith made an excellent chairman, the fact that Mr. Dumont is the oldest member of the Council in time of service would naturally give him the leading place. For a number of years, Mr. Dumont served as president of the Council in a very satisfactory manner, so the honor is not a new one to him.

An adjourned meeting of the Common Council will be held next Monday evening when the vacancy in the Council, left by the resignation of Frank H. Smith, will be filled. It is practically decided already that Charles W. Runyon, local manager of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, will be chosen.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The electric fan has come more into general use in Plainfield this summer than ever before. The reduction in the cost of the fans has enabled many local tradesmen to utilize them to the advantage of their customers. The saloon keepers were among the first to put in the high speed electric fans. Now barber shops, drug stores and many other kinds of stores have had these fans added to their summer equipment.

A number of enterprising small boys of this and neighboring towns have discovered a means whereby they can add something to their collection of spending money these summer days. They establish miniature "wheelmen's rests" where home-made lemonade and ice cream are dispensed on a small scale. Little counters are put up in some shady spot at the roadside and there the youthful proprietors patiently await the arrival of customers. As a general thing they are compelled to depend largely on their young friends and members of the family to purchase their stock in trade. It is a laudable enterprise, however, and the young business men find much enjoyment in it.

There are very few ways in which Elizabeth can boast of outshining Plainfield, but in the matter of street signs the county seat is far ahead of this city. There are street signs in Elizabeth, and they are legible, too. Every stranger that lands in Plainfield suffers all sorts of agonies in trying to find any location. There are a few street signs in Plainfield, but they are very few and far between. Elizabeth has some new signs that are easy to read, even from the passing trolley cars. There are many Plainfielders who would like to see this city follow the example set by the county seat, and label the various streets so that it is possible to find them.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Seely Edsall, of Sandford avenue, has returned from a fishing expedition in the northern part of New Jersey.

Charles W. McCutchen and family, of Washington Park, will spend the summer in their cottage in the Adirondack mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Dunham have returned from their honeymoon and have taken up their residence on Arlington avenue.

Charles Sebring, of North Plainfield, who for some time past has been troubled with an eye affection, has recovered the sight of the eye.

Harry Page, of the Plainfield Street Railway Company, has been appointed an inspector, and he is kept busy looking after the cars on the various lines.

George Serrell, of Plainfield avenue, who was injured in a runaway accident a short time ago, is steadily improving and hopes to leave the hospital soon.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, July 3.—While dusting the top of a carriage Sunday, John Wood slipped from the wheel upon which he was standing and fell, striking on his left arm, facturing it. He was also badly bruised about the lower limbs.

The Borough Council held its regular meeting last evening and took up several matters of interest. The petition of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company was passed on its second and third reading. My little girl, eleven years old, has had all her life a very serious and stubborn constipation. I had given everything I could think of, and still once in about two or three weeks she would wake at night crying pitifully with pain, and for two or three hours would suffer intensely until finally relieved by frequent enemas. All this was very wearing. My brother insisted I should try Ripans Tabules and finally he got them for me. I tried them, giving her two every night for awhile, then two every other night, then she took them herself when she felt like it. It is now about three months since she has had any trouble, and her bowels are in a very healthy condition. Her color is good and she is gaining flesh. As I have given her no other medicine I ascribe her improved condition wholly to Ripans Tabules.

WANTED—A case of bad health that RIPANS will not benefit. They banish pain and restore life. One gives relief. Note the word RIPANS on the package, accept no substitute. RIPANS, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

in Dentistry is the best substitute for nature's work that can be done. Sound roots may be built up and crowned and thus fill up an unsightly space. It has to be made of a material that has strength and durability and one that will not discolor. Gold is the one that stands the test. That is the secret of the expense. But the advantages of a bridge over a plate are many times more than the cost of one compared to that of the other.

Americans Are Now the Stage Favorites Abroad

London Theatres Are Crowded to See the Attractions From This Side of the Water

WE HEAR right and left these days that blank millions of American dollars are to be poured into European coffers the coming summer by unpatriotic citizens of the United States. If the disgruntled ones would read their papers carefully they perhaps would feel Uncle Sam is still at his old tricks, still able to hold his own in a bargain. If the European landlords and tradesmen are reaping a harvest of American dollars, sons and daughters of the republic are making things even by their successes in the dramatic and art circles abroad.

London is in the hands of Americans. Look at the art galleries and the theaters. In the former, Mr. Sargent, the famous American artist, shows three remarkable pictures; one of a child, Hon. Victoria Stanley; a timely portrait of the distinguished officer, Maj. Gen. Ian Hamilton, in khaki uniform against a background formed by the union jack; and last, but most remarked, a group of three beautiful women, the daughters of Mr. Wyndham. In the theaters, as we have said, the Americans are well to the fore. Though "The American Beauty" has been sharply criticised by the London critics, a seat for it must be booked days in advance. In "The American Beauty," Miss Edna May scores a personal triumph, but the play will have to be revised before it will prove the success enjoyed by "The Belle of New York." The costumes in the new play are very beautiful, and Edna May is such a London fad, the Shaftesbury's doors are thronged night after night. The stage of two other theaters is occupied by American companies, and in the music halls nine out of ten of the artists are Americans. And, across the channel, who inaugurated the band playing for the Paris exposition? Who but our own Sousa?

It is thankless, uncertain work prophesying, and yet our enthusiasm prompts us to it. Long has the country waited for the great American drama, long for the gifted one that should possess the many and fine qualities needful for the task; and we wonder if the hour and the man be not with us now. Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, whose story of the French revolution, "The Adventures of Francois," is to be dramatized for production next season, has written in his "Hugh Wynne, Free Quaker," a tale that gives us a most vivid, accurate, dramatic picture of life in the days of our own revolution. There is the big, manly Hugh, the elder Wynne, a stern, uncompromising Quaker; the vivacious, lovable French Huguenot mother, the tory set, the brave dames, the swaggering redcoat, the determined American farmer-soldier, all the elements that brought about this glorious country of ours, and all put before us in real, living form. It is to be hoped the two Mitchells, the novelist father and the playwright son, will some day give us a stage production of Hugh Wynne. Langdon Mitchell, you remember, has won laurels this year by his dramatization of Vanity Fair into "Becky Sharp," produced by Mrs. Fiske.

Mrs. Fiske has just closed in Philadelphia the most successful season of her career. When it was given out to the public that Mrs. Fiske and Langdon Mitchell had had the temerity to attempt the staging of Thackeray's masterpiece, wise ones wagged their heads and said failure was sure to be the result. The two paid no attention to adverse comments, but went on with their work, and "Becky Sharp" has become one of the events of the season in the dramatic world; has been an artistic and financial success. With the exception of Holy week, "Becky Sharp" was played continuously for 35 weeks.

Comic opera has degenerated a long way since the day of the witty, dainty Gilbert and Sullivan affairs, and we are saddest now when we attend comic opera—unless it be at some house where old favorites are revived. The Bostonians have wisely put their classic "Robin Hood" on at the Knickerbocker theater in New York in place of "The Viceroy," which met with but a cold reception in the metropolis. The old airs, "Oh, Promise Me!" and "Brown October Ale" draw their faithful admirers. The feminine center of interest in the opera is Miss Maria Van Dresser, an acknowledged beauty. Beauty is its own excuse for being, and if Miss Van Dresser only appear on the stage and allow people to look at her, is all that need be asked. Alana-Dale is the part taken by Miss Van Dresser.

Mrs. Langtry says it is prejudice that has made her American tour less of a success than was expected—pro-Boer prejudice. If it be any comfort to the lady to think so, by all means let her have that consolation. She says everything went well, all was lovely, until, inspired by patriotic and disinterested motives, she began to recite "The Absent-Minded Beggar" for the benefit of Tommy Atkins. The audiences immediately became frosty, and later, when the hat was passed to gather up the gold, the temperature went down to below zero. Not only is the British soldier little benefited by Mrs. Langtry's season in America, but Mrs. Langtry herself is reported out of pocket. We wonder if it is all due to anti-English feeling. How have Irving and Terry profited here this year? Royal welcome and royal receipts from Boston to Omaha, from St. Louis to St. Paul, and a most urgent invitation to return next year. How have the English Kendalls fared? Met with sympathy and appreciation, immaterial and material, wherever they have gone. It would seem that real art has no country, no nationality.

MARCIA VAN DRESSER.

And it would seem that age cannot wither nor custom stale the true artist. Who would think that Ellen Terry's eyes have for over half a century looked on the doings of this great world; that Modjeska is a grandmother; that Mrs. Gilbert, who plays this season with Miss Annie Russell in "Miss Hobbs" is nine years beyond threescore-and-ten? The dear old lady belonged to Augustin Daly's celebrated New York company, with which company she had hoped to end her stage life. At Daly's sudden death the members were not only grief-stricken, but at a loss to know what to do; they had been so long allied with the Daly organization they knew not where to turn. Mrs. Gilbert, a mother to them all, cheered and heartened them up, encouraged everyone but herself, for whom she now foresaw nothing but retirement from the vocation of a lifetime. The others told her she would get another place, but she said no, no one would want an old woman of 79; that her day was past. Scarcely had the word been spoken when she received a letter from Charles Frohman offering her a permanent position in the Empire stock company in roles similar to those she had played when with Daly. Mrs. Gilbert is loved far and wide, considered the "first old woman" on the American stage.

A CONFIDENCE GAME.

Played by Congressmen to Deceive Ambitious Constituents.

They Use the Telephone to Explain the Insincerity of Their Letters —How the Little Scheme Is Worked.

[Special Washington Letter.]

SOMETHING new in the way of political treachery has just been discovered. It has been fairly presumed that everything had been written about the tricks and cute games of the politicians, but something new has been developed.

"I have an old friend in the central telephone station," said an office seeker the other evening. "She was a schoolmate of mine out in Indiana, and I called on her as soon as I came to Washington last February. She has given me lots of pointers on how to get into office, and she has never made any mistake yet. For example, when I went to her one evening, and showed a letter from a prominent and powerful senator, she said: 'Not worth the paper on which it is written.' This made me a little angry, but I soon found out that she was correct in her judgment. Here is a copy of the letter:

"'Mr. Secretary: I have known John Doe for 15 years. He is a man of good moral character. He is a good business man. He is respected by the community in which he has lived from his boyhood. He is competent for any position in your department, and is worthy of your kind consideration. Whatever he undertakes, he will do well and diligently. He is the soul of honor.'"

"Now my girl turned that letter down, and said it was no good. I did not see how the senator could write a stronger letter for me, and I told her so. I never had any man write such good things of me, and I was proud of the letter. My friend has lived in Washington for some time, although she is yet a young old maid, and she said: 'Your senator has not requested your appointment in that letter; and what you want is an appointment. The senator's letter is a mere lot of cheap phrases. When you hand it to the secretary, he will say to himself: "The senator wants to get rid of this fellow without offending him." Consequently your letter will do you no good whatever. You ought to go back to the senator and tell him that you want a letter requesting your appointment, and urging that it be made.'

"Then I saw that she was right, and that the senator had played me for an innocent. I once saw a play in which a character sought an appointment as minister to Dahomey for many months, and finally discovered that there was no such office in existence. He had been made a fool of by his congressman. I did not want to be put in the same class of fools. On the following morning I went to the senator, thanked him for the letter, but returned it, and told him that I wanted a letter requesting my appointment. The senator evidently divined that I had been well advised. He smiled and said that he would write any kind of a letter that I desired. Then he wrote a letter saying: 'I sincerely and earnestly desire the appointment of this most worthy young man.'

"Then I knew I was all right. I took that letter, handed it to the secretary, and he cordially assured me that I should be appointed to the first vacancy, saying: 'When your senator makes such a strong request as this, I must try to do something to accommodate him. It may take several weeks to find a vacancy, but you shall have the very first that occurs.'

"That evening I called on my girl friend, and showed her a copy of the letter, and proudly told her that it was simply a question of a little time when I would be appointed. She surprised me by saying: 'The senator does not want you appointed, and you are wasting time staying here. You have no show whatever.'

"That made me angry again. I told her that I was surprised to find her so lacking in confidence in human nature. I told her that the senator's manner indicated that he was thoroughly in earnest, and that his letter contained no uncertain sound. She surprised me again by saying:

"'I have a friend in that department who has been watching the telephone for me, in your interest, for several days. She says that this morning, about 11 o'clock, your senator telephoned the secretary, saying: "I have been obliged to give a strong letter to one John Doe, but you need not pay any attention to it."'

This is something new in the way of political treachery. The telephone is being used for ulterior purposes. Letters remain on file. Telegrams remain on file. But the sound of the voice on the telephone is lost forever, and there is no means of proving that there has been double dealing done. Letters and telegrams may look well and read well, but they are of no value to an office seeker when a senator or representative is intending to mislead him. The telephone does the ulterior work. "Put not your trust in princes."

One of the old ways of fooling office seekers, which is still effectively employed, is for a senator or representative to call on a cabinet officer in the company of one who seeks an appointment, and say: "Mr. Secretary, I called this morning to talk over that business matter of which you wrote me, but first let me introduce Richard Roe, a young man from my district who seeks an appointment in your department. I wrote you a letter, but feel that I ought to tell you in person that I want this appointment made as soon as possible."

The secretary shakes hands with the young man, writes his name on a memorandum sheet, and assures him that he shall be appointed to the first vacancy. The young man goes merrily away, treading on air, and stepping from star to star. He leaves his congressman behind him to "talk over that business matter." But there is no business matter on hand at all. As soon as the young man has departed, the congressman says: "Mr. Secretary, I was obliged to make a showing before that young fellow. His father and friends support me in my district, but really I don't want him appointed. I want Jim Jones appointed, because he does me more good."

"YOU SHALL HAVE THE FIRST VACANCY."

What do you think of that? Does it jar your exalted ideas concerning the statesmen of this republic? Does it make you suspect that all politicians are knaves? Does it make you suppose that your own congressman and your own senators are of the same caliber, and that they could not be trusted to deal fairly with you or with your kindred?

All men are not alike, and fortunately all politicians are not of that character. But a majority of them do just those things day after day and year after year. They lead dual lives. They wear the mask of hail-fellow-well-met, cordially greeting everybody with smiles and handshakes, but they are thinking only of their own interests from daylight until sunset. The majority of them are just as described, but there is a respectable minority of statesmen who maintain their self-respect by dealing honestly and fairly with all men. Those who do so remain longest in public life. Sooner or later the people find the quality of their representatives, and when they find them wanting they retire them to private life. That is one reason that the membership of the national house of representatives is changed in such degree every two years. In 1898 almost 100 out of 356 members were defeated for nomination or election. It is expected that there will be more than 100 changes this year. This exemplifies the theory of the survival of the fittest.

No man who deceives his people ought to be reelected. No man who willfully and purposely misleads aspiring young men deserves public place. They deserve defeat who "speak the words of promise to the ear, and break them on the heart." They deserve to learn the true meaning of the almost inspired words of Shakespeare: "It is not in our stars, but in ourselves, that we are underlings." When they have been defeated and live in obscurity, they will learn that all men succeed or fail in life, as they deserve. They cannot "burden the back of Aries, Leo or Taurus with their own faults; nor make Saturn, Mars or Venus guilty of their follies."

When the congressmen leave Washington and return to their constituents they find men in every county who want government positions for themselves or for some member of their families. The congressmen immediately begin to denounce the civil service law, and say that no places can be had on account of that law. When their office-seeking constituents ask for the repeal of the law they are answered: "Down in Washington the members are too cowardly to vote to repeal that law. I have tried hard to induce them to do it, and shall continue to do so."

When, as a matter of fact, the congressmen have not tried to repeal that law, have not voted for its repeal, do not intend to so vote. That law keeps people out of office, and is a good excuse for congressmen to use when they are at home. Lying, cunning, deceit and treachery are the weapons most used by the politicians.

These statements of fact should prove of value to those readers who have aspirations for federal office, because far away from this capital city the people would not suppose that duplicity could be so rampant, or that deceit would cause resort to such despicable trickery. One word more: Never come to Washington after an office. Wait until your congressman secures and sends a commission to you. Remain where you have a roof over your head and food to eat, and don't come here to expend your time, energy and little hoard chasing a will o' the wisp.

COSTLY UMBRELLAS.

A Great Variety of Them, Ranging in Price Up to Hundreds of Dollars Each.

You can buy an umbrella for 50 cents or you may pay $50 or a great deal more for one if you wish to. In one retail stock in the city the umbrellas range in price from $5 up to hundreds of dollars apiece. Here for $3 may be bought a silk umbrella with a natural wood handle. Umbrellas of this sort for men and women range in price up to $12.50. Above that price the value of the umbrella depends upon the mountings, which are made of many materials and in very great variety. Some of them are comparatively inexpensive and some very costly, says the New York Sun.

Of the more costly umbrellas some are made for men's use, the greater number of them for women's use. There are, of course, handles in many forms of gold and silver, and these at all sorts of prices—$15, $20, $25 and $30, and on up. For instance, one mounting with gold top might cost $24; mountings of gold or silver enamel might cost $19. One gold mounting with platinum ornamentation cost $70. In fact, umbrellas with mountings of gold or silver may be bought in one form and another at practically any price. A man's umbrella with a handle of stained ivory, carved, is valued at $50. Another umbrella with a Malacca handle and mounting of silver and stained ivory costs $34.

A woman's umbrella, the handle mounted with gold and enamel and set with a large garnet, costs $150. The price of one mounted with a head of gold set with a large amethyst is $340. The amethyst in this handle is set in a rim of gold which is hinged on one side and held down by a spring catch on the other. The end of the gold handle is hollowed out, forming a box of which the amethyst serves as the lid, in which might be carried bon-bons, or whatever else might be desired.

Umbrella mountings are now made in very considerable variety of gun metal and many of these heads are set with diamonds. A gun-metal umbrella handle may be in the form of a little ball, or globe, with a belt formed of a single line of small diamonds running around it, this belt encircling the globe in some cases in a horizontal line and in others diagonally. Some of these gun-metal heads are sprinkled over with diamonds, more or less closely set, these diamonds being sometimes of uniform size, and sometimes of different sizes. Sometimes the diamonds are set in the metal in some sort of design; as a little horseshoe made of tiny diamonds, this being the handle's only ornament. Gun-metal mountings are made in various other shapes as well as in the spherical form. It might seem that a diamond-studded umbrella handle would be a very elaborate-appearing affair, but as a matter of fact many of them are at once simple and beautiful. Umbrellas with gun-metal mountings, most of them, if not all, with some sort of diamond ornamentation, sell from $14.50 to $240 each.

There are umbrellas with handles of rock crystal, cut in various forms; there are mountings of jade; there are mountings in whole or in part of various fine minerals; there are mountings of rhinoceros horn; and the combinations of materials used are many. Here, for example, is an umbrella mounting that presents a handle of shark skin and gold, with a sapphire in the end of it, this umbrella costing $275; here is an umbrella with a handle of jade, with diamond and amethyst ornamentation, price $165; and here with a Malacca stick, mounted with stained ivory and jade with a band of Russian enamel, for $62.

Whatever their means may be, not very many people pay more than $30 for an umbrella for ordinary use; by far the greater number of those sold at higher prices are bought to give away. The sale of these costly umbrellas is of course comparatively limited, but they are in demand, and they may be found in stock in mountings of hundreds of varieties, with new things all the time being added.

JAPANESE TOY FROG.

An Amusing Device for Children That May Be Readily Made Out of Paper.

The little folks in Japan make some very interesting paper toys, and none is more interesting than the frog manufactured out of green paper, says an eastern exchange. First cut a piece of paper into a square much larger than you expect the frog to be. Draw lines from the four corners of the square and from the middle of the sides. First fold the paper along the diagonal lines, then turn it over on the other side and fold it along the lines from the sides. It will then form a kind of box which can be pressed together along the folds in the shape of an unequal diamond. Now seizing the paper below the ends of the cones, fold it backward so as to have two more regular points. When this has been done to each of the eight cones the result will be a perfect diamond with a smaller diamond in the center. Then each one of the cones must be folded again so as to get all the points around the center. Care must be taken to get the points as even and equal as possible.

To finish the frog turn the upper points out so that they spread and form the forelegs, and the lower points so that they form the hind legs. When it is finished a fine thread may be attached to the frog's body, and by careful jerks it almost seems to leap around on the floor or table. The paper used should be stiff enough to retain the folds as given to it, but not so brittle as to break under the handling. Do not be discouraged if the first frog you make is lame, for then it is certain that the points have not been folded evenly.

taxes for 1899, on property formerly owned by the Washington Life Insurance Company, but now owned by her. Regarding the petition of H. E. Gayle for an appointment of the assessment for the macadamizing of West Third street, Mr. vanHerwerden stated that Mr. Gayle's claim was defective and could not be allowed. The same Councilman also reported on the petition of Dr. James Hayes, who paid tax assessments for the years 1878-1879-1880 under protest. It was stated on the authority of Corporation Council Marsh that Dr. Hayes is not entitled to any rebate as there is a lack of evidence that it was not due, and the Council would have no right to make a rebate.

A resolution offered by Mr. vanHerwerden provided for the enforcement of the law which compels the payment of all kinds of taxes, and where the delinquent does not pay he can be arrested and placed in jail. This also includes personal and poll tax, and directs the collector to issue the necessary warrants. Another resolution by the same member provided for the appropriation of $100 for the care of the gravel pit dump, and another resolution provided for the transfer of $1,200 from the general fund to the sewer fund.

Other resolutions by Mr. vanHerwerden provided for the retirement of a $4,000 street improvement bond to date of payment, and that the city treasurer be authorized to meet sewer note of $2,240 which is due July 29th. Still another resolution by the same Councilman authorized the borrowing of $12,500 for the general fund and $10,700 for the fire fund, in anticipation of the collection of taxes.

Mr. Tolles, chairman of the street committee, stated that the trolley tracks had been changed satisfactorily on Arlington avenue, between Fourth and Fifth streets, and that the asked-for culvert at Seventh street had been installed. He also stated that the street committee had been considering block asphalt for Park avenue, but had decided that a heavy macadam pavement would be just as good and it would save considerable expense. The macadam pavement will therefore be laid.

Mr. Coriell rehearsed briefly the recent accident to the hook and ladder truck belonging to the fire department. He stated that he was on the scene of the accident soon after it occurred, and had a conversation with Mr. Vail the driver, whom he considers is a very careful man. Mr. Coriell did not consider Mr. Vail blameworthy. He said that he had given Chief Doane strict orders that in the future the hook and ladder truck is to turn corners carefully and that the horses must at all times be under the best of control possible.

Mr. Tolles recommended the placing of one electric light on Watchung avenue, between Front street and the brook, and another on Compton avenue, between Front street and Dunellen avenue, as petitioned for.

Mr. Lee presented a set of rules for the government of the management of the City Industrial Home.

This concluded the routine business of the evening, and before Council adjourned, a motion was made that another meeting be held next week Monday evening.

SPORTING.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

The bicycle races will start promptly tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock on the track at the Plainfield Driving Club, and the horses racing at 2 o'clock sharp. Persons desiring to attend can take the Arlington avenue trolley to Park avenue, where stages will be waiting to convey them to the track for a five cent fare each way.

Preparations are being made for a meet to be held at Robert A. Fairbairn's stock farm and track, Westfield, July 14th, at which time trotting horses with records which time trotting horses with records will get together and make the dust fly on the beautiful half-mile track. Horses will go from Metuchen, this city, Woodbridge and other places. The event is being looked forward to with much interest by the owners of proud horseflesh.

GOLF

The golf team match scheduled for last week between the women's team from the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club and the team from the Essex County Country Club did not take place, as the Hillside team could not muster enough players to engage in the contest.

No Books Tomorrow.

WHAT'S TO HAPPEN HERE ON THE FOURTH

No Public Celebration of Independence Day to be Held in Plainfield.

BIG TIME AT DRIVING PARK.

PARK GOLF CLUB WILL ENTERTAIN MEMBERS OF HILLSIDE CLUB.

Other Events of Lesser Importance for Golfers—Park Club Will Have Fireworks and Dance—Big Time at Dunellen and Bound Brook.

Just at present the small boy is in a state of disquietude. The time is only a few hours away when it will be proper and patriotic to make as much noise as possible. Already the strain is beginning to tell and some of the youthful ones have succumbed to the temptation to just try one or two fire crackers to see how they sound. The small boys promises to be just as much in evidence this year as before but for public celebrations of Independence Day, there will be none in Plainfield and vicinity tomorrow. Aside from these little individual efforts, the day will be a quiet one in Plainfield.

The leading happening of the day will be the trotting and bicycle meet of the Plainfield Driving Club at its track at Avon Park. Fuller details of that affair will be found in another column.

For the golfers of the city, the day will be comparatively quiet. The chief event will be at the Park Golf Club course in the afternoon when the Park Golf Club will entertain the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. This exchange of courtesies between the two clubs has been an annual feature. At the Park Club links in the morning, there will be a ball sweepstakes for members. At the Hillside Club course a Bogey handicap will be held. A handicap competition, open to the members of both clubs, will be held on the Park Club course in the afternoon. A banner will go to the club, the member of which wins the event. There will be social features of the entertainment of the Hillside club.

At Bound Brook tomorrow afternoon the Washington Camp Ground Association will hold its usual celebration. There will be an oration by Rev. Wm. L. Voorhees, of Trenton. The exercises begin at 3 o'clock. In the evening an exhibition of fireworks is planned.

At Garwood a carnival of sports will be held by the proprietor of one of the hotels during the afternoon. Boynton Beach expects a big crowd for the Fourth.

A celebration will be held at Dunellen by W. G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., with games in the afternoon and fireworks in the evening. A balloon ascension will be one of the features.

There will be no public exhibition in Plainfield tomorrow evening. The Park Club has planned its usual good time with fireworks and a dance for the benefit of its members and friends. The affair will be on invitation.

The Hotel Netherwood will attract many during the evening, when there will be dancing. No formal event has been arranged, however.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

Miss Harriet Shipman and Clinton de la M Cary Married in Presence of Relatives.

Miss Harriet Shipman and Clinton de la Montayne Cary, of New York, were married last night at the residence of the bride's cousin, Louis Drake, 410 Grant avenue, in the presence of a large number of guests. The bride wore a gown of white, and she was accompanied by her brother, who was best man. Catherine Drake was a flower girl, and Earl Shipman acted as page. The marriage was performed by Rev. A. A. Phelps, of this city. After a wedding supper and congratulations, Mr. and Mrs. Cary departed for a wedding tour. Among the presents received was a Steinway piano from the groom's grandmother.

Publicly Installed.

The officers-elect of Howell Division, No. 97, Sons of Temperance, were publicly installed last evening in the presence of a large number of friends and members. The features of the evening were the addresses by Worthy Patriarch J. P. Murray and Rev. Mr. McMurray, of this city. After the installation a collation was enjoyed.

PORTO RICANS IN BATTLE.

They Are Great Fighters and Are Capable of Defending Their Island.

An old corporal's standard of conduct for soldiers is sometimes quite different from that applied by the rest of the world. To him the principal virtue of a soldier is obedience; he is to obey first, and be brave afterward. A story told by Gen. Roy Stone, U. S. V., who was in Porto Rico during Gen. Miles' invasion of the island, and was afterward a member of the Porto Rico commission, illustrates this distinction, says Youth's Companion.

Gen. Stone undertook a raid toward the northern part of the island. At first his campaign partook of the nature of comic opera. It began with the capture of a large town supposed to be defended by Spanish volunteers. Gen. Stone's force consisting of a signalman, three soldiers and six war correspondents, heavily armed, all traveling in carriages buried in flowers. Farther on the work became more serious, and the places of the correspondents, who had to go back with dispatches, were taken by a company of Wisconsin volunteers and some regular cavalry.

Near Lares Gen. Stone was joined by a detachment of 75 native Porto Rican mounted riflemen. These were sent, under an old corporal of United States cavalry, to alarm the Spanish at Lares, and then to join Gen. Stone's command at Arecibo.

They did their work well, but somewhat too promptly, and the next morning marched straight into Arecibo by the unguarded Lares road. Finding no Americans there, but Spaniards instead, they marched quickly out on the Utuado road before the Spaniards could form to attack them.

On that road they found a strong Spanish outpost, and taking it by surprise and in the rear, scattered it into the cane-fields after a skirmish.

On arriving at Utuado the corporal reported his exploit somewhat sheepishly and shamefacedly. His command had failed in obedience, and his plan of battle had not been carried out.

"How did the Porto Ricans behave in the presence of the Spanish?" asked Gen. Stone.

"Shamefully, sir, shamefully!" answered the corporal. "No discipline at all. They disobeyed my orders to hold back, rushed straight at the enemy and cut off my fire!"

Subsequently these impetuous Porto Ricans, who, perhaps, did not understand the corporal's English any too well, were used as the nucleus of the Porto Rican battalion which was organized by United States officers, and which has proved so excellent a corps that orders have been issued for the organization of another similar battalion.

Gen. Stone says that if the Porto Ricans had resisted the Americans, instead of assisting them, there would have been very great difficulty in conquering the island; and that, if the United States should be engaged in a foreign war, we may, if we treat them with justice, depend almost entirely on the people of Porto Rico for the defense of that island.

CASK IS NEVER EMPTY.

"The Bride in the Cellar" in European Wine Districts Is Always Kept Full.

All really excellent champagne is the result of judicious blending. Time was when each big vineyard owner had his own cellar and his own brand. But it has been found advantageous to sell the raw wine to dealers, who make one district supply what another lacks, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

But there are still a few provincial establishments that cling to the old ways—crowning with a wreath of flowers the first tubful of ripe grapes, and keeping "the bride in the cellar" full from year to year.

The bride, be it understood, is a special wine cask, filled with the first running of the press. More accurately, it holds the juice which drips away before any pressure is applied. Wine from it is never sold, but used upon high days and holidays, passed about as a gift, or devoted to the comfort of the sick and the poor.

Something akin to the bride exists in the German free cities. Each of them has a wine cellar, and in each cellar there is a cask always yielding wine, but never empty.

Any burgher is entitled to demand a bottle of its contents when he marries, when his first son is christened, and also when the son is 21. If the son is adventurous, or the burgher himself, for that matter, he gets another bottle from the cask when he comes home from far countries.

But there is an official specially charged to see that whenever a bottleful is drawn out another bottleful of as near as possible the same quality at once goes in. And thus it happens that the city cask is never empty.

A Crown Factory.

Birmingham, England, is the only place in which manufacturing crowns is an industry that may be said to flourish. The trade is principally with Africa, where the numerous kings have come to regard a crown as a far more elegant emblem of royalty than the stopepipe hat which they formerly affected. A serviceable crown, gaudily decorated, with imitation precious stones, may be purchased for quite a small sum.

CHEERFUL TO THE LAST.

JAMES E. BAILEY, DRIVER OF CHIEF DOANE'S WAGON, DIED LAST NIGHT

Has Long Been Failing, So the End was Not Unexpected—Family and Friends Were at Bedside.

Surrounded by his family and a few intimate friends James E. Bailey passed quietly and peacefully away at his home on Watchung avenue shortly after 9 o'clock last evening. He had been gradually sinking for the past few days and his death was not unexpected. Although he had not been in the best of health for the past year, he bore up wonderfully and made no complaint, until about two weeks ago when he was forced to give up and take to his bed, suffering from a complication of diseases. He was cheerful to the last.

Mr. Bailey was born in North Plainfield in 1866. He always lived in this vicinity and received his education in the city public schools. Soon after reaching his majority he engaged in the trucking business, and, at one time, was the principal truckman in the city. Ill health compelled him to give up the business in 1896. In the same year he received an appointment in the city fire department which he held at the time of his death. He always drove Chief Doane's wagon and was noted for his careful driving and excellent work.

With his fellow drivers he was held in the highest esteem. Besides a wife and four children, he is survived by his mother.

Out of respect to his memory the fire department buildings will be draped for thirty days. The funeral services will be held from his late residence, Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. They will be conducted by Rev. C. E Herring.

MARTINE FOR SILVER PLANK

Majority of Jersey Delegation Are Opposed to His Views.

HOT WORDS PASSED.

CONGRESSMAN DALY ON RESOLUTIONS COMMITTEE

Daly, Gourley, Cornish and Others Favor Hill—Martine and Manning are for Sulzer.

Kansas City, July 5—There is trouble in the New Jersey delegation to the Democratic National convention and the "Farmer Orator," James E. Martine, is in the thickest of it. It is the question as to whether or not the platform is to contain a free silver plank in addition to a reaffirmation of the platform of 1896, and incidentally whether David B. Hill, of New York, is going to be nominated for Vice President.

Congressman Daly, Wm. B. Gourley, Johnston Cornish and others of the Jersey leaders fell into line for Hill as soon as they arrived. Mr. Martine has been fighting against Hill, claiming that his nomination would not be good politics or honest conduct to Democracy.

Mr. Martine had a lively tiff with Daly, Cornish, Gourley and Meaney in the convention hall yesterday afternoon during the Hill demonstration and some hot words passed between them. Martine was called a "lunatic on silver," but would not give in.

The great majority of the Jersey delegation will follow the lead of Daly and Cornish and favor Hill, of New York, as Vice-President. Martine and a few others of the delegation, including James J. Manning, of Elizabeth, will support Sulzer. This trouble has caused the two factions in the State delegation to hold aloof from each other and the feeling has developed considerable bitterness.

On the way out there was some talk about putting Mr. Martine on the committee on resolutions, but as soon as the fight over the platform began to develop there was much opposition to his name, as he is known to be an enthusiastic supporter of free silver and not likely to favor a modified platform.

So it was decided to put Congressmen Daly on the committee on resolutions and present the "Farmer Orator's" name for the committee on rules where his free silver proclivities would not come into play. The other convention honors for the Jersey delegation were divided as follows: Permanent Organization, Thomas Ferrell; credentials, F. M. McDermott; vice-president, J. S. Salmon; secretary, Addison Ely; notification to candidates, George Pfeiffer, Jr., and David Carter; caucus secretary, Samuel Iredell; sergeant-at-arms, Harry H. Postall.

The Jersey delegation arrived here Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock after a long, hot and tiresome journey. They were quartered at Victoria Hotel, right across the street from the post office, which is convenient as the gilded dome of the building has served to guide wandering Jerseyites back to their Kansas City home.

Much of the time, not spent in the convention hall, is being devoted to sight seeing. Kansas City is built on the "checker-board" plan, somewhat like Philadelphia, and as soon as the Jerseymen learned the general idea of its arrangements, they have had no trouble in finding their way around.

The convention hall has proved to be cool and well appointed. The Jersey delegates have seats to the left of the speaker's platform, sandwiched in between Massachusetts and Georgia where they are likely to be in the thick of any trouble that may come.

At the meeting of the committee on

EXPENSIVE FUN FOR SOME CELEBRATORS

Aftermath of the Celebration of Independence Day in Plainfield Yesterday.

FINGERS & FACES BURNED.

CANNON, REVOLVERS AND GIANT CRACKERS WERE RESPONSIBLE.

No Fatalities Reported But There was the Usual Batch of Accidents and Small Fires Reported Throughout the City.

The Fourth of July is over. Much gunpowder and some people were burned. A few thunder storms wandered this way and threatened to interrupt the day's enjoyment. They didn't last long, however, and Independence Day passed off very successfully without any very serious accident to mar the pleasure. The thermometer was rather unkind as it marked 94 degrees in the shade at noon, the hottest weather of the season. The rain brought the mercury down on a run but it warmed up again later in the afternoon and was much too warm for all practical purposes.

There were some accidents, of course. It wouldn't be the Fourth if a few fingers were not blown off and a few youthful faces filled with gunpowder. The bursting fireworks did other damage and managed to start several small conflagrations.

The first accident case, as a result of the Fourth, to be received at Muhlenberg Hospital, was that of John Barry, aged 18 years, of 551 South Second street, who arrived at the hospital at 6 o'clock yesterday morning. John had been shooting a good-sized cannon and after one discharge of the piece the cannon rebounded and struck him in the ankle, cutting a deep gash and breaking one of the tendons. The injury is not a serious one, but will detain Barry for several days.

The awning in front of McVey's Hotel caught fire from a flying spark yesterday morning, and before the blaze was discovered it had set fire to the woodwork of the building. It was seen just in time by several men, who extinguished the blaze with pails of water, but not before the awning was destroyed. A second loss was sustained by the hotel last evening when a large plate glass was demolished by the flying pieces from a box which had been placed over a giant cracker on North avenue. Another piece from the same box crashed through a glass in the door of Tony Lusardi's fruit store.

A large piece of wadding from a fire cracker flew through the door of Joseph Carbone's store on North avenue and struck the proprietor in the face. Several long cuts and a swollen lip was the result.

Howard Drake, of North avenue, was not quite quick enough for a giant fire cracker which he touched off yesterday afternoon. The fuse was rather short and before he could draw back, the cracker exploded full in his face with disastrous results. One side of his face was badly cut and filled with powder. His right hand was also terribly burned and gashed. Dr. J. B. Probasco, who attended to his injuries, declared that if he had been a little nearer the entire side of his face would have been blown off. As it is his injuries will confine him to the house for some time.

John McClellan, of Watchung avenue, began his celebration of the Fourth a little prematurely. A cannon with which John was celebrating did a little premature act of its own. John had already fired the cannon several times Tuesday evening and was again reloading it when the charge exploaded in his hands. Fortunately for him the loading was not completed, but as it was his right hand was badly torn and filled with powder. Four of his fingers were almost blown off. He hurried to Dr. Browning who dressed his injuries. With careful treatment the fingers can be saved.

A pistol exploded in the hands of Augustus Nash, of Prospect avenue, and one of his hands was badly burned. One of his fingers was cut by the wadding from the shell.

Addison Hoffman, of Jackson avenue, had his ankle badly cut yesterday afternoon by a large fire cracker which rebounded and struck him. He was able to go home without assistance.

Donald Muldowney, of West Third street, was badly burned on the hand by the discharge of a pistol.

As William Watts was walking down West Front street, Tuesday night, some one threw a large fire-cracker which exploded directly in HILLSIDE CLUB WON JOINT GOLF EVENT.

Members of Hillside Club Entertained by Park Golf Club Yesterday Afternoon.

L. H. VAN BUREN LOW MAN.

KICKER'S SWEEPSTAKES HELD DURING THE MORNING.

W. J. R. Thiers was the Best Guesser and Made the Lucky Score Without the Aid of Any Handicap—Reception in the Afternoon.

Even the hottest weather of the season and a stray thunder storm or two failed to deter the golfers of the Park Golf Club yesterday. Two competitions were held on the Park Golf Club course, a "kicker's" sweepstakes in the morning and a handicap competition, open to members of both local clubs, in the afternoon, and each brought out a fair number of players. In the afternoon the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club was entertained by the Park Golf Club, and a reception was held at the clubhouse for the guests.

The morning event was a "kicker's tournament," each player giving a new ball on entering. All the players were at liberty to select their own handicaps, and the one coming nearest to a score, between 90 and 100, to be decided by lot, was to be the winner. Everybody was guessing as a result. There were twenty starters and fourteen cards were turned in. The score drawn was 93. W. J. R. Thiers was given first prize, 50 per cent. of the golf balls, making 93 without any handicap. H. D. Hibbard received second prize, 30 per cent., making 93 with the aid of 18 handicap. William R. Faber was awarded 20 per cent. for third prize, making 92 with 20 handicap, the smallest handicap of any of those one stroke from the winning score.

The scores were as follows:

	Gross.	Hand.	Net.
Edgar I. Serrell	98	7	91
William R. Faber	112	20	92
Charles B. Morse	122	30	92
Samuel Townsend	137	45	92
William J. R. Thiers	93	0	93
Henry D. Hibbard	111	18	93
Charles A. Reed	119	25	94
Herbert Rogers	131	37	94
Philip S. Suffren	154	60	94
Frank K. Rogers	150	55	95
C. E. Faber	136	40	96
Joseph H. Howell	133	35	98
George T. Rogers	122	25	97
H. C. Wells	126	28	98

A bright young thunder storm appeared early in the afternoon instead of the Hillside players. The storm departed in time, however, to allow the joint competition to start at 3 o'clock. It kept many of the Hillside people away, however, so that club was not as largely represented as it might otherwise have been. It was a handicap event, eighteen holes, medal play.

The chief interest was centered in the meeting of the crack players of the two clubs. The event was won by a "dark horse," Laurens H. VanBuren, of the Hillside Club, who made 82 net with the aid of 27 handicap. It was his first game on the Park Club course, but he managed to keep out of trouble very cleverly.

The best golf of the day was shown by Willard Wadsworth, of the Hillside Club. He played with Morgan T. Townsend, of the Park Club. Townsend was way off his usual game, failing to do better than 51 and 54. Wadsworth made his first in 44 and his second in 43. His detailed score follows:

Wadsworth, out. 5 5 3 4 5 5 6 3 8—44
in. 4 5 5 4 5 5 6 4 5—43—87

W. L. Glenney, of the Hillside Club, and Fred P. Taylor, of the home club, were paired together. At the end of the first round they were both 45 and Taylor was one up. In the second round Taylor fell behind, making the round in 49 to Glenney's 45. Glenney was then two up. Glenney made a 90 and Taylor a 94.

The prize was a handsome silk banner, which went to the club represented by the winner.

The scores were as follows:

FOURTH AT WESTFIELD.

Baseball and Tennis Tournament Were Chief Happenings of the Day at Westfield.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, July 5.—Although there were no races and serenades, as was the former custom, Westfield's Fourth of July was celebrated in an enthusiastic manner and all the old time spirit displayed.

In the morning at Recreation Park the Westfield Rough Riders played off a tie with Clark O. N. T's of Newark. The game was very interesting from start to finish the O. N. T's winning in the tenth inning. The score was 8 to 3.

In the afternoon the Rough Riders took a brace and easily defeated the Roselle Field Club by the score of 9 to 3.

The tennis tournament on the Westfield Club courts also proved to be a great centre of attraction and some very interesting games were played. The first prize was won by Thomas Smith and the second by Royal Phillips, both of Plainfield.

In the evening an informal dance was held in the club hall in which many of the players and their friends participated.

Fireworks were displayed from many of the residences during the evening.

FIREMEN FEASTED.

Call Men of No. 3 Hose Company Hold a Dinner at the West End House Thursday Night.

The call men of No. 3 Hose Company of the Plainfield fire department gave a dinner, Tuesday night to about a dozen friends, at the fire house on West Fourth street. While the cannon and crackers roared and boomed outside, within was a scene of jollification.

During the disposal of the good things which had been prepared, calls for toasts were responded to in a very able manner by Charles Hall, John Cose and John Evans. Howard Manning was master of ceremonies and it was due to his careful management that the affair proved such a decided success.

CIRCUS COMING.

Hargreaves' Big Show Will Appear Here Today and Tomorrow.

The small boy is happy. Hargreaves' circus, one of the largest and best shows of its kind now on the road, is billed to appear in Plainfield tonight and tomorrow.

Mr. Hargreaves is well known throughout the country as an experienced showman. Among his troupe are some of the most skillful acrobats in the world.

The show has been enthusiastically received in all the larger towns of the State, and its appearance in Plainfield is looked forward to with much pleasure and enthusiasm.

Fire Protection in the Borough.

Fire protection in the borough did not cost the taxpayers as much this year as formerly. At Warren Engine Company house there were eighteen men employed to be on duty and they were divided into three shifts, each shift being on duty ten hours. At West End Company house twelve men were employed in three shifts. The Borough Council appropriated $75 for this protection over the Fourth, but it is not believed that that amount will be wholly expended.

GETTING READY FOR NEW HIGH SCHOOL.

Walter Cook, of New York, Engaged as Consulting Architect by Board of Education.

HE WILL SUPERVISE BIDS.

COMPETITION FOR PLANS WILL BE OPEN TO ALL.

Regular Meeting of Plainfield Board of Education Held Tuesday Evening—Other Routine Business Was Transacted.

Less than half an hour sufficed to transact the business of the Plainfield Board of Education at their regular monthly meeting held Tuesday night. When the meeting was called to order after a short executive session the chairs of Mr. Richards and Mr. Lowell were vacant.

The usual number of bills were read and ordered paid. Mr. Lounsbury reported $345 received from Superintendent Maxson for tuition fees which had been deposited to the credit of the Board. The tax collector's report showed $602 43 received for taxes which had been deposited.

Medical Inspectors Tomlinson and Murray reported sixty pupils examined in the last quarter. They also spoke of the recent small pox epidemic in other places and recommended that the Board adopt a rule making it necessary to have all pupils vaccinated before being placed on the rolls. By a recent law the Board has a right to reject all children not vaccinated, unless they have a certificate from a doctor, stating that they are not fit subjects for vaccination. After some discussion on the subject the report was ordered placed on file.

A communication was read from Miss Carrie B. Runyon, who resigned as principal of the Stillman grammar school, thanking the Board for their resolutions and kindness to her.

Walker & Morris, architects, of New York, asked to be allowed to file plans for the proposed new high school. The request was filed. It was decided to engage Walter Cook, of New York, as consulting architect and to take charge of the competition in preparation, of the high school plans, and also to assist the Board in making a proper selection. It was further decided to throw the competition open to all architects whose credentials proved acceptable. No futher business coming before the Board, the meeting was adjourned.

YESTERDAY'S RACES DELAYED BY RAIN

Independence Day Programme of Plainfield Driving Club Was But Partially Completed.

BICYCLE RACES WERE HELD.

PETER SIMMONDS, OF THIS CITY, WON BOTH CYCLING RACES.

Three Heats Trotted in 2:30 Class and Two in 2:18 Class But Neither Were Finished—Will be Continued Today.

On account of the sudden shower which occurred early yesterday afternoon, the race meet of the Plainfield Driving Club was not quite the decided success it should have been. A large number of those who would have attended had the afternoon remained clear, stayed away. But for all that a large and enthusiastic crowd was in attendance and the management was well satisfied with the patronage.

On account of the delay caused by the rain, the racing was not commenced until late, consequently none of the trotting events were finished. The events were scheduled to begin at 1:30 o'clock, but it was nearly two hours later before the first heat of the 2:30 class finished.

There were three trotting contests on the programme, for the 2:18, 2:30 and 2:10 classes. There were three heats given in the 2:30 class, two heats in the 2:18, while the 2:40 class was not reached at all. The uncompleted races will be finished this afternoon.

The different heats were very exciting, especially at the finish. Following is the summary of the heats given:

2:30 CLASS, TROT OR PACE. PURSE $200.

C. C. Brower's "Albert L"	1	1	7*
R. A. Fairburn's "Miss Brock"	2	3	2

Woodbrook Farm's "Barney Williams	4	4	1
A. I. Smalley's "Belle"	5	5	4
J. Taylor's "Nancy T"	6	6	3
C. S. Thomas' "Bessie Wilkes"	7	7	6
J. B. Brown's "Teddy Wilkes"	8	8	8

Time—2:30½; 2:27½; 2:32½.

*Disqualified.

2:18 CLASS, TROT OR PACE. PURSE $200.

Plainview Farm's "Arpansa"	1	1
A. C. Vail's "Rover B"	2	4
Thomas Dunn's Elizabeth D"	3	3
A. J. Brantingham's "Myrtle Twig"	4	2
William G. Demzer's "Prince H"	5	5

Time—2:25½; 2:25.

The track was already in a poor condition on account of the rain and was made still worse by the trotting heats which were held first. In spite of this, however, very good time was made in the bicycle races. There were two bicycle races, a mile open and a five mile handicap. The finishes were as follows: One mile open, first heat, Hugh McKinnon, first; E. R. Lindabury, second; Joseph Burke, third. Time, 2:39 1-2. Second heat, Charles Dodd, first; Peter Simmons, second; Charles Sigler, third. Time, 2:41 1-2. Final heat, Peter Simmonds, first; Joseph Burke, second; Charles Sigler, third. Time 2:30 1-4.

There were fifteen riders in the five mile handicap, which was won in 13:56 by Peter Simmonds, with Charles Vandervender second, Michael Coffey, third and Louis Max, fourth. The tug of war between two teams from the foundry and machine shops of the Pond Tool Works, was won by the former, who secured two out of three heats.

An event not down on the programme was a slack wire performance given by Michael Burke, of this city, which was loudly applauded by the audience. The remainder of the trotting heats are being given this afternoon.

DUNELLEN'S FUN.

W. T. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., Was in Charge of Celebration at Dunellen Yesterday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, July 5—Dunellen was filled with visitors from surrounding towns all day yesterday, who had come to witness the Junior's great celebration which was held in Central Park. The grounds were thronged with pleasure-seekers and the different amusements were well patronized.

A balloon ascension was scheduled to take place, but the æreonaut failed to make his appearance. Of the races, the bicycle was the most interesting. There were three riders started and it was won by Fred Giddis. There were two foot races, both of which were won by Daniel Richardson. In the potato race there were five men. Alfred Osmun was the winner.

It was the intention to have had a patriotic oration delivered, but they were unable to secure a suitable speaker. Dancing was indulged in during the evening, music for which was furnished by Naylor's Orchestra. A display of fireworks was also a feature of the evening.

MAY DROP 16 TO 1 PLANK

Committee Decided Early This Morning to Add the Silver Clause.

IS RECONSIDERING IT.

VOTE IN FAVOR OF SILVER PLANK WAS 26 to 24.

Another Meeting May Decide Unanimously Against It—Jersey Delegates Caucussed.

Kansas City, July 5.—The morning has brought important changes in the situation at the Democratic National convention. The committee on resolutions was in session nearly all night and decided at 3:30 o'clock this morning to report in favor of a platform that will contain a 16 to 1 free coinage plank. The decision was reached on a vote of twenty-six to twenty-four. That meant that Col. Bryan's wishes were to be followed.

Another meeting of the committee on resolutions is being held. Since the first decision was made great pressure has been brought to bear. Eastern leaders have declared that the report, if endorsed by the convention, would surely lose many of the eastern States that might otherwise be carried.

Another meeting of the committee was called and the vote of the early morning may be reconsidered and the committee decide unanimously not to mention the 16 to 1 clause. There is great excitement over the result.

The convention was called to order this morning at 11 o'clock. The convention hall was packed. Governor Hogg, of Texas, spoke advocating the omission of the 16 to 1 free silver plank and the sentiment was loudly applauded.

The Jersey delegation caucussed this morning at the Hotel Victoria and unanimously decided to support in the convention the minority report re-affirming simply the Chicago platform against the majority report declaring specificly for 16 to 1 free coinage of silver. As a result a long debate and much pressure, Mr. Martine agreed to that action without opposition.

Most of the Jerseymen wanted to endorse New York's candidate for the Vice-Presidency, Keller, but Mr. Martine would not agree to any such action. He will vote for Congressman Sulze.

If the Vice-President is nominated today, the Jersey delegation will cast individual votes for various candidates. Mr. Martine will not vote for Hill or Stephenson either.

If the minority platform is not approved by Bryan the Jersey delegation will hold another caucus during the day to decide what finally to do. They will probably decide to act as the Presidental candidate desires.

DEMOCRATS MEET

Great Enthusiasm at the Kansas City Convention.

BRYAN DEMONSTRATION

Governor Thomas of Colorado Temporary Chairman.

A WARM GREETING FOR HILL.

Three Sessions Held, but the Expected Nomination of Bryan Fails Because Platform is Not Ready. Richardson of Tennessee the Permanent Chairman—Stevenson In the Lead For Second Place.

KANSAS CITY, July 5.—Amid scenes of tumultuous enthusiasm befitting such an event and such a day the Democratic national convention began its sessions yesterday. But after sitting until a late hour at night the expected climax of the day—the nomination of William J. Bryan as the Democratic candidate for president—has failed of realization, and all of the larger business of the convention awaits the completion of the platform. As a spectacular event, however, the convention has fulfilled the hopes of the most fervid party man, for the vast assemblage of delegates and spectators has twice been swept with whirlwind demonstrations, first for the leader who is about to be placed in nomination, and then for that other champion of Democracy, David B. Hill. But in actual accomplishment the day's work is confined to organization, with the speeches of the temporary chairman, Governor Thomas of Colorado, and of the permanent chairman, Hon. James D. Richardson; the appointment of the various committees and the detailed preparations for the more serious work yet in store.

It was an inspiring scene that Chairman Jones looked out upon when at noon, after beating a tattoo with his gavel, he stilled the tumult and declared the convention open. About him were fully 25,000 people, rising tier on tier, like the spectators in some vast coliseum, awaiting the appearance of the alternates of the party, while on either side stretched away the rows of desks accommodating representatives of the press from every section of the country. Above and on all sides was a gorgeous sunburst of color, huge flags in rosettes and graceful fan shapes, bunting looped and in long streamers, mottoes and coats of arms of many states mingling this overhanging spread of color with the bright summer hats and dresses of the many women present. But it was clearly not a gathering alone of wealth and fashion. The bronzed faces of many of the men, their coarse shirts, collarless and scarfless, marked them as from the soil. With hardly an exception they took off their coats and sat shirt sleeved. Many of the women were in cambrics and ginghams rather than in summer silks and laces, and the gorgeous costumes and picture hats were in an oasis of duller hue. It was a gathering none the less inspired with the patriotic spirit of the day.

It took some time to secure quiet. The first business of the convention was the reading of the formal call by Secretary Walsh.

Chairman Jones now announced the prayer by Rev. S. W. Neel. When the prayer was offered, the convention and spectators rose at the request of Chairman Jones.

"Gentlemen will please be in order," said Chairman Jones as the human bustle again broke loose after the prayer. "We must have quiet on the floor. Gentlemen of the convention, I have the honor to present to you the Democratic mayor of Kansas City, James A. Reed."

A shout of applause went up as the slender form of Mr. Reed came to the front of the platform. He spoke deliberately and with a clear, resonant voice that easily penetrated to every corner of the hall.

A yell of applause greeted his announcement that the convention was gathered on Democratic soil and as the guests of a Democratic constituency that had always been in the forefront of political fights of the country.

When he declared that in the name of that Democracy he bade the visiting delegations welcome and prophesied certain victory at the polls in November, he was interrupted by loud cheers, and the applause when he finished was loud and long.

Senator Hill entered as Mayor Reed was closing, and the applause turned to him. "Hill of New York!" "Hill!" "Hill!" they shouted. But it was noticed that the New York delegation did not respond to the enthusiasm. The crowd continued to yell for "Hill!" "Let's hear Hill!" until the chairman finally rapped them to order. A few minutes later they renewed the call, but the audience was impatient to get on with the proceedings and showed their disapproval with hisses.

When finally the chairman was able to make his voice heard, he introduced Governor Thomas of Colorado, the temporary chairman.

Governor Charles S. Thomas, the temporary chairman, in calling the assemblage to order, said in part:

We meet under most auspicious influences. On the nation's birthday, in a great central city of the republic, at the close and opening of a century, we come together to reaffirm our allegiance to the principles of Thomas Jefferson and our loyalty to their greatest living exponent. We have been selected by the farmer and artisan, the miner and the mechanic, the producers of wealth in every state and territory of this mighty nation, to register a decree they have already determined, to proclaim a candidate they have already chosen. We come not with pomp and circumstance of consolidated wealth, but as the delegates of the plain people who believe that all men were created equal and that all governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed. We are not here as the representatives of the vast interests which dominate our industrial life, but as the champions of the individual citizen who stands helpless in their presence.

We speak not for those who would pivot the finances of the world upon a single metal, supplementing its inadequacy by a paper currency issued by a private monopoly at the expense of the people, but for the millions who believe in the money of the constitution and in the ability of their countrymen to legislate for themselves without the previous permission of foreign parliaments, potentates or princes.

We are in very truth the party of the people. Our declaration of faith and purpose, given to the world four years ago, has been strengthened by the passage of years and is enshrined today in our hearts and hopes. It marked an epoch in political history and symbolized the regeneration of the party whose birth was coeval with the birth of the Union, whose death that Union cannot long survive. It crystallized into an undying creed the precepts to our founders, reaffirmed the objects of Democratic organization and proclaimed democracy to be no longer a name, but "a great spirit and a living heart."

The party in power carried the last election by and through the support of the influences we now criticise. Having purchased the right to pursue their various objects, the government has at all times been their powerful ally. Hence the onward march of organized wealth to absolute power and the exaltation of the dollar above the rights and the welfare of the multitude. Hence the crisis in our commercial affairs, whose issue presented in acute form to the voters of 1900 is that of industrial despotism as against the liberty of the citizen.

Democracy wages no war against wealth. Under her beneficent rule its creation and amassment have ever been among the most worthy objects of human effort. The desire for material comfort and well being is the very mainspring of progress. The wealth that comes as the reward of honest industry and thrift commands and must receive the encouragement and protection of all. But the wealth that comes through partnership with the government, which usurps its prerogatives and perverts its agencies, which absorbs the resources and blasts the opportunities of the individual, crushes competition, levies tribute on the producer and consumer, corrupts and poisons all branches of official life and reduces the citizen to dependency upon its will, excites our just apprehension.

Modern monopoly is the offspring of the Republican party. It is the genius of organized commercialism. It has neither conscience, sentiment nor patriotism. It knows neither justice nor morality. Its inspiration is greed and its purpose accumulation. Corruption is its necessary instrument. No public service is too high, none too low, to escape its influences. Its hand is on the throat and in the pocket of every human being in the nation. It sneers at the rights of man and defies the sovereignty of states. It regulates wages and the prices of life's necessities. It divides the territory of the Union into commercial provinces, punishes integrity and rewards the unscrupulous.

It is marching to despotism under the canopy of the republic. It is the enemy of Democracy, which has accepted its gage of battle. Either the trust or the government must disappear.

The conditions of the ensuing war sent Admiral Dewey to the distant Philippines, where another people engaged in the same struggle with the same oppressor appealed to the same impulses of our nature. There he broke the power of Spain, which, suing for peace, submitted to the liberation of Cuba and the cession of Porto Rico. Our government disdained the spirit of its manifesto of April and became the purchaser of the Philippines in January. Since then we have given Cuba the benefit of our civic institutions by governing her through the war department. We have kept faith with Porto Rico by substituting the sugar baron for the Castilian duke and confirmed the Philippine estimate of the white man by prolonging the Spaniard's method of colonial government in those islands of the far off seas.

We have cheerfully submitted to a burdensome taxation that Cuba might be free, that Porto Rico might enjoy the heritage of our constitution. We have consecrated our sons to the cause of liberty and sent them freely forth to extinguish the last vestige of despotism in our hemisphere. We protest against payment of tribute or the devotion of life to the cause of empire. We will emulate monarchy neither in conquest nor in government.

We would have no colonial system. Its pestilent brood has already hatched in the Havana postoffice and has grown apace for months in distant Manila. It is the fruitful mother of oppression and maladministration. It has no place in the economy of a republic. It cannot live in the atmosphere of freedom.

We believe in that expansion which under Democratic rule brought half the continent as a galaxy of commonwealths into the Union. We denounce that expansion which by contrast overcomes the people of another hemisphere under the pretext of giving them liberty, which governs them by force, which denies to them the rights of citizens, which subjects the American workman to the competition of hordes of orientals coming hither from so called American provinces to take his place at the forge, in the mine and the factory.

Referring to the recent financial legislation the speaker said:

Against this iniquitous scheme of finance Democracy protests. We will have no money system founded upon the public debt and dictated by those who hold it. We stand for the gold and silver of the constitution, for a paper currency founded upon them and issued by the government as the embodiment of our sovereignty. We will not tax the people for the maintenance of a private money system. We would pay and not perpetuate our public debt. We will dig our metals from the hills and open our mints to their coinage. We will pay no tributes to Cæsar for that which is our own. We will scourge the money changers from the temple of our treasury and reconsecrate it to the service and welfare of the common people.

Had the concurrent coinage and circulation of the two metals been uninterrupted, they would have kept the quantity of our money of redemption in harmony with our national growth and our development apace with the increase of wealth and population. The terrible crises of the past quarter of a century, with their attendant miseries and bankruptcy, would have been avoided, and prosperity would have remained with us, unbroken and enduring.

The false plea of 1896, that the monetary volume was sufficient and the world supply of gold ample for its needs, is now transparent. Its error is admitted in the boast of our opponents that they have increased our per capita circulation. The vast quantities yielded by the mines are readily absorbed by the ceaseless demand for its use, and its multiplied increase is earnestly hoped for.

If the enormous gold yield of the past five years were indefinitely prolonged and the areas of the gold standard were not extended, the needs of bimetallism would be relatively inconsequent. But the production of gold and silver oscillates, one or the other always preponderating. The pendulum will swing again to the other extreme.

We would relieve the people of the burden of taxation. If administrative authority is to be credited, the Spanish-American conflict ended 18 months ago. The same authority assures us with every moon that the Philippine insurrection is over. The treasury is bursting with a plethoric revenue, millions whereof are deposited with favorite banks which lend it to the people on their own terms, that the volume of circulation may not suffer diminution. Notwithstanding these conditions, there is no surcease of taxation.

We would build the Nicaraguan canal as an American enterprise for the American people. We would operate it in times of peace and control it in times of war. We would fortify it notwithstanding the protests or the objections of transatlantic powers. We would share the benefits and responsibilities of its management with no associates. We would concede its advantages in times of peace to other nations under terms and conditions of our own prescription and deny to them and to all of them any other identification with its affairs.

We would form political alliances with no countries whatever. We neither need nor desire them. For a century and a quarter we have survived the envies and the enmities of Europe.

We would have for our chief magistrate a man sprung from the loins of the people, rock ribbed in his convictions and controlled by the admonitions of his conscience; a man of lofty ideals and steadfast courage; a man to whom his country's constitution appeals as a living and sacred reality; a man who exalts the duties, the rights and the welfare of his fellow citizens above the sinister and corroding influences of centralized commercialism; a man whose ear is attuned to the pulsations of the pocketbook but responsive to the heart throb of the masses; a man with no Warwick behind his chair, with politics that are his own; a man conscious of his country's dignity and power, of its capacity to cope with all conditions; a man who measures the greatness of the republic by the protection it gives to the humblest citizen; a man whose clear vision perceives the causes and with steady judgment to determine the remedy for the public ills.

The Republican party boasts of almost unbroken rule for nearly 40 years. Its mission was to defeat the extension of slavery and destroy that institution. It appealed to the moral forces of the republic and founded its organization upon the principles of the Declaration of Independence. It was triumphant. A great war waged under its administration effaced slavery from the land and forever determined the integrity of the Union. Since then it has undergone complete and marvelous change.

There was a time when it put its trust in the people. Since then it has put the people to its trusts. There was a time when its standards were lofty and ennobling. Its only standard now is Standard Oil. There was a time when its ideals shone forth like precious gems through the dust and heat of party strife. Its ideals now are the party machine and the party campaign fund. Its battle cry years ago was "Freedom and Union." If due credit be given to one of its modern leaders, its motto for 1900 is "Gold and Glory." It is a far cry from the ringing tocsin of 1860 to the buccaneer refrain of 1900, yet it well typifies the shameful transformation.

The convention took a recess at 2:19 p. m. until 4 p. m., without having effected permanent organization.

The convention reassembled at 4:43 in the afternoon, and then adjourned until 8 p. m.

NIGHT SESSION.

The scene presented at the night session of the convention was one of brilliancy and beauty. The vast auditorium was splendidly illuminated by great arc lights that gleamed from dizzy heights about the hall like huge stars. The color scheme presented among the innumerable lights was of unsurpassed beauty. From every available point in the immense steel superstructure festoons of the national colors were fluttering gayly in the delightful breeze that swept through the hall from the south, tempering pleasantly the heat of the night.

At 8:33 Chairman Thomas rapped the convention to order, although considerably less than two-thirds of the delegates had arrived. There was considerable expectancy over the arrival of Senator Hill, but he failed to put in an appearance.

Pounding vigorously with his gavel and his efforts in this direction being ably supplemented by Sergeant-at-Arms Martin, who rapped a table so hard that he winced at every blow as though it had landed on his own fingers, Chairman Thomas at last succeeded in reducing the convention to such a state of quietude that his voice could be heard 100 feet away.

"The convention will now come to order," he shouted with a violence that threatened an apoplectic seizure, "and, pending the coming reports of the committees, the convention will listen to an address from ex-Governor Altgeld of Illinois!"

There was still too much confusion for the name of the speaker to be intelligible at any distance, and there was only a mild ripple of applause as Governor Altgeld mounted the rostrum. Again by the vigorous use of his gavel Chairman Thomas gained largely upon the noise, and then he again commenced:

"The convention will now be addressed by ex-Governor Altgeld of Illinois."

This time his voice carried, and the announcement was greeted with applause.

Just as Governor Altgeld began to speak the tall form of Congressman Sulzer came stalking through the aisle. It was his first appearance upon the floor, and, although the recipient of no applause, he was cordially greeted by many of the delegates as he passed them.

The report of the committee on credentials seating Mark Cohn and P. E. McCabe in the New York delegation, the Clark delegation in Montana and giving one-half a vote to each delegation in Oklahoma was read and a minority report dissenting from the decision in the Oklahoma case presented. There was some objection made by Murray Vandever of Maryland to the committee taking no action in the District of Columbia case. After some desultory debate the chair put the motion to adopt the committee's report.

The report of the committee was then adopted as presented without further debate.

Chairman Thomas then called for the report of the committee on permanent organization. When it was announced that Judge Richardson of Tennessee had been selected as chairman, cheers swept over the great auditorium.

It was further recommended that the temporary secretary, assistant secretaries, sergeant-at-arms, reading clerks, special officers and medical officers be made the permanent officers of the convention.

Chairman Thomas, after the adoption of the report without debate, appointed a committee consisting of former Governor McCreary of Kentucky, Daniel Campau of Michigan and Mayor Phelan of San Francisco to escort the permanent chairman to the platform.

Mr. Richardson repeatedly bowed his acknowledgments of the cheers that swept in wave after wave through the hall.

The first token of approval given to his address was that which greeted his first mention of 16 to 1. The applause, however, was rather feeble and scattering. His mention of the name of W. J. Bryan brought the convention to its feet in a frenzy of enthusiasm. Delegates sprang upon their chairs, waving hats, handkerchiefs and umbrellas in the wildest fashion. By a common impulse the poles bearing the names of the states were torn up and thrust into the air. Then down the aisles toward the speaker's desk came groups of delegates surrounding one man who held the name of the state aloft. It was 30 minutes before the hall became quiet. The address of Chairman Richardson was given a much better hearing than any that had preceded it. His arraignment of the failure of the Republican party to establish bimetallism and the creation instead of a single gold standard was received with manifestations of hearty approval.

The conclusion of Chairman Richardson's speech, which he had arranged under 16 separate heads, was the signal for terrific applause and cheers.

The convention then adjourned.

THE VICE PRESIDENCY.

Very little that is tangible has developed in the vice presidential situation, although the Stevenson candidacy apparently met with favor, and there seemed to be a possibility of this being the solution of the question.

The demonstration made over Hill in the convention was taken by some to mean that the convention would be stampeded for Hill, but Hill does not think so, and it is possible that if he makes a speech on the platform he will make it plain that he could not be a candidate on a Bryan platform. He says emphatically that he will not be nominated.

Two other booms remain in much the same condition they were Tuesday. Both Towne and Sulzer are in the race, though the convention does not seem inclined to favor them. The Towne men claim they have the support of Bryan and that if 16 to 1 is put in the platform their man will be the logical candidate.

The New York men say that the action for John W. Keller is earnest and that they will try and secure his nomination. The vice presidency is in doubt, with a leaning toward Stevenson.

THE PLATFORM.

The contest over the question of the monetary ratio which has been brewing ever since the delegates to the convention began to assemble found expression in the committee on resolutions when it assembled yesterday. The committee was called together soon after the first adjournment of the convention, but then only elected its officers, adjourning to meet again at 3:30 p. m. Senator Jones of Arkansas was unanimously chosen chairman and Mr. Metcalf of Nebraska secretary.

When the committee reassembled, Mr. Metcalf presented the draft of a platform covering all questions of public interest, which draft all the members accepted as Mr. Bryan's expression upon these questions. Mr. Girard of Georgia also presented a platform, as did Mr. Van Wyck of New York. All these documents took practically the same ground upon all questions.

The committee on resolutions reassembled at 8:30 p. m. Chairman Jones said there were likely to be two reports. "We might as well take it into the convention and save time," he remarked, "as it will be fought out there."

A FATAL PLUNGE.

Thirty-five People Killed In Trolley Car Accident.

TACOMA, July 5.—Thirty-five men, women and children were killed and 18 were injured, nine probably fatally, in the wrecking of a trolley car on the outskirts of Tacoma yesterday.

Happy excursionists, 104 of them, boarded a trolley car at Edison, a suburb, at 8:30 o'clock. They were en route to this city to view the civic parade.

The car bowled along at a good speed. Where the tracks turned from Delin street the car suddenly lurched and left the rails.

The motorman was powerless to check its speed. A gulch 120 feet deep yawned below. Only a slight rail of wood ran along the edge of the precipice. This was shattered like a reed. Frantic screams filled the air as the panic stricken passengers were borne to certain death.

Half way down the side of the gulch projecting rocks stopped the car for a moment. Such was the force of the impact that its timbers were wrenched apart, and those inside were crushed into a mass of flesh and blood.

When the car struck the bottom of the gulch, only those in the center of the car were alive.

The bodies of the dead were shockingly mangled.

FILIPINO PLANS FAIL.

Insurgents Boast That Peace Is Not Far Off.

MANILA, July 5.—The Filipino convention has failed, and, although the insurgents still boast that they will succeed, everything points to the fact peace is not far off.

Senor Paterno's plans all gradually fizzled. Factions arose between the military men and the former members of Aguinaldo's so called cabinet, and some of the delegates left Manila. The tendency seems to be in the nature of a desire for individual advancement. The military men are especially anxious to obtain jobs.

Many of the leaders, however, still think they have a chance for independence. They base their hopes, first, on Bryan's election, and, second, on possible insurgent successes during the rainy season, when it is supposed the Americans will be weakened by the withdrawal of troops for service in China. For this reason they advocate further resistance.

Warzerburg, Bavaria, was visited by a hurricane yesterday which destroyed a large building and killed six persons. A hurricane did great damage in the vicinity of Elberfeld, especially at Cronenberg and Ohligs. Several lives were lost. In the vicinity of Cassel cloudbursts destroyed the harvests and drowned several persons and a large number of cattle. Lightning struck 18 laborers in Krojanten, near Konitz, and also struck and killed a whole family.

Celebration In Santiago.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, July 5.—The celebration here during the last two days of the anniversary of the great naval battle of July 3, 1898, was similar to that of last year. An American party went to the Spanish wrecks in an excursion tug, fired salutes and burned fireworks. At night the Spaniards celebrated the event with a special mass for the repose of the souls of Admiral Cervera's sailors and marines. It was attended by the foreign consuls and American officers. The occasion was very solemn. There was a general celebration of the Fourth yesterday.

Oil Tanks Struck by Lightning.

BAYONNE, N. J., July 5.—The Standard Oil works were struck by lightning just after midnight. Five tanks were ablaze. The entire Bayonne fire department was called out, but nobody dared go near the tanks, as they were exploding right along. No estimate of the amount of damage has been received.

CANNOT GO TO PEKING

Allied Force Too Small to Cope With Chinese Hordes.

BARELY ABLE TO HOLD TIEN-TSIN.

Admiral Seymour Wounded—Natives Guilty of Horrible Cruelty—Army of Half a Million Needed to Subdue Northern China.

LONDON, July 5.—The commanders of the allies in Tien-tsin inform the correspondents that it would be suicide to attempt to reach Peking with the troops now available in the face of the colossal force of imperial troops and Boxers occupying the country between Tien-tsin and Peking. So far from taking the offensive, the 12,000 international troops at Tien-tsin and the 8,000 others at Taku and intermediate points can barely keep up communications, fighting incessantly with overwhelming numbers using far more numerous artillery pieces than the allies.

This telegram has been received from Shanghai, dated July 4, via Chefu:

"Tien-tsin city fell between 7 and 8 o'clock on the evening of June 30."

It is understood that Shanghai undoubtedly referred to the native city of Tien-tsin, from which the Chinese have been bombarding the foreign quarter, and the dispatch is taken to mean that the allies are more than holding their own.

Other advices received by way of Shanghai aver that the Chinese losses around Tien-tsin are between 7,000 and 8,000, according to official estimates.

The correspondent of The Express at Chefu, telegraphing Wednesday, says Admiral Seymour was wounded while sitting in a house at Tien-tsin by Chinese sharpshooters.

Official news received at Chefu shows that the Chinese have been guilty of horrible cruelty toward the wounded and captured, subjecting them to what is known as ling-che, or the slicing process. Under this hideous rite the bodies of the fallen have been mutilated. The Russians are retaliating by the wholesale shooting of natives.

The situation, according to The Express correspondent, shows signs of drifting into barbarism and savagery. Revolting stories are told of barbarities practiced upon Japanese and European prisoners captured on the way to Peking, though it was not known before that Admiral Seymour lost any prisoners. The Chinese troops marching toward Tientsin, the Chinese say, left behind them trails of rapine, fire and blood. Native women were ravished and children cut in two.

Direct tidings from Peking end with the dispatch sent by Sir Robert Hart on June 25.

According to roundabout reports, it is asserted by the Chinese that Prince Tuan is personally directing the assault upon the legations. He conferred honors and gave large sums of money and other presents to the leaders of the Boxers and the commanders of the troops who drove back Admiral Seymour and also gave money to every soldier taking part in the operation.

An edict of Prince Tuan has reached Shanghai ordering the southern viceroys to assemble the vessels of the Chinese fleet and to attack the warships at Shanghai.

Japan is reported to be landing an army at Peetaughs, to the northward of Taku. The Japanese generals are believed to be about to move toward Peking, following the plan previously formulated.

Europeans and Americans resident in Shanghai are quite in a panic over what is viewed as the inadequate military preparations of the powers.

A dispatch to The Express from Shanghai says that according to the best military estimates 500,000 men will be necessary to subjugate northern China, and even then it will take two or three years. The forces of the Chinese empire have gathered such motion that even Japan's full strength, launched now, would be unequal to the task of restoring order.

Taotai Sheng of Shanghai issued a proclamation on Wednesday which practically forbids foreign warships approaching the Yang-tze Kiang, saying that if they do so the Chinese authorities will not hold themselves responsible for the consequences. It is considered that the Chinese officials are preparing a way to evade responsibility if an outbreak occurs. Even Li Hung Chang is suspected. The foreigners are simply aghast at the extent of the Chinese armaments which have been systematically accumulated.

The consensus of opinion among military and naval authorities is that it will require at least 50,000 men to rescue the Europeans in Peking. The allies will have to hold Taku in strength, and the occupation of strategic points on the railway to Tien-tsin will be most difficult. Tien-tsin itself is none too strongly held.

Among the edicts received at Shanghai on June 23 were orders for the foreign ministers to leave Peking within 24 hours. The legations were to be sealed up and the flagstaffs cut down.

Another edict issued on June 22 announces that Prince Tuan and Kang-Yi are the supreme chiefs of the Ihochund, the Chinese name for the Boxers.

ALL FOREIGNERS DEAD.

Chinese Servants Who Escaped From Peking So Report.

SHANGHAI, July 5.—Three Chinese servants of foreigners have, it is rumored from a good source, escaped from Peking.

They report that all the foreigners, about 1,000 in number, including 400 soldiers, 100 members of the Chinese customs staff and a number of women and children, held out till their ammunition was exhausted in the British legation.

The legation was finally burned, and all the foreigners were killed.

It is reported that Emperor Kwangsu and Dowager Empress Tsze-Hsi An have been poisoned.

Democratic Convention.

The National convention of the Democrats at Kansas City is now fairly under way. This Democratic gathering stands by itself, as did the Republican National convention last month, in having only one candidate for the first place on the national ticket. As at the Republican convention the choice of the Vice-Presidental candidate is so uncertain that it will probably not be decided until the delegates assemble in the convention hall.

The platform adopted will make a great difference as to who the second name on the ticket is to be. The chief difference of opinion in the convention has turned on this question of platform. The silver plank with a formal indorsement of the 16 to 1 theory is the bone of contention about which the Democratic politicians are struggling in quite a lively fashion.

Bryan, the Presidential candidate to be, is firm in his wish that the Democratic platform shall contain a plank reaffirming the party's allegiance to 16 to 1 free silver. The eastern Democrats, led by David B. Hill, of New York, ask that there be simply a plank declaring the party's allegiance to the Chicago platform of 1896, without special reference to the silver question. The silver advocates declare that the latter course would show an inclination to throw the currency question to the background and dodge the 16 to 1 issue. The conservative element of the party say that the prominent renewal of the free silver plank will drive away the so-called "gold" Democrats who are beginning to return to the fold through the eastern States.

It looks at present as if the Nebraskan would dominate the convention and that his wishes in regard to the platform would be followed. If such is the case To wne, the silver Republican candidate for Vice President, is likely to be placed on the Democratic ticket.

Brunswick's Example.

An attempt in New Brunswick, similar to the one in this city, of an offshoot of the State Telephone Company to secure a franchise to establish an exchange and run its wires through the city streets was defeated at the New Brunswick Council meeting Monday evening. The application was refused by a unanimous vote.

The application for a franchise had been referred to a committee for consideration and the report of that committee was presented at the meeting. According to the New Brunswick Times, the chief argument advanced against the granting of the franchise was that the Brunswick Telephone Company, as the new concern is called, was not in combination with companies in certain cities as had been claimed. The committee reported the receipt of letters from John D. Blair, president of the Hudson Telephone Company, of Jersey City, and President Gwinwell, of the Newark Telephone Company, stating that they had no arrangements with the State Telephone Company, which is the parent organization of both the Brunswick and the Plainfield companies, for an exchange of service.

The application of the Plainfield Telephone Company is still in the hands of the street committee of the Common Council and will probably be reported on in the near future.

Regarding the Filipinos.

The report of the British Consul at Manila contains some statements that are interesting to every American citizen. Judging from the context of the report, the Englishman does not take the same view of the situation there that many of the Filipino sympathizers of this country are inclined to. In fact, his report may rather shock them.

Speaking of Manila, the Consul says: "Improvements are visible in every direction and already the town has quite a different appearance from last year," and adds that Manila "may become a great commercial power in these waters before the first quarter of the century is passed."

Concerning the Filipinos themselves, he says: "They make excellent clerks if they can be well overlooked; but if allowed, they will spend their time in gambling and cock-fighting. They have no idea in putting energy into any of their pursuits, and have no commercial instincts; they also care little for money, loss or gain being to them apparently a matter of indifference."

The days of the mule in the State of Ohio are fast departing. That State has just issued a decree providing that the long-eared beast shall relinquish his position on the towpath to the trolley wire. Hereafter it will be electricity and not mule power that will rule. If Ohio's experiment proves a success other States are likely to follow its example, and it may not be many years before the mule on the towpath will only exist in history. Such is the march of progress.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Politicians who are looking around for a Democratic candidate to contest the 7th District with Congressman Fowler a month ago sighted ex Senator Frederick C. Marsh, of Elizabeth, and James E. Martine, of Plainfield, in the distance. Since then they have come no nearer, nor are they likely to. The probability is strong that neither of them cares any more for the nomination than he did two years ago, when either could have had it without opposition. Mr. Fowler's plurality in 1898 was 4,352, which for an "off year" was surprising in a district which in 1892 elected John Dunn, a Democrat, without much exertion.—New York Tribune.

The city of Elizabeth purposes to imitate Camden in deriving its water supply from driven wells. The Elizabethtown Water Company, of which United States Senator Kean is president, has purchased a large tract of land in which it is proposed to sink a hundred artesian wells, which are calcufated to give 15,000,000 gallons of pure water daily. The work of drilling the wells has already commenced. When completed this will give Elizabeth the most copious and one of the best water supplies in the State. Since Camden commenced the use of artesian water the cases of typhoid, which were very numerous and malignant while the city took its water from the Delaware River, have practically ceased.—New York Herald.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The trolley car conductors are not the only ones who suffer on account of the rules of the company, but their fellow workmen, the motormen, also have a grievance. On every car there is placed a long iron rod which is used for turning switches. It is only a common ordinary rod, but despite that fact every motorman is charged a dollar for its safe keeping. A number of them have been lost or stolen at various times with the result that the unlucky loser forfeited the money. To prevent further losses the men carry the rods home with them, giving the belated citizens in the West End the impression that the car crews are afraid of midnight prowlers and carry the rods for safe keeping.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, July 5.—Although yesterday's storm was quite severe in the borough no serious damage has as yet been reported. The top of the merry go-round at Central Park was blown off and badly torn. A number of trees and fences were blown down in the outlying districts, but the town escaped with a steady downpour of rain.

The barn dance given by A. F. Warden Tuesday night was a decided success in every way. A large number were present from Dunellen and vicinity and a good time was had by all. Dancing was the feature of the evening and was kept up until a late hour by the young people.

Probably the first citizen of the borough to have corn from his garden this year is W. H. Cole, who picked several ears for dinner yesterday. It was planted and raised by Robert Johnson, who is quite proud of his achievement.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hoffman entertained relatives from High Bridge and Bound Brook yesterday.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

New Market, July 5.—While shoeing a horse belonging to Dr. C. R. Thiers, of Plainfield, Tuesday, Foster Sofield received a rather serious injury to the little finger of his right hand. The animal reared, throwing Sofield to the floor and before he could arise the horses hoof landed on the hand, but fortunately the finger was all that was caught. It was badly crushed but not broken. Sofield hurried to Dr. Whitford who dressed the injured member which is now healing nicely.

The Fourth was passed very quietly in New Market, most of the citizens being at Dunellen or Plainfield. So far as could be learned there were no serious accidents from exploding fireworks.

Miss Jennie Schenck has recovered from her recent illness and is now able to be about the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Marsh spent yesterday with the former's parents at Plainfield.

Miss Agnes Downing, of New York, is spending a few days with Mrs. Elliott.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Scotch Plains, July 5.—The local nine met and defeated the baseball team from Pond's Tool Works in an exciting game of ball played on the diamond in the rear of the school yesterday morning. Pond's led for 5 innings by a score of 4 to 1, but in the fifth the local team began to hit the ball and were soon in the lead. Seven innings were played and the result was Scotch Plains, 7; Pond's, 4. In the afternoon the local club played a one-sided game with a New York team. Scotch Plains won by the score 25 to 8.

Quite a large number of the trap shooters attended the clay pigeon shoot held near the mountains yesterday afternoon. No prizes were offered, but a number of very good scores were made and a fine time was enjoyed by all.

Independence Day was passed very nicely in town. There was the usual din and noise of the firecracker and cartridge, but fortunately there was no serious accident or fires resulting from the day's sport.

L. A. Goodnough, formerly principal of the Scotch Plains school, but now in charge of one of the Jersey City schools, has been visiting friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Merritt and children, of Summit, spent the Fourth with Mrs. Merritt's mother, Mrs. Ann Dobbins.

Horace Hand, of Plainfield, was the guest of his grandmother, Mrs. Jacob V. Coles, yesterday.

The Board of Education held a regular meeting in the school parlors Tuesday evening

A large number from town attended the celebration held at Dunellen yesterday.

St. Mary's Lost Baseball Game.

The St. Mary's baseball team was to have played two games yesterday with the Mystic Stars, of Paterson, but owing to the shower, only the morning game was played. The St. Mary's lost by a score of 13 to 7. The battery for the St. Mary's was Montroses and Keene; and for the Mystics, Somerdila and Dietwritch. The game was played on the Washington avenue grounds.

To Join Honeyman Tourists.

Superintendent W. J. Wightman, of the borough schools, has arranged to accompany A. V. D. Honeyman and his party of tourists on the trip abroad which starts from New York Thursday, July 12th. Mr. Wightman will look after the interests of the party from New York to Geneva, where Mr. Honeyman will be met. The party will sail on the steamer Barbarossa.

Were to Sail on the Bremen.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schwed, of Fairview avenue, intended sailing for Europe last Tuesday, but owing to the fact that the steamer "Bremen," on which they were to sail, was burned last Saturday, they deferred sailing until next Saturday, when they will sail on the "Lahn" of the North German Lloyd line at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Large Accession.

At the communion service at the First Presbyterian church on Sunday morning, an addition to the membership of the church was made of thirteen persons, seven on confession and six by letter. At the First M. E. church there were three persons received into the membership of that church.

NEW ELECTRIC COMBINE.

LOCAL COMPANY AMONG THOSE ABSORBED.

It is Understood That the Main Power Station will be Located at Metuchen.

A new electric light company has absorbed the electric light companies of this city, Perth Amboy, Rahway, Metuchen and Bound Brook. It will do business under the name of the Central Electric Company.

The object of this latest deal is to take in all the electric plants in Central New Jersey, just as the United Electric Company has already corralled the electric plants of Northern New Jersey.

The Central Company's officers are: President, Philip N. Jackson; vice-president, Adrian Riker; treasurer, Uzal M. Carter; directors, Philip N. Jackson, L. D. H. Gilmour, Dudley Farrand, Uzal M. Carter, Adrian Riker.

It is expected that the Central will ultimately be swallowed up by the larger company the United Electric.

It has been generally understood that the buying of these several electric plants some time ago was for the purpose of forming a combination such as has been effected. The matter was practically settled when the purchase was made and the forming of this orgranization makes the legal end of the deal complete.

The power for the electric lights at Metuchen and Highland Park has been supplied for some time by the Perth Amboy power house.

Recently Herbert Richardson, the superintentent of the Middlesex Electric Light Company, of Metuchen, purchased a large farm near that town, upon which it is proposed to erect a big power house. This will supply most of the power for this city, Metuchen, Bound Brook, Perth Amboy and other surrounding cities and towns.

When the local company was absorbed it was announced that the equipment at the local power house was to be considerably enlarged, but it is now believed that this plan has been given up and the Metuchen power house will be depended upon to furnish most of the high power current for this city.

NOE ESTATE SETTLED.

And the Many Threatened Ejectment Suit at Menlo Park Will Not be Instituted.

The threatened trouble in the vicinity of Menlo Park has been peaceably settled and the parties who were at war have united and formed a stock company. It will be remembered that Mrs. Phoebe Noe, Frank Bush and Mrs. A. J. Foot claimed that they are direct descendants of Daniel Noe, and were thus entitled to a vast estate of valuable mining lands in the vicinity of Menlo Park.

All they needed were some papers, among them a ninety-nine year lease, which has since expired. They searched the county clerk's office for the lease, but failed to find any trace of it.

It now develops that the claimants to this estate and the people who are at present in possession of it, have formed a stock company called the New Copper Mining Company. All have stock and are thus part owners in the land. This arrangement was effected as a compromise to ward off the threatened ejectment suits.

A mortgage was filed at the Middlesex County Clerk's office last week given by this mining company to Catharine A. Kelly and others, who are the occupants of the land. The mortgage is to cover the land in question.

Thus a case which promised to develop into a sensational land suit has been nipped in the bud.

Only a Bonfire.

At 2 o'clock yesterday morning some person pulled box 143, corner Grand view avenue and Somerset street, for a supposed fire, which turned out to be a bonfire at the corner of Fairview and Watchung avenues. Chief Debele had an intimation that it was a false alarm and did not allow Warren Engine Company to go out. However, to be on the safe side, the West End Company went out. The person who pulled the box must have had a release key, as the key opening the box was not there when one of the officials went to the box. Chief Debele is almost positive that he knows who sent the alarm in and the person will be watched closely.

Union Veterans' Union to Install.

Mrs. William H. Cone, aged fifty-four years, whose address is Box 199, Litchfield, Conn., writes under date of April 26, 1898: I have always shrunk from having my name used publicly, but truth is truth and should be told every time. I had some heart difficulty, a torpid liver, dyspepsia and constipation and employed a great many different doctors and each one said he could help me but each one failed except for the time being. I suffered untold agonies for over twenty years. I would be feeling pretty well, perhaps, in the morning and in an hour would begin to feel dull and heavy and if I may so express myself as though being bound down with ropes or something from which I could not free myself. Do what I would, take anything I would, send for any physician I had a mind to, nothing seemed to help me. Sometimes for twenty-four or thirty-six hours I would be utterly prostrated and suffer, oh heavens, such agony; it was a living death. I could hardly tell which part of my body suffered the most, but of course the intense pain was in my head and stomach. How many times I have shut my eyes and wished I need never open them again and have envied the dead. These attacks came to be very frequent—sometimes every week for a while and every two or three weeks always. I accidentally saw an ad of Ripans Tabules in a New York paper and thought I would try them and did so. This was about three months ago. I never had anything help me as the Tabules did and now I can eat and enjoy my food. I do not mean to say the Tabules have cured me, for I fear nothing can ever do that, but I am much better, my sick spells are farther apart and I am much easier than I have been for years; in fact, I am so much better and so much encouraged that I thank God for Ripans Tabules and shall stick to them.

WANTED.—A case of bad health that R·I·P·A·N·S will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word R·I·P·A·N·S on the package and accept no substitute. R·I·P·A·N·S, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

BRIDGE WORK

in Dentistry is the best substitute for nature's work that can be done. Sound roots may be built up and crowned and thus fill up an unsightly space. It has to be made of a material that has strength and durability and one that will not discolor. Gold is the one that stands the test. That is the secret of the expense. But the advantages of a bridge over a plate are many times more than the cost of one compared to that of the other.

Keeping Promises.

Plainfield Appreciates Always When Promises Are Kept.

Every time you read about Doan's Kidney Pills you are told they cure every form of kidney ill, from backache to urinary disorders. How are our promises kept? Ask any citizen who has tried the treatment. Ask the woman who makes the following statement.

Mrs. Valentine Utzinger of 75 Grandview avenue, says:—"I suffered from kidney complaint for six years. I doctored and used various kinds of medicine with little or no result. I had almost constant sharp darting pain across my back, and if I over exerted myself or took cold I suffered severely. I always felt it most when the weather was damp. There was also a kidney weakness which was very distressing and inconvenient. While in this condition I saw Doan's Kidney Pills recommended and my son brought me a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store. I started to use them at once following directions closely. They helped the pain in my back, and relieved my other difficulty. I give all the credit for this relief to Doan's Kidney Pills for they are beyond a doubt a grand medicine for kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co. Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U.S.

THE SUMMER WARDROBE.

Tailor Made and Other Thin, Cool Costumes.

Tailor made gowns of pique, linen or cotton duck or khaki cloth are among the leading models. They are trimmed with stitched straps, heavy embroidery or thick guipure. Pique skirts are plain or have a circular flounce, or plaits are let in at the lower end of the seams to give greater fullness around the foot.

Formerly pique was to be found only in white, pink or blue, but now it is to be had in all colors from the most delicate to black.

Gowns of dimity, nainsook and organdie are tucked and hemstitched entirely by hand and trimmed with narrow, fine handmade lace. The materials are of the simplest, but such gowns cost immensely because of the time and the delicate work employed in their construction. Every detail is most carefully finished, and all is as fine as a cobweb. Underwear is made in the same elaborate way, not that it is overloaded with decoration, but what there is is perfect of its kind and all hand work.

The cut shows a costume of black embroidered net over pink taffeta. The skirt has a plaited flounce of pink mousseline de soie around the foot, and the net forms a long tunic, gathered around the waist and ornamented at the edge with jet cabochons. The blouse of black net over pink taffeta forms a plait in front and has a wide belt of black satin. The plain sleeves are of net over taffeta, and the cravat is of white tulle. The wide hat of beige straw is trimmed with black ostrich plumes and a bow of black satin with a jeweled buckle. Pink flowers are placed under the brim next the hair.

FASHION NOTES.

Prevailing Forms In the New Skirts and Bodices.

Skirts of thin materials are made separate from the lining, which is attached to them only only at the waistband. The lining skirt is cut very carefully, like a close fitting gown skirt, and is trimmed around the lower part by a flounce or plaiting of silk, the edge of which has a fine ruche. This helps to give the proper shape to the outside skirt, which is tucked, gathered or plaited.

The belt retains a decided drop in front, which is attained in part by keeping it well fastened up at the back and in part by the shape of the fashionable corset, which is straight in front and gives the effect of a longer waist there than behind. Side elastics for the stockings, fastened to the edge of the corset, help to keep it in position, but where it is worn outside the petticoat these are impracticable.

All bodice draperies show a tendency to attain an effect of width and squareness at the shoulders, although sleeves are not large, except occasionally at the extreme top. They are fitted by darts, however, and are stiffened by canvas to keep them square.

Pictures are given of two summer capes. The first has a sort of square yoke and a collar of white satin embroidered with spangles. Beyond the yoke extend three plaited ruffles of white mousseline de soie bordered with little ruches. Two choux of white mousseline de soie are placed in front. The collar is lined with gathered mousseline and bordered with a ruche. The second cape is of electric blue silk embroidered with black spangles. It is bordered with two plaitings of black mousseline de soie edged with white ruches. The plaited collar of black mousseline de soie is lined with plaited coquilles of white mousseline, which extend down the front edges.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, June 7, 1900, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed all members present except Freeholders King and Scudder—2.

The minutes of the previous meeting were on motion approved as read.

No petitions, memorials or communications were presented.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Freeholder Krouse reported verbally for the county road committee that the committee had met with representatives of the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Co., and had agreed upon terms by which the said company would be permitted to lay its tracks across Central avenue, in Clark township, at two points. The interests of the county were fully protected; the report was received.

By the committee on new macadam roads in Fanwood and New Providence:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County:

Gentlemen: Your committee appointed to receive and open bids for the building of a stone (macadam) road on Springfield avenue, extending from South street westerly to Townley's bridge, in New Providence township; also the road known as Mountain avenue, from the intersection of Park avenue with Mountain avenue, thence southerly along the same to Green Brook, in Fanwood township, would respectfully report that, in accordance with the advertisements made in the above matter, your committee met on May 28th last, and received and opened three bids, all pertaining to Springfield avenue.

One by Chas. M. Meeker for the sum of $11,393.74, one by Osborne & Marsellis Co. for the sum of $14,260.02, and one by Miller & Maltor for the sum of $11,809.36.

There being no bids for the macadamizing of Mountain avenue, your committee adjourned to June 6th, and continued the advertisement for bids as to Mountain avenue.

On June 6th your committee again met, and received one bid on the building of Mountain avenue. Said bid was made by Wm. H. Weldon for six (6) inch macadam for the sum of $1,578.70, and for ten (10) inch Telford macadam complete $2,065.10.

Your committee would therefore recommend that the bid of Chas. M. Meeker for the macadamizing of Springfield avenue, for the sum of $11,393.74, and the bid of Wm. H. Weldon for the macadamizing of Mountain avenue, six (6) inch macadam for the sum of $1,578.70, be accepted, and that contracts for the same be made and duly executed.

Signed

Respectfully submitted.

J. Robison, John F. Wahl, N. W. Bonnel, Joseph McCandless, J. F. Hubbard, Committee.

June 7, 1900.

Freeholder Bruckiacher moved that the report be received and the recommendations therein contained adopted and on roll call it was so ordered by an unanimous vote.

Freeholder Wahl, chairman of the committee appointed to confer with a committee from Morris county, relative to a new line bridge over the Passaic river, on South street, New Providence, reported verbally that a joint meeting was held, and that the Morris county Board of Freeholders, through its committee, had stated that they were not prepared to build a new bridge this year; it had been directed to make such repairs to the present bridge as would carry it through another year.

The report was received.

Freeholder Swain, chairman of the committee appointed relative to drainage of Morris avenue county road, at Elm street, in Summit, reported progress in said matter, which was received.

HER EYES ARE SEALED.

Until Three Days After Her Marriage a Corean Bride's Eyelids Are Pasted Together.

"A Corean bride has her eyelids pasted together until she has been three days a wife," said Mrs. S. L. Baldwin, who has lived for more than 20 years in China and Corea, and who is considered among missionaries to know more about "the hermit nation," as the Coreans are called, than any other foreigner.

"Their marriage customs are very curious, and perhaps I had better tell you about a Corean wedding, which, once, as a great honor, I was allowed to attend.

"The groom wore a costume similar to that of an official at royal audiences—and, let me say, that this wedding suit is invariably hired, never owned by the groom. The robe was dark green and bore 'placques,' with a pair of embroidered storks, on the breast and back, while a stiff black enameled belt encircled his body like a hoop. He wore a 'palace-going' hat of woven horsehair, with wings on its sides, and a pair of shoes which closely resembled 'arctics,' and were at least three sizes too large for him.

"On entering the court of their future home he was preceded by an attendant attired in white, with a red hat, a long string of beads around his neck, and carrying under his arm a live goose. The legs of the fowl were fastened together and a skein of red silk was passed through her beak. This man, followed by the groom, entered the court, around the sides of which all the guests were seated, advanced to a red table standing in the center, and the ceremony began.

"The groom, standing immediately in front of the table bowed three times, COREAN BRIDAL COUPLE.

touching the mat on which he stood, with his forehead and hands. Then he gracefully resumed his standing position, and taking the goose under one arm again bowed as low as before.

"The goose is the symbol of fidelity in Corea, and it is popularly believed that when a wild goose dies its spouse never mates again. The groom then walks to the front of the porch and stands at the foot of the steps, waiting for his bride.

"Two middle-aged women stepped from an inner room on to the porch with the bride between them, each holding an arm and guiding her steps, for, as I have told you, her eyes were sealed completely. Her entire face was painted a ghastly white, while on the middle of her forehead and each cheek was a dab of bright red; her lips were also colored a brilliant scarlet.

"This little painted and gorgeously attired creature was guided to the mat on which stood the groom. Then they turned her about and laid over her clasped hands a white handkerchief. The groom now stepped to the other end of the mat, and the principal part of the ceremony began.

"The attendants raised the bride's small, draped hands until they were on a level with her sightless eyes. Then, still supported by the two women, she sank in a courtesy so profound that she was almost in a sitting position. This was repeated in a slow and solemn manner three times, after which the groom's turn came, and he responded by three bows so profound that his head almost touched the floor.

"They then took their seats on their respective ends of the mat, and a table about 12 inches high, filled with Corean delicacies, was brought out and placed between them. These the bridal pair ate and drank, the bride being fed by her two attendants.

"After the feast was finished the groom was conducted to the bridal chamber, where he changed his wedding suit for clothes presented to him by the bride, and which were made by her own fingers. He then came out, and the bride was taken into the bridal chamber and seated upon her cushions on the floor, where she sat in placid meditation until joined by the groom, a few minutes or a few hours later, as it suited his convenience.

"Coreans hold marriage in high regard and show a married man profound respect, while a bachelor is treated by them with marked contempt. I have seen men greet a slip of a boy wearing a topknot with ceremonious deference, saying to each other: 'He is a man; he is about to be married;' while of a much older man, and possibly a richer, who wears two plaits, they remark that 'He is a pig. He cannot get a wife. He will always be a boy.'

"In the choice of his first bride the Coreans leave everything to the 'go-between.' But all other wives—and a Corean may have ten, the man makes his own selection. It is seldom, however, that a second wife is added to the household, except where the first wife proves childless. In such instances other wives are taken, but the dignity always remains with the first wife. Women are well treated, and as a rule live happy, contented lives. They are gentle, attractive little bodies and devoted to their homes."—Boston Globe.

HE EXPLAINED IT TO HER.

But Her Brain Was Unsympathetic and She Didn't Catch On Very Readily.

"Yes, my dear, a man out in Oklahoma says he has talked over a wireless telegraph line a distance of 1,000 miles."

"He must have a loud voice."

"You don't understand, my dear. He doesn't use his voice," said Mr. Mudlark, according to the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"What does he use? A phonograph?"

"No, no! He makes signals."

"Signals that can be seen 1,000 miles? Pooh!"

"Just let me explain, my dear. He starts sound waves, you know. He starts them at intervals, and they know what word it is by the number of sound waves between the intervals. Simple, isn't it?"

"Do you understand it?"

"Of course I do."

"Then it's simple. By the way, what is a sound wave?"

"A sound wave, my dear, is a-a fluctuation produced in the air by an agitation."

"Any air? 'Home, Sweet Home?'"

"No, no. Atmospheric air. The stronger the agitation the stronger the sound waves. To converse over an imaginary line 1,000 miles in length would require—ah—very strong talk."

"I suppose he eats lots of onions."

"Who eats onions?"

"The man who creates the agitation with his strong talk."

"Nonsense, my dear. You don't seem to comprehend the intricacies of science. Or, rather, you are not up in its technical terms. Besides, there is the electricity. You mustn't forget the electricity."

"Well, I have forgotten it. You didn't say anything about my bringing it. Anyhow, how could I carry it?"

"My dear, you are quite too literal. I merely wanted you to understand that the sound waves are invigorated, and extended, and vitalized by electricity."

"That sounds like a patent medicine advertisement."

"My dear, my dear! I fear it is quite useless to make any further endeavor to instill scientific principles into your unsympathetic brain."

"Let my brain alone, William Mudlark. Break off that wretched habit of coveting everything you haven't got yourself. Do you seem to catch the sound waves I'm agitating toward you at this blessed moment?"

"Yes, Maria."

"Without electricity?"

"Yes, Maria."

"Well, then, climb down into the cellar and fill up the furnace, and then get yourself to bed instanter!"

"Yes, Maria."

HOUSECLEANING HINTS.

The Time to Dust Walls and Begin War Upon Moths and Other Pests.

The dusting down of the wall is one of the most important parts of housecleaning. This should be done early, even if it has to be repeated later, says the New York Tribune, when carpets are lifted. The house moth conceals itself in the dust that collects in the ridges of the cornice and elsewhere on the ceiling. These moths should be swept down early, while they are in an inactive state and before they begin laying eggs. These eggs are concealed in wool, fur and wherever the moth can find a place which will furnish food for the destructive little grubs that hatch out. All insect life wakes up in April, and often in March, and this is the best time to fight the clothes moth, as well as all other insect pests.

It is useless to dust down ceilings unless the work is thoroughly done. In order to do this the worker must be provided with a long handled Broom, made with a very light handle. An excellent broom with an extension handle was formerly made in Boston under a patent granted to a woman. It was simple and inexpensive, and perfectly adapted to its work

UPSET THE BEER.

That Started a Fight and They All Came Up Before Judge Runyon This Morning.

Louis Casteller and Minnie Barry were arraigned before Judge Runyon in City Court this morning, charged with being drunk and disorderly at the residence of Mrs. Sharkey on Somerset street.

Mrs. Sharkey, with her two children, occupies three rooms in a flat on Somerset street. Casteller rents one of these rooms as a lodger.

Miss Barry is a domestic hired by Mrs. Sharkey to take charge of the children while she is at work.

Yesterday being the Fourth, and a day for special rejoicing, the Sharkey homestead indulged rather freely. There were other guests present, and a dispute arose as to who should present Mrs. Sharkey with a glass of beer. Stevens, one of the guest, said he would do so. Casteller threatened to upset the beer if he did so. Stevens made the presentation, and Casterline kept his promise and the beer flooded the floor. A fight took place in which Casteller was worsted. An office appeared on the scene, and arrested Casteller and Miss Barry.

In court this morning both pleaded not guilty. After listening to the testimony of several witnesses among were Mrs. Sharkey and Stevens, the Judge dismissed the case, but warned the prisoners in the future to avoid any further disorder. He also warned Mrs. Sharkey against allowing visitors the privilege of turning her house into a beer garden. All promised to be better in the future.

ENGINEER WENT MAD.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Phillipsburg, July 5.—James Stutts, formerly of this place, one of the oldest engineers on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, became suddenly deranged while on his engine on the High Bridge branch Monday night, and attacked his fireman and conductor with an iron rod, while the engine was left to run itself.

The crew finally succeeded in taking the madman from the train and later removed him to his home at Bayonne.

front of him. The explosion tore his clothes and injured his knee cap. He hurried to Bowley's drug store, where his injuries were dressed.

Victor Houston, of West Front street, is still wondering how it all happened. He had a quantity of powder last evening which he placed in a can and touched it off, "just to see what it would do." The result was a surprising one for Victor, as his face was a little too near the can. It was feared at first that his eyes were injured and his father took him to Dr. Ard. They were found to be uninjured, however, but the boy's face is now wrapped in bandages.

A naughty brass cannon emptied his load of powder into the face of its owner, John Simonson, of Duer street, yesterday morning. John closed his eyes in time to save them but his face was badly burned.

LIBRARY DIRECTORS MET.

Notification Received of Mayor Rockfellow's Appointments for Directors.

The regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Public Library was held on Tuesday evening, at which time a communication was received from Mayor Rockfellow in which he nominated J. Evarts Tracy, Mason W. Tyler and Henry P. Talmadge to serve as directors for three years, and Edward C. Perkins to fill the unexpired term of the late Rowland Cox. The various committees were then selected for the ensuing year. A letter was received from Mrs. Fannie C. Cox acknowledging receipt of resolution passed on the death of her husband, Rowland Cox. Local Cracks Defeated at Garden City.

W. L. Glenney and Willard Wadsworth, of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, failed to qualify in the championship golf play at Garden City Monday. AT PARK CLUB.

Fireworks and Dance Ended the Fourth for Members and Friends.

As a wind-up to a glorious Fourth of July, the patriotic members of the Park Club gave a display of fireworks last evening on the green near the clubhouse that attracted thousands of people from far and near, and gave satisfaction to the members of the club as well as everyone who witnessed the display. Just as it began to grow dark the celebration commenced and lasted until nearly 10 o'clock. The assortment of fireworks was a varied one. There were several set pieces and a variety of bombs, sky-rockets, weeping willows, etc.

After the display of fireworks a formal dance was given in the clubhouse for the younger set, music being furnished by Benjamin LaVere's orchestra. The committee who had charge of the affair consisted of Augustus VanDeventer, Edward T. Wilson and Laurens H. VanBuren.

The patronesses of the dance were: Mrs. George D. Hallock, Mrs. Augustus VanDeventer, Mrs. Henry D. Hibbard, Mrs. James C. Peck, Mrs. Fred. O. Ball, Mrs. Charles A. Reed, Mrs. Walter M. McGee, Mrs. Joseph H. Howell, Mrs. B. Arrowsmith Hegeman, Jr., and Mrs. John Valiant.

resolutions, Congressman Daly took an active part, making a vigorous speech in reply to one by George Fred Williams, of Massachusetts, who had declared that failure to make a specific declaration in favor of 16 to 1 free coinage would drive away the Populists and Silver Republicans.

Congressman Daly said that it was not the Populists or the Silver Republicans that were wanted, but the Democrats back in the party ranks. This sentiment was heartily applauded in the committee. When Mr. Daly got out, with collar wilted, clerical cravat all awry, and hair soaked as though he had been in the steam room of a Turkish bath, he was delighted with the prospect of victory for a modified platform. He said there was no hope of a report from the committee last night, and that the fight would be finished on the floor of the convention, and that it was sure to be a hot go, clear to the minute of wind-up.

HOTEL KEEPER EMERY WAS ARRESTED AGAIN.

New Development in Fight Between Scotch Plains Citizens' League and Saloon Keepers.

EMERY'S POSITION NOW.

HIS APPLICATION FOR A LICENSE IS NOW PENDING.

Application Laid Over When he Was Under Indictment But he Has Since Been Found Not Guilty by the Courts.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, July 6.—Another chapter in the famous fight between the Citizens' League and hotel men in town opened up very quietly Tuesday morning when W. S. Emery was ordered to Elizabeth to answer to the charge of selling without a license. The affair, which is just beginning to leak out, was arranged so quietly that but few in town knew that the fight had been renewed.

Emery applied at the May term of court for a renewal of his license, the application was opposed by the Citizens' League, which had been busily at work for several weeks trying to secure evidence against the hotel men who were said to be selling on Sundays. The evidence was laid before the May Grand Jury and an indictment was found against Emery's and Walpole's hotel. When the case was called in court Walpole pleaded non vult and was fined $50 and costs. W. S. Emery entered a plea of not guilty and employed Former Prosecutor Fred Marsh to defend him.

The case was to be called before license day, but for some reason it was postponed several times. The League fought their fight against Emery mainly on the line that a license should not be granted to a man under indictment for illegal selling. Judge Vail decided to lay the application over until Emery had stood trial upon the charge. The case was finally called several weeks ago and resulted in a victory for Emery.

It was expected that Emery would at once make a renewal of his application for his license, but it was not done. During the fight the old hotel has gone on doing business, and Mr. Emery says he was advised that he had a perfect right to sell as his application was pending and should his license be granted he expected it to date from May when he first applied.

This raises a point of law that all do not agree upon. So someone made a complaint and Emery was put under $500 bonds to appear before the October Grand Jury.

The Press correspondent interviewed several officers of the League, but they say this last charge was not made by the League, neither are they back of it. They secured the evidence on Sunday selling only, and that the case is now resting in the State's hands. These last happenings have placed Emery in rather a peculiar position as he says he does not care to go on selling and breaking the law, and yet he has been advised that he can sell while his application is pending.

Private Sewer for Safe Co.

Stakes were set yesterday afternoon by Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, for a private sewer leading from the new factory of the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Company at Clinton avenue and South Second street, to the trunk line on West Front street, a distance of 500 feet. The line will be built under the tracks of the Central railroad and across the park surrounding the Clinton avenue station. It will be about twelve feet in depth.

George E. Rogers, of 120 Madison avenue, is deserving of great praise as a musician. Last Monday he went to New York and passed a very rigid examination for membership in the New York Musical Union. STATE CAMP IS READY.

ALL PREPARED FOR RECEPTION OF SECOND REGIMENT TOMORROW.

Men to Be Quartered in the New Tents—Great Variety of Rations—Drills, Marches, Etc.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Sea Girt, July 6—Everything is in readiness at the State camp to receive the Second Regiment tomorrow. Quartermaster-General Donnelly has made all arrangements for the comfort of the soldiers, and this week the camp is being constructed.

The men will all be quartered in new conical tents, each sheltering eight or ten men. The officers will be quartered in new wall tents.

There will be a considerable variety of rations and plenty of them, including prime beef, new potatoes, fish fresh from the ocean, lamb, canned vegetables, plenty of milk and butter and good coffee and bread. The food will be prepared by a score of efficient cooks and it will be served to the men in the big mess halls by colored waiters.

The companies will start for camp early tomorrow morning. They will carry no knapsacks. Most of their baggage will be rolled in the new blankets which will be worn over one shoulder, and in haversacks. Canteens will not be issued until camp has been reached. It is likely that Colonel Gillmore will give nearly all his men practice on the rifle ranges a few hours after arriving at Sea Girt, and that each day will develop some interesting work such as the regulars perform. There will be plenty of extended order drill, practice marches, sham battles and rifle practice. For extended order work the men will be equipped with novel tools for throwing up mounds of earth for protection against the enemy's fire.

General Sewell's order permitting the Essex Troop to march from Newark to Sea Girt and camp there with the Second Brigade, has been favorably received by the brigade officers. Congressman R. Wayne Parker is the commander of the troop and the presence of this organization will attract many visitors from Essex county.

For six days of the encampment enlisted men and corporals will be paid at the rate of $1.50 per day; sergeants will receive $1.75; first sergeants and non commissioned staff, $2; lieutenants, $2.50, and captains, $3. Payment will be made in checks after the regiment has reached home.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Large improvements have been made on the camp during the past year and many more guests can be entertained at one time than in previous years. The camp work is in charge of Miss Curry, who has been interested in work among the slums of New York for many years, and whose efficient labors during the past six years have won for her the love and the esteem of the mothers and children who visit the camp and also those who are heartily interested in the cause.

The officers of the association are as follows: President, Geo. E. Woolfe, of New York city; vice-presidents, A. N. Pierson, of Westfield; Lucius H. Bigelow, of Plainfield, and Burtis Vaughan, of Roselle; secretary, Miss Edith Morehouse, of Westfield; treasurer, Lawrence A. Clark, of Westfield; visiting physician, Dr. Fred A. Kineh, Westfield; matron, Miss Sarah Curry, of New York.

KEAN'S TROLLEY.

Freeholders Accepted His Offer of $73,000 to Build Elizabeth-Cranford Trolley Line.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, July 6.—The Union County Board of Freeholders yesterday afternoon accepted the proposition made by Senator John Kean to construct a double track trolley road and a 100 foot boulevard from Elizabeth to Cranford, a distance of seven miles, for which franchise he agrees to pay $73,000 to the county. The boulevard will also have a driveway and bicycle path.

Senator Kean withdrew the offer he made last year to build a trolley road and similar boulevard from Elizabeth to Plainfield, thirteen miles, for $250,000. Work on the Elizabeth-Cranford road will begin at once, and be completed, it is said, before cold weather.

LABOR UNION CONGRESS

EFFORT TO BE MADE IN AUGUST TO SOLIDIFY UNIONS OF THE STATE.

No Politics to Enter Into the Discussion, But Matters of Legislation and Executive Action Will be Discussed.

An official call has been made for the twenty-second annual labor congress of the Federation of Trades and Labor Unions of New Jersey.

The official circular calls for a convention to be held in the Common Council chamber, No. 380 George street, New Brunswick, commencing at 10:30 a. m. on Monday, August 20th, and concluding August 21st.

It is signed by H. J. Gottlob, of Newark, chairman of the executive board of the Federation, and by B. Frank Dunphy, No. 1022 South Fifth street, Camden, secretary of the board.

The Federation of Trades and Labor Unions of New Jersey, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, has a good deal of work cut out for it at this year's convention, and on account of the approaching political campaign it will be watched with some interest by political managers throughout Jersey.

The labor men say that the time has come for a more thorough organization of New Jersey's wage workers on trades union lines, and that the work to be done at the New Brunswick congress is of such importance to labor interests as to demand an absolutely complete representation of all the trades unions of the State.

Consequently, they are working hard to bring every industry into the ranks of well based trades unionism.

The basis of representation in the congress is: Two delegates for every bona fide trade, federal, or wage labor union of 50 members or less; from 50 members to 100, three delegates and one additional delegates for every additional delegate for every additional 100 members or fraction. There will also be one delegate from each Central Labor Union or Trades Assembly.

Action will in all probability be taken by the New Brunswick congress to protest against the granting by Vice Chancellor Pitney of the injunction against the striking machinists in Paterson, the injunction issued by Justice Freedman in the cigar makers' strike in New York, and the injunction issued by Justice Bookstaver in the printers' fight against the New York Sun.

The aim of the State Federation, as set forth in the general circular, which has been sent out, is to further the establishment and promotion of local, national and international trade unions and the combination of all such trade unions in the National Federation of Labor for the purpose of aiding and assisting each other, and securing State and National legislation in the interest of the wage workers and influencing public opinion, by peaceful and lawful methods, in favor of organized labor.

No question of a political partisan character can be entertained, received or acted upon by the congress.

Likely To Be Nominated For Vice-President This Afternoon.

SEVERAL ARE NAMED.

NEW JERSEY AND TEXAS DELEGATES IN A FIGHT FOR SEATS.

J. E. Martine is to be Recognized After Vice-Presidential Nomination and Introduce Resolutions Thanking the City.

Convention Hall, Kansas City, July 6.—Now that the troubles over the free silver plank have been settled, everybody at the Democratic national convention, now in progress here, is speculating as to the candidate for Vice-President whom the Democrats will nominate. Although the delegates are now assembled in Convention Hall and the time is close at hand when the nomination will be made, there is yet no certainty on whom the honor will fall.

For the first time during the convention the Jersey delegation managed to win the universal attention of the great crowd assembled here. Texas shared in the sudden notoriety. The trouble was over the seats on the floor of the convention hall.

The New Jersey delegates lost their regular seats as the Texan delegation had arrived first and taken possession of them. The Jerseyites were compelled to temporarily occupy the old seats of Texas. A vigorous protest was made and the convention, which had been in session for a few minutes, suspended business to compel the Texan delegates to get out of the Jerseyites' seats. It was finally accomplished after much delay and trouble.

The Texans were indignant at the treatment and made an attempt to recapture the seats. The Jerseymen stood staunch in defence of their property. A lively scrap ensued and the great crowd rose to its feet to watch the fun. The police were hurriedly summoned to quiet the disorder that prevailed. The two delegations were sorted out and separated and the convention went back to business.

It has been arranged that after the nomination James E. Martine, of New Jersey, will be recognized by the chairman and will present a series of resolutions thanking the citizens of Kansas City for their excellent care of the convention. It is now announced that William Jennings Bryan, the Democratic candidate for President, will not address the convention as was expected.

After the preliminary business of the session was disposed of, nominations for the Vice-Presidental candidate were called for. Minnesota presented the name of Chas. A. Towne. James Hamilton Lewis, of Washington, was named by that State. Illinois advanced the name of A. E. Stevenson. New York named David B. Hill as its candidate.

Early in the day the feeling was that Towne or Stevenson would surely be the candidate selected but a wonderful boom for Hill has been growing until a general belief seems to prevail that he will be nominated with a rush.

READY FOR SUMMER.

Christian Endeavor Society of Park Avenue Baptist Church Held Important Business Meeting Last Night.

The last Christian Endeavor monthly business meeting for the summer was held in the Park Avenue Baptist church last evening. Reports were submitted by the several committees, which showed the society to be in good working condition. The sum of $15 was voted to the Westfield Fresh Air Camp, in addition to the $5 dues already paid. It was announced that Monday evening the society would have charge of the meeting at that camp, leaving the North Avenue station on the 7:15 o'clock trolley.

There was a large attendance at the meeting last evening, and following the business a very pleasant social hour was enjoyed, games and refreshments bringing the evening to a close. The next monthly business meeting will be held in September next.

PHILMORE IN COURT.

MADE TROUBLE AT M'VEY'S BECAUSE HIS WIFE WORKED THERE.

He Didn't Like to Get His Own Meals—Arrested But the Judge Was Lenient.

John Philmore was arraigned before Judge Runyon, in city court this morning, charged with being disorderly at McVey's restaurant on North avenue, yesterday afternoon. Philmore is an old offender. Six months ago he was arrested for disorder and failed to put in an appearance on the day set for the trial. Since that time he has been employed by Welch Brothers, painters in Westfield, where he has worked hard and managed to keep straight.

About a week ago his wife accepted a position as cook in McVey's Hotel, this city. Philmore was decidedly opposed to his wife's accepting the position, because she did not get home until late, and there was no one to cook his meals for him. He therefore came to Plainfield yesterday afternoon and complained to McVey. An argument insued. Gilmore became boisterous in his demands, and McVey had him arrested.

He pleaded guilty in court this morning, but made such a strong plea in his own behalf that the Judge was lenient and suspended sentence on condition that he would leave Plainfield at once and stay away. The Judge warned him that if he did return he would be held for two charges and severely dealt with. Philmore promised to stay away, and the case was dismissed.

SAW STOLEN WHEEL.

Harry Lister Positive That McCarty's Missing Wheel Was at Driving Park Wednesday.

Patrolman McCarthy has at last secured a clue as to the where-abouts of his bicycle, which was stolen from in front of the North avenue station some weeks ago. A few days before its disappearance it had been entirely re-nickelled and re-enamelled by Harry Lister, who knew the exact appearance of the machine. Accordingly when he saw a bicycle resembling it at the driving park Wednesday, he instantly recognized it as the stolen wheel.

His duties on the track demanded his attention, however, and in the excitement of the moment he neglected to inform some one to watch it and catch the possessor. It occurred to him afterward and went to the spot but the wheel had gone. He is positive that it is in the possession of a colored man as it stood near a number of others belonging to colored men.

The Aluminum Plate and Press Works shut down Tuesday for the remainder of the week to make some necessary repairs to the machinery.

JUDGE LIPPINCOTT DEAD

JUSTICE OF NEW JERSEY SUPREME COURT PASSED AWAY SUDDENLY.

He Was Fearless in the Pursuit of Right—Was to Interrogate Grand Jury Today.

Justice Job H. Lippincott, of the New Jersey Supreme Court, died suddenly yesterday at his home, No. 132 Sip avenue, Jersey City. He was preparing to attend the session of the Hudson County Court when he was stricken.

His death was a severe shock to the law abiding people of Hudson county. He was fearless in the pursuit of right and was hated by evildoers.

He was unswerving in his determination to have the laws enforced, and not only rebuked grand jurors but discharged them because they disregarded their oath and served political or other masters who desired violators of the law protected. Only a few days ago he censured the present grand jurors for failing to indict thieves and gamblers, and had summoned them to appear before him today to be interrogated, as it was reported that they had decided to pay no heed to the Court's charge.

Justice Lippincott attained prominence nine years ago when County Judge, in his earnest effort to probe the ballot box frauds and find who were the chief conspirators. Sixty of the ballot box stuffers were sent to prison.

Job H. Lippincott was born near Mount Holly, N. J., on November 12, 1842. He was reared on his father's farm. He attended the district school, a private academy at Vincentown and later Mount Holly Institute as a law student. He entered the Law School at Harvard University, from which he was graduated in 1865. He was admitted to the New Jersey bar and opened an office near the Hudson County Court in 1867 in Jersey city. He quickly became prominent, and was elected as a Democratic member of the Hudson City Board in 1868, and served as president of the Board when the three cities of Bergen, Hudson and Jersey City were consolidated in 1871.

In 1874 he was elected counsel to Hudson County Board of Chosen Freeholders, and was annually re-elected for thirteen years. In 1886 he was appointed by President Cleveland as United States District Attorney for New Jersey. He resigned a year later to accept the appointment of Law Judge for Hudson county offered to him by Governor Green, to fill the unexpired term of Alexander T. McGill, who resigned to accept the appointment of Ctancellor. In 1888 he was reappointed Law Judge for a full term of five years, but resigned in January, 1893, when Governor Werts offered him a place on the Supreme Court bench. He was reappointed in January by Governor Voorhees for another full term of seven years.

The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The pall-bearers will be Governor Voorhees, Attorney-General Samuel H. Gray, the Justices of the Supreme Court and the Court of Errors and Appeals, and the Judges of the Hudson County Courts. The burial will be in the family plot in the Friends' cemetery at Vincentown, as Justice Lippincott's father was a Friend.

A combination baggage and smoker, Royal Blue Line coach, attached to the eastbound train which arrives in Plainfield at 2:14 o'clock, had a mishap this morning at the North Avenue station, and had to be left in this city on a siding. Just as the train left the station the draw head pulled out and could not be fixed in time to proceed with the coach.

The newly elected officers of Perseverance Lodge, K. of P., will be installed at the regular meeting to be held this evening.

GOOD TROTTING BUT FEW TO WITNESS IT.

Independence Day Events of the Plainfield Driving Club Completed Yesterday.

THREE TROTTING EVENTS

SEVEN HEATS REQUIRED TO DECIDE THE 2 30 CLASS TROT.

"Arpensa" Took the 2:18 Class in Three Straight Heats—2:40 Class Went to a New Brunswick Horse—The Summaries of the Events.

Had racing enthusiasts been prophets there would undoubted have been a large crowd in attendance at the Plainfield Driving Park yesterday afternoon to witness the final trotting events postponed from the day before. But unfortunately there was no prophet on hand on the Fourth, or if there he failed to bring along his "Rabbit's Foot," and consequently only a handful of people turned out to witness the finest exhibition of good trotting seen in and around Plainfield for many a day.

The "Well! well!" man was there, however, but he was rather sparing of his yells, and they were usually of a smothered sort, as if he felt that it would surely rain before the day was over. But it did not rain and those who were present went away wearing a smile of good natured content.

Each event was hotly contested. It took seven heats to decide the winner of the 2:30 class. D. C. Smalley's "Ned Davis" surprised everybody by his good showing, and took the fourth and fifth heats in fine style. He tried, however, and the sixth and seventh heat went to Woodbrook Farm's "Barney Williams," who won first money. "Ned Davis" captured second money, however; Brower's "Albert L." finished a good third and Fairbairn's "Miss Brock" fourth.

The second event, the 2:18 class, was won by Plainview Farm's "Arpansa" who captured three straight heats, having won two of them the day before. Second money went to A. J. Brantingham's "Myrtle Twig," and third and fourth money to Thomas Dunn's "Elizabeth D." and William G. Deinzer's "Prince H.," respectively.

The third event, the 2:40 class, was hotly contested from start to finish. N. B. Smalley's "Fred V." winning the first heat by a close margin, and I. D. Norton's "Helen S." capturing the next three heats in quick succession and winning first place. She was pressed hard, however, by Fairbairn's "New Haven," the two horses making the home stretch "neck-and-neck" in the last two heats, "Helen S." winning by only half a head.

Following is the summary of the two days sport:

BRYAN IS NAMED.

Democrats Unanimous For Famous Nebraskan.

FREE SILVER PLATFORM

Imperialism Is Made the Chief and Foremost Issue.

SPEECHES AROUSE ENTHUSIASM.

The Convention Held Two Sessions. A Long Wait For the Resolutions Committee—Free Coinage and 16 to 1 Carries the Day. Presidential Nomination In the Evening—Plan to Name Danforth For Second Place.

KANSAS CITY, July 6.—William Jennings Bryan was nominated last night for president by the Democratic national convention on a 16 to 1 platform.

The nomination was made by acclamation after a presentation followed by scenes of delirious excitement. For more than half an hour the vast audience of 20,000 persons gave themselves up to demonstrations of delight, cheering wildly while the delegates marched about the hall with flags, state standards and extemporized banners with inscriptions upon them, borne high in the air.

The big hall was crowded when the second day's work of the Democratic national convention began.

Some time after the hour set for the reassembling of the convention the slender figure of Chairman Richardson loomed up above the platform assemblage. He swung the gavel lustily, and above the din faintly could be heard his calls for order. Slowly quiet was brought out of the confusion, and the chairman presented Right Rev. John J. Glennan for the opening invocation, the entire audience, delegates and spectators, standing reverently with bowed heads while the words of the prayer echoed through the building.

With the conclusion of the prayer Chairman Richardson made an earnest appeal to the delegates and spectators to preserve order so that the work of the convention might proceed without undue interruption.

Mr. Richardson now announced that the platform committee was not ready to report, and, pending word from them, he invited to the platform ex-Governor Hogg of Texas to address the convention.

The giant form of the Texan advanced to the front and was greeted enthusiastically. He was in good voice, and his words reverberated through the hall.

At the termination of Governor Hogg's address Chairman Richardson stepped forward to say a few works to Sergeant-at-arms Martin, and the crowd took advantage of the opportunity to start the cry of "Hill!" It came from all quarters of the galleries, but practically little of it from the delegates. Mingled with the calls were hisses.

Chairman Richardson wielded his gavel vigorously and when order was restored in some degree announced:

"Gentlemen, I have the honor to introduce to you Hon. A. M. Dockery, Missouri's favorite son."

Mr. Dockery was warmly received, and his prompt attack upon the conduct of the Republican administration for its management of the Philippine question was greeted with the usual demonstrations of applause.

At the conclusion of the speech of Mr. Dockery Mayor D. S. Rose of Milwaukee was called to the platform to address the convention. He made a fine impression instantly. Attired in a black sack suit and standing easily and speaking fluently, he soon stirred the audience.

"Hill! Hill!" came the cry again as Mr. Rose concluded, but the New Yorker was not present, and the bands broke out with the "Star Spangled Banner." The patriotic strains had no sooner subsided than another Hill wave passed over the assemblage, even delegates going with the spectators, while some of the New Yorkers sought to offset the demand by shouting for "Grady! Grady!"

Both Chairman Richardson and Sergeant-at-arms Martin moved up and down the front of the platform, gesticulating wildly and making pantomime appeals for order. When the Hill demonstration had calmed, the chairman introduced J. E. McCullough of Indianapolis for another speech on current public questions.

Chairman Richardson announced, "We will now be addressed by Governor J. W. Beckham of Kentucky." Instantly there was a roar of applause, and delegates and spectators sprang up on their chairs to get a better view of the young governor, waving their hats and handkerchiefs frantically.

After one or two speeches, the committee on resolutions not being ready, the convention adjourned.

It was not until 4 o'clock that Chairman Richardson, turning from a conference with Governor McMillin and Senator White, picked up the gavel and brought the convention to order for the second session of the day. The platform committee, headed by Senator Jones, D. J. Campau, Senator Tillman and Judge Van Wyck, had just pushed their way through the dense throngs and, proceeding to the platform, had taken seats facing the chairman. Mr. Richardson appealed long and vainly for order. The portly form of Senator Jones, silver haired and serious, advanced to the front of the stage. He held a roll of manuscript in his hands. But it was useless to talk against such a tumult, and he dropped back in his seat until order was restored. At last the confusion ceased, and Mr. Jones announced, "I am authorized by the committee on resolutions to present the platform agreed upon."

Senator Tillman then read the document. His voice throughout was admirable, and he made himself heard throughout the vast hall. His reading was forceful and effective.

When the applause had subsided, Chairman Jones of the platform committee said he had been instructed to move that the platform be adopted by the convention by acclamation.

The motion was put, and amid a roar of cheers the platform was adopted without a word of dissent. The announcement of Chairman Richardson of the adoption of the platform was followed by a stunning shout which made the building ring from one end to the other.

Following is the official text of the more important planks of the platform as agreed upon by the committee on resolutions and adopted by the convention:

We, the representatives of the Democratic party of the United States, assembled in convention on the anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, do reaffirm our faith in that immortal proclamation of the inalienable rights of men and our allegiance to the constitution framed in harmony therewith by the fathers of the republic. We hold, with the United States supreme court, that the Declaration of Independence is the spirit of our government, of which the constitution is the form and letter. We declare again that all governments instituted among men derive their just powers from the consent of the governed; that any government not based upon the consent of the governed is a tyranny and that to impose upon any people a government of force is to substitute the methods of imperialism for those of a republic. We hold that the constitution follows the flag and denounce the doctrine that an executive or congress deriving their existence and their powers from the constitution can exercise lawful authority beyond it or in violation of it. We assert that no nation can long endure half republic and half empire, and we warn the American people that imperialism abroad will lead quickly and inevitably to despotism at home. Believing in these fundamental principles, we denounce the Porto Rico law, enacted by a Republican congress against the protest and opposition of the Democratic minority, as a bold and open violation of the nation's organic law and a flagrant breach of the national good faith. It imposes upon the people of Porto Rico a government without their consent and taxation without representation. It dishonors the American people by repudiating a solemn pledge made in their behalf by the commanding general of our army, which the Porto Ricans welcomed to a peaceful and unresisted occupation of their land. It doomed to poverty and distress a people whose helplessness appeals with peculiar force to our justice and magnanimity. In this, the first act of its imperialistic programme, the Republican party seeks to commit the United States to a colonial policy, inconsistent with Republican institutions and condemned by the supreme court in numerous decisions.

We demand the prompt and honest fulfilment of our pledges to the Cuban people and the world that the United States has no disposition nor intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction or control over the island of Cuba except for its pacification. The war ended nearly two years ago, profound peace reigns over all the island, and still the administration keeps the government of the island from its people while Republican carpet bag officials plunder its revenues and exploit the colonial theory to the disgrace of the American people.

We condemn and denounce the Philippine policy of the present administration. It has involved the republic in unnecessary war, sacrificed the lives of many of our noblest sons and placed the United States, previously known and applauded throughout the world as the champion of freedom, in the false and un-American position of crushing with military force the efforts of our former allies to achieve liberty and self government. The Filipinos cannot be citizens without endangering our civilization; they cannot be subjects without imperiling our form of government, and as we are not willing to surrender our civilization or to convert the republic into an empire we favor an immediate declaration of the nation's purpose to give to the Filipinos—first, a stable form of government; second, independence, and third, protection from outside interference, such as has been given for nearly a century to the republics of Central and South America.

The greedy commercialism which dictated the Philippine policy of the Republican administration attempts to justify it with the plea that it will pay, but even this sordid and unworthy plea fails when brought to the test of facts. The war of criminal aggression against the Filipinos, entailing an annual expense of many millions, has already cost more than any possible profit that could accrue from the entire Philippine trade for years to come. Furthermore, when trade is extended at the expense of liberty the price is always too high.

The importance of other questions now pending before the American people is in nowise diminished, and the Democratic party takes no backward step from its position on them, but the burning issue of imperialism growing out of the Spanish war involves the very existence of the republic and the destruction of our free institutions. We regard it as the paramount issue of the campaign.

Private monopolies are indefensible and intolerable. They destroy competition, control the price of all material and of the finished product, thus robbing both producer and consumer. They lessen the employment of labor and arbitrarily fix the terms and conditions thereof and deprive individual energy and small capital of their opportunity for betterment.

They are the most efficient means yet devised for appropriating the fruits of industry to the benefit of the few at the expense of the many, and unless their insatiate greed is checked all wealth will be aggregated in a few hands and the republic destroyed. The dishonest paltering with the trust evil by the Republican party in state and national platforms is conclusive proof of the truth of the charge that trusts are the legitimate product of Republican policies, that they are fostered by Republican laws and that they are protected by the Republican administration in return for campaign subscriptions and political support.

We pledge the Democratic party to an unceasing warfare in nation, state and city against private monopoly in every form.

We condemn the Dingley tariff law as a trust breeding measure, skillfully devised to give the few favors which they do not desire and to place upon the many burdens which they should not bear.

We reaffirm and indorse the principles of the Democratic national platform adopted at Chicago in 1896, and we reiterate the demand of that platform for an American financial system made by the American people for themselves which shall restore and maintain a bimetallic price level and as part of such system the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the consent of any other nation.

We denounce the currency bill enacted at the last session of congress as a step forward in the Republican policy which aims to discredit the sovereign right of the national government to issue all money, whether coin or paper, and to bestow upon national banks the power to issue and control the volume of paper money for their own benefit. A permanent national bank currency, secured by government bonds, must have a permanent debt to rest upon, and if the bank currency is to increase with population and business the debt must also increase. The Republican currency scheme is therefore a scheme for fastening upon the taxpayers a perpetual and growing debt.

We favor the continuance and strict enforcement of the Chinese exclusion law and its application to the same classes of all Asiatic races.

Jefferson said, "Peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations; entangling alliances with none."

We approve this wholesome doctrine and earnestly protest against the Republican departure which has involved us in so called policies, including the diplomacy of Europe and the intrigue and land grabbing of Asia, and we especially condemn the ill concealed Republican alliance with England which must mean discrimination against other friendly nations and which has already stifled the nation's voice while liberty is being strangled in Africa.

Believing in the principles of self government and rejecting, as did our forefathers, the claim of monarchy, we view with indignation the purpose of England to overwhelm with force the South African republics. Speaking, as we do, for the entire American nation except its Republican officeholders and for all free men everywhere, we extend our sympathies to the heroic burghers in their unequal struggle to maintain their liberty and independence.

We denounce the lavish appropriations of recent Republican congresses, which have kept taxes high and which threaten trade with perpetuation of the oppressive war levies. We oppose the accumulation of a surplus to be squandered in such barefaced frauds upon the taxpayers as the shipping subsidy bill, which, under the false pretense of prospering American shipbuilding, would put unearned millions into the pockets of favorite contributors to the Republican campaign fund. We favor the reduction and speedy repeal of the war taxes and a return to the time honored Democratic policy of strict economy of government expenditures.

We favor the immediate construction, ownership and control of the Nicaragua canal by the United States, and we denounce the insincerity of the plank in the Republican platform for an isthmian canal in face of the failure of the Republican majority to pass the bill pending in congress.

We condemn the Hay-Pauncefote treaty as a surrender of American rights and interests, not to be tolerated by the American people.

After the reading was concluded Webster Davis went upon the platform, and his appearance was greeted with cheers. Mr. Davis in a brief speech announced his withdrawal from the Republican party.

At 5:44 p. m. a motion was carried to proceed to the nomination of a candidate for president. The roll was called, and Alabama yielded to Nebraska. Mr. Oldham took the platform to place Bryan in nomination. His eulogy of Mr. Bryan was delivered with impassioned fervor. As he approached the close of his address he raised both hands high over his head and spoke slowly and with an energy that caused his voice to penetrate into every corner of the hall.

"And that man is William Jennings Bryan," he concluded, bringing his hands lower with each word until the last had been uttered, when he brought them up with a sweep, but quicker than his motion was the answering cheer that swept across the convention. It was a simultaneous roar from all parts of the hall. Up went the delegates upon their chairs, over their heads went the flags, and above them all soared and rang the cheers for Bryan. The band loyally performed its share, but the noise of its creation was but a drop in the torrent. The men from the state of Nebraska flung up a large banner bearing a likeness of Mr. Bryan upon one side and upon the other the word "Nebraska" and a smaller portrait. Mr. Oldham spoke in part as follows:

More than 100 years ago the Continental congress of America adopted a declaration which had been drafted by the founder of the Democratic party, and the joyous tones of the old Liberty bell which greeted the act announced to a waiting world that a nation had been born.

With hearts unchilled by the selfish sentiments of cold commercialism you have responded patriotically to each sentiment contained in Democracy's first platform as it was read to you at the opening of this convention, and in view of the radical departure which the party in power has made from the principles set forth in that historic document it is meet that we—true believers in the republic of old—should, when choosing a field and forming our lines for the bloodless battle of ballots now impending, say in the language of one of the loved patriots of long ago: "Read this declaration at the head of the army, and every sword shall be drawn from its scabbard and a solemn vow taken to maintain it or to perish on the bed of honor."

Much of history for this republic shall be either made or marred by the action of this convention.

You, as representatives of the only party which is coexistent with the nation itself; the only party which ever had within its own ranks sufficient constructive statesmanship to create a nation in which each citizen becomes a sovereign, have, true to the traditions you bear, in your platform set out in simple language, with a decided American accent, a plan for the people's redemption from each sacrilege and schism taught by the Republican party.

There is no greater honor reserved for a citizen of these United States than to become the standard bearer of the Democratic party. It at once enrolls his name on the scroll of the "immortals who are not born to die" and encircles him with a halo of the glory of all the illustrious achievements which that unconquered and unconquerable organization has emblazoned on every page of our nation's history.

We must seek a leader whose public and private life most nearly exemplifies his party's highest ideals; who stands unqualifiedly pledged to every issue we declare; who will carry the standard we place in his hands, even as the Black Douglas carried the sacred casket that inclosed the heart of Bruce.

He must not declare for free trade with Porto Rico and then, at the persuasive suggestion of the sugar and tobacco trusts, sign a bill providing for a tariff on the products of that island.

He must not denounce a policy as one of "criminal aggression" and then, at the demand of a power behind the throne, pursue the policy he has so denounced.

He must not, while professing opposition to combines and conspiracies against trade, send his emissaries to the trust baron castles to beg, like Lazarus at Dives' gates, for subscriptions to his campaign.

He must not lend the moral support of his administration to a monarchy in its efforts to destroy a republic. But he must ever sympathize with a people struggling for the right of self government.

Instead of the Republican policy of monomentallism he must offer the free and unlimited coinage of the money metals of the constitution, the gold that polished the winged sandals of Hermes and the silver that glitters in the bow of Diana.

Instead of a panic breeding credit currency controlled by the bank trust he must offer government paper controlled by the people.

He must be able to distinguish between Democratic expansion and Republican imperialism. The first is a natural growth by the addition of contiguous American territory, into every foot of which is carried the constitution, the flag and the decalogue and over the shoulders of every inhabitant of the added territory is thrown a purple robe of sovereign citizenship. It is a growth that has added 18 stars to the field of blue in the "Banner of the Free," to symbolize the states that have been carved from territory, annexed to the domain of this nation by the wisdom and statesmanship of the Democratic party; this is an expansion that is bounded on the north by the constitution of the United States, on the east by the Monroe doctrine, on the south by the Declaration of Independence and on the west by the ten commandments.

How different this from the bandit policy of Republican imperialism, with its standing army and bayonet rule of conquered provinces; its government of sullen subjects against their will, by force and fraud; its denial to them of the protection of either the constitution or the command which says, "Thou shalt not steal"—a policy that would send our Uncle Sam off his American range with a cowboy hat, a rope and a branding iron to rustle and brand—over all the loose islands of the orient, while hypocritically chanting the long metered doxology.

Democratic skies are tinged with a rosier hue today than when we met in convention four years ago.

While discord, with her flaming torch confused the counsels there, from out the Sunset Realm a champion came and bid defiance to the oncoming host.

With the strength of youth and the wisdom of age, with knightly mien and matchless speech, he towered above his peers, and all who saw him then with one accord did hail him "Chief," and gave our party's banner to his hand. Slowly despair gave way to hope; confidence took the place where timorous feet had been; the broken, shattered columns formed again, and behind him, singing, came 6,500,000 valiant men to that unequal fight.

For four years he has waged an unceasing warfare against the people's enemies—for four years he has held up the party's standard, and his voice has cheered the hosts of Democracy in every state and territory.

When the trusts began to increase under the protection of a Republican administration, he was the first to point out the danger and prescribe a remedy.

When the alarums of a war for humanity roused the heroic spirit of our land, he offered his sword to his country's cause on the day that war was declared.

With the issues now clearly drawn, no doubt remains as to the name of our candidate. On that question we are a reunited Democracy.

Already worthy allies, differing from us rather in name than faith, have shouted for our gallant leader again, and every state and territory has instructed its delegates to this convention to vote for him here. So it only remains for Nebraska to pronounce the name that has been thundered forth from the foot of Bunker Hill and echoed back from Sierras' sunset slope and that reverberates among the pine clad, snow capped hills of the north and rises up from the slumbering, flower scented savannahs of the south, and that name is the name of William Jennings Bryan, her best loved son.

When the demonstration had spent itself, the speeches seconding the nomination of Mr. Bryan were in order. Senator White spoke for California, giving the tribute of the Pacific coast to the Nebraska candidate. When Colorado was reached, that state yielded to Senator Hill of New York. The audience had anxiously awaited the appearance of the distinguished New Yorker, and as he took the platform he was accorded a splendid reception, the entire audience rising and cheering wildly with the single exception of the little group of Tammany leaders, who sat silent throughout the cheers for their New York associate. Mr. Hill was in fine voice, and his tribute to the Nebraskan touched a sympathetic cord in the hearts of the audience. He pictured Bryan as the champion of the plain people and of the workingman, strong with the masses, with the farmer and with the artisan.

"It is a time for unity, not for division," he exclaimed to the rapturous approval of the great multitude facing him. The eloquent Daniel of Virginia added his glowing tribute to the candidate, while former Governor Pattison of Pennsylvania spoke for his state and for the east. Governor McMillin of Tennessee voiced the wishes of a state which had "furnished three presidents." Hawaii, through its native delegate, John W. Wise, made its first seconding speech in a Democratic national convention, and finally a sweet voiced and pleasant faced woman alternate from Utah seconded the nomination of Mr. Bryan in behalf of the state of Utah. Then came the voting. State after state recorded its vote in behalf of the Nebraska candidate and giving him the unanimous vote of all the states and territories. The convention managers had already agreed that this was sufficient work for the day, and the vice presidential nomination was allowed to go over.

The great battle of the convention has not been fought under the eyes of cheering thousands, but in the privacy of the closely guarded quarters of the committee on platform. Here was waged throughout Wednesday night and again yesterday morning one of the most remarkable struggles that has ever racked this historic party. On the one hand was the influence of Bryan and the absolute unity of devotion felt toward him and the cause of silver with which his name is inseparably linked. On the other hand were many of the patriarchs of the party, men like Daniel of Virginia, insisting that the very life of the organization was endangered by changing its old issues and that the duty of the hour called for new issues based on new and vital events. And out of this fierce strife the adherents of Bryan emerged scarred but victorious. They have written the platform in their own way, with 16 to 1. But it was a victory by a scratch, for a single vote would have turned the scale. And it has not been a victory without concession, for in the final draft silver is no longer "paramount." It is far down in the platform, while in the very forefront is the declaration that imperialism is the "paramount issue of this campaign."

The most important development in the vice presidential situation is the announcement that when the roll of states is called today for the nomination of a candidate for vice president Alabama will yield to Florida, and Hon. R. D. McDonald of that state will place Elliot Danforth of New York in nomination.

AS CHEOPS SAW IT.

"THAT is an enormous pyramid you are building," said the visitor at Egypt's court; "but it seems a purposeless kind of structure. What is it for?" "When the top stone is laid," replied Cheops quietly, "you will see the point."

Isn't it strange some persons find it hard to believe all that is told of Ivory Soap? Don't you try to believe it; just try the soap. You will not then be without it for twice its cost. It will tell the story. You will see the point.

THE PEKING TRAGEDY

Slaughter of Foreigners Not Yet Confirmed.

STORIES OF THE GHASTLY DEED.

Further News of the Poisoning of Emperor and Empress Dowager. Latter Said to Be Alive—Powers Blamed For Inaction.

LONDON, July 6.—The story that all foreigners in Peking were murdered on June 30 or July 1 appears to be circulating simultaneously at Chefu, Shanghai and Tien-tsin. Yet as it is not confirmed by official dispatches and is not traceable to the southern viceroys, who are still in certain communication with Peking, there is a basis for the hope that it is untrue.

Cautious observers at Shanghai recognize that even though these reports are rejected events in Peking must be galloping to a tragic end. Correspondents of The Express at Shanghai gather details from Chinese sources which, pieced together, relate that when the foreigners' ammunition was exhausted the Boxers and imperial troops rushed the British legation and poured into the courtyard with fanatical fury. The foreign troops were so hopelessly outnumbered that their fate was certain. The moment the mob broke in the courtyard was converted into shambles. Others of the invaders spread into the interior of the building. One correspondent adds:

"It is only left to hope that in the final rush of the murderous hordes the men of the legations had time to slay with their own hands their womenkind and children. The Chinese are whispering the terrible story under their breath. Their attitude toward foreigners in the streets has undergone a strange change. The demeanor of the better class of Chinese is one of pity rather than of triumph. Even the rabble in the native quarter is silent.

"Something of this culminating tragedy in the ghastly history of recent events in Peking seems to pervade the very atmosphere here and to compel belief against all our hopes. The consuls fear that the report is too true, and the Chinese officials do not attempt to seek reasons for a denial.

Two Manchus who have arrived at Shanghai certify to the truth of the statement that Prince Tuan visited the palace and offered the emperor and the dowager empress the alternative of poison or the sword. The emperor, they say, took poison and died within an hour. The dowager empress also chose poison, but craftily swallowed only a portion of what was offered her and survived. On the same day the Chinese customs bureau was destroyed, Sir Robert Hart, the inspector of customs, and his staff escaping to the legations.

Intense indignation is felt in Shanghai against the supposed action of the powers in restraining Japan from sending an army to Peking immediately. The powers are accused of being as guilty of murder as are Prince Tuan's fanatics, and Sir Robert Hart is blamed for not having informed the foreigners of the immense imports of arms, especially a few weeks ago.

The Chinese commanders are preparing for a long, severe campaign and are putting into operation plans drawn up by German officers last year for resisting an invasion from the seaboard by Russia.

The Chinese minister has already received replies from the viceroys of Nankin and Szechuan saying they will be responsible for the lives and property of the foreigners in their provinces, as requested by the British foreign office.

THE OREGON AFLOAT.

Washington Hears Good News From the Famous Battleship.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The navy department has received news concerning the Oregon which caused Secretary Long, Assistant Secretary Hackett and all the naval officers who heard it to rejoice. The news was contained in the following cablegram:

"Wilde announced Oregon floated this afternoon. Pumps control water. Goes to Kure dockyard, Inland sea."

Consul General Goodnow's prophecy of further trouble if the allied forces in China fail to impress the Chinese with their resources is part of the testimony upon which the United States may base its decision to increase its forces in China considerably. The consul general's dispatch was the only semblance of official news emanating from China respecting the war. The state department has accepted as beyond question the reports of the death of the German minister to Peking, as evidenced in its message of condolence directed to Berlin.

No War In China.

BERLIN, July 6.—Privy Councilor Hamann of the foreign office states regarding the United States Chinese programme that Germany agrees with the United States that there is no war in China in an international law sense. Germany considers the trouble a revolution against the Chinese government and hence that there is no real war.

Ordered to China.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Major William J. Stephenson, assistant surgeon, has been ordered to proceed via San Francisco and Manila to Taku, China, and report in person to Brigadier General A. R. Chaffee, U. S. V., commanding the United States forces at or near that place, for assignment to duty.

Neely Package Opened.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 6.—A package addressed to Charles F. W. Neely, Muncie, and seized by the government officers on the supposition that it contained money or surcharged Cuban stamps was opened in the United States court. The package was mailed at San Jose, Costa Rica, May 20, and there was much speculation as to its contents. It contained information of general business conditions of Costa Rica printed in Spanish and suggestions that a bank be opened at San Jose.

Found His Parent.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., July 6.—John T. McGrath, aged 26, of this city, who has been endeavoring to learn something of his parents for the past 15 years, has just discovered his right name is John J. Bennett and that he was stolen from his parents when a baby. He has gone to New York to meet his mother and sister.

Death of Dr. Barnard.

HARTFORD, July 6.—Dr. Henry Barnard, the noted educationalist, is dead in his ninetieth year at his home here.

A SEA OF BLAZING OIL.

Tanks of the Standard Oil Company Fired by Lightning.

NEW YORK, July 6.—A million and a quarter of dollars' damage has already been done and a number of persons have been severely burned by a fire that started in the works of the Standard Oil company at Constable Hook, near Bayonne, N. J., early yesterday morning. Twenty-one large oil tanks, 15 Union Tank line cars, the crude oil refinery, the compound sweating plant, the pumping station, a Hungarian tenement and a saloon have been utterly destroyed, and the contents of the huge oil tanks is burning in a sea of flame covering over 100 acres.

The crack of a lightning bolt as it struck one of the connecting pipe lines at 12:45 o'clock yesterday morning was the signal for the outburst of fire. Instantly a great mass of flame appeared above tanks 4, 6 and 16 and like a flash flew in all directions. These tanks are 90 foot tanks and contained 1,260,000 gallons of oil each. Tank 6 was split in two. The flaming oil immediately set the new refinery afire and swept across the railroad tracks of the National Storage company, setting fire to the trestles and track.

The whole mass of flame leaped into the air for hundreds of feet, and as the blazing oil dropped and spread down on the ground it carried the flames with it. This sea of flames ran around the Hungarian tenement house in the rear of the tanks and lapped at the base of the building. In an instant the first flames from the quantities of oil had doomed the structure. The occupants barely had time to get out of the building alive, and they rushed pellmell over the ground to escape from the blazing sea that was chasing them faster than any prairie fire.

The fire raged all day until tank after tank exploded, adding fuel to the flames. The fire is practically under control, but should a very heavy wind arise and spread the flames to tanks 1, 5 and 9 nothing can save Constable Hook or the balance of the works of the Standard Oil company or the residence portion of Bayonne. The company's docks on the Kill von Kull have been stripped and shipping taken to New York bay. About 500 families are encamped on the salt meadows near Bayonne, fearing their homes will be destroyed at any minute.

William Jennings Bryan.

William Jennings Bryan was nominated last evening as Democratic candidate for President. The news that Bryan had been chosen standard bearer of the Democratic party was a surprise to no one. It has been a foregone conclusion for many months that the Nebraskan would again head the Democratic ticket and try to win his way to the White House. The dispatches from the convention hall at Kansas City tell of the wonderful demonstration when Bryan was nominated. While there are many people in the United States and even in the Democratic party who do not and cannot agree with William Jennings Bryan along certain lines of National policy, there are very few indeed who have not the greatest respect and admiration for the man. Whether or not his view of the country's needs are fallacious, time alone can show. At all events, he is perfectly sincere in his beliefs and will make his fight honestly and with deep conviction that truth is on his side.

The troubles over the 16 to 1 silver plank in the National platform of the Democrats seriously threatened the peace of mind of that party. The silver wing of the party demanded it while the conservative faction was equally strong against it. The Democratic managers were apparently between two fires, either one of which threatened to scorch the wings of the organization. A compromise has been effected with the hope that it will please everybody. Imperialism is declared to be the paramount issue but free silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 is retained in a minor place on the platform.

Every experienced advertiser understands that an immense number of people never know that they want things until they read that the things are for sale, says the Philadelphia Record. Therefore merchants construct their advertisements so that what they want to sell will be conspicuous. It is a mistake to hide the essential part of an announcement in a mass of verbiage as a lure to reluctant readers. People like to read advertisements that are plain and straightforward. They do not need to be tricked.

The resumption of the open-air concerts in Plainfield will be hailed with much satisfaction by the people of this city. If for nothing else, Former Councilman George H. Frost still occupies a warm place in the hearts of many for his public spirit in inaugurating that form of public entertainment.

It will be war to the death now between David B. Hill and Richard Croker in the Democratic camp over in New York. Croker has all the might of Tammany behind him but there's the Ice Trust.

An Independence Day has not passed in Plainfield for many a year with as few accidents as were chronicled here on the Fourth.

The "Farmer Orator," James E. Martine, has been making things lively for the Jersey delegation.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The novel idea of trolley car campaigning, inaugurated in Orange, threatens to be catching and to spread all over the State. The trolley companies are doing nothing to discourage the scheme. The plan is to equip a special train of cars with McKinley and Roosevelt banners and flags and run it over the entire system of roads with which connections can be made, with a band of music, and manned with campaign workers. Later on there will be tons of political documents distributed, and stops made at certain designated points and speeches delivered. The idea is very taking and will probably be adopted by both parties. It will add greatly to the excitement and interest of the campaign in New Jersey.—New York Herald.

* * * * * * *

Mr. Martine, William J. Bryan's warm friend, has been ill-treated by the New Jersey delegation. He has been squelched, to put it in commonplace words. The facts seem to be these: Mr. Martine was ambitious to be the New Jersey member of the platform committee. He is a rabid 16 to 1 man, and he made one of his characteristic speeches before the delegation. Thereupon Daly and Gourley and Cornish and General Meany sat down on Mr. Martine, the latter calling him a "lunatic on the silver question." And all this notwithstanding Mr. Martine's promise to "be bound by the action of the caucus." This goes to prove what the Journal stated long ago, viz., that Davis and Daly, and all that crowd, have no use for Mr. Martine, and that they did not want him as a delegate. He is strongly in favor of 16 to 1, but they have succeeded in putting him in the position of supporting David B. Hill instead of Bryan, and of opposing the wishes of his dearest political friend. Mr. Martine is too honest to play the game of politics with the political floppers in New Jersey.—Elizabeth Journal.

THEATRICAL.

Alert authors and managers seeking material for an entirely original drama frequently find in daily papers the outline or foundation for something quite up to date. Many incidents in city life are quickly utilized in the construction of a novel play with sensational surroundings and scenes never before attempted on the stage. That is what Mark E. Swan, the author of several plays, has done. The recent raids on women's pool rooms furnished the fundamental idea around which he has woven a plot and story that is up to the times. One of the chief scenes is a pool room filled with women playing money on races and depicts vividly the excitement while they are being run. It is reported that Manager Stewart Lithgow has secured Gussie McKee to play a part, but neither she nor anybody in the company will be starred. The name of the play is "Trapped by Treachery." It will be presented with new scenery and a company of talented and well-known players.

Standard excellence in the matter of programmes; unusual accessibility in the locations; uncommon coolness in the bright auditoriums; and the maintenance of a low price of admission, 25 cents to the balconies and 50 cents to the orchestras; all tend to the great popularity of F. F. Proctor's three theatres in New York city, to-wit: Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre, Broadway and 28th street; Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, west of Sixth avenue, (the shoppers' retreat); and Proctor's Palace, Fifty-eighth street and Third avenue. Electric fans distributed over the auditorium and palm leaf fans attached to each chair, besides the constant passing of iced water by the neatly-uniformed ushers, are essentials that make the Proctor houses so popular during the warm season of the year. The programmes of continuous vaudeville are kept up to their usual high standard throughout the summer months, novelties of all kinds, debuts of legitimate players, etc., occurring at these theatres weekly.

Dunellen, July 6.—Mrs. Frederick Enander died at her home on First street shortly before six o'clock last night. Her death was due to natural causes. She was born in Sweden, sixty-three years ago, and came to this country in 1873. With the exception of a short time in South Plainfield, she has always resided in the borough. She leaves three sons and two daughters of which Carl lives in Sweden, Albert and Gertrude, in Plainfield, and Alma and Ernest, who reside in the borough. DIDN'T GET A DOLLAR.

A LITTLE TROUBLE BETWEEN DRIVER M'GANN AND CHIEF DEBELE.

Special Arrangements Were to Have Been Made for the Fourth But Driver and Chief Couldn't Come to Terms.

There has been considerable talk concerning the July 4th orders for the borough fire department, especially those to Warren Engine Company, so far as the arrangements for horses was concerned. The facts are that Thomas McGann, the regular driver for the engine, who generally receives $5 every time he takes the engine out, was offered $14 for duty, including himself and team, from Tuesday night to Thursday morning. This he refused to accept as he wanted $24, which Chief Debele would not give him. After some argument over the question, Mr. McGann finally decided that he would do duty according to the general custom, that is $5 every time he went out with his horses to the apparatus.

In the meantime Chief Debele had it arranged that Warren Engine Company should not go out on the first alarm unless the men in charge were almost positive there was a fire. This appeared like a queer order, but it worked all right as was clearly demonstrated when a false alarm was sent in early the morning of the Fourth from box 143. The Warren boys did not respond, for it was known that it wrs a joke.

As a result of the difference of opinion between Mr. McGann and Chief Debele, the former is out $14 which he might have had and he received absolutely nothing for the day. On the other hand the borough is in that much money, and the extra protection did not cost the taxpayers within a number of dollars as much as in previous years. The trouble is not likely to cause much feeling in the department, as the members stand by Chief Debele and believe that he acted wisely in the matter. A team of horses had been engaged to pull the apparatus in case Mr. McGann failed to do his duty, but as the apparatus did not roll the horses were not needed.

of our Butter is enough. Henceforth we have you as a customer.

We carry three different grades of butter, each of which has its special merits.

Our Rockdale Print Butter at 26 cents per pound, is the best on earth. It has the rich, delicate flavor of the finest cream and for table use cannot be surpassed.

Some of the cheaper grades of butter sold elsewhere are often tasteless. Our lowest priced goods are of excellent flavor.

Bern. Eine neue Attraktion bietet dieses Jahr für Grindelwald der untere Gletscher. Es ist dort eine großartige, der Aareschlucht ähnliche Klamm. Ungefähr in der Mitte der Längsausdehnung der Klamm sind die Felsen zu oberst wieder zusammengerückt. Hierhin hat nun der untere Gletscherwirth eine Treppe angelegt, so daß man in den oberen Theil der engen Klamm steigen kann. Tief unten braust die aus dem Gletscherthor hervorbrechende Lütschine. —Die stadtbernischen Lehrwerkstätten zählten auf Ende des letzten Jahres einen Bestand von 88 Zöglingen, nämlich 5 Schuhmacher, 29 Schreiner, 34 Schlosser und 20 Spengler. Die Ausgaben betrugen im Berichtsjahr 139,406 Francs, darunter 50,878 Francs Besoldungen für die Beamten und Angestellten. Die Einnahmen beliefen sich auf 120,783 Francs; darunter figuriren 66,797 Francs als Erlös von verfertigten Gegenständen, je 21,900 Francs Beiträge des Bundes und des Kantons Bern; zur Ausgleichung der Rechnung hatte die Stadt Bern einen Beitrag von 18,624 Francs zu leisten.

The treasurer of a Brooklyn (N. Y.) Safe Deposit Co. was a sufferer for fifteen years with nervous dyspepsia, and, like many other victims of this dread disorder, tried everything suggested by physicians and friends to attain relief and was always extremely gratified for even a temporary cessation of pain. He finally commenced with Ripans Tabules and, after taking them a few weeks, found himself entirely cured. "I smoke to my heart's content," said he, "and eat any and everything, and I have not had to take even a Ripans for the last three or four months." His attention was first called to the Tabules by seeing them advertised in the cars of the Brooklyn Elevated R.R. He has been the means of selling hundreds of boxes of Ripans Tabules on the strength of his cure, even going so far as to get his own physician to use them in his general practice for he "had given my case up as hopeless."

WANTED:—A case of bad health that R-I-P-A-N-S will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word R-I-P-A-N-S on the package and accept no substitute. R-I-P-A-N-S, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

BRIDGE WORK

In Dentistry is the best substitute for nature's work that can be done. Sound roots may be built up and crowned and thus fill up an unsightly space. It has to be made of a material that has strength and durability and one that will not discolor. Gold is the one that stands the test. That is the secret of the expense. But the advantages of a bridge over a plate are many times more than the cost of one compared to that of the other.

Our Animal Protective League. What It Is And Its Object.

BY RUTH EVERETT.

"He who directs the thoughts of the child molds the character of the man," once said some wise old dignitary of the church.

The most zealous adult can scarcely keep pace with an enthusiastic child. Vest a boy with a little authority, teach him something that is not generally known, let him understand that he is wiser than his generation, and he will voluntarily go forth to teach and to preach. With a knowledge and appreciation of these facts Mrs. Myles Standish of New York in May, 1899, organized Our Animal Protective league. Far from exploiting her work in the newspapers, Mrs. Standish, the president of the league, said to one and all: "We do not care to talk about what we are going to do. When we have done something, come and see us."

FEEDING A SICK DOG.

Although but one short year has passed since the first meeting was held to found the league, and the society was not incorporated until last December, and as time and more particularly league and association life are reckoned, Our Animal Protective league is but an infant, a baby that could not be severely criticised were it still just crawling, it actually possesses the country, is an association that the nation is proud of, has correspondents, chapters, roots and branches from Canada to the gulf, from Maine to Oregon.

Speaking of the design and operations of the league, the president says: "The object of the league is to interest and educate all children practically in the care, protection and kindly treatment of animals, and its operations may be spoken of under the general heads preparatory work, lectures and chapter work.

"Before chapters can be formed in any place the agents in advance—if one might be permitted to make use of a comprehensive phrase of the theatrical world—visit the public schools and other places where they can get at the children and in addresses and lectures tell the object of their visit. Wherever a representative of the league can address a conference of teachers it is done. The result is that the children become enthusiasts for the cause and directly set about forming chapters.

"Formerly the requirements for forming these chapters were that not less than ten children present themselves to an authorized representative of the league. The number has now been increased to 20. They must bring with them reputable vouchers from their minister or some well known person. If the committee representing the proposed chapter is able to satisfy the league of its respectability and earnestness of purpose, each child signs his name and address to a card upon which is printed a seven pointed gilt star encircling the words, 'Our Animal Protective League,' which is the facsimile of a badge for which there is a nominal charge and which thenceforth becomes the badge of his membership and his pride and glory. There is also printed on the card, 'I hereby promise that as far as in my power lies I will prevent all cruelty to dumb animals and will aid and succor those that are weak and helpless.'

"The league appoints a director for each chapter, but the boys have their own bylaws and order of business. They appoint their own officers and conduct their own meetings under the strictest adherence to parliamentary rules, in which they are instructed. The strongest link binding these boys is the esprit de corps, or loyalty to the league as a national institution. But there is a keen, proud, lively devotion to their own particular chapter, from which each member goes forth as a sort of committee of one to redress all the evil and abuse to animals that may come under his notice. Also among the matters on which regular committees are formed are executive, reception, fine, nomination, initiation, sugar, seed, scrapbook, photographs, watering, galls, improper harness, blanketing, ventilation and checkrein.

"All successful educators are early brought to an appreciation of the importance of impressing upon the pupil his individual worth and responsibility. Of course it is manifest that a boy but three feet high could not illustrate to an ignorant driver wherein his horse was improperly harnessed, so these little lads are appointed walking delegates at large to 'keep tabs' on the drivers that are unkind to their horses and subsequently disgrace these inhumane men by reporting them and their city license number in the chapter meetings. The boys are taken to a stable where they are shown how to harness and unharness. They are also given a few simple instructions in the care and management of all kinds of animals.

"For conduct unbecoming a member of the league a boy must walk up to the desk of the chairman of his chapter and in presence of all his little mates take off his badge. He is thus virtually expelled in disgrace. It is pretty hard. A good flogging or supperless to bed for a week would be nothing compared to it, but it is found efficacious, hence the practice is continued.

"Few people who have inaugurated good works have been permitted to foresee so grand a future as sometimes evolves. For instance, who would have thought that the formation of a chapter of this Animal Protective league could lead boys into literature and publishing? But it has. The True Blue chapter in New York city has a printing press from which will shortly be issued a magazine that is to be the official organ of the chapter. The boys will call their periodical Our Animal Budget of the True Blue Chapter. For the initial number two good stories have already been contributed by the members of the chapter.

"Every member of a chapter is kept in touch with what the others are doing at their regular meetings. One of the biggest of the boys may get up and say, 'Since our last meeting I have stopped two runaways.' He may be followed by a little chap who will say: 'I saw a poor horse whose feed bag was tied so low that he could not reach the grain. The horse's head was too high for me to unbuckle the bag. I couldn't find anything to stand on, but at last I thought I would rest the feed bag on my own head. So I did, and I stood there till the horse had finished his dinner.' The next boy may say: 'When I was going to school, I saw a poor cat that was nearly starved. I had 2 cents, so I went to a butcher's and bought some liver for the cat. The next morning I brought some meat from home, and now that cat meets me every morning on my way to school.'

"Still another boy may say: 'There was a two wheeled cart very heavily loaded with vegetables, and the belly-band was awful tight, so I told the man about it and told him that the load was too heavy and not put on right, and I told him how to load it from the middle to both ends. He was mad and told me to mind my own business, and so I showed him my badge, and he quieted down and took some of the load off, while he let out the belly-band and fixed the load, and then it was all right.'"

Within the limits of a newspaper article it is impossible to tell one-hundredth part of the good the league is doing. Mrs. Standish avows that the direct object of the league is to improve the condition of all domestic animals. There can be no doubt that the exigencies of the case forcing her, as they do, to educate the youth of the land, to graft upon the young mind that "the merciful man is merciful to his beast," while she says that there are thousands of societies for the child, but hers is for animals. This is a case where the indirect object is greater than the direct one, the means holier than the end.

ZOO ZOO, MASCOT OF OUR ANIMAL PROTECTIVE LEAGUE.

Undoubtedly the verdict of the future will be that the league, while protecting animals, brought into the higher light of love and kindness the rising generation of its day and so deserved and inherited corporate life to the end of time.

Household Hints.

Mildew stains should be dipped in milk and allowed to soak for a few hours. To remove tea stains dip the soiled portions of the cloth in a bowl of warm water and squeeze and press with the hands. If the stains are old, add a few drops of ammonia to the water. Claret stains should be covered with salt while still wet. Should they dry before being removed lay the soiled portions over a bowl and pour boiling water through them until the stains disappear. Coffee stains may be removed in the same manner.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning July 8—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—The power of small things.—Mark iv, 30-32.

The parable of the mustard seed requires no particular explanation or elaboration. It is simply a readily understood illustration of the power of little things, of great results from small beginnings, and was spoken to illustrate this character of the Christian church. There are many people who despise the day of small things, but it is most unwise to do so. Small things may have great powers either for good or evil, and both in the natural and the spiritual world God often begins His great works with a day of small things.

1. The power of small things in the natural world. This is illustrated in the mustard seed. "A grain of mustard seed" was a common expression among the rabbis for anything exceedingly small. It was among the smallest and tiniest of the seeds, and yet when sown in the earth "it groweth up and becometh greater than all herbs and shooteth out great branches; so that the fowls of the air may lodge under the shadow of it." Small in the beginning, the mustard seed becomes great and powerful in the end. Nature abounds with such illustrations. The giant oak was once a tiny acorn. The boundless, mighty sea is made up of little drops of water. The moss is but a very little plant, yet when its seeds fall on damp, swampy, treacherous morasses they grow up and bind the ground together with such bands that it becomes quite safe to pass over—building, in fact, a broad and durable bridge. Throughout creation the grandest and most complicated ends are obtained by the simplest means. It is all because there is a great God behind the simple means.

2. The power of small things in the spiritual world. As in the natural so in the spiritual world—God seems to delight to produce great results from weak and insignificant beginnings. The mustard seed is a type of the kingdom of heaven. The origin of the Christian church was most insignificant. Skeptics would have been inclined to smile had they heard Christ say to His little band of followers, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." But who would smile at this command today? The mustard seed has become a great tree, its branches spreading over all the earth and sheltering and blessing all mankind. Works of grace in an individual heart, in a community or a nation, are often very feeble at the start, but under the blessing of God assume gigantic proportions in the end. That God thus works in the spiritual world should encourage and inspire all Christian workers. We may only be able to do small, insignificant things for God or for His church, but the results from these trifling efforts may be very great. Let us not despise the day of small things. Let us not make light of trifles. "Trifles make perfection, and perfection is no trifle." God can make much out of little.

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. xxviii, 9-13; Ps. xix, 14; Zech. iv, 1-14; Math. x, 42; xii, 36; xxv, 14-30; xxvi, 6-13; Mark xii, 41-44; John vi, 1-13; Jas. iii, 1-6.

Apathy In Church Business.

What would a census of the attendants upon the average annual church meeting reveal? We fear that, as a rule, not 25 per cent of the active resident members capable of being present and participating rally at this gathering, which is in some respects the most important of the year. To be sure, the growing custom of roll calls and suppers is resulting in larger attendance, but there are many good sized city churches where a comparatively few transact all the business. How can the church consistently urge upon men the duty of attending caucuses and of voting at the polls when in doing its own business it so often sets an example of indifference and negligence?—Congregationalist.

Doing Christian Work.

Conditions for Christian work vary, but it must be prosecuted whether they seem favorable or unfavorable. Our Lord can utilize the most unpromising circumstances to the best account, and it is ours to go forward in dependence upon divine guidance and strength, do our duty and leave results with God. If He gives us only limited means, we are not to despise them, but to use them to the utmost of our ability. It is fidelity that counts in His estimate of labor done in His name and for His glory and human benefit.—Presbyterian.

The Man Who Disobeys.

This world is too small to afford a place of safety to the man who disobeys God.—Lutheran.

Wait.

The clouds may be low over valley and hill,
The voice of the ice fettered brooks may grow still,
The snow may be deep in the pathway before,
And winter may close on our hearts more and more,
But winter must pass and the darkness must fly.
We can wait for the springtime; our hope cannot die.

The briers may climb round the gate we would pass,
With close twining tendrils and rank growing grass,
But what are the briers? They die while we watch
And break from the hinges and fall from the latch.
Then glad for our trial we enter the portal.
We can wait to be happy; our life is immortal.

If earth's joy were delayed till we whispered, "Too late!"
If death touched our hands as they opened the gate,
If from springtime and gladness our souls should be riven,
Something brighter and better would wait us in heaven.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning July 8, "The Power of Small Things." Text, Mark iv, 30-32.

"The kingdom of God is like a grain of mustard seed." The power of little things is a constant source of wonder to any one who observes. Daily life furnishes an endless succession of object lessons of this truth. What a contrast between the size of a seed and the plant which grows from it!

So is it in religious things. Beginnings are insignificant, but results are often wondrous in magnitude. It is so in isolated lives and true in associated bodies of men. One life, that of an obscure mechanic of a despised province of a hated people, has overturned all the old order of the world's thinking and doing and set men into new combinations and started life in a different channel.

The pyramids of Egypt have stood unchanged for ages only because the desert sands surround them and no Nile overflow reaches them. If fertile soil instead of dry dust was blown over and around them they would have crumbled in ruins ages since. Seeds of the tiniest would have been wind sown in their crevices and with busy rootlets have pried their massive blocks apart with more effective levers than were wielded by their myriad handed builders.

It is a not infrequent sight on New England hillsides to see a bowlder or great granite ledge cracked by frost, filled with soil by wind and rain, affording foothold for some nut or seed dropped by bird or squirrel, which, bracing itself, pushes up to light and with ever increasing strength pushes the crevice wider until it splits the rock and lifts the massive bowlder in its arms.

So grows the work of God in the personal life and in the processes of the world. Pontius Pilate crucifies Jesus of Nazareth, and in three centuries the cross of the condemned one becomes the conquering symbol of Cæsar and the empire. The mustard seed has grown to the proportions of a tree. The steady progress in numbers and influence and expansion of thought and scope of the church of Christ is the wonder of all the ages.

In spite of all tempests and efforts to uproot it; in spite of heat and cold, of drought and flood, the seed of Christ's planting has expanded, bursting husk and hindrances of all kinds until today it is the one dominating power on earth. It rules the parliaments, the workshops, the markets and homes of the people as no other influence among men. Its fruitage is not in temples of religion alone; it is the all powerful factor of expanding life and the one hopeful thing in the grasp of the race.

Open Air Life.

One of the sources of purest enjoyment possible to us is found in open air life. If eyes and ears are open, the morning walk will give a fund for thought and pleasant emotions which will do much to make life pleasant and of value. Whether we live in city or country, the processes of plant life can be watched to some extent and the new wonders developed with the progress of the seasons will furnish enough to occupy many hours of thought. Watch the insect life, the birds, the clouds. See things as well as folks. Close the ears to the babel of human sounds and listen to nature's voices. It is a great benefit to get an occasional day at the seaside and just watch the waters of old ocean. This is not idleness. Many a one who has grown heartsick and weary in the crush of life until the hold on God and all sweetness seem to have relaxed will get a fresh grip on life and new heart by just lounging a little while under the trees or by the water side. That is where the value of fishing as a recreation lies; not in the fish caught. That is a matter of small consequence. Any fish market will supply fish ready caught at small expense. But what cannot be bought are the restfulness and the recuperation of fagged powers which gain new spring and zest by floating on the bosom of the lake and lying on mossy bank. God is near us then.

The Motive That Subdues Selfishness.

Some Christians are bountiful fruit bearers, and the reason is that they draw all their supplies of grace and all their inspiration of daily conduct from their deep grown heart union to Jesus. Love of Jesus is the motive that subdues selfishness, and loyalty to Jesus holds them as a stout root holds a tree amid the blasts of winter's tempests or under the summer's parching droughts. Glorious old Paul was always abounding in the work of the Lord, and he tells the secret in it when he says, "Christ liveth in me." A drought never affects a well rooted Christian whose soul is in constant connection with the fountain head of all spiritual power.—Theodore L. Cuyler, D. D.

What company do you keep? Is it such that you could without a blush introduce Jesus among and ask Him to share? Do your friends love and honor your Saviour, or do they hold Him in light esteem and slight His claims? You are now making friends for eternity. With which will it be most agreeable to abide permanently—with Him or those who do not know Him? You make your own choice.

The founders of our republic were men who reverenced God and believed in the Bible. Among the first acts of the Continental congress was one recognizing the need of more copies of the Bible in the land and providing for the importation of 20,000 copies. So congress became the first Bible society, and it was over 30 years before the churches of the states took up the work thus begun.

"What you are speaks so loudly that I cannot hear what you say."

DOG CARRIES MAIL.

Twice a Day He Lugs a Heavy Bag from the Railroad Station to the Post Office.

Of all the mail carriers Uncle Sam has in this big country, none is more novel than a dog out in central Kansas, whose duty it is to meet a passenger train twice daily and take the heavy mail sack to his master's store. The post office of Dayton is a little country trading point and the single store is 30 rods from the Missouri Pacific track, where, morning and night, the passenger train goes whizzing past at 30 miles an hour. From the mail car a leather sack is thrown off by the mail clerk, and the postmaster, the owner of the big St. Bernard, "Nep," is supposed to pick it up and take it to the store. He used to do so, but now the duty devolves upon the dog, who has learned to do it well.

When the sharp whistle of the train is heard Nep gives an excited bark and hurries to the crossing and waits for the coming of the mail. The mail clerk kicks the leather bag out of the car door and it falls somewhere in the vicinity of the road. Nep at once goes to the sack and carefully taking it by the middle, so that neither and will drag on the ground, walks sedately to the store, where he lays the sack down behind the counter by the side of the wooden letter-case, into which the mail is soon distributed.

Day after day he performs this task, rain or shine. The mail clerk watches for him, and the people of the community are as proud of him as they would be of a bright child.

Nep is four years old, but is two feet seven inches in height and weighs 250 pounds. He has no difficulty in carrying the sack, though the mail is often very heavy with the weekly papers from the county seat, for his teeth are strong and he has carried over 100 pounds as a test of his strength.

He seems likely to perform the semi-official task for many years to come, and the people of his community think that he is entitled to a salary for his services.

The train men do not forget to throw off something nice for him to eat on holidays, but even though the gift is a toothsome bit of game or other meat, he never touches it until the mail of Uncle Sam is safe in the post office.—Chicago Record.

FOOLED HIM TWICE.

But the Third Time the Dog Knew It Was a Joke and Laughed at His Master.

Shepherd dogs are noted for their intelligence, and many instances are given of their understanding ordinary conversation, as well as the familiar commands that are addressed directly to them.

A story is told of a shepherd who once said to his dog, which was lying in a corner by the fire: "I am thinking, sir, the cow is in the corn." Though he purposely laid no stress on the words, the dog, which had appeared to be asleep, got quickly up, and leaping through an open window scrambled up the turf roof of the house, when he could overlook the field. But the cow was not in sight, as the shepherd knew, and the dog, descending, ran into the farm yard to make sure of the animal's whereabouts. Finding the cow there, he trotted back to the house and resumed his place by the fire.

After awhile the shepherd, in a quiet tone, repeated what he had said before, and again, with ready obedience, the dog went out to seek the cow. When he had once more stretched himself before the fire the shepherd uttered the words for the third time, but the dog then appeared to understand the joke, for he got up, wagged his tail, and looked at the shepherd with a gleam of humor in his eyes, as if to say: "My master, you're merry!" Nor did he offer to go out, but when his master and a visitor laughed he gave a growl of satisfaction and returned to his corner.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Monkeys Have Queer Ways.

A traveler in Brazil saw a troop of monkeys crossing a creek by his camp. They came along, as usual, traveling from tree to tree by interlacing limbs, and at the stream crossed on some vines. There was considerable skylarking going on, but the old ones marshaled all across the bridge except two, and they dodged behind trees. The travelers watched this couple select a log, seat themselves and indulge in deep conversation. Presently the larger one spied a fruit hanging on the tree above, scrambled up and in a few minutes was down again, and they were eating the fruit together. Plainly this was a monkey courtship, and for a half hour the human observer watched the couple, until at length they sprang up and ran away to join their comrades in the forest.

CAREER OF DR. MOORE.

Newly-Elected Methodist Bishop Is One of the Strongest Men in the Denomination.

Dr. David H. Moore, who was elected bishop by the Methodist conference at Chicago, is editor of the Western Christian Advocate. He was born near Athens, O., September 4, 1838. In 1860 he was graduated from Ohio university, entered the Ohio conference and was appointed to Bainbridge circuit as junior preacher. In 1861 he was stationed at Marietta, O. In May, 1862, he volunteered in the union army as a private, but was immediately elected the captain of company A of the Eighty-seventh Ohio volunteer infantry. He was surrendered with the force at Harper's Ferry by Gen. Miles, but was soon exchanged, and assisted in raising the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Ohio volunteer infantry, of which he became the major, and afterward the lieutenant colonel. He served in East Tennessee and in the Atlantic campaign. After the fall of Atlanta he returned to civil life and to his ministerial labors, and served in succession several prominent churches in the Ohio and Cincinnati conferences.

In 1875 he became president of the Cincinnati Wesleyan college for women, and in 1880 chancellor president of the Colorado seminary and chancellor of the University of Denver. In 1884 he was elected editor of the Western Christian Advocate at Cincinnati, O. He received the degree of A. M. from Ohio university, the degree of D. D. from the Ohio Wesleyan university and the degree of LL. D. from the University of Denver and Mount Union college. He achieved great success in establishing the Denver university. He is recognized as one of the greatest editors and pulpit orators of the church. He is a ready debater, and never fears to champion an unpopular cause when he believes he is right, as he showed recently in his advocacy of the rights of women in the general conference. He has been a manager of the general conference for several terms.

PASTEBOARD SUN DIAL.

Description of a Method by Which Any Patient and Ingenious Boy Can Make One.

Mankind first began to note the passage of time thousands of years ago, before the age of clocks, and the original thinker noticed that when the branch of a tree cast its shadow at a certain spot the day was half over; and then watching the passage of the shadow and marking the places over which it passed, he was able to divide the day first into halves, then into quarters, and at last into twelfths, thus getting the hours. Although we have clocks and watches to-day, it is interesting to retrace these steps in measuring time, and here is a method by which any patient boy can make his own sun dial, so that he can know the hour without calling to the cook to ask if it is time to dress for dinner. Take bits of ordinary cardboard, the tops of pasteboard boxes will do, and cut out some oblong pieces about a foot wide and a foot and a half long. Fasten two of them together lengthwise, on one side to form the pieces A B in the illustration. Then bend the edge of a third piece and paste it to B, so as to have it stand at right angles, and for D. Make a slit in 1, into which slide an upright piece, C. This last marks the hours by casting the shadow C along the diagram which is drawn on B by watching the shadow and comparing it with a clock. On account of the difference of the distance of places from the equator and the inclination of the earth to the sun the piece B is made moveable, so that it can be elevated to the position which experiment shows to be right. In this way, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat every boy can make his own sun dial and set it exactly so that it marks the hours of daylight correctly.

HOMEMADE SUN DIAL.
(Diagram Explains Fully How It Is Put Together.)

Jeppe Sorensen, of Webster place, has purchased a White racing wheel and is in training for a number of amateur events. He was not among the racers at the Driving Park Wednesday, as has been reported.

It is expected that all of the officials of the different racing organizations will be in Milwaukee during the week of July 10-15th, the week of the National L. A. Porter, of New York, president of the Century Road Club of America; A. C. Batchelder, chairman of the Board of Control of the N. C. A.; word to this effect was received yesterday in a letter from T. D. Hains, of Philadelphia, who has made arrangements whereby officials of the L. A. W., N. C. A. and C. R. C. of A., make the trip to that city in company with the Philadelphia delegation.

J. E. BAILEY'S FUNERAL.

MANY MEMBERS OF THE FIRE DEPARTMENT PARTICIPATED.

Uniformed Guard Accompanies Casket to Cemetery—Rev. C. E. Herring in Charge of Services.

One of the most impressive funeral services that has been held in Plainfield in a long time was that of the late James E. Bailey, which was held from his late residence on Watchung avenue yesterday afternoon.

The services were conducted by Rev. C. E. Herring, who spoke very feelingly to the bereaved wife and mother and also to the members of the department who were present. He referred to Mr. Bailey's cheerfulness up to the last, and to the faithful performance of his duties, always ready and always willing.

During the service, Harry C. Bush and Frederick Breem, of the regular department, acted as guards and stood at each end of the casket. Besides these two, the pall bearers were Walter Harrison, John B. Young, William Chamberlain and G. H. Freeman, of the call men

An escort, composed of a captain and one company of call men, accompanied the remains to their final resting place in Hillside cemetery, where a brief service was held.

The floral tributes were very handsome, two of which deserve special mention. The Firemen's Mutual Benevolent Association gave an especially appropriate floral piece in the shape of the association badge, with Mr. Bailey's number on it. The call men gave a beautiful floral fireman's hat.

LINE OF AUTOMOBILE BUSES PROPOSED FOR PLAINFIELD.

The proposed plan of giving the residents of the south-eastern part of the city rapid transit with the aid of automobile buses has found considerable favor. At the meeting of the Common Council Monday evening application was made for permission to to run the line of automobiles and the matter was referred to the street committee.

The Daily Press is enabled today to publish a cut of the type of automobile bus which is contemplated for use here. The vehicle will hold ten passengers inside and three outside beside the driver. It is a handsome vehicle, easy running, and propelled by electricity contained in storage batteries.

The proposed route of the line of automobiles is to start from the corner of Park avenue and Front street, passing out Park avenue to Martine avenue, to Woodland avenue, to Watchung avenue, to East Front street, to the starting point. It will take half an hour to make the trip, and it is proposed to have two stages, one going either way. The proposed fare is ten cents.

The chief argument in favor of the line is that a trolley company will hardly be able to get a franchise for a line through that section and that this means offers the only successful way of providing rapid transit to the people of that section.

Silas D. Drake was the original promoter of the scheme and claims to have a nnmber of prominent citizens interested. A company may be formed in the near future to control the stages. The vehicles can be supplied in a hundred days after the order has been sent in. That is likely to throw the successful operation of the line over until next spring at least.

UNDER CONTROL.

The Great Fire in Constable Hook Oil Refinery Will Not Last Much Longer if Kept in Bounds.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bayonne, July 6—The great oil fire in the yards of the Standard Oil Company at Constable Hook appears to be under control and, at 2 o'clock, will last hardly an hour longer unless the flames spread to some part of the yard heretofore untouched. So far twenty of the large oil tanks with a number of small ones, besides railway trestles and other valuable property, have been destroyed. The loss will be over $2,000,000.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Clifton, of West Sixth street, starts tomorrow on a trip to England where she will spend two months.

George Bonnell, formerly of the borough, but now of New York, has been visiting friends in Plainfield.

Burton Ford, of Richmond, Va., has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Harlot Burton Ford, of Watchung avenue.

Mrs. L. E. Linderman, of New York city, has been stopping for a few days with her friend, Miss Lillian Thorne, of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig A. Marsh, of West Eighth street, were to sail tomorrow on the ill-fated "Bremen." On account of the destruction of that steamer, they will sail a week later on the "Lahn" of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company. They will visit the Paris exposition during their trip abroad.

THROWN FROM STEP.

Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., Injured While Alighting From Her Carriage.

Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., was severely injured this morning, while stepping from her carriage in front of her residence, 59 Jackson avenue.

She rode down town in her carriage to do some shopping, and had returned home, and was about to put her foot upon the pavement when the horse gave a sudden start and threw her heavily upon the sidewalk. She was carried into the house, and Dr. J. B. Probasco, the family physician, was hastily summoned.

Mrs. Clark's right knee was severely strained. Her wound is not serious, however, although it will be some time before she will be able to be about again.

Y. M. C. A. Directors Met.

The regular meeting of the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. was held last evening, at which a number of members were elected. There was also an important meeting of the committee on educational work.

Officers Installed.

District Deputy and staff, of New Brunswick, installed the officers of Noah Dove Encampment, No. 28, I. O. O. F., last night.

—There will be baptism in the Seventh-Day Baptist church tonight, and the Lord's Supper will be celebrated tomorrow.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Borough Council will hold a regular meeting this evening, and it is expected that several matters of importance will be considered.

Closed for Summer Months.

L. A. Hummer, the Somerset street butcher, closed his place of business last evening temporarily. He has decided that, owing to the warm weather, high price of meat, etc., it is best to suspend business during the summer. Today he and his family left for Sunnyside, N. J., to remain for a time. Mr. Hummer intends to reopen his shop in the fall.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST DOGS.

BOROUGH COUNCIL DECIDES THAT UNLICENSED CANINES MUST DIE.

Mayor Smalley Pointed Out Excellent Results of Municipal Street Sprinkling—Borough Owns Lot in Methodist Cemetery.

A whole batch of routine business, with now and then a startling feature, occupied the attention of Mayor Smalley and all the borough councilmen, excepting Mr. Swackhamer, at the regular July meeting held last evening. The intense heat did not have any effect on the members and they did not seem to mind staying as long as there was any business to look after.

J. B. Mills and others asked for an electric light at the corner of Brook and Norwood avenues, and the matter was referred. Collector Brown's monthly report was as follows: Taxes, $115.79; interest, $418.66; special school, $49.15; Board of Health, $1.24; sidewalks, $26.40; Watchung avenue, $15; interest, $7.10; rent, $31; fines, $4; licenses, $14; dog tax, $1.10; Fairview avenue, macadamizing, $10 70; Duer street extension subscriptions, $390; bills payable by note, $1,000; cash, June 1st, $2,213.17; disbursements, $3,116 23; borough account, $537.16; Watchung avenue account, $243 92.

Mr. Clark, chairman of the committee on streets, presented his monthly report, also one for the past five months. The June report showed an expenditure of $1,067.33, as follows: Labor on streets, $355.80; sprinkling, $136.16; stone, $480.46; services of F. J. Hubbard, borough engineer, $26.50; Manhattan & Cashin, crosswalks, $52 49; incidentals, $15.85. The street work and crosswalks during the past five months cost $2,346.69, and the street sprinkling during the past three month has cost $319.89. The amount expended from February to date was $3,216 58, and the receipts from Duer street extension and Watchung avenue macadamizing, amounted to $190, making the actual expenditure $2,726.58.

Mr. Rogers, chairman of the light and trees committee, reported that the electric light globes throughout the borough had been changed, according to contract, which calls for seven changes a year. He also reported that the water company had located the hydrant, as ordered, on Myrtle avenue, between Giraud and West End avenues. He also stated that the telephone and electric light companies had agreed to paint their poles in the borough, and an effort will be made to have the telegraph company do the same.

Mayor Smalley called the attention of the Council to the fine condition of the borough streets as a result of the sprinkling, and he believed that the macadam roads would last a great deal longer as a result. The expenditure for sprinkling was agreed by all to be a wise one. The Mayor also called the attention of the Council to the fact that there is no place where the water carts and tools owned by the borough can be kept.

Another matter introduced by His Honor was that half of the dogs in the borough should be killed, and this subject was discussed at some length. It was decided that a dog must wear a tag and be registered, and that an effort shall be made to rid the borough of superfluous canines.

Mr. Valiant, in presenting the monthly bills, took exception to the price paid by the borough for the coal. He said that the officials ought to be able to get this commodity at a lower figure than now paid. The matter will be investigated.

It was necessary for the Council to borrow some money to meet expenses, and Mr. Valiant offered a resolution which provided for the borrowing of $2,500 for six months.

Mr. Valiant stated that Rev. Dr. Snodgrass, of this city, called on him yesterday and informed him that he believed that the borough owned a lot in the Methodist Cemetery on Plainfield avenue, 31x50, which was secured for the burial of the poor. He then stated that Dr. Snodgrass would like to have the borough appropriate about $10 annually for keeping it in good condition. He had also been informed that the Plainfield Council years ago had purchased a similar lot.

In reply to Mr. Valiant Clerk Rowley stated that Dr. Snodgrass call on HEALTHY READING.

Children of East End Can Still Get Library Books at the Bryant School.

It is perhaps not generally known to the children at the east end of the city that Public Library books are to be given out every week all summer at the Bryant School just the same as during the school year. The building is open every Tuesday afternoon from 3:30 to 4:30. Admission is by the teachers' entrance on East Sixth street. Those not having library cards can apply for them.

Some of the teachers of the Bryant school writes concerning the library books:

"Parents do not always consider how very much of the child character is formed by the books children read. Public Library books furnish safe, healthy reading food; and this branch of the Library as arranged for the summer offers too valuable an opportunity to be neglected."

WANTED FIRE HOUSE.

But Members of West End Hose Company Objected to Its Use as a Sunday-school.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Taylor, evangelists, residing in this city, have been impressed for some time past that there was a good field for a Sunday-school in Bull Frog City, and in view of this fact they have been endeavoring to secure a place to hold Sunday-school for one hour Sunday mornings. It was suggested that the West End Hose Company house would be a good place and Wednesday, while the men were on duty, Mr. Taylor called at the company house and canvassed the members, asking for a vote on the matter as to whether the men were in favor or not of the plan. It is to be regretted that the firemen by a majority voted in the negative, although no good excuse was offered for their doing so. The efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor have not ceased and they will try if possible to give the fifty or more children in that neighborhood an opportunity to attend Sunday-school.

FAILED TO CONNECT.

Forty-one Plainfielders in an Unpleasant Plight on Account of the Poor Trolley Service at Picton.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Rahway, July 7—The trolley cars of the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company failed to connect at Picton late on the night of July Fourth. There were forty-one passengers in the car from Rahway who were bound for Plainfield and vicinity. They were compelled to return to Rahway and reach Plainfield by the way of the train via Elizabeth. They reached home at 5 o'clock in the morning.

A Bank for Bernardsville.

The citizens of Bernardsville are taking hold of the matter of starting a bank at Bernardsville, with the result that $15,000 has already been subscribed, and it is thought that the balance of the stock will be taken within a short time. It is said that a building will be erected and leased to the bank. It is proposed to capitalize the bank at $50,000.

By good fortune he escaped without injury, but he was forced to leave his wheel at a repair shop and came home by trolley.

Rain Prevented Band Concert.

RAHWAY AFTER COL. HINE

WANTS FIVE CENT FARE TO WESTFIELD STATION.

Westfield and Elizabeth Company Has Observed Letter of Agreement, But Not Spirit of It.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Rahway, July 7—Rahway people are very indignant over the treatment of the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company concerning the fare between this city and Westfield. When the franchise was granted to the trolley company it was one of the stipulations that passengers should be carried between Rahway and Westfield for a single fare of five cents. Passengers are now carried from Rahway to Westfield for that price, but only to the outskirts of Westfield, and are compelled to walk into town or pay another fare.

After being dumped out on the outskirts of Westfield several times, the Rahway people are beginning to object seriously. Freeholder Farrell and other Rahway officials have taken the matter up and a conference was recently held with Col. E. W. Hine, of the street railway company. The Rahway men are trying to make arrangements whereby passengers will be carried clear through to the Westfield station for the single fare.

Nothing definite was accomplished at the conference, but Col. Hine showed a willingness to treat the Rahway people fairly and Freeholder Farrell is confident that the concession asked for will be granted.

EXEMPTION ALLOWED.

Bruce & Runyon Won an Important Point for Their Client in the Stites Estate Case.

Attorneys Bruce & Runyon, of this city, procured an adjudication of importance in the Stites estate yesterday in the Somerset County Orphans' Court. A client, having filed his inventory as administrator, showed that he had allowed as exempt property, goods and chattels, and had given them to a son of the decedent who had resided with the latter all his life. The Surrogate refused to allow the exemption, because the son was married. Lawyers Bruce & Runyon, on bringing the matter before the Orphan's Court, maintained that inasmuch as the parties lived together as one family in the old homestead, and did not maintain separate establishments, that the son was entitled to this exemption. Judge Schenck in the Orphans' Court sustained their contention.

Sharks in Raritan Bay.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Perth Amboy, July 7.—Sharks have made their appearance in the Raritan Bay and Staten Island Sound about Boynton Beach. William Brown and Judge Robert J. Wiglie succeeded in landing a seven-foot two-inch shark yesterday morning, after waiting three days to catch the monster. While fishing off the red buoy near the Port Reading coal docks yesterday morning the shark bit at a tempting weak fish and was landed, but only after a fierce struggle of a mile towards Perth Amboy.

TOLD DOG STORIES AT COUNCIL MEETING.

Borough Councilmen Took a Little Relaxation From Business Owing to Heat.

HOW DISCUSSION STARTED.

CONSIDERING MAYOR SMALLEY'S SUGGESTION ABOUT DOG KILLING.

Councilman Lee Suggested Target Practice for Dog Killers, As They Frequently Managed to Kill the Wrong Dog.

The discomfiture caused the Mayor and Borough Council last evening at the July meeting by the almost unbearable heat was relieved somewhat by an amusing discussion concerning dogs. When Mayor Smalley stated that one-half of the canines in the borough should be killed he happened to be looking at Councilman Valiant, whereupon the latter quickly replied, "You needn't look at me." This caused a hearty laugh on the part of the members, all of whom know that Mr. Valiant has a dog of fine breed, which is said to have given some people trouble at times.

Mr. Rogers insisted that the new law concerning dogs should be enforced, and he asked Mr. Lee, chairman of the committee on marshals, to see that all dogs not properly registered be treated in a legal manner.

Mayor Smalley was opposed to authorizing any number of persons to shoot dogs, for invariably the wrong dogs are shot. This brought forth the suggestion from Mr. Lee that the necessary target practice be given to those intending to act as dog-killers.

After this discussion on dogs, Mr. Valiant could not resist the temptation to relate a dog story. Some time ago Mr. Valiant's family went for a drive to Scotch Plains, and their dog could not be persuaded to stay home. He insisted on following the carriage and he kept close to it until Scotch Plains was reached. He was then so tired that he could go no further. The family returned home wondering what had become of the dog. About 9 o'clock that night the animal appeared at the Valiant home none the worse for his trip.

This brought to the mind of Senator Reed a story concerning a dog owned by Augustus VanDeventer, of Myrtle avenue. Mr. VanDeventer had a very fine dog, but he could not keep him about his place. He took him to Neshanic, where he arranged to put him on a farm. Mr. VanDeventer returned believing that the dog would be all right. To his great surprise he found the animal in his yard the next morning when he left the house. The dog had run all the way home, and must have started soon after he was left in the country.

Another story related by the Senator produced hearty laughter. He said that a friend of his started off one day on a trip and he took a valuable dog with him. The canine was properly registered and had a tag on when the start was made. When he had been in the baggage car for a time the official asked the owner where the dog was going to, saying that the dog had swallowed the tag and had no idea where he was going. This story the Senator likened to the Democratic party which had swallowed its tag and could not tell where it was going.

TROLLEY CAR STRUCK.

Bolt of Lightning Disabled One of Brunswick Traction Company's Cars Near Bound Brook.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, July 7.—One of the closed cars of the Brunswick Traction Company, running between here and Dunellen, was struck by lightning last evening at 7:45 o'clock, half a mile east of this place. The fuse and lights were burned out and the passengers, numbering twenty in all, badly frightened. One woman had hysterics and was quieted with difficulty. The car was in utter darkness. After waiting half an hour for aid, most of the passengers got out and walked to Bound Brook and took the train for their various destinations. No one was hurt, although all felt the shock.

JERSEY LEADERS TALK.

DEMOCRATS SAY THAT THE TICKET WILL BE STRONG IN JERSEY.

Interviews by Correspondent of Philadelphia Record—Martine is Delighted.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Philadelphia, July 7.—Charles Reade Bacon, special correspondent of the Philadelphia Record, who has accompanied the Jersey delegation to Kansas City, interviewed several of the Jersey leaders last night.

State Chairman Gourley will remain in the city for the first meeting and organization of the new National Committee, of which he is now New Jersey's representative. Then he will take a little trip further west before returning home.

After the adjournment of the convention yesterday Mr. Gourley said to Mr. Bacon:

"This convention has made a ticket that will be strong in New Jersey. The platform, as a whole, will meet the approval of the people. It may not have been practical politics to adopt the free silver plank; but, whatever the result at the polls, the financial policy of the country cannot be changed for several years to come—so there will be no feeling of insecurity in the campaign.

"You must remember that this is a very big country and when representatives, loyal men from all its quarters, confer and manage to harmonize their divergent views, I think it is pretty safe to say that the outcomes come pretty near reflecting the general sentiment.

"We expected a modification of the platform and used our best efforts in that direction, but as we were not able to secure what we thought best we are willing to accept the situation, and will go into the campaign in good order and spirit with the earnest desire to win.

"About August 1st we should have a meeting of our State Committee, to confer upon the work of the campaign. We shall organize the whole State by means of district clubs and shall have representatives from every county to confer with us, as the work progresses. We shall join hands in the effort to win, and we are very hopeful of the cause."

"The ticket is first-class," said Delegate Thomas M. Ferrell. "A great combination, and it could not have been better. It was great politics to name that ticket."

Delegate Martine was perhaps the most pleased man in the twenty from New Jersey, for the great popular wave with which Mr. Bryan swept the nomination was what Mr. Martine regards as an indication of the great man. With what little voice he had left Mr. Martine said:

"Oh, I'm delighted, that's all. The ticket will win by an overwhelming majority; we will get New Jersey once more into line, and why shouldn't we be happy."

GLOBES BROKEN.

Irving De Hart Accused by Constable Sebring for Bound Brook Light Company.

Breaking lamp globes belonging to the Bound Brook Electric Light Company may prove to be costly amusement for Irving De Hart, of South Second street, who was brought before Justice Nash this morning on complaint of Constable Sebring, of Bound Brook. The young man, in company with Robert Jackson and a number of others, had been at Bound Brook attending a ball game and on their return home, it is alleged, broke the globes. Jackson has already been arrested.

De Hart was held in the sum of $50 bail to await the action of the Somerset county Grand Jury. He was represented by William N. Runyon.

Hard Luck for Circus Men.

Hard luck seems to have pursued the managers of the Hargreaves shows, for they were unable to give their performance last evening, on account of the thunderstorms. Their tent was almost totally wrecked at Somerville Wednesday, and it took them until yesterday to put it in order.

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS.

Big Time for Elizabeth Firemen Wednesday and Thursday of Next Week.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, July 7.—Next week Wednesday and Thursday will be gala days for the firemen of Elizabeth, the famous Bussey Engine Company, of Troy, N. Y., being the guest of Rolla Engine Co., No. 2, of this city.

The visitors will arrive here on the evening of the 11th, and will be received by a committee from the Rolla Company and escorted to their hotel.

At 8 o'clock a short parade through Broad street will be made, and the guests marched to the assembly room in Jacobs' Theatre, where a banquet will be tendered them. The Rolla Company has asked the citizens along the line of march to illuminate and show the Trojans what an Elizabeth welcome is like. Thursday a special programme of entertainment has been arranged.

FIRST AND LAST.

Too Much Drink Made Trouble for Frank Lottenbauer—In Court This Morning.

Frank Lottenbauer, a clerk in the employ of a butcher of this city, was arraigned before Judge Runyon in court this morning charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct on West Front street last evening.

Lottenbauer, on his way home from work last evening, visited the saloons along the route and by the time he reached West Front street was very much under the influence of liquor.

An officer seeing that Lottenbauer's was in a rather helpless condition, assisted him to his house. He did not appreciate the officer's kindness, however, and soon returned to town and became more boisterous than ever. This time the officer offered him assistance of another nature, and Lottenbauer was conducted to the station house.

When arraigned in court this morning he pleaded guilty to the charge, and as it was his first offense the Judge was lenient and fined him $3 or eight days. Lottenbauer says it was his first and last drink.

OFFICERS INSTALLED.

Important Meeting of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, Knights of Pythias, Was Held Last Night.

The annual installation of officers of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., was held last evening at the lodge rooms in the Elkwood building. The officers were installed by Grand Chancellor S. J. Robinson, of this city, and his staff consisting of Messrs. Blimm, Flannery, Pope, Drake and McGinley.

After the installation, speeches were made by the newly-elected officers and other members of the lodge. Following is the list of officers installed with the exception of inner guard, J. E. Flannery being elected to the office, but for obvious reasons declined to serve: Chancellor commander, John J. Crouse; vice-chancellor, John Kirch; prelate, James Armstrong: master-at-arms, Ernest Higgans; outer guard, Peter Strem; master of work, Robert Lee.

Gone To Wisconsin.

Many Plainfielders will be interested to learn that Louis Provost Peeke, of East Millstone, who graduated this year from the McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago, has received and accepted a call from the Presbyterian church at Fond du lac, Wisconsin. His ordination and installation took place on the evening of June 20th. Mr. Peeke has many friends in this city who will be pleased to learn of his success.

Mrs. S. S. Swackhammer, of the borough, is spending a few weeks with her mother, Mrs. Mary E. Herr, of Whitehouse.

BUILDING OPERATIONS DURING MONTH OF JULY

Thirteen Permits Provide for $55,000 Worth of Work in the City.

FIVE NEW RESIDENCES.

MOST IMPORTANT EVENT IS ERECTION OF SAFE CO'S. NEW FACTORY.

Two Buildings Going up Now That Will Cost $25,000—More to Follow in the Near Future—Two New Barns.

June proved a good month for the local builders despite the fact that only thirteen permits were issued during the month by Building Inspector T. O. Doane. Those thirteen permits provided for near $55,000 worth of work in the city.

The most important event in local building circles was the breaking of ground for the large factory of the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Company which is now being erected at the corner of Clinton avenue and South Second street. The main factory is 80 feet by 95 feet and provides for an extension as large in the near future. There is also a boiler house that will be 40 feet by 45 feet. The cost of the buildings now in the course of erection will amount to $25,000. The buildings that will be built later will cost nearly as much more. The factory buildings are of brick and are built to stay.

Two handsome dwellings are now in the course of erection as additions to that charming little colony on Dunellen avenue near Albert street. One is owned by Jeremiah Manning & Son and the other by Peter Merquelin. Oakey & Son, of Elizabeth, were the architects for the first and J. Manning for the second. J. C. Manning holds the contract for the carpenter work in both cases, while the mason work is divided between Seaman Williams and William Tallamy. These residences will cost $5,000 each.

Three new residences are going up in the Second ward. Edwin Willis is the owner of a house building on South avenue, near Berkeley avenue. John Lloyd was the architect while John Lloyd and Cormick Caufield hold the contracts for the carpenter and mason work, respectively.

James E. Martine is putting up a charming residence on his new thoroughfare, Thornton avenue, near Park avenue. It will cost $4,000. John Lloyd is the carpenter and Cormick Caufield the mason. A pretty cottage is being built at the corner of Putnam avenue and Webster place by William H. Abbott. Its cost is placed at $2,500. J. C. Abbott is the carpenter and Wyckoff the mason.

The other permits provide for new barns for John Karl, 219 Lee place, and Mrs. Bertha S. Whitney, of West Fourth street, and for repairs and additions to a number of residences.

PULPIT SUPPLIES.

Those Who Will Fill the Pulpit of First M. E. Church During Pastor's Vacation.

Some changes have been made in the arrangement of the supply for the First M. E. church during the month of August when the pastor, Rev. Dr. W. O. Snodgass, will be away on his vacation. The correct list is as follows:

August 5th, Rev. Dr. George H. Whitney, of Plainfield; August 12th, Rev. Dr. Stephen J. Herben, of New York; August 19th, Prof. Robert W. Rogers, Madison, N. J.; August 26th, Rev. Dr. J. L. Huribut, New York city.

Fell From Repair Wagon.

Another accident was added yesterday to the already long list of those occurring on the Arlington avenue extension of the street railway, when Peter Winn, a lineman, lost his balance by a sudden jolt and fell from the top of the repair wagon. It was a very lucky fall, however, as his injuries consisted only of several cuts and gashes in his head, which were dressed by Dr. J. T. Fritts. This makes about the fifth accident which has occurred on this line and the workmen are glad that it is now completed.

Marriage of Former Plainfielder.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Mrs. Anna Balen-Hooley, formerly of this city, but now of Elizabeth, to Dr. Stephen J. Keefe, an assistant surgeon of the Third Regiment. The event took place last Tuesday at the residence of the bride, 423 Trinity place, Elizabeth, in the presence of near relatives, and Rev. Dr. E. B. Cobb, of the Presbyterian church, of Elizabeth, officiated. Dr. Wm. B. Martin was the best man, and Miss Julia Balen was the bridemaid.

CONVENTION CLOSED.

Adlai E. Stevenson Named For Vice President.

POSITIVE DECLINATION BY HILL.

Pronounced Ovation For the New Yorkers—Vote For Towne Light. Chairman Jones Re-elected by National Committee.

KANSAS CITY, July 7.—The Democratic national ticket was completed yesterday by the nomination of Adlai E. Stevenson for vice president. The nomination was made on the first ballot, state after state joining in the wild scramble to record their support of the winning candidate. It was not accompanied by any such frantic demonstration of approval as had marked the proceedings at previous stages, although the result followed a spirited and at times highly dramatic contest between the advocates of Stevenson, Towne, Hill and the lesser candidates. The distinct triumph of the day in the way of a popular ovation was that accorded to Senator Hill and in its spontaneity and enthusiasm was one of the most notable features the convention has produced. It was accompanied, too, by a remarkable scene when Hill earnestly protested to his friends against being placed in nomination and then, finding his protest in vain, when he strode to the platform and in tones which left no doubt of their sincerity earnestly besought the convention not to make him the nominee.

On the call for nominations Alabama yielded to Minnesota, and the latter state presented its young champion of silver Republicanism and Democracy, Charles A. Towne. The mention of his name was the signal for a flattering demonstration in his honor, men and women joining in the outburst. Far off in a corner of the auditorium a young woman could be seen frantically waving in one hand a lithograph of the Minnesotan and in the other the stars and stripes. On the floor the Nebraska, Minnesota and one or two other delegations joined in the demonstration, but it was noticeable that it did not evoke any widespread enthusiasm among those who were about to do the voting. Gradually other delegations began to rise, some of the New Yorkers getting to their feet, and for a moment it looked as though the convention might be carried off its feet. But against this was heard a counter storm of protestation and discordant hisses. For ten minutes the demopstration for Towne lasted with varying degrees of intensity.

Meantime attention was being directed to an excited group massed in front of the New York section, with Hill as the vortex of a struggling throng of delegates. They pressed forward from all quarters of the hall urging him to permit his name to be placed before the convention. The face of the New Yorker was a study as the demands upon him came from all sides. He sat in the front row of delegates, with ex-Senator Murphy on his right and Judge Van Wyck on his immediate left. A second seat away was Mr. Croker. Hill protested vociferously. Judge Van Wyck said he could not refuse. Murphy and Croker pleaded with him to obey the will of the convention and accept. While the pleadings continued the call of Delaware was heard above the roar, and Delaware yielded her place to New York. At this the bulky form of Senator Grady, the silver tongued orator of New York, pushed through the densely packed aisles up to the platform. There was a hush through the hall to hear what word New York had to offer.

"In behalf of the united Democracy of New York," shouted Grady, "I present as a candidate for vice president the name of David Bennett Hill"—

The effect was electrical, and a tidal wave of enthusiastic approval swept over the convention. Delegates stood on their chairs and waved frantically, not in a few scattered groups, but in a solid phalanx. Flags and standards were again mingled in triumphant procession, while a roar as from Niagara pulsated through the great structure. Grady stood there proudly waiting for the storm to subside. But as he waited the audience saw a strange pantomime. They saw Hill leave the New York delegation and push through the throng up to the platform. They could see him appeal to Grady to withdraw, while Grady's answer was apparent from the shake of his head and his advance to the front of the platform to continue his nominating speech. When the demonstration had subsided, Grady completed his speech placing Hill before the convention. But as he stepped from the platform the man who had just been placed in nomination took his place. The senator looked out sternly, even savagely, on the shouting thousands. When he could be heard, he made due acknowledgment of the honor done him. "But I cannot, I must not, be the nominee of this convention," he declared with explosive emphasis. He was frequently interrupted with enthusiastic shouts of approval, but when he left the platform the delegates were firmly convinced from his words and manner that he was sincerely desirous of having his name withheld. It is probably this alone which prevented a nomination by acclamation then and there, for the tempestuous spirit manifested showed that the convention was on the point of being carried off its feet.

It was soon apparent that with Hill out, Stevenson was a strong favorite. State after state seconded his nomination—Georgia, Indiana, Virginia, Iowa, Kentucky, Illinois. Some of the devoted friends of Hill still maintained their allegiance to him, and the delegations of New Jersey, Louisiana and some others seconded his nomination. A number of favorite sons also were placed in nomination, Maryland bringing forward Governor John Walter Smith, Washington naming James Hamilton Lewis, North Carolina nominating Colonel Julian Carr and Ohio presenting the name of A. W. Patrick. It was after 2 o'clock when the seconding speeches, many of them wearisome, were concluded and the balloting begun. As the roll was about to be called Mr. Lewis appeared on the platform and in a few well chosen words withdrew from the contest. The vote was followed with intense interest, for when Alabama announced three for Stevenson and 19 for Hill it looked as if a close and exciting contest was to occur.

But it was soon evident that Stevenson had a strong lead. At the close of the call he had 559½ votes, which, however, was not enough to nominate, the requisite two-thirds being 624. Hill had received 200 votes and Towne 89½. But before the announcement of the result a strong lunged delegate from Tennessee stood on a chair and announced, "Tennessee changes her 24 votes from Hill to Stevenson."

DAVID B. HILL.

That started the tide irresistibly toward Stevenson. From every quarter of the hall came demands for recognition. Alabama changed to Stevenson, California did the same. North Carolina changed from Carr to Stevenson. Even New York finally and reluctantly announced its change from Hill to Stevenson. That ended it. Stevenson's nomination was assured, although for some time longer the various states continued to record their changes from Towne and other candidates to Stevenson. In the end the nomination was made unanimous. Its announcement was greeted with enthusiastic approval and again state standards and banners were borne about the building in tribute to the party nominee.

Senator Jones of Arkansas has been re-elected chairman of the national committee, and all the officials of the last national committee have been re-elected—Governor Stone of Missouri vice chairman, C. A. Walsh secretary and John I. Martin of Missouri sergeant-at-arms.

A protracted meeting of the conference committees of the Democratic and Populist and Silver Republican parties was held at Lyceum hall last night, at which the vice presidential situation was discussed with a view to bringing about it possible an agreement between the three parties. The members of the Democratic committee urged the Populist and Silver Republican representatives to use their influence in urging their parties to the support of Bryan and Stevenson.

It was finally decided to hold another conference later between the Democratic committee and subcommittees from the Populists and Silver Republicans, the result to be reported to the full committee of the two latter parties for approval.

STEVENSON'S CAREER.

Adlai Ewing Stevenson of Illinois, the nominee of the Kansas City convention for vice president, has had the honor of filling that office, having been elected with Grover Cleveland in 1892.

Mr. Stevenson was born in Christian county, Ky., Oct. 23, 1835. His family has been distinguished in the history of both Virginia and Kentucky. In 1852 Mr. Stevenson moved to Illinois. He was admitted to the bar at the age of 22.

In 1874 he was elected to congress and two years later defeated in the same district. In 1878 he again went to congress and in 1880 failed for a re-election.

In 1884 he was a delegate to the Democratic national convention and when Cleveland took office was made first assistant postmaster general.

He was a delegate at large to the Democratic convention of 1892 and received second place on the ticket with Cleveland.

Stevenson is a Democrat of the old school. Personally he is a kind hearted man and genial and has much of the magnetism that attracts men to him.

After his retirement from the vice presidency his only public office of note was as a member of the monetary commission appointed by President McKinley in 1897 to go abroad and study the European systems.

Bryan Three Times Nominated.

KANSAS CITY, July 7.—After a longer and exciting debate, during which it looked several times as if Charles A. Towne would be nominated for vice president in spite of his protest against such action, the national convention of the Silver Republican party adjourned sine die without making a nomination, the whole matter being referred to the national committee with power to act. W. J. Bryan was made the unanimous choice of the convention for president during the morning session, and it was the intention to complete the ticket in the afternoon by the nomination of former Congressman Towne. The action of the Democratic convention, however, in placing Adlai E. Stevenson in nomination took the delegates off their feet, but most of them asserted their determination to nominate Mr. Towne notwithstanding. For two hours Senator Teller, former Congressmen Shafroth of Colorado and Cheadle of Indiana and others made speeches in favor of indorsing the Democratic ticket, but it was not until Towne himself appeared and appealed to the convention not to nominate him, but to concentrate their forces, that the delegates calmed down, and the vice presidential nomination was referred to the national committee.

Stevenson Seems Pleased.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 7.—The news of his nomination at Kansas City was given to Adlai E. Stevenson at the summer cottage of his son-in-law, Rev. M. D. Hardin, at Lake Minnetonka. Said Mr. Stevenson: "This comes as a great surprise to me. I was not a candidate at any time and never expected to be nominated. But of course I shall accept the call of my party. Indorse the platform? Of course I shall. How else could I accept? I believe the Democrats generally will support the ticket. I had expected to do some campaigning anyway, but now I shall do a great deal more."

TUTUILA AND GUAM.

New Governments Reported to Be Working Satisfactorily.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The navy department has received a report from Commander Tilley, the naval governor of the Samoan island of Tutuila, showing the satisfactory workings of the new government established there by the navy. The natives appear to be perfectly satisfied. Commander Tilley has asked permission of the department to enlist as landsmen in the United States navy 80 of the natives of Tutuila, whom he proposes to organize into a military police closely corresponding to the United States marine corps. The commander says that the natives are fine, stalwart fellows, who would make excellent policemen.

A report also has been received from Captain Leary, naval governor of the island of Guam, filled with the details of the administration of the island affairs and embodying copies of several formidable proclamations which the energetic naval officer issued from time to time to correct the faults of the natives and bring about administrative reforms. It is believed at the navy department that Captain Leary has already been relieved of his command as governor of Guam, as Commander Seaton Schroeder, who was ordered to relieve him, is about due at Guam.

STANDARD OIL FIRE.

Loss Now Estimated at $2,400,000. Fire Department's Great Fight.

NEW YORK, July 7.—The fire at the Standard Oil company's works at Bayonne is practically under control. It was thought yesterday in the afternoon that the fire in tanks 10 and 14 would extend to 9 and 13 and thus render the whole plant subject to total destruction. The efforts of the combined fire departments of the Tidewater and Standard companies, using 14 streams, to keep the two threatening factors cool were successful, and despite an unfavorable wind the tanks did not ignite.

The official estimate of damage is $2,400,000. The Standard Oil company insures itself, a fund being set aside for that purpose.

The Bayonne fire companies have been at work continuously for 36 hours. The loss is as follows: Twenty oil tanks and contents destroyed, paraffin plant, including pressroom, in which was installed very expensive machinery; the sweetening plant portion of the new refinery, crude stills, 15 Union line tank cars and contents and four cars of the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Terrible Suffering In Kumassi.

LONDON, July 7.—The colonial office has received a dispatch from the governor of the Gold Coast Colony, Sir Frederic Mitchell Hodgson, dated Atekwauta, June 26, saying that owing to the non-arrival of the relief column and the reduction of the food supply he had decided to push through the rebels and had deceived the enemy regarding the route followed. The column suffered great privations, but the loss was only six men killed and several wounded. Governor Hodgson expressed the hope of reaching the Gold Coast in ten days. He added that the suffering at Kumassi was terrible, the mortality from starvation being 30 persons a day. The column of the governor numbers 400 and includes all the Europeans, among them being the members of the Basel mission.

Patent Office Record Broken.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—A summary of the year's work in the patent office by Commissioner Duell shows the cash receipts have been $1,358,228, a larger sum than in any previous fiscal year. The total number of patents, 26,540, also breaks the record. There has been a corresponding increase in the number of trade marks and labels registered. A corresponding increase for the coming year will necessitate some addition to the already increased force of the office. The commissioner urges the erection of a suitable building to be occupied solely by the patent office.

Supposed Murderers Found.

DOVER, N. H., July 7.—Four men giving their names as John Williams, John Farren, William Scott and Frank Gold, supposed to be the men who murderously assaulted four Dover residents on the night of July 4, resulting in the death of two of them, John McNally and Thomas Dobbins, were rounded up about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Assistant City Marshal Wilkinson and a posse of officers and placed under arrest after a fierce resistance.

Highway Robbery.

GENEVA, N. Y., July 7.—A bold highway robbery occurred here in broad daylight and but a block away from the principal business portion of the city. The highwayman secured but $8. The victim was Mrs. Oliver Broshard. The robber used a revolver. He made good his escape.

Woolen Mills Shut Down.

PROVIDENCE, July 7.—The Weybosset mill of the American Woolen company at Olneyville has closed for a week to curtail production. Five hundred operatives are affected. The big Riverside mills of the same company and the Washington mills are closed for two weeks.

President of the Rabbis.

A CITY OF SLAUGHTER

Peking the Prey of Fanatics. Frightful Atrocities.

ALLIES POWERLESS TO PREVENT.

Foreigners In Tien-tsin Saved by Russians, Who Held Out Until American Troops Came—Large Quantity of Arms Found.

TIEN-TSIN, June 29, via Shanghai, July 7.—Those best informed in Tien-tsin consider that the position of the foreigners in Peking is almost hopeless. It is hopeless to attempt to force the way with the force available. Commanders are willing to resort to desperate means, but to attempt a forced march from Tien-tsin with the forces at hand means certain destruction to the army besides the slaughter of the civilians left at Tien-tsin.

Enough soldiers are necessary to defeat the Chinese army, maintain communication with the base of supplies and guard the hospitals en route. The water supply is an important problem in a country furnishing none except river wells, which are being poisoned.

The Chinese are committing terrible atrocities upon the wounded.

They are mutilating all the dead which fall into their hands.

General Tung-Fuh-Siang, with 10,000 of the best disciplined troops in the Chinese army, Mohammedans, is marching from the southwest toward Peking. The army thereabouts numbers 50,000.

The empress fled to her summer palace. The Mohammedan Boxers are fighting in Peking.

There are whisperings and startling and sensational rumors which are floating around without apparent reliable sources of outraged English women and tortured children and public executions in the streets of Peking of even women and children—a story of frightful atrocity which will shock Europe. In fact, it may be almost taken for granted that the whole foreign quarter of Peking has been completely wiped out.

Ten regiments of General Nieh's command north of Tien-tsin are reported to have deserted and gone to pillaging the country.

No unfriendly Chinamen are visible in the streets. A few of the richest with their families are huddled in the outskirts for protection, badly frightened.

Others, concealed in various houses, shoot at the Europeans on the street.

The Chinese dead about Tien-tsin number thousands. Most of those who have been killed lie unburied in the fields. The river to Taku is full of floating bodies, and many have been washed up by the tide. Dogs are feeding on these bodies along the banks.

The small American contingents everywhere distinguished themselves. Captain McCalla and Major Waller are most popular at Tien-tsin. Their men are placed in the lead of every movement. By common consent the British are close beside them.

The foreigners in Tien-tsin declare, however, that they owe their lives to the Russians, without whom the other small detachments must have been overwhelmed on that darkest Wednesday when the Chinese were pressing on every side and the bravest men were abandoning hope. The Russian commander, Colonel Wozack, arranged the main body with the civilians to make a sortie in the direction of Taku. He left 400 Russians to defend the city and engaged the attention of the Chinese, the intention being for them to ultimately sacrifice themselves.

The arrival of the Americans saved the day. Their arrival proved a complete surprise.

Among the military evidences of immense Chinese military preparation for war may be mentioned that arsenals and stores hitherto unknown have been discovered with $10,000,000 worth of arms and ammunition of the most modern type. These arms and ammunition have been destroyed. In three arsenals outside of Tien-tsin several thousand troops under General Nieh are holding the native city five miles north of Tien-tsin.

FREE HAND FOR JAPAN.

Russia Will Allow Liberty of Action. More Troops to Land.

LONDON, July 7.—The Russian government announces that it will give Japan a free hand to apply military force in China. The terms of this consent are summarized in the subjoined dispatch from St. Petersburg under date of July 6. In reply to an inquiry from the Japanese cabinet regarding the dispatch of Japanese troops to China to render aid to the foreigners in Peking the Russian government declared on May 27 that it left the Japanese government full liberty of action in this connection, as the Tokyo cabinet expressed its readiness to act in full agreement with the other powers.

It is in consequence of this no doubt that Japan is preparing to embark 20,000 more troops. Political considerations that were thought to have been numbing the action of the powers are thus laid aside for a moment at least by the government supposed to have the clearest purposes respecting China's future. Japan's sending of troops now can have little bearing on the fate of the foreigners in Peking.

Recitals of further horrors in Peking are gathered by correspondents at Shanghai from Chinese sources, especially of the slaughter in the Chinese and Tartar city of thousands. The ruthless thirst for blood is spreading in all the northern provinces, and wherever there are native Christians the scenes enacted in the capital are reproduced in miniature. From these stories nothing further comes regarding the legation forces except a repetition that they are all dead. The correspondents aver that if the Chinese officials in Shanghai wished to throw light on the real state of affairs in the capital they could do so, and therefore the worst reports are accepted as true.

The Tien-tsin correspondent of The Times in a dispatch dated July 3 says:

"Twenty-two hundred Japanese troops, with 14 guns, have arrived at Taku, and 800 are expected tonight."

Emperor William Offers a Reward.

BERLIN, July 7.—Emperor William has telegraphed to the commander of the German squadron in Chinese waters, to the governor general of Shangtung, to the viceroys and to others offering 1,000 taels to any one accomplishing the deliverance of any foreigner of any nationality whatever now shut up in Peking who is handed over to any German magistrate and offering to pay the expenses of the publication of this offer in Peking.

THE NEEDY BOERS.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—When the Boer envoys were in Washington a reception was given them at the Grand Opera House, at which a number of senators and representatives spoke. Representative Sulzer presided, and in the middle of the meeting he stopped the proceedings to call for subscriptions for the "benefit of Boer widows and orphans." Captain Patrick O'Farrell acted as treasurer.

Some of the contributors to the fund have been asking for an accounting, and Captain O'Farrell has voluntarily made a statement showing that the amount received, including amounts received before and after the arrival of the envoys, for the expenses of the reception was $1,134.38. Of this sum $18 remains for the Boer widows and orphans. Captain O'Farrell is going to send this $18 to Dr. Leyds, the Boer representative in Europe.

Captain O'Farrell explains that the rest of the money went for expenses. Fireworks, decorations, the use of carriages and the hotel bills of the envoys while in Washington were all paid out of the fund, together with their expenses back to New York.

ROBERTS REPORTS FIGHTING.

Paget Engaged With the Boers at Pleisirfontein.

LONDON, July 7.—General Paget is moving toward the heart of the country held by De Wet.

Lord Roberts telegraphed to the war office under date of Pretoria, July 6, 2:23 p. m., as follows:

"Paget engaged the enemy on July 3 successfully at Pleisirfontein. He drove them out of a very strong position across Leeuwkop to Broncrifontein, where he bivouacked for the night. He followed up the enemy, and on the afternoon of July 4 was at Blaauwkopje, 15 miles northwest of Bethlehem.

"He reports that all of Steyn's government officials, except the treasurer general, who has gone to Vrede, are at Bethlehem, which has been proclaimed the capital. Steyn himself is reported to have taken flight to the mountains.

"Buller reports the line to Heidelberg restored, thus completing railway communication between Pretoria and Natal."

Lourenco Marques on Friday learned that the Boers were showing fresh activity. A British force is reported within 40 miles of Koomatipoort.

Boer Envoys In Paris.

PARIS, July 7.—Messrs. Wessels, Fischer and Wolmarans arrived in Paris last evening. They were met at the station by the president of the municipal council and several senators, who invited them to be present at a reception to be given at the Hotel de Ville on Tuesday next. The crowd which had gathered at the station greeted the delegates with acclamations, and a few persons cried, "Down with England."

Cloudburst In Iowa.

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., July 7.—It is reported that a cyclone and cloudburst last night destroyed the village of Steamboat Rock. The report is partly verified by the fact that the Iowa river rose five feet here within an hour. A cloudburst between St. Anthony and Searing, 22 miles west of this city, washed out nearly a mile of track on the Iowa Central railroad and caused great damage to crops. The heaviest storm of the season raged here.

Newfoundland Has a Surplus.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., July 7.—The colonial revenue for the fiscal year ended June 30 was $2,057,000, being the largest in the colony's history and $35,000 in excess of that of last year's total. Besides liquidating the deficit in last year's account, subscribing $20,000 to the imperial patriotic fund and providing for enlarged expenditures for the year just ended, the treasury has a surplus of $140,000.

Naval Movements.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The Yankton sailed Thursday from Fort Monroe for Portsmouth. The Philadelphia has sailed from Astoria for Port Angeles. The Chesapeake has left New London for a cruise ending at New Bedford. The navy department has authorized 253 days' repairs on the Alliance and ten days' repairs on the Potomac.

ORDERED FROM CUBA

Three Infantry Regiments to Leave at Once.

DESTINATION IS NOT ANNOUNCED.

Officers Are Hoping For a Taste of Service In China—Army Circles Aroused by Recent News From the East.

HAVANA, July 7.—Military Governor Wood has issued orders to the departments to have the Second, Fifth and Eighth infantry regiments ready for embarkation as soon as transports shall arrive. The Eighth is practically ready now, as it has not been scattered, while the Second and Fifth have been divided among various districts. Three companies of the Tenth regiment will proceed to Morro castle at Santiago to relieve the Fifth, while troops of the Eighth cavalry will relieve the companies of the Fifth stationed at Guantanamo and Sagua de Tanamo. Baracoa will be relinquished as a military post. A company of the Tenth will relieve the Second at Trinidad.

The members of the Eighth regiment are delighted with the prospect of soon seeing home, though many officers hope they will be rushed right to China. Indeed, the latest cables have aroused the feelings of Americans here, particularly in army circles, and a general desire is expressed among the officers to be allowed to go to the far east if further operations are undertaken there by the United States.

La Lucha, in its English edition yesterday, published an editorial expressing sympathy with the Chinese. The article says: "Had China been revengeful she would have passed an exclusion law against foreigners similar to that adopted by the United States against the Chinese."

Otis Called to Washington.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—General Otis arrived in Washington yesterday from his home in Rochester in answer to telegraphic summons from the war department. He called immediately upon Secretary Root. The general spent the entire morning in close conference with Secretary Root, General Miles and Adjutant General Corbin. In answer to an inquiry as to the nature of his business he referred all questioners to the secretary of war, but the latter declined to make any statement on the subject. It is supposed that the general has been called to Washington to inform the authorities as to the military situation in the Philippines with special reference to the possibility of calling on the troops there for further re-enforcements for the United States forces in China.

News From Alaska Goldfields.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The following report of the condition of affairs in the Alaska goldfields has been received at the war department from General Randall, dated Anvil City, June 21: "Forty-two vessels in harbor; about 18,000 people, estimated, on shore. Quiet prevails. Transport Rosecrans in attempting to make her way through the icefields was driven aground on the flats off the mouth of Yukon river. Had to be partially unloaded. Later the reports from her say she is safely off and reloading. No injury or loss of life reported. She is expected in this port within four days. Athenian arrived safely, discharged animals here and proceeded to St. Michael's before my arrival."

Roosevelt In Canton.

CANTON, O., July 7.—The home city of the president yesterday accorded to his colleague on the Republican national ticket an ovation almost unprecedented even in Canton. It would be hard to say whether the citizens of Canton voiced a more demonstrable welcome to President McKinley or to Governor Roosevelt, yet it may be said with truth that Canton did not discriminate in this demonstration, the first occasion on which the Republican candidates for president and vice president have personally met since the Philadelphia convention. Governor Roosevelt arrived in Canton over the Valley railroad at half past 5.

Vagt Held For Hoboken Fire.

NEW YORK, July 7.—On the charge of having set fire to the tenement in Hoboken, the destruction of which on Tuesday morning last caused the loss of 13 lives, Henry Vagt, a saloon keeper, was arraigned yesterday. Jersey at Convention.

Now that the Democrats gathered out in Kansas City have had their little say and chosen their standard bearers for the coming National campaign, it will be proper for the Jerseymen to return to the peace and quietude of their own State. Jersey did not figure to any great extent in the convention except when Governor Hogg and his associates of Texas managed to get into the seats intended for their New Jersey neighbors.

Congressman Daly and James E. Martine, of this city, both had an opportunity to speak on the convention floor. The former seconded Hill's name on behalf of New Jersey while the "Farmer Orator" presented the set of resolutions that thanked Kansas City for its hospitality to the Democratic forces.

Both of the great parties have now selected their candidates and presented their respective platforms to the public gaze. The Republican managers are already rolling up their sleeves and pitching into the opening work of the campaign. As soon as the Democrats recover from their outing to Kansas City, they will follow the example of their Republican brothers and the fun will begin.

Which Will It Be?

McKINLEY and ROOSEVELT.

BRYAN and STEVENSON.

Which will it be? That is a question for the voters of this country to settle. The great political parties of the land have made their choice and it lies between them as to which will possess the Presidency and Vice-Presidency. There will be several other candidates in the field. The Prohibition ticket and the Socialist-Labor vote, but they will be included in that class commonly referred to as "also ran."

The successful advertiser enters on a systematic campaign to achieve publicity, says the Philadelphia Record. He studies his field and decides on the kind of impression he wants to make. He keeps his object distinctly in view, while giving novelty and freshness to his announcements. The results of persistent and judicious advertising are so great that they justify the merchant in giving careful attention to that branch of his business.

The Common Council is expected to select a Councilman to fill out the unexpired term of Frank H. Smith at the adjourned meeting Monday evening. The name of Charles W. Runyon is still the only one prominently mentioned. Mr. Runyon is a quick and practical thinker and is accustomed to say what he thinks. There may be livelier meetings than ever when he is in the Council.

The mere suggestion of a line of electric buses passing through the city streets cannot but inspire the thought that Plainfield is well up to the times.

Plainfield is fast being well represented at all the prominent summer resorts. The promise of cool weather for July has not been kept.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Martine up, Daly down, 'Rah, 'Rah, 'Rah! The whirligig of political events has placed the "Farmer Orator" in the van of the New Jersey Democracy. Yesterday Davis and Daly and Gourley and Meany were on top, and Martine was underneath the wabbling pile. They opposed 16 to 1, and Daly declared it was beaten. They relegated Mr. Martine to silence, the worst possible treatment they could invent for him, and would not let him lead the New Jersey delegation. But Bryan prevailed, 16 to 1 prevailed and Mr. Martine, of all the New Jersey delegation, stands justified and pre-eminent in his party. He alone stood up for Bryan, though obedient to the caucus, and Bryan will doubtless stand up for Martine. 'Rah for Martine; he's the head of the heap.—Elizabeth Journal.

* * * * *

There will be sorrow and indignation among the genuine Bryan Democrats of New Jersey, when they learn that their one and only genuine representative on the delegation from this State to the Kansas City convention has been turned down and sat upon by his fellow-delegates. "Farmer Orator" Martine, of Union county, who, by the grace of Bob Davis, was selected as a delegate-at-large, has been snubbed, reviled, insulted and at last forcibly repressed. In his ambition to be made the representative of New Jersey on the resolutions committee, he met the fate of David B. Hill for reasons exactly the reverse of those which brought about the latter's defeat. William D. Daly, opportunist and anything-to-win statesman, was preferred before Martine, the enthusiastic advocate of consistency to principle.

This was the first rebuff. The second came in the convention hall when Mr. Martine was moved to a display of protesting oratory over the vociferous applause which Daly, Gourley, Cornish, Meany and other Jerseymen led for David B. Hill. Mr. Martine insisted that Hill in no way represented the principles of which Bryan is the living exponent and he was right, but his protests were drowned by the combined volumes of noise made by the other members of the delegation. In the melee of all kinds of opprobrious epithets were hurled at the "farmer orator." General Meaney, it is asserted, denounced him as "a lunatic on the silver question," and by sheer brute force the one voice which spoke for the true Bryan Democracy of New Jersey was overwhelmed.

But Mr. Martine's opportunity may come when the platform is brought before the convention for discussion. Then he may make it known to all the world that all New Jersey Democrats are not of the straddle-bug variety. It is to be hoped that Mr. Martine's jaw is flexible and that his tongue needs no lubricant.—Newark News.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The friends of James E. Martine are awaiting his return from the west with interest. The idea of the "Farmer Orator" waging war on the convention floor with the bewhiskered Texans is delightful and they are quite anxious to learn to what extent Mr. Martine participated in the scrap that the newspapers report took place between the two delegations. Those who know Mr. Martine well and have seen him when thoroughly excited, can easily imagine a lively scene. Mr. Martine is the best natured man in the world when he is treated properly, but an attempt to deprive him of what he considers his rights is apt to bring about a decided interview.

One of the most careful employes of the Plainfield Street Railway Company is Motorman Phil Maguire. Maguire has been running on the Arlington avenue extension since that line was opened with Martin Lance as his conductor. Maguire has been in several situations when a lack of nerve and care would have resulted in a bad accident. The other afternoon as his car was passing along Arlington avenue a horse at the curb became frightened and whirled around in front of the car. In an instant the motorman had his car stopped and backed out of the way. His prompt use of the reverse lever undoubtedly prevented an accident. An amusing feature was the surprise of the passengers when the car halted suddenly and made a dive backward. When Conductor Lance felt the sudden stopping of the car he shouted, "Hold fast." The passengers did as he bid, but Lance himself tripped over the threshold of the doorway and measured his length in the aisle of the car.

Gentlemen:—I must say in regard to GRAIN-O that there is nothing better or healthier. We have used it for years. My brother was a great coffee drinker. He was taken sick and the docter said coffee was the cause of it, and told us to use GRAIN-O. We got a package but did not like it at first, but now would not be without it. My brother has been well ever since we started to use it.

Yours truly, LILLIE SOCHOR.

BRIDGE WORK

In Dentistry is the best substitute for nature's work that can be done. Sound roots may be built up and crowned and thus fill up an unsightly space. It has to be made of a material that has strength and durability and one that will not discolor. Gold is the one that stands the test. That is the secret of the expense. But the advantages of a bridge over a plate are many times more than the cost of one compared to that of the other.

CHILDREN'S FASHIONS.

Dresses For Very Little Children and Little Girls.

Very small children wear the simplest possible frocks, gathered or plaited at the top only and having short sleeves and a low neck. They are held in at the waist by a sash with fringed ends, which is tied in a double bow at the back. The material for these frocks is all that is thin and delicate—lawn, nainsook, muslin, both dotted and plain; dimity, and organdie—and they are most carefully made. The trimming consists of tucks, horizontal, vertical or oblique; lace, insertion, and embroidery.

At 6 or 7 years little girls already have dresses which indicate the form more clearly, but are not tight. The bodice descends a little below the natural waist and has a slight blouse effect in front. Trimming is arranged around the shoulders so as to increase the apparent width. The skirt comes down below the knees and is not very full, following the general shape of women's skirts. The prettiest are those which are plaited all around, regularly or in groups, or are gathered at the belt, but the plain, flaring skirt with plumes at the back only is also seen.

The cut illustrates a pretty dress for a little girl. It is of deep blue mousseline de laine, trimmed with bands of white braid. The skirt is gathered at the waist. The blouse bodice is crossed in front and closed diagonally over a plastron braided with white braid. The wide collar of white etamine is cut in points and bordered with two bands of blue like the dress. The sleeves have bands of braid at the waist. The sailor hat is of deep blue straw with a white ribbon.

MILLINERY FASHIONS.

Hats and Bonnets of All Sizes and Varieties.

Fashion, which is notably eclectic this year, is particularly so where millinery is concerned, for no two hats are alike. Toques are trimmed in front or at the left side and chiefly accompany tailor made gowns and walking costumes for morning use and general utility. Large, much trimmed hats, with a wide brim and narrow crown, are worn with more elaborate and elegant gowns for driving, calling, etc.

Black and white in combination promise to be as fashionable as ever. All white and all black also are much worn, especially for hats and bonnets. For elderly ladies there are charming bonnets of spangled black tulle, with strings of plain white tulle and a decoration of fine white feathers. These are evening bonnets.

Wire hat frames are covered with stretched heavy guipure, which is then embroidered with knobs and cabochons of straw. There are also neapolitan braids mingled with gold threads and gold cabochons, which are very beautiful accompaniments to elegant gowns.

Today's illustration shows a new model of a capote. It is made on a small frame and the crown is completely covered with a mass of small red strawberries, with their green leaves, which are slightly reddened. In front is a plaited scarf of water green mousseline de soie which forms three erect loops and a knot.

TRYING ON A BONNET.

Milliner Tells of One Instance in Which a Commonly Practiced Dodge Didn't Work.

"I would rather wait upon a dozen men than upon one woman," exclaimed a young lady clerk in a downtown store the other day. "It is almost impossible to please a woman, especially if she wants to buy a hat. They find defects in a faultlessly made article that even the most expert milliner could not discover, and use all sorts of devices to beat us down in prices."

"The complaint is well taken," said a well-known milliner upon being informed of the clerk's remark, "and that is not the worst phase of the matter. There are women—and you would be surprised if I should mention their names—who come into my shop each season and try on all the hats I have in stock. After occupying a great deal of my time they will perhaps order one of two hats sent to their homes on approval, and the next day or a day or two later send them back with pinholes in them, and with a note saying that Mr. Blank didn't care for either, but that they'll call later—which they never, by any chance, do.

"Then, a week or two after, I'll see them with a home-made copy of my French model on their heads, and you can guess at the rage I feel. Well, the other day one such feminine schemer came into our room. We all knew her, and so one of the clerks attended to her rather reluctantly and gave a very significant shrug of her shoulders when she ordered a $25 hat sent up on approval. I was amused also, of course, but I said nothing, and the bit of headgear was carefully packed and sent to her that afternoon. That night I went to the theater and, sitting right in front of me, was my customer of the morning, wearing the hat she had on approval. I took care that she shoud see me; indeed, as we passed out, side by side, I whispered that I thought she had never looked better. Her face was really a study, but the next day we got a check for $25, and so for once her ladyship was bested. We are well rid of her now, I know, for it's quite certain she'll never come to our shop again. The feminine schemer dislikes very much to be made to buy anything."—Chicago Chronicle.

BLUE MONDAY HINTS.

Washing Clothes Is an Uninviting Subject; Yet It Will Pay to Have the Work Done Right.

Clothes soaked over night are more readily loosened of dirt than if washed without any preparation. Mend all rips and tears before allowing the clothes to go to the wash, and remove any stains.

Prepare the clothes for soaking in this manner: Sort them into three piles, the fine white pieces that are little soiled, the medium soiled pieces and the dark, heavy pieces.

Fill tubs with tepid water, mixing dissolved soap shavings and washing soda well into the water. There should be three tubs, one for each pile of clothing. Allow the clothes to soak over night.

In the morning wring the clothes from the water and plunge them into a tub filled with hot water and dissolved soap shavings and soda. Wash and rub them until they are as clean as they can be got, then rinse them in a second tub of hot water and soap and put in a boiler over the fire. The water in the boiler should be cold at first, and a little soda added to it if the water is hard. Let the water come to a boil in order to scald the clothes, then rinse them in two waters, and then in bluing water. The bluing water should never be too dark. A good way to test it is to take a handful from the tub, and if it is a light blue it is the right color.

Flannels will require more care. They should be washed in water as warm as the hands can bear and in strong suds. The water should not be hot. Rinse in waters of the same temperature, and quickly. Do not rub the flannels nor wring them with the hands.

Iron them before they are quite dry.—N. Y. World.

Keep a Diary for the Baby.

A baby's record is worth keeping for the mother's personal pleasure, and for the baby's perusal and amusement in the future, when the first smile, the first tooth, the first short dress and the first articulate words are things in the dim distance of the past, remembered by no one, except, perhaps, the devoted mother herself. One of the dainty books provided for the purpose makes the keeping of the record an easy task and preserves it for reference without difficulty.—Ladies' Home Journal.

HUMOROUS.

"That little boy seems as busy as a bee." "Yes, he has hives."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Hicks—"Is it true, then, that you're living beyond your station?" Wicks—"Yes—two miles."—Collier's Weekly.

She (after a tiff)—"Perhaps you would like your ring back?" He (coolly)—"No, thanks; don't trouble. I buy 'em by the dozen."—Cigarette.

Husband—"Why do you go in for such elaborate dresses? What's the good of all that embroidery?" Fond Wife—"Why, just to show that I can afford them, you idiot."—Larks.

The Poet's Wife—"They say that poetry is a drug on the market." The Poet—"Nonsense. If you'd ever sold any poetry and bought any drugs you'd know the difference."—Harlem Life.

Police Magistrate—"What do you mean by saying the defendant's words carried weight with them?" Plaintiff—"I mean, your honor, that he swore at me and then hit me with a brick."—Ohio State Journal.

"I must confess to you," he said, in a burst of confidence. "I'm an odd man. I'd like to be different if—" "This is so sudden!" she cried, throwing herself upon his neck. For she, too, was odd and she had longed to be even."—Philadelphia Press.

"Still they come," wrote the reporter, who in his secret heart called himself a "journalist." "But, no," he mused, "that is hardly appropriate for a headline to the preliminary account of the women's rights convention." And he carefully crossed out the word "still."—Baltimore American.

VARIEGATED MONOTONY.

The Dreary Sameness of Our Lives Is a Splendid Exhibition of Our Power.

Hearing the wind booming abroad in a pine wood, or the surf pounding a spit of lonely and shifting sand, may be taken as typical of monotony; but at times one feels that a large part of life is keyed to an unvarying level of expression as strangely meaningless as any natural feature of things can be. Our daily labor has its sing-song hum, like the buzz of a bee or the purr of a drowsy cat, when there is no interruption, and we easily admit the impression that because work is the same all the year round it must of course be uninteresting, the business of a droning intelligence and a mechanical existence.

Looking steadfastly into life's countenance, however, is apt to disclose to us a deeper significance flowing under the placid surface of our experience. What passes before a casual gaze as a dreary monotony, a depressing sameness of sound and motion, appears to the earnest eye a splendid exhibition of our power—a fine mode of human energy making for the perfect destiny of the race.

Naturalists tell us that the wind in the treetops, making the lonesomest of moans, has for a function the gentle swaying of the tall boles, which communicate their motion to the deepest roots in the ground, thus assisting in aerating the soil and adding racy vigor throughout the complicated subterrane tangle which feeds the whole mighty plant. It is not different with us; the continual monotony of the business of life, with its droning sameness from day to day, somehow stirs the spiritual part of us to the profoundest depth.

Indeed, we may distinguish genius from the lesser endowments by its ability to make the most of what common minds deem the merest surface drift of opportunity, too ordinary and plentiful to be of any value. What we call invention is but a fresh setting together of verities as old as the stars and as monotonously beautiful. Discovery is nothing more than surprising a hidden link in a uniform chain. Not a machine of all man's mighty wonder work of mechanism has in it a single departure from the law of force and motion.

Habit enforces regularity, which is but another name for monotony, and we may safely assume that what we call "good breeding" is the outward manifestation of an inward habit, the result of undeviating example, precept, practice; in a word, the monotony of culture. Even the gorgeous surprises of epoch-making genius have flashed upon the world with a rhythmical, recurring beat, so that in reading history we mark time by them and keep pace with the centuries by even and regular steps. The great poets, painters, musicians, the statesmen, soldiers and philosophers, who have stirred up the deeps of human life and changed the current of civilization here and yonder, appear, as we look back at them, surprisingly to correspond with a certain splendid plangency in the current of time which throbs as regularly as the pulse of a strong, calm man.

And what a fine, stimulating sight it is to see the brave column of to-day pressing right on up the same monotonously laborious incline toward the winking and still infinitely distant star of destiny! What Pythagoras heard as the music of the spheres was but the rhythm of human activities, the steady, onward, undeviating and regular throbbing of life's changeless current. Law is method in operation, and method is monotony.—Maurice Thompson, in Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

Extent of Ocean Cables.

At the present time the extent of ocean cables is nearly 200,000 miles. The total distance of all land wires it is impossible to state with exactness, but it is rather more than ten times the total for the cable systems. In the United States alone there are about 800,000 miles of wire in use.—Ainslee's Magazine.

THE SYRIAN COLONY.

Its Quarters in New York Have a Genuine Oriental Air.

As Traders the Turbaned Sons of Damascus Are Without Rivals —What Policeman Maloney Thinks of Them.

[Special New York Letter.]

JUST west of Trinity church, within a radius of five blocks of the corner of Rector and Washington streets, in the heart of the downtown district, a colony of 10,000 Syrians form a city unto themselves.

IN A SYRIAN SHOP.

The domes and minarets of the oriental metropolis are wanting; the gayly-colored turbans and the loose Turkish trousers; the wide sashes and the quaint upward turned pointed shoes are the exception rather than the rule—but the jargon and the patois of the east are there; the eagerness for trade and barter is heard on every hand; the shops are thrown open to the street, inviting an inspection of their wares of tawdry semi-barbaric finery. On the first floors of dingy buildings bedecked with dull-colored flags and bunting men with dark skins and dusky-faced women are sitting about the little tables in the smoking rooms and drinking places. The walls are covered with eastern draperies and from the ceilings are suspended the square brass lamps of Turkey. The odor of the sweet-scented cigarette is everywhere. Men and women smoke incessantly. Along the street may be heard the cries of the peddlers in that peculiarly sharp, yet musical, tongue. They are selling all kinds of food and merchandise upon the streets. You may buy a platter or a set of dishes from the owner of a perambulating crockery store. You may get a bit of Turkish tobacco from a tobacconist's booth on wheels. You may select a soup bone and a handful of vegetables from the push-cart of an enterprising tradesman. Little bakery shops are trundled here and there, and steaming hot from within wicker baskets are the big, thick pancakes, a foot and a half in diameter. One will not want for the necessities or the so-called luxuries of life in the Syrian colony. Even the shoemaker will stop at your very door and repair your footwear while you wait. You may see in the long hallways leading to the different apartments in the tenement buildings boys bearing the ghookas—the Turkish water pipes—and you may hear the tinkling of cymbals and the voices of singers. On every side is that undefinable air of the east. There is the subtle perfume of sweet gums and spices. There is the sensuous languor of the Turk that is infectious, and one has but to close his eyes to be transported in his fancy to the Bagdad of Ali Baba.

The Syrian colony in New York has grown very rapidly in the last few years. The first Syrians came over to this country 25 years ago to escape the religious and other persecutions of the sultan of Turkey. The number in this city is difficult to estimate, as they are divided among the various branches of Asiastic Turkey, and no real census has ever been obtained. The number has been placed as high as 25,000, but the most conservative estimate it from 10,000 to 15,000. It is probable that 10,000 is about the right figure. Scattered throughout the United States there are about 100,000 Syrians.

There is some dispute in regard to the exact nationality of these people. If you ask one of the shopkeepers to what race he belongs he will promptly tell you that he is a Syrian. On the other hand, a highly-educated Turkish doctor, who has an office in Washington street near Rector and who is an assistant at Bellevue hospital, insists that there is not a Syrian in the city of New York. He maintains that they are all Turks. However, Mr. Najeeb M. Diab, the managing editor of the Meraat Al-Gharb, a Turkish weekly paper, informed me that this was absolutely untrue. He said that he was a Syrian and that most of the people in the colony were Syrians. He said there were some Turks and some Armenians here. I think the difference of opinion grows out of a confusion of religious names, and as the term is generally understood, I consider that the colony may be considered for all intents and purposes as composed of Syrians.

The Syrians of New York are divided into four religious parties: Greek Orthodox, Catholics, Marionets and Protestants. The Protestants attend the churches of all denomination, the majority, however, favoring the Methodist, the Congregational and the Presbyterian. There are very few Mohammedans in this country, and those who are here remain only temporarily for the reason that the United States government does not tolerate the establishment of the harem, and that institution is a part of the religion and the very life of that type of Turk.

The Syrians are rapidly becoming accustomed to the ways of this country. They like the form of government and fully 2,000 of them have taken out naturalization papers. Mr. Shockry Saleeby, who is one of the proprietors of a Turkish bazar in Rector street and whose father is a Christian missionary in Mount Lebanon, is enthusiastic in expressing the loyalty of the Syrian people to America. He says they will come over to this country in great numbers; will become citizens, and good citizens, ready to take up arms, if need be, for the protection of their future home. Mr. Saleeby is an exceedingly well educated man. He speaks English fluently and is greatly interested in the welfare of his race. While the majority of the Syrians speak only their native tongue, they are learning the English language rapidly, and the children who attend the public schools are growing up full-fledged Americans.

There are classes among these people, just as there are among all races. There is a Syrian "four hundred" swell set that is very exclusive and is composed of wealthy members. The richest man of the aristocratic class in America is Mr. Tafanyan, an Armenian importer of Turkish rugs, who is reputed to be worth $3,000,000. The lower classes make a livelihood as common laborers; the next grade higher as peddlers; and the middle class as shopkeepers and tradesmen generally. The poor people live in the tenement houses huddled after the manner of the Italians. They are dirty and ignorant. They have the characteristics of the oriental as to shrewdness and the manner of the Frenchman as to politeness. The educated men of the race say the people are industrious and honest. They are certainly thrifty and economical and they eke out an existence and actually secure a competency under conditions and circumstances where an American would starve.

I asked a keen-witted, observing Yankee groceryman, who has kept a store in the midst of this colony for years, what he thought of the Syrians as a class. He closed both eyes and meditated for a moment. Then he said:

"The Russian Jew is a white-winged angel of justice in a trade compared to a Syrian."

The big Irish policeman who keeps things straight in the neighborhood of Morris street remarked:

"Well, faith, I suppose the Sarians live like ahny other of the hathens. I'll say this for thim, like the pig-tailed Chinamen, they kape clear av the sthrong arm av the law. They be no crooks among thim, but they do say in a thrade they be powerful shifty."

There are several papers published in the Syrian colony—all in Arabic. The most important tri-weekly is the Kawab-America, and the most influential weekly is the Meraat Al-Gharb—the Mirror of the West.

The Syrian population is increasing so rapidly in New York that it is only a question of a few years when their quarters will assume the air of an oriental city, and be as much of a curiosity as Chinatown or the Ghetto.

FREDERICK BOYD STEVENSON.

How Brown Revenged Himself.

Two Joneses lived next door to each other, and having to call on one of them, Brown, of course, went to the wrong house. A crabbed servant answered the bell, and on Brown asking: "Is this Mr. John Jones'?" she replied, snappishly, as if she had been bothered with many such inquiries: "No, it ain't," and slammed the door in his face. Brown walked on a few yards or so, when a bright thought struck him. He returned at once and rang the same bell again. Again the crabbed servant appeared. "Who said it was?" asked Brown, triumphantly, and walked away.

Had His Nerve with Him.

A wounded man went to the Red Cross hospital in New York and said he was a soldier, and had been shot in the Philippines. It turned out that he was a burglar and had been shot in the hip.

A TELEPHONIC PROBE.

It Locates Bullets and Other Metallic Fragments in the Body with Striking Certainty.

Most of our readers will remember the "induction balance" with which President Garfield's surgeons unsuccessfully endeavored to locate the bullet that caused his death, and which figured largely in the sensational press reports of the day. The latest form of this instrument is a telephonic probe, which is thus illustrated and described in the British Medical Journal, quoting from a recent work on "Therapeutic Electricity:"

"It was De Wilde, a civil engineer, who (1872) first proposed the use of the electric bell as a signal of a metallic body in the tissues. An improvement on this is the telephone probe. Its action depends on the difference of potential between two different metals, and upon the delicacy with which the telephone will disclose an electric current so engendered. A thin sheet of pure silver is placed upon an indifferent part of the body, and attached by means of a wire having a telephone in circuit to a silver probe or heavily plated exploring needle. If the probe be inserted into the tissues the telephone is silent, because there is no differnce of potential that the telephone will register; but immediately a metallic body other than silver is touched there is a fall of potential, a current is produced, and the telephone indicates the fact. Used to verify the localization of foreign metallic bodies whose presence has been shown by radiography, this probe is a strikingly effective device."

FROGS AND THEIR LEGS.

Among the Forty Different Species Known Louisiana's Four-Pounders Are the Biggest.

Forty species of frogs are known to the world, according to the frog man of the Smithsonian Institution, who has given the matter laborious attention. As this is the frog season it is interesting to know that the crop promises to be an unusually large one, and that the market price should not be exorbitant. Less than a quarter of a century ago only a few people ate frogs; but now they are generally eaten. The government's frog man will not acknowledge that Canada produces finer frogs than the United States. He contends that in the marshes back of the Potomac, the Louisiana swamps, and the swamps and marshes of New York state are to be found the largest, finest and most succulent frogs in the known world. It is admitted, however, that the Canadians understand the art of preparing frog legs for market in a manner superior to Americans, and that this fact has brought the Canada frogs prominently before the lovers of good things to eat. He believes that frog farming is certain to be one of the most profitable industries of many parts of the United States, and that already many men are engaged in it.

Of the 40 species of frogs known, the largest is the gigantic bellower of the Louisiana swamps, which grows to four pounds' weight, and is one of the most choice for table use. Next come the Potomac and the New York frogs, all large and of superior flavor. There is not a state in the union in which fine eating frogs cannot be found in abundance.

It is asserted that the pickings on the body of a frog are just as good as the meat on the legs, but in the days before the deluge frogs grew to such size that the legs furnished sufficient meat to satisfy all demands without eating the body, and apprently the custom has been kept up. Geological sharps have dug up petrifactions and fossils to prove that in those days frogs grew to be as large as a man. The present day frog man gives little consideration and reverence to such stories.

A frog's leg is one big mass of muscle, and there should be little wonder that he is a jumper. The frog is astonishingly like the man in some physical respects, and therefore useful for some experiments. On the other hand experiments show that a frog deprived of its brains will live and eat and pursue existence in a sort of automatic manner.—N. Y. Sun.

A Growl and a Remedy.

A learned professor in a New England college has protested against the laying with asphalt of the street in front of his residence. He admits that it is clean and noiseless, but complains that the street is now used to a great extent by bicycle riders. The learned professor is evidently lacking in logic. To the ordinary observer it is plain that the reason why this particular street is crowded with the cyclists is because there is no other street fit to ride on. The remedy is not to rip up that piece of asphalt, but to lay other streets with asphalt, and thus distribute the wheel travel. Is it not strange that a college professor does not know that?—Golden Days.

ANOTHER ROLLING BOAT.

Its Inventor Is a Canadian Who Thinks His Device Will Revolutionize Ship Building.

Despite the many failures that have attended the efforts on the part of a number of inventors to construct a boat to roll its way through the water, vessels of this type are being constantly brought to the front. There seems to be a deep-rooted idea in the minds of some few designers that the passage time between the two continents will be halved in this way, and the fascination of thus lowering the time between the two worlds is so great that there seems to be some one hammering away in this direction constantly. An entirely new design is heralded from Canada, shown in the accompanying cut from the Scientific American.

This craft has been constructed at the boatyard of Walter Dean, of Toronto, and it is about to be put to a trial roll. The vessel consists of a cigar-shaped steel hull, which is encircled for about a third of its length by an outer revolving cylinder. The cigar-shaped portion of the vessel contains the motive power and the crew and the outer cylinder, which serves as a propeller, is provided with projecting metal plates which are wound helically around it in the form shown in the illustration. The outer cylinder revolves upon the inner cylinder, friction being reduced by interposing carefully constructed roller bearings. It is driven through a gear wheel, 12 inches in diameter, which works in a water-tight case and engages a circular rack formed upon the inner face of the outer cylinder. The vessel is driven by a four-horse power gasoline engine. In order to prevent any rotary movement of the inner cylinder it is provided with a keel which is about 12 inches in depth and is hung below the vessel in the manner as shown. The keel is also intended to prevent the vessel from making leeway. The shallow depth of the keel and the fact that it weighs only about 125 pounds will render it difficult to keep the boat on an even keel and it has been suggested that a deeper keel, carrying a cigar-shaped weight, something after the fashion of the bulb keel racing yacht, would give better results. In addition to the accommodation within the hull there is a deck at each end which is protected from the wash of the water by coamings, connection from one deck to another being held by means of a bridge, which extends above the revolving cylinder.

DEPTHS OF THE LAKES.

What Would Happen If Their Surfaces Were Suddenly Lowered to the Sea Level.

If the chain of great lakes which bound the northern limits of a portion of the United States could be brought to the level of the sea two of the chains would be practically wiped off the face of the earth. Lake Michigan would become two lakes much smaller than the present majestic body of water which lies off Chicago. Chicagoans could travel on what is now the bottom of the lake as far north as a point midway between the shores of Milwaukee and Grand Haven without getting their feet wet.

No system of lakes presents as wide variations of extreme depth as the big fresh water system. Beginning with Superior and following the chain eastward, they vary from 1,386 feet to but 210. They are respectively 602 feet above the sea level for Superior, 581 each for Michigan and Huron, 573 for Erie and but 247 for Ontario. Superior is far the deepest, with Michigan second. Ontario is close on its heels, being within a few feet of Huron, while Erie is so shallow that its greatest depth is 36 feet less than the midlake depth of Michigan between Chicago and St. Joseph. Erie can claim but 210 feet extreme depth.

As good an object lesson of what the lakes have to offer is the course between Chicago and St. Joseph, Mich. The coast is measured from the lights of the two harbors. Beginning from this side the government pier, already quite a way out, has a depth of some 36 feet. The lake shoals on this side so that the extreme depth of the spoon is a trifle beyond the middle of the 57-mile course. It drops rapidly, however, from 16 in the river to 246 out in the lake. But on the other side, within a couple of miles of the shore, the depth drops from 24 feet to 166 with frightful rapidity. By the time the second song is sung leaving St. Joseph the singer is over some 40 fathoms of water.

Superior, if reduced to the sea level, would be robbed of two-thirds of its dimensions. The extreme depth is well east of the middle line. Michigan has her greatest depth, 1,000 feet up, toward the Straits. Huron is less than 800, while Erie is very shallow. Ontario has a depth of 735 feet, owing to the falls of Niagara. If all were brought to sea level, Erie would be 500 feet above, Michigan would be a couple of ponds, Huron almost out of it, Superior a lake not much larger than many another, and Ontario the largest of the system.—Chicago Chronicle.

Western Precious Stones.

It is perhaps not generally known that in the United States, on the banks of Yogo creek, Montana, an extensive mine is in operation, producing as fine sapphires and rubies as are found in the world. Sapphires and rubies are both varieties of the mineral corundum. Burmah and Siam were formerly the only localities for these gems.

WARMER TOMORROW.

No Break in the Warm Wave is Yet in Sight Say the Weather Forecasters.

The warm wave, which for the past week has swept this part of the country, continues to hold sway and, if weather prophets are to be trusted, it will continue for the next few days.

Yesterday was one of the warmest days on record and the thermometer ranged close to the hundred mark all day. Today the mercury though somewhat lower than yesterday is still well in the nineties. People seek in vain for places of comfort and protection from the heat of the sun.

The showers of last evening cooled the air considerably, and more are promised for this evening.

Local forecasters all over the country state that the present wave is a record breaker and has not been equalled in duration and intensity.

Unless unforeseen changes occur the weather will continue to be warm tomorrow and Monday.

Where's The Light?

If the Plainfield Electric Light Company would direct the efforts of an expert electrician to the arc light on Front street at the head of Park avenue, that light could be made to shed forth her rays in the evening. The lamp certainly has a bad attack of being "under the weather."

SLIGHT INCREASE IN BOROUGH BUDGET

him about the matter and said that he was not certain that the piece of property had been properly conveyed. He would look into the matter and find out the exact standing of the matter.

Mr. Valiant offered a motion that Mr. Rowley investigate thoroughly and report.

Mr. Lee, chairman of the marshal committee, reported that seven arrests had been made during June for disorderly conduct. He said that the good order of the borough is at par at the present time.

At this time the annual budget was adopted as compiled by the various committees. It calls for the raising of $20,100 during the coming year, and is divided as follows: Police, $3,000; fire, $1,800; roads, $4,500; lights, $5,000; water, $1,300; poor, $1,500; incidentals, $2,000; Watchung avenue bond, $1,900. These amounts the assessor was ordered to assess and Collector Brown was ordered to collect. Last year the appropriation was $18,000, but this year $1,000 has been added to roads and $100 to water. These amounts with the $1,900 bond for Watchung avenue makes the extra $2,100.

A resolution was offered by Mr. Clark which provides that where sidewalks have been ordered laid and the property owners fail to do so, the borough shall do the work and charge the same to the owner. This concluded the business and the Council adjourned to meet Friday evening, July 20th, to pay the street bills.

Jury Gave Lawyer the Verdict.

The case of DeMeza against Dealaman, was tried before a six-men jury in Justice Mosher's court yesterday. The suit grew out of the defendant's refusal to pay for legal services rendered by the plaintiff, claiming that he had not retained the lawyer on a previous case. After being out less than five minutes, the jury brought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for the full amount and costs. Dealaman was represented by Charles H. Angleman, of Westfield.

Horse Returned to Former Owner.

A horse belonging to Steward Ivamy, of the Hillside Golf Club, strayed out of the barn Wednesday night and was found after a long search in Garwood the next day. Ivamy had purchased the horse from a man at that place some time ago and the animal wandered all the way back during the night. He was found in the barn of his former owner none the worse for his lonely walk.

Will Mankind Ever Fly?

The varying success of scientists toward the attainment of a perfect flying machine, leaves the question of aerial locomotion in the same doubtful state, and the conundrum is still going the rounds—will mankind ever fly? We believe that he will. As soon as it is once thoroughly understood that the health of man is largely dependent on the care of the eyes, he will fly in large numbers to Collier's and get the benefit of a free optical examination.

Boy, Shoes and Wheel.

A little German lad, riding a wheel too large for him, and carrying a large bundle of shoes, came to grief on Watchung avenue last night by coming in contact with the slippery car track. Boy, bicycle and shoes were heaped in a heterogeneous mass. The shoes escaped injury, but the boy received a number of cuts and bruises. The bicycle was partially wrecked.

Fishermen Talk.

A fishing party composed of James Day, Fred Martin, Stryker Hoagland, and captained by Eugene O'Reilly, proceeded to Perth Amboy yesterday and returned home with twenty-five weak fish. A large weakfish weighing nearly five pounds was caught by Hoagland, which fishermen declare is the largest caught in the vicinity this season.

DR. FRITTS' BARN BURNED.

Storm Which Swept Over Hunterdon County Did Much Damage—House and Barns Destroyed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Flemington, July 7—A severe storm, accompanied by lightning, high winds and a heavy downpour of rain, passed over Hunterdon county last Thursday night. The wind did considerable damage in the upper part of the country, and many small bridges were washed away. The storm centred at Whitehouse, where several buildings were struck. The large barn near Whitehouse belonging to Dr. Fritts, of Plainfield, was struck by lightning and destroyed with its contents. G. C. Gearhart's barn was also struck and damaged. The house of Peter Michaelson, near Whitehouse, was destroyed, with its contents. The family was in the house at the time, but were not affected by the bolt.

Talk of a Successor.

Lawyers are discussing who will be appointed to succeed Justice Lippincott on the Supreme Court bench. Ex Governor George T. Werts, Judge John A. Blair and Flavel McGee, of Jersey City, have been mentioned as probable appointees. Some advance the opinion that Justice Collins will be transferred to the Hudson county courts and Frank Bergen, of Elizabeth, will be named for the Supreme bench.

PRICE REDUCTIONS EXTRAORDINARY

in Men's and Boys' Superior Summer Clothing.

We find on our tables many hundreds of choice garments which for some reason or other have sold faster than other lines, and of which, therefore, we have but few of any one style left.

We will, therefore, take these many hundreds of suits and divide them into eight great bargain lots, irrespective of price or values, offering in the eight new assortments, a full choice of sizes, so that everybody may be fitted and at the same time such remarkable values that the selling out of the eight new lots within a very few days becomes practically a foregone conclusion.

We have offered great clothing bargains before—we hope to offer you many more in the future—but never before did we submit to your consideration clothing values that could beat these.

FOUR GOLFERS TIED FOR FIRST HONORS.

Result of Weekly Competition for President's Cup on Links of Park Golf Club.

LOWEST SCORE WAS 94.

W. J. R. THIERS DEFEATED BY W. DE LA R. ANDERSON.

Anderson Won 2 Up—Miss Howell Only Competitor Out for the Hooley Cup—Morgan T. Townsend Leads in President's Cup.

Four players, three of them scratch men, tied for first honors in the weekly competition for the President's cup on the links of the Park Golf Club Saturday afternoon. Thunder showers again interfered with the contest and sent many of the players scurrying to shelter. Nearly a score registered at the club house at the start and twelve complete cards were handed in.

W. de la R. Anderson was the first to turn in a 94. He was paired with W. J. R. Thiers, their scores counting both as a match for the Green Committee challenge trophy and for the President's cup. W. R. Faber then turned in another 94, with the aid of his handicap of 18. Morgan T. Townsend and Gustavus W. Faber finished in the rain, each with another 94. As a result each of the four players will receive a point and a half to their credit for the President's cup.

At the end of the first round Morgan T. Townsend had a 43 and it looked as if he was going to make a remarkably low score. In the second round, the shower drew near and Townsend lost his cunning in an effort to beat the rain to the club house. Townsend played the last hole in the rain with a 51.

G. W. Faber and J. H. Simpson finished in a heavy downpour. Faber didn't seem to mind the rain, getting a 47-47. Simpson failed to get better better than 54 53.

The scores for the President's cup were as follows:

	Gross.	Hand.	Net.
Gustavus W. Faber	94	0	94
W. de la R. Anderson	94	0	94
Morgan T. Townsend	94	0	94
Wm. R. Faber	112	18	94
C. W. McCutchen	126	30	96
W. J. R. Thiers	97	0	97
Charles A. Reed	113	15	98
S. St. John McCutchen	124	25	99
Henry C. Wells	135	33	102
J. H. Simpson	107	4	103

Morgan T. Townsend still leads for the cup, the result of Saturday's play giving him a small advance. It is too early in the season to get any idea how the competition is likely to go. Points are scored as follows:

Morgan T. Townsend	6
William R. Faber	3½
George C. Werth	3
Meredith Dryden	3
J. H. Simpson	3
W. de la R. Anderson	3
Allan B. Laing	3
Herbert S. Rogers	2½
George T. Rogers	2
Edgar T. Serrell	2
Charles A. Reed	1½
Gustavus W. Faber	1½
Donald A. McGee	1
Charles B. Morse	1

It was supposed that W. de la R. Anderson would be unable to play Saturday for the Green Committee challenge trophy, for which he was next in line among the challengers and so Saturday morning W. J. R. Thiers played J. H. Simpson, who follows Anderson in the list and defeated him two up. Simpson is a brilliant but somewhat erratic player but he gave Thiers a hard match. In the afternoon, Anderson appeared ready to take his turn and Thiers was compelled to play or default. He played but the morning match had been a hard one and he lost his nerve in the second round and was defeated by Anderson, challenger, two down. In the first round, they were even up, each with a 47. In the last, Thiers missed easy strokes in the third, fifth and seven holes, when he had a chance to win or, at least halve them.

Their scores in detail were

Anderson.	out.	5	6	5	4	4	5	6	4	8—47
	in.	4	6	5	4	6	5	6	4	7—47—94
Thiers.	out.	5	5	6	7	5	4	6	5	5—47
	in.	5	4	7	5	7	4	7	6	6—50—97

The standing for that trophy now is as follows:

Morgan T. Townsend	3
W. J. R. Thiers	2
W. de la R. Anderson	1

Miss Saidee Mae Howell was the only competitor for the Hooley cup, ladies' handicap, nine holes, medal play, and she strengthened her hold on the trophy with an additional three points. She played her round in company with George T. Rogers and Senator Charles A. Reed, finishing in the shower. Despite the rain she played good golf, making a 65 0 65.

The standing for the Hooley cup is now as follows:

Miss Saidee Mae Howell	14½
Miss Daisy Elsberg	9½
Miss Laura G. Long	3
Miss Adelaide G. Bail	2
Miss Nellie Valiant	1
Mrs. J. H. Howell	1

—There will be an important meeting of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., tomorrow evening.

LEAGUE TOOK NO PART.

REV. G. M. SHOTT DENIED FROM PULPIT THAT HE CAUSED ARREST.

Since the Case Had Been Turned Over to the State, the League, He Said, Had Not Interfered.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, July 9—Rev. G. M. Shott, of the Baptist church, took occasion yesterday morning, previous to his sermon, to deny an erroneous report which has become circulated regarding his connection with the case of W. S. Emery, who was arrested last week for alleged illegal selling. Mr. Shott said a certain newspaper had printed an article stating that it was he who had preferred the charge against Mr. Emery. This was only one part of the article which he wanted to publicly deny, although there were other charges made by the same writer which were not true.

Mr. Shott said: "I did not make the charge stated. Neither do I know of any such a man as Justice Hart. Since the league's case has been in the hands of the State, I have not been prominent in the case, for I believe the court and its officers will do their duty and I have the fullest confidence in them. The residents of the town are with us. It is true you are not all members of the league, but your interest in the work shows that your sympathy is with us.

"Some say because the league is not an effervescent thing constantly bubbling or springing up that it is dead. The league, I want to say, is far from dead and is today, I believe, stronger than ever and we will continue the work and we trust God for a complete victory when this accused business will be wiped out of our midst."

HID ON THE ROOF.

Why Roundsman Mattox Failed to Find the Lad He was Looking For.

No reflections on Roundsman Mattox's eyesight are intended, but the following one on the Roundsman has just leaked out, and is too good to keep. He was on the watch last Tuesday for young Marcellus, of East Fourth street, for whom he had a warrant and on catching sight of the lad on that street, started after him. The boy saw him coming and struck out for home, and a foot race followed in which Marcellus came out ahead. All trace of the fugitive was lost at his house and a diligent search by the Roundsman failed to reveal his whereabouts. The home was searched from top to bottom. The yard was also thoroughly looked over, but still no boy. The policeman finally gave up the search, still wondering where Marcellus could be. It was afterward found that he had gotten on the roof of the house by some means, and while the search was being made downstairs, he was calmly reposing against the chimney. While the Roundsman went through the yard his quarry watched every move from his lofty perch. His freedom was of a short duration, however, as he was captured soon after coming down.

NO INJUNCTION SERVED.

Truth of the Story Concerning the Ideal Cash Register Company.

An injustice has been done to the Ideal Cash Register Company, of Bound Brook, in the columns of this paper which The Daily Press is very glad to correct. Monday, June 4th, an article was published in these columns to the effect that an injunction had been served on the Ideal Cash Register Company for infringing on the patent of another concern. The item came from a supposedly reliable source and was published in the supposition that it was a fact. It was, however, very far from the truth and The Daily Press is glad of this opportunity of putting the Ideal Cash Register Company right in the eyes of its readers. The company, of which Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, is president, is a flourishing concern that is rapidly coming to the front in the manufacturing of cash registers. No injunction has ever been issued against the company and its patents do not infringe on those of any other concern. Dr. Pierce is a professional man of excellent repute and great wealth and promises to make as great a success out of this enterprise as he has out of his former ones.

Broken Guard Wire.

The emergency linemen of the Plainfield Street Railway were called out last evening to repair a number of guard wires which had been broken by a flying trolley pole. The wires were dangerously near the feed wire, and would have caused considerable trouble had they touched. It took about an hour to repair the damage.

NEW CAMPAIGN CLUB.

Garfield Rough Riders, of Newark, Set a New Fashion For Republican Campaign Organizations.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, July 9.—In three presidential campaigns the Garfield Club has been prominent all over the State. The members expect to be even more conspicuous this year than ever. The officers are organizing the Garfield Rough Riders' First Presidential Voters' Association, and all young Republicans who have their first vote in the coming election are desired as members of the organization.

The club will equip the campaign club in khaki with yellow trimmings patterned as near as possible after the uniform of Roosevelt's Rough Riders.

TRUSTEES ARE AROUSED

INSIST THAT POLICE MUST PUNISH THOSE WHO ENTERED CHURCH.

Meeting of Park Avenue Baptist Church Held Yesterday Morning to Discuss Happenings of the Fourth.

The young men who on the early morning of July Fourth broke into the Park Avenue Baptist church and damaged property to the amount of $50 may have to pay dearly for their night's sport.

Yesterday morning the pastor of the church, Rev. J. W. Richardson, dismissed the congregation after a short service and called a special session of the church for the purpose of considering what action should be taken in the matter.

Mr. Richardson stated that he, personally, on the morning of the Fourth had seen a large crowd of men about the church and from twenty to thirty men inside, and in view of the fact that considerable damage had been done to the church property, he considered some action should be taken against the marauders. He did not recognize any of the young men who participated in the trouble, but he thought the police of the city could easily discover who the boys were.

The trustees of the church held a meeting immediately after the special session and the matter was thoroughly discussed. It was decided to take immediate action and a set of resolutions were drawn up, requesting the police department to thoroughly investigate the matter, and if possible to capture all those who were interested in the breaking in and damaging of the church.

The church was broken in several years ago, and considerable damage was done. No action was taken at the time and the matter was allowed to drop. A second offense, however, has thoroughly arroused the church officials and they will do all in their power to bring the culprits to justice.

STRUCK BY CAR.

Climbed Over the Guard Rail and Trolley Car as Another Car Came in Opposite Direction.

The passengers on a west-bound Westfield and Elizabeth trolley car, last evening, witnessed a most fortunate escape of a Plainfield young man from serious injury and perhaps death. The young man was seated next to the guard rail and got up to give his seat to a woman. Not wishing to crowd past the other passengers to get to the rear platform, he started to climb over the rail, just as an eastbound car was about to pass. The warning shouts were unheeded by him and the other car crept up unnoticed. He had reached the side platform and was swinging along when he was struck a glancing blow by a handle, which knocked his hat off. He managed to retain his presence of mind however, and held on. When the car was stopped he was too weak to go for his hat. Had he swung out a few inches further, he would undoubtedly have been killed. As it was he will feel the effects of the blow for some time.

MOTHER AND SON MET AFTER MANY YEARS

Lad Was Stolen From Plainfield Home by His Father Twenty-three Years Ago.

NAME IS JOHN BENNETT.

WANDERED ABOUT THE COUNTRY WITHOUT KNOWING HIS NAME.

Finally Learned Who He Was From a Companion Waif Who Had Been His Chum at the McGrath Home, Elizabeth.

After twenty-three years of separation John Bennett and his mother, Mrs. Mary Weinandt, formerly of this city, where they resided on East Third street, were reunited at the Grand Central station in New York last week. Through hatred of his wife, Wm. Bennett stole the boy from the Plainfield home when he was but three years old and placed him with a family named McGrath in Elizabeth. He told the lad that his name was John Joseph McGrath. Bennett has since died, firm in the belief that his plot had succeeded and that the mother would never again see her boy.

Young John remained with the McGrath family for six years, at the end of which time he was unable to further put up with the terrible beatings and drudgery to which he was subjected and ran away. Before he went away, however, he found out that his name was not McGrath. In the same household with him was another little waif who revealed the fact to the boy, but what his real name was she was afraid to tell. The family had threatened to kill her if she told him. After he ran away he reached Albany, N. Y., where he was placed in an orphan asylum. McGrath tracked him down and, taking him from the orphanage, brought him back to Elizabeth.

A second time the boy ran away and this time he was successful in eluding his captor and wandered all over the west. He worked at Kansas City, San Francisco, Chicago, and other places, and, at last, found himself in the employ of McMonogal & Rogers, druggists, in Goshen, N. Y. Here he made the acquaintance of Clarence T. Sadlier, an insurance agent, to whom he told the strange story of his lost name. Sadlier traced the girl, who was Bennett's companion at Elizabeth, and learned his true name. The address of Mrs. Bennett was discovered and Mr. Sadlier arranged a meeting between them. It was at the Grand Central station when young Bennett came down from Middletown.

Mrs. Bennett instantly recognized her son's features and a most affecting scene followed. The former Mrs. Bennett has since been married again, her name now being Mrs. Wienandt. She lives at 208 Second street, Hoboken. Young Bennett came to Plainfield yesterday to see his aunt, Mrs. L. Volz, of Johnston's drive, and two uncles, John and Charles Willis. He is now employed as a motorman for the Middletown Traction Company. Two years ago he lost his right arm in an accident and afterward injured a foot. On Thursday he will go to Middletown and a month later will return to live with his mother.

SUNDAY OUTING.

Twenty Cars Were Required to Take Jersey Central's First Excursion to Mauch Chunk.

The Jersey Central Railroad's first Sunday excursion to Mauch Chunk was run yesterday and was a success, although there were but nine Plainfielders who accompanied the party of excursionists. It required twenty cars, divided into two sections, to carry those who wanted to spend the day at that favorite mountain resort. The majority of the excursionists were from Elizabeth and points nearer New York, while a large number were from New York and Jersey City.

The next Sunday excursion to Mauch Chunk on the Jersey Central will be run July 22d.

HACKMAN IN CITY COURT

COMPLAINANTS WERE UNABLE TO PROVE THAT KEELY VIOLATED LAW.

Charged Him With Soliciting Trade on the Station Platform—Case was Dismissed.

Jonn E. Keely, a hackman, of this city, was arraigned before Judge Runyon, in the City Court, this morning, on complaint of Jacob Wagner, an expressman, who charged that Keely, on the night of June 27th, had purposely violated the hack ordinance, which prohibits hackmen from soliciting passengers on the railroad property. Perrie Darvin, a lawyer, in the employ of the C. R. R. of N. J., appeared on behalf of the complainant.

Keely claimed that on the night mentioned he met, by agreement, at the 12:15 train, three young women, who had engaged him to drive them home. When the train pulled in the station he stepped out upon the platform and took their baggage and escorted them to the hack. No words passed between them until they were off of the railroad property.

Edward Nelson and George Belcher testified on behalf of the defence, but were unable to swear that they had heard Keeley speak to the women. Wagner, the complainant, was the only witness sworn who testified to having heard Keeley solicit. He said that Keeley spoke to the women on the platform step.

Lawyer Darven cross questioned the witnesses, but was unable to make Keeley retract any of his statements. As Keely told a straight story and the evidence was slight the Judge dismissed the case.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

Former Mayor Alex. Gilbert Quoted in The Mail and Express on the Work of Kansas City Convention.

Saturday's issue of The Mail and Express contains an article entitled "Are Not Democrats," in which the opinions of a number of financiers are given on the political situation of the hour. Among these financiers interviewed was former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, of whom the following account is given:

"Alexander Gilbert, of the Market and Fulton National Bank, is a Republican, who has served as Mayor of the city of Plainfield, where he lives, being elected unanimously on a common ticket, without respect to party. He does not see what the country has to fear from the action of the Kansas City convention. He said today that the business interests of the country are no more ready to accept Bryanism and free silver now than they were four years ago. He has a large acquaintance among men who were formerly Democrats, and they have told him that they will not go back to the party so long as Bryan is its standard bearer."

Police Want Him Now.

John Goodway was arrested Saturday evening for riding through Plainfield without a light. He was let go on the promise that he would appear in court on Monday and answer to the charge. Goodway failed to put in appearance, when the case was called this morning, and the city police are now on the still hunt for the missing man.

KNOX SPAT IN HIS FACE.

WM. S. LOIZEAUX HAD PROMINENT PLAINFIELDER ARRESTED.

Complainant Thinks it is a Case of Mistaken Identity—Knox Says Other Insulted Him.

Wm. S. Loizeaux, of Brook avenue, filed a complaint before City Judge Runyon in city court this morning, charging Hugh R. Knox, of 330 Webster place, with spitting in his face while he was stepping from the platform of the 5:30 train Saturday evening.

Loizeaux says, in regard to his charge, that Knox and he rode out in the same car, on the 4:30 train from New York Saturday afternoon. No words passed between the two men during the ride to this city, although Knox cast frequent glances in Loizeaux's direction. They stepped off the train at opposite ends of the car and met in the centre of the station platform. Knox faced Loizeaux and deliberately spat in his face.

Knox, he says, afterwards declared that he felt satisfied. Knox told a companion of Loizeaux's, that the latter and "two other drunks" had guyed him in the train the other evening.

Loizeaux thinks that it is a case of mistaken identity as he was never intoxicated in his life and has never insulted Knox.

On application of the complainant, the case was postponed until Friday morning at 9 o'clock. Both men bear an excellent reputation in Plainfield.

FORTY DAYS IN JAIL.

Heavy Sentence Given by City Judge Runyon To Lucivay Vanderweer This Morning.

The decision in the case of Lucivay Vandeveer, colored, which was reserved by Judge Runyon until this morning, was rendered against the accused. The Judge said that while the preponderance of evidence had been on the side of the defence, he had made a thorough investigation of the case and found that the witnesses sworn by the defence had intentionally lied, while the complainants were trustworthy. He therefore adjudged the accused guilty and sentenced her to forty days in the county jail.

Lucivay was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Mary Hollins and Louisa Lattin, colored, charging her with disorderly conduct and using improper language at her residence, 320 East Fourth street, June 22nd.

Lawyer W. L. Hetfield, of this city, appeared as counsel for the defence.

Had no Defence to Give.

William Wilson was arrested by Patrolman Vanderweg on Watchung avenue Saturday evening for being drunk and disorderly. Wilson pleaded not guilty of the charge when he appeared in court this morning but when offered the opportunity of defending himself refused to speak. The Judge, on considering the case, decided that as Wilson had no defence to offer, he must be guilty, and therefore sentenced him to eight days in the county jail or fined him $3.

Pond Tool Boys Won.

An excellent game of base ball was played on the Clinton avenue grounds, Saturday afternoon between the Pond Tool Works team and the Clinton avenue nine. The latter was defeated by a score of 8 to 7. The local boys promise a good game to those who attend.

ST. PAUL SCHOOL BOYS WON FROM HILLSIDE.

Crack Local Team Overwhelmingly Defeated by Team of School Boys.

THE SCORE WAS 24 TO 5.

TWO PLAINFIELD BOYS DID GREAT WORK FOR ST. PAUL.

The Team From Hillside Club Lacked a Number of Its Best Players—Fine Golf Was Played by Both Sides.

The Hillside Tennis and Golf Club team met their Waterloo last Saturday afternoon when they contested with the crack golf team from St. Paul's School, of Concord, N. H. The visiting team was composed of young men, but they displayed much talent in playing the ancient game, and the home team was simply overwhelmed from the start to finish. Howard Wright was the only member of the home team to win his match. Most of the scores were in the eighties, which shows that the game was a fast one. W. L. Glenney, with a score of 85, was beaten by Frank Reinhart 3 up. The latter made an 80, and it was this kind of golf that was played throughout the match. Very long drives were the rule and the play on the greens was clean and sharp.

Without a doubt it was one of the best played and most interesting events witnessed in a long time, and the visitors were congratulated by the defeated team and those who watched the game. Two members, Frank Talmage and Frank Reinhart, of the St. Paul's team, live in this city, and they materially assisted in defeating the home team.

No reasonable excuse is offered by the Hillside team for the defeat, except that they did not have their regular team, some of the best players being away. However, those who played are numbered among the best players in the club and throughout the season have put up a good game of golf. The summary of the game is as follows:

ST. PAUL.		HILLSIDE.
Reinhart	3	Glenney	0
Jennings	1	Baker	0
Talmage	1	Dumont	0
Smith	8	G. T. VanBoskerck	0
Byers	0	Howard Wright	5
Prentice	7	T. B. VanBoskerck	0
Wilder	4	Saugstad	0

Aside from the match there were no other events on the course Saturday. The oppressive warm weather had a tendency to keep many away, and this, together with the fact that many of the members are out of town, accounted for the comparatively small attendance. All things considered there was a goodly number on the course who engaged in private matches. Many found the clubhouse a cool place to stop and they remained in the evening to enjoy the cooling breezes that found their way to the top of the hill.

HOTEL HOP.

Usual Saturday Evening Dance Held at the Hotel Netherwood—A Large Attendence Present.

The usual throng of guests assembled at the Hotel Netherwood Saturday evening for the weekly hop. These Saturday evening dances have proved a wonderful success during the few weeks that they have been held and have attracted large crowds to that famous hostelry at Netherwood. The number of regular guests at the hotel is rapidly increasing. Many of them took part in the affair. Now that Plainfield society has placed its seal of approval on these summer gatherings at the hotel, a representative throng of Plainfield young folk is to be found in the ball room and on the wide piazzas every Saturday night.

Fears For His Life and Property.

A warrant has been issued by Justice Smalley, of Martinsville, for the arrest of Mrs. Fannie Purris, of Springdale, on complaint of John Cooper, of that place, who charges the woman with having threatened him with bodily harm. Strained relations have existed between the two as neighbors for some time past, and it is said that high words have passed between them whenever they have met. In the warrant Cooper recites that he has fear for the safety of his buildings and asks that the woman be arrested.

Rain Stopped Game.

Rain spoiled the baseball game Saturday between the Phi Alpha Kappa A. C., of Brooklyn, and the St. Mary team, of this city. But three innings were played when the game was stopped, the score standing 12 to 0 in favor of the local boys.

Few Bids for Hudson County Bonds.

The bonds bear interest at 2½ per cent. and are payable in gold. Only two bids were received. N. W. Harris & Co. offered 100 37 for the Passaic avenue improvement bonds, and Rollins & Sons, of Boston, offered $133,753.62 for the entire issue, a premium of $753.62.

A Mammoth Heart.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The heart that Dr. Hamilton Williams, coroner's physician, found in the body of a man at the morgue may prove to be the largest on record in America. It weighed 36 ounces, which is about four times the weight of the normal man's heart. This mammoth heart proved the death of its owner, who is as yet unidentified. The man was walking in the street, when suddenly he was seen to drop to the sidewalk in convulsions. He was dead before medical aid arrived.

FAINT RAY OF HOPE.

Legations In Peking Declared to Be Safe.

LARGE FORCE THREATENS TIEN-TSIN

Japanese and Russian Troops Landing—Anti-Christian Disorders Are Spreading—Buddhists Called Upon to Expel Foreigners.

LONDON, July 9.—The foreign consuls at Shanghai met on July 7 and officially announced that the legations at Peking were safe on July 4. The foregoing statement, read with Consul Warren's dispatch to the foreign office on Saturday, makes it possible to believe that the legations will hold out for a number of days yet. Having fought to a standstill the first outbursts of fanatical fury, it is believable that something may intervene to save them. The news after the sinister rumors of the last ten days is enough upon which to build up hopes. Tien-tsin is still hard pressed. A Chinese force numbering from 80,000 to 100,000 men, as estimated by inconclusive reconnoissances, floods the country round about Tien-tsin, communication with which place and Taku is apparently possible by river only.

A Chefu dispatch to The Express says the Russians have landed 8,000 men at Taku, and the Japanese have discharged several transports. The Japanese pushed on to Tien-tsin, leading in the subsequent assault upon the native city, in which their commander was killed. Ten more transports are engaged at Japanese ports. With the 10,000 British India troops afloat and fresh Japanese contingents it is quite probable that the allies will have 50,000 men ashore.

The disorders in the provinces appear to be increasing in violence. A Chinese army is within 40 miles of Newchwang, and the foreigners are preparing to abandon their homes. The southern part of the province is swept by raiders, destroying all works of the white man except in spots garrisoned by Russians. Proclamations have been posted in all villages near Chefu calling upon the loyal Chinese to rise and expel the foreigner for introducing among the pious Chinese an immoral religion. Every good Buddhist is expected to kneel three hours daily, knock his head upon the floor thrice and pray earnestly that sudden, cruel death may overtake all aliens.

The foreign settlement at Chefu is at the mercy of two Chinese forts equipped with Krupp guns which command two sides of the city. Six warships, including the United States gunboat Nashville, are constantly cleared for action.

The provisional government at Peking appears to have designs upon the southern provinces. Besides having ordered Kwan-Shiki to advance upon Nankin, which Kwan-Shiki says he will not do, Prince Tuan has sent an army along the route of the Grand canal.

Refugees from Tien-tsin arriving at Shanghai say that only five civilian foreigners were killed during the long Chinese bombardment. The foreign women became so indifferent that they walked through the streets unheeding the shells. Most of the civilians were deported to Taku, thence to be conveyed to Shanghai.

The courier mentioned in Consul Warren's dispatch gives a strange picture, says The Daily Mail's Shanghai correspondent, of how life jostles death in Peking. Business apparently goes on as usual. The shops and theaters are open and the streets are full of people. No imperial troops except, those of General Tung-Fuh-Siang took part in the fighting. They did more looting. The courier even asserts positively that provisions are being supplied to the legations, but by whom he does not say. The Boxers and General Tung-Fuh-Siang do not get along well. The Boxers assert that they do all the fighting and the latter all the looting and nothing else.

General Yuan-Shi-Kai, governor of Shangtung, a correspondent of The Daily Mail says, predicts that by July 11 the Boxers will disband and negotiations will be begun for peace. Nevertheless, circumstantial rumors of dark things to come are in circulation.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Express, cabling on July 7, says:

"The Russian, French and German admirals have had a long conference. They expressed themselves as averse to seeing large Japanese forces landed in China in advance of the other powers."

The Times this morning says:

"We learn from a private message from Canton that Li Hung Chang has telegraphed direct to the Chinese minister in London urging him to request the British government to approach the United States government with a view to a joint invitation to Japan to co-operate in the maintenance of the Chinese empire and the establishment of a strong government on a solid basis, the three then uniting in an appeal for the support of all the other powers."

WORD FROM CONGER

Important Message From Our Minister In Peking.

INTERVIEW WITH FOREIGN OFFICE.

Chinese Officials Promised to Suppress Boxers and Protested When a Call For a Guard of Marines Was Threatened.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The last China mail to reach the state department brought the report of Minister Conger, perhaps the last that will ever come to hand. This bears date of Peking, May 21. It is of the utmost importance, disclosing at it does a full comprehension on the part of the foreign ministers in Peking of the character and extent of the Boxer uprising, even though Mr. Conger himself by disposition optimistic found some reason to hope that the worst was over at that date. What Mr. Conger has to say as to the attitude of the Chinese government toward the Boxer movement as revealed in the formal interchange that took place between himself and the tsung-li-yamen is not only of peculiar interest now, but probably will have a strong bearing on the final reckoning that must be had between the civilized nations and the Chinese. Mr. Conger makes it very clear through the publication of the French priest's letter that at least one and probably all of the European nations having interests in northern China were acquainted with the dangers of the situation at least two or three weeks before the actual outbreak in Peking.

The letter of Minister Conger reads as follows:

"Sir—I have the honor to confirm on the overleaf my cipher telegram of today.

"In response to the request of the French minister the dean called a meeting of the diplomatic corps yesterday and upon information furnished in a letter from the Catholic bishop in Peking and verbal reports by the other ministers the situation was considered so grave that the corps unanimously instructed the dean to present it to the tsung-li-yamen and demand immediate and effective measures, which he did today by the note, a copy of which is inclosed.

"I also inclose copies of the bishop's letter and one from Rev. Mr. Killie, an American missionary who lives in Peking, but travels a circuit to the north and east.

"On the 18th inst., during an extended personal interview with the tsung-li-yamen, I called their attention to the fact that, notwithstanding constant warnings from this and other legations, the Boxers had continually increased and spread until now they are boldly organizing inside the wall of Peking, the existence of thousands is known in the villages around Peking, Christian converts are being persecuted and threatened everywhere, many forced to recant their religious professions, and some have been compelled to abandon their chapels and come to Peking for safety.

"I said: 'At a London mission near Chou-chow, 40 miles west of Peking, two native Christians have been killed and their chapel destroyed. Near Paoting-fu a Catholic village has been destroyed and 61 Christians murdered, some of them being burned alive. The foreign governments cannot longer sit idly by and witness this persecution and murder. I can only speak for my own government, but it is becoming very impatient over China's continued treaty violation. It always has been and still is the good friend of China and only wishes it prosperity, but is now more than ever determined to sustain the treaty rights of all American citizens and of the Christian converts, and it will hold the Chinese government to the strictest responsibility for every treaty infraction in this regard. It will do this not only for the benefit of its own citizens, but in the interest of China herself, whose government is now sadly threatened by these lawless organizations. At present, it is true, they seem to have no capable leader, but should one arise and the populace become really inflamed the overthrow of the present dynasty is most likely to follow and possibly the destruction of the empire, etc.'

"They replied that I did not understand the many difficulties under which they labored, but they had succeeded in suppressing the Boxers in the province of Shangtung and would do so here.

"I told them I saw no effective measures whatever being put forth. They replied that the movement had not heretofore been looked upon seriously, but that now the throne was fully aware of the gravity of the situation and that a recent confidential decree had been sent to the viceroy, the Peking and neighboring officials which would surely prove effective, suppress the Boxers and restore order.

"I told them that the most alarming telegrams were being sent to the newspapers of Europe and America of the existing state of anarchy here and that the people of the world would be forced to believe that the government of China was either abetting these murderous brigands or that it was too weak to suppress or control them, and its good name and credit must suffer irretrievably in consequence. After reading me the decree which was much like those heretofore published, they asked if I would not wire my government that they could and were suppressing the Boxers.

"I replied that at present I would not, that I had been for six months telegraphing the issuance of ineffective decrees but if they would show me the fact by actual and immediate repression, which they could if they would, in three days I would gladly and quickly wire it to my government.

"They assured me that sufficient troops had been sent to the disturbed districts to restore order and afford protection.

"I again told them that restored order would be the only possible proof. I also said that unless the situation was relieved and the threatening danger from mobs averted I should be compelled to ask for a sufficient guard of American marines to insure the safety of the legation.

"They said: 'Oh, don't do that. It is unnecessary.' And again promising energetic action the interview closed.

"Unless some energetic action is taken the situation will become fraught with great danger to all foreigners, not from any intelligent or organized attacks, but from ignorant and inflamed mob violence I, however, believe, as I said in my telegram, that the government is aroused itself alarmed at the situation, and will take more energetic action, but no one can be certain of this until it is done.

"Since the Wheeling had left Taku already, I deemed it prudent to ask the admiral for the presence of another vessel, and, responding to the request, Admiral Kempff with the Newark sailed hither from Yokohama on the 19th inst. and should arrive soon."

The inclosures referred to by Mr. Conger follow, beginning with the cablegram of the same date as his letter. The letter from Bishop Favier to M. Pechon, the French minister, dated Peking, May 19, follows:

"M. Minister: From day to day the situation becomes more serious and threatening. In the prefecture of Paoting-Fu more than 70 Christians have been massacred. Near Echao-icheou only three days ago three neophytes have been cut in pieces. Many villages have been pillaged and burned; a great many others have been completely abandoned.

"More than 2,000 Christians are fleeing without bread, without clothing without shelter. At Peking alone about 400 refugees, men, women and children are already lodged at our house and that of the sisters. Before eight days we will probably have many thousands.

"We will have to dismiss the schools and the colleges; also use all the hospitals to make room for these unfortunate people.

"Upon the east of us pillage and incendiarism are imminent. We are hourly receiving the most alarming news. Peking is surrounded on all sides. The Boxers are daily coming nearer the capital, delayed only by the destruction which they are making of Christians.

"Believe me, I pray you, M. Minister that I am well informed and say nothing lightly.

"Religious persecution is only one object. The real purpose is the extermination of Europeans, a purpose which is clearly set forth and written upon the banners of the Boxers. Their associates await them at Peking, where they will begin by attacking the churches and finish with the legations.

"For us here at the Paotang the day is practically ended. All the city knows it, everybody is speaking of it, and a popular outbreak is manifest.

"Yesterday evening 43 poor women and their children, flying from the massacre, arrived at the house of the sisters. More than 500 persons accompanied them, saying to them if they had escaped this once they would soon die with the others.

"M. Minister, I do not speak to you of placards without number which are posted in the city against Europeans in general. Each day new ones appear more explicit than the others. Those who 30 years ago were present at the Tien-tsin massacre are struck with the resemblance of the situation then to that of today; the same placards, the same threats, the same warnings and the same blindness. Then also as today the missionaries wrote and supplicated, foreseeing the horrible awakening.

"Under these circumstances, M. Minister, I believe it my duty to ask you to kindly send us at least 40 or 50 marines to protect our persons and our property. This has been done under circumstances much less critical, and I hope you will take into consideration our humble prayer."

ELECTRIC CARS COLLIDE.

Eleven Persons Injured Near Scranton by Misplaced Switch.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 9.—Two electric cars on the Scranton Railway company's Duryea line collided head on yesterday at Old Forge, injuring 11 persons.

Mischievous boys, it is supposed, tampered with the switch signals, and both cars got into the same block. Midway between the switches is a deep hollow, in which a sharp curve obstructs the view of the east side. The cars met at the curve. The north bound car with five passengers aboard mounted the other, which had 62 passengers, and plowed through its front as far as the third seat. Grady and Landborough are the only ones on the north bound car who were injured. The other nine victims were all occupying the front seats in the south bound car. The injured were cared for by the nearby doctors and residents until carriages and ambulances arrived from Scranton to take them to their homes or the hospital.

Steel Furnaces Closed.

LEBANON, Pa., July 9.—Sixteen hundred men were thrown out of employment by the banking of five furnaces, two of them owned and three operated on a five years' lease by the Lackawanna Iron and Steel company of Scranton. Two of the furnaces are at West Lebanon, two at Cornwall and one at North Cornwall. The cause stated for the stoppage of operations is the removal of the large steel works of the Lackawanna company from Scranton to Buffalo and the existing war over railroad rates for lake ore.

Damage Done to Blackwells Island.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Damage done on Blackwells island by the fierce wind storm which passed over that place Saturday afternoon, leaving a trail of wreckage in its path, required the services of 350 of the workhouse prisoners to repair yesterday. Superintendent Roberts, under whose personal supervision the work was done, said that the damage to buildings would amount to between $8,000 and $10,000 and that the 12 or 15 trees which were uprooted by the force of the storm could never be replaced.

Standard Oil Fire Over.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Some smoke and very little fire was all that remained of the great Standard Oil yards fire in Constable Hook yesterday. The fire burned itself out at last, and of the 24 tanks in the new yards four were standing. A big crowd gathered about the works to view the burned tanks and the wreckage. The families driven out of the houses on Twenty-second street have moved back into their rooms. Work upon the replacing of the destroyed plant will commence at once.

Will Rebuild Fair Buildings.

TRENTON, July 9.—The executive committee of the board of directors of the Interstate Fair association met at Spring Lake, N. J., and adopted resolutions for the rebuilding of the grand stand and other buildings of the fair destroyed by fire Saturday night. They decided to build on a more elaborate scale than the old structures and will have the new buildings completed in time for the annual exhibition in the last week of September.

Boers Move to Portuguese Territory

LONDON, July 9.—The Times' Lourenco Marques correspondent says, under date of July 7: "A general movement of Boer settlers into Gazaland, Portuguese territory, seems to be in contemplation. Already large herds have been driven across the border. The Portuguese welcome the movement."

SCOUTING IN LUZON.

Eleven Americans Killed In Fights With Filipinos.

RESULT OF A WEEK'S OPERATIONS.

Insurgents Slowly Accepting Peace Terms—Military Operations Suspended by Americans In Some Cases to Favor Amnesty.

MANILA, July 9.—The past week's scouting in Luzon resulted in 11 Americans being killed and 16 being wounded. One hundred and sixty Filipinos were killed during the week, and eight Americans who had been prisoners in the hands of the rebels were surrendered and 100 rifles were turned over to the United States officials.

The enemy ambushed a wagon train between Indang and Naic.

The Third infantry lost nine men while on an expedition to punish the ladrones in the delta of the Rio Grande.

In the Antigue province of Panay a running fight of three hours' duration resulted in the killing or wounding of 70 of the enemy. There were no casualties among the Americans.

The insurgents are slowly accepting the amnesty provisions. In some instances the Americans are suspending operations in order to give the rebels an opportunity to take advantage of the decree.

Many paroled rebel officers are agitating for the formation of native regiments for service with the Americans in China. They say that they would be able to raise 10,000 men accustomed to arms for this purpose, and as for the soldierlike qualities of the Filipinos they point out the famous Seventy-third regiment, composed of natives, which served under Spain.

Transports For Philippine Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—The transports in port available for the transfer of troops to the Philippines are the Meade, Sheridan and Sumner. The Sumner is practically ready for sea and is scheduled to sail on the 16th. She has accommodations for 57 officers and 560 men. The Meade is scheduled to sail on Aug. 1. She can accommodate 61 officers and 1,171 men. The Sheridan is undergoing repairs, and the department has planned to have her ready to sail on Oct. 6. On the way from Manila are the Hancock, 18 days out, and the Warren, seven days out. The Hancock will arrive here the middle of next week and is scheduled to sail on Aug. 16. She has accommodations for 54 officers and 1,062 men. The Warren is scheduled to sail Sept. 1. She has quarters for 42 officers and 1,242 men. The Thomas, with accommodations for 1,670 officers and men, and the Grant, for 1,854, are at present on the way from this port to Manila. In addition to these there are nine transports at Manila and vicinity.

Suicide Caused by Heat.

CHICAGO, July 9.—The suicide of Charles H. Leroy of Fullerton, Cal., on a Santa Fe train near Joliet is said by his brother, Dr. E. W. Lederer of this city, to be directly attributed to the intense hot wave that swept over the western states last week. He was a successful business man and had no private troubles to induce him to kill himself. Charles H. Leroy was one of the developers of the great Bradford oil wells in Pennsylvania and New York and went to California in 1892. Recently he acquired options and leases on oil lands in Santa Barbara county and was on his way east to arrange a financial deal to develop his holdings.

Manila Imports.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The division of customs and insular affairs, war department, has made public an interesting statement showing the total imports at the port of Manila for the calendar year 1899. Merchandise to the value of $17,450,412 was imported during the year which with $109,965 in gold and $1,141,392 in silver coin brings the total importations for 1899 to $18,701,469. Of this amount $1,887,090 worth entered free of duty. All imports of merchandise were brought in foreign vessels and entered for immediate consumption. The total amount of import duty collected was $3,364,000.

Prayer Wouldn't Stop Flames.

WEBSTER, Mass., July 9.—Theodore Plausse, a 4-year-old boy, was burned to death yesterday. He was left alone while his parents went to church, and he played with matches, with the result that his clothing was ignited. The boy's screams attracted the attention of his aged grandfather, who is a faith cure advocate. The latter, instead of attempting to extinguish the flames, fell on his knees, it is alleged, and prayed while his grandson's clothing was still blazing. Neighbors broke in and put out the fire, but too late to save the boy's life.

More Hoboken Victims.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Three more bodies were found on the Saale. This makes 29 bodies that have thus far been taken from the wreck of the Saale since the fire. The bodies recovered were all found in the second cabin, in the after part of the ship, and they were horrible sights to look upon. They had very little clothing on and were all victims of fire. They could not be identified. This makes the total number of bodies recovered 146.

Fifth Victim of Pittsburg Fire.

PITTSBURG, July 9.—Stewart Burns of engine company No. 4, who was taken out of the wrecked Evans building Saturday night, died at an early hour yesterday, making the list of dead number five. Captain Dan Campbell, also of No. 4, who was thought to have suffered the least injury of any of those buried, is in a very critical condition, suffering internal injuries. The physicians consider his chance of recovery very slight.

Body of Missing Boy Found.

LOCKHAVEN, Pa., July 9.—The body of Paul Shapleigh, aged 17 years, who has been missing since the 3d inst., was found in the mountain several miles from here. Paul left the city on Tuesday morning for a farm six miles above the city on an errand for his uncle and took a short cut across the rough mountain road on a bicycle. Since then hundreds of men have been searching for him night and day.

WHAT TOWNE WILL DO.

The Populist Nominee Withholds His Decision—Consults With Bryan.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 9.—No formal announcement will be made by Charles A. Towne of his decision in regard to the Populist nomination for the vice presidency until the Populist committee gives him formal notification of his nomination. This will be in about ten days. Mr. Towne said yesterday that he would make public his decision at that time and would issue an address giving his reasons for the action he takes. What that action would be he refused to say. "But my course is perfectly clear now," Mr. Towne added. "I have already talked the matter over with several Populist leaders."

Senator J. K. Jones of Arkansas, chairman of the Democratic national committee, arrived here from Kansas City Sunday evening and held an extended conference with William J. Bryan, Charles A. Towne and George Fred Williams. In talking about the vice presidential situation Senator Jones said he hoped and believed that in case Mr. Towne withdrew his name as a Populist candidate for the vice presidency the national committee of that party would indorse the Democratic ticket.

"We are all independent," continued Senator Jones, "and like to carry to a successful conclusion our own plans. But this year every one who is not with the Republican party should be against it, and I cannot help thinking that every man who is in earnest in his desire for the success of William J. Bryan should unite with us. Of course if Mr. Towne does not withdraw fusion on the electoral tickets of the various states should and probably will be arranged."

Senator Jones will leave for Chicago tonight. During today's conference, at which Senator Jones, Senator Heitfeld, J. R. Sovereign, Senator Allen and Chairman Edmisten of the Populist national committee are to be present, the vice presidential complication will be considered in all its phases. Should Mr. Towne decide to withdraw his name from the Populist ticket this would leave the way clear for uniting the three parties in the support of the Democratic national ticket, and a strong effort will be made to bring about this result through the Populist national committee.

Mr. Towne spent Sunday with Mr. Bryan, taking dinner with him, and later, in a party which included ex-Congressman Hartman of Montana and George Fred Williams of Massachusetts, drove out to Mr. Bryan's farm.

Duell For Governor.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The Post today says that the friends of the Hon. Charles H. Duell, commissioner of patents, intend to press him vigorously as the next Republican candidate for governor of New York. The Post will say that Mr. Duell will be urged as the most available man for the Republicans to nominate for the reason that, besides his excellent record, he is, while an organization man, well thought of by the independent voters and also well liked by the national administration. As commissioner of patents he has displayed executive ability, discretion and energy of a high order.

Chinese Here Are Not Boxers.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Manifestations of growing intolerance of the resident Chinese have alarmed the merchants and head men of Chinatown, and yesterday a proclamation was read on the streets signed by several prominent Chinese. The matter had been under discussion for several days, and mistreatment of Chinatown residents at points along the Bowery on Saturday night precipitated the matter. The head men estimate there are 15,000 Chinese in New York and vicinity and say not one of them is from the north of China or even of the same tribal races involved in the disturbances Damaged by Storm.

NEW YORK, July 9.—A wind and rain storm passed over Vineland, N. J., yesterday. A large building in the plant of the Vineland Window Glass company was blown down. The loss upon the building and its contents will be about $5,000. At the Jonas Glass works at Minatola, near this place, another large building was wrecked, causing a loss on building and contents of $6,000. Many trees were blown down, and many window panes were broken, but so far as known no one was injured.

HAVANA'S NEW CHARTER.

Will Go Into Operation This Week. Removal of Troops Pleases Cubans.

HAVANA, July 9.—The new charter of the city of Havana will go into effect immediately after its publication, which will be made this week. The powers of the recently elected officials are thereby greatly increased. The city will have control of all matters within its boundary, particularly the establishment and regulation of the city administration, the adoption of measures relating to the use, arrangement and ornamentation of public ways, the comfort and health of the inhabitants, the promotion of their material and moral interests and the security of their persons and property.

The orders for the removal of a large number of troops from Cuba recently issued have been gladly welcomed by the Cubans, and General Wood is in receipt of many letters from various municipalities offering thanks for what they call his disposition to trust the Cubans and declaring that the entire island is in a state of absolute tranquillity. The Tenth infantry, it is believed, will leave the island shortly after the departure of the regiments now under orders to proceed home.

General Wood will probably pay a short visit to the United States, leaving on Saturday next. His purpose is to escort Mrs. Wood and his family to their home and also to consult with Secretary of War Root regarding the coming constitutional convention.

The governor's family will remain north for the rest of the summer.

Drowned In the Schuylkill.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—David Hallen and Isaac Braumfine, both 19 years of age, were drowned in the Schuylkill river by a rowboat going over Flat Rock dam, just above this city. Hallen and Braumfine were members of a picnic party and, in company with Leon Kapplain and Tillie Stein, hired a rowboat for a ride on the river. They did not know of the close proximity of the dam, and when they discovered it the boat was too close to be rowed away. There was not much water going over the dam at the time, and the little craft stuck fast. The lockkeeper came to their rescue in a launch and threw them a rope, which he instructed them to tie around their bodies and then jump overboard. Hallen and Braumfine refused, but the girl and Kapplain did as directed. As they jumped the boat became lightened and shot over the dam to the rocks below. Hallen and Braumfine sank immediately. The other two were drawn safely on board the launch.

Severe Storm on Lake Erie.

BUFFALO, July 9.—Further developments show that the storm which swept Lake Erie Saturday night was one of the most sudden and severe known to the summer season. Many yachts were broken from their moorings and driven on shore, and the damage to small craft will be considerable. The large passenger steamer Pearl, which was caught by the squall as she was backing from her dock at Crystal Beach, Ont., with 900 Buffalo excursionists on board and driven stern foremost on a sandbar, was released. The damage to the boat proved trifling. The rescue of the passengers was perilous.

The President's Day of Rest.

CANTON, O., July 9.—President McKinley began yesterday with a short drive. He put Mrs. McKinley and Mrs. Julius Whiting, Sr., an old friend of the family, on the rear seat of the surrey and took his own place beside the coachman for a turn about the city. Just as the bells were summoning worshipers to church the president's carriage stopped at the First Methodist church. The president entered the church, and the women continued their drive. At the conclusion of the service the president walked to his home. Another drive was taken toward evening.

Mayor McGuire at the Head.

ALBANY, July 9.—Chairman Frank Campbell of the Democratic state committee has appointed Mayor James K. McGuire of Syracuse chairman of the executive committee of that body. As the head of this committee Mayor McGuire will handle and direct the gubernatorial campaign in the state this fall. Mayor McGuire was a conspicuous figure at the Democratic national convention which was held in Kansas City last week by reason of his stanch support of former Senator David B. Hill in his fight to secure a modification of the 16 to 1 silver plank.

An Excellent Suggestion.

The names of a number of prominent lawyers have been mentioned as probable appointees to the vacancy on the Supreme Court Bench, caused by the death of Judge Lippincott. The position calls for thorough legal learning, high standing at the bar, dignity, social position and wealth, for it is patent that one having the other requirements can readily earn more at private practice than they would receive as judge. The honor, however, is great and few, if any lawyers, honored by the appointment, would hesitate to assume the ermine.

Now that Judge Magie has become Chancellor, Union county is without a representative upon the Supreme Bench. No man has yet been mentioned for the place that is better qualified by learning, high social position and standing at the bar to fill this honorable position than Craig A. Marsh, corporation counsel of this city. The Daily Press and all Plainfield would be very glad to see Mr. Marsh placed in the position which he is so eminently fitted to occupy.

The Difference.

The New Brunswick Fredonian is making a plea to the Common Council of that city for the purchase of a team for use to the hook and ladder truck of the Brunswick fire department. At present the New Brunswick truck has to be pulled by hand. It is only when facts like these come to the front that many Plainfielders realize how much more efficient their department is than that of many of their neighbors. The idea of a city of the size and population of New Brunswick being so far behind the times that such a necessary apparatus in case of fire has to depend on volunteers to draw it to the fire, is surprising indeed to the people of this city. It only goes to show, however, what a difference there is between Plainfield and New Brunswick in the management of the local affairs while the tax rates are almost the same.

Strange to say, both Republicans and Democrats seem quite satisfied over the results of the doings out in Kansas City. The silver Republicans and the gold Democrats are the only ones that see anything that does not please them. The silver Republicans hoped for the nomination of Charles E. Towne for Vice President, while the gold Democrats wanted the silver plank left out and a conservative man in second place on the ticket. The Republicans profess that nothing could have suited them better than what did happen. It is a good thing when you please yourself and your enemies.

To the Trenton correspondent of the New York Herald the public is indebted for the following brilliant paragraph: "It is now generally conceded throughout New Jersey that the backbone of the winter is broken. For several days there have been distinct evidences of a general thaw."

It may prove a serious thing for China in the end to defy the civilized world. The nations of the globe, America included, are not going to stand by and see their citizens ruthlessly slaughtered. The summer proves to see many momentous happenings in the far east.

James E. Martine has gone out to take a peep at the west. Like many others who visit Denver, it is likely that the "Farmer Orator" will feel it his duty to climb Pike's Peak. He will have some wonderful experiences, without doubt, to relate to his friends on his return.

It has been many years since Plainfield has seen such an exodus to the summer resorts. There are enough remaining, however, to make life in this city very pleasant.

Which great political party will be the first to fire the opening gun in the campaign as far as Plainfield is concerned?

The Sultan of Turkey is beginning to see the wisdom of doing the right thing by the United States.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest to Plainfield.

The friends of "Farmer Orator" Martine, of Union, are felicitating themselves over the triumph of the silver plank in the Democratic platform, for which he valiantly contended against most of the other New Jersey delegates from the first. They may not felicitate themselves so joyfully when they see the election returns in November.—New York Herald.

Success has at last rewarded the efforts of the North Plainfield Board of Education to have the people vote an appropriation of $5,500 for the purpose of providing proper heating, ventilating and sanitary appliances for the public school. The project when heretofore submitted to popular vote has been defeated, and was carried through last Monday night by only a small majority, 112 votes being recorded in favor of the improvements to 93 against them. It is a somewhat remarkable fact, but by no means confined to North Plainfield, that those voters whose tax bills are comparatively light, and whose children are to enjoy the facilities of modern school equipment, are usually the ones to oppose such appropriations, while the more progressive citizens who have no children to be educated, and who bear the bulk of taxes, are generally found ready to vote special taxes for the common welfare of the town. —Bound Brook Caronicle.

Several New Jersey newspapers are calling editorial attention to the fact that James E. Martine, the "Farmer Orator," and one of the delegates at-large from that State to the Kansas City convention, has been "squelched," and squelched in New Jersey is a serious affair. Mr. Martine was, it seems, ambitious to be a member of the committee on resolutions, but, as the story runs, Congressman Daly, ex-Congressman Cornish, William B. Gourley and General Meany sat upon him with an emphasis which was crushing, the General going so far as to say that Mr. Martine was a "lunatic on the silver question." The Democratic clouds that are now hanging over New Jersey are portentous of trouble in the near future, and the eruption may culminate in a fracas of unprecedented magnitude. It has been said that Mr. Martine is close to William J. Bryan on the 16 to 1 issue—in fact, he is generally regarded as Mr. Bryan's Twenlow, and the gentlemen who have squelched him in the caucus may find a harder problem to wrestle with in the open. The "Farmer Orator" will unquestionably be heard from on the stump, and as he is a plain, blunt man, Mr. Daly, Mr. Cornish and the others may have him to reckon with in a way which will be unpleasant, to say the least.—New York Tribune.

Dear Sirs:—Some days since a package of your GRAIN-O preparation was left at my office. I took it home and gave it a trial, and I have to say I was very much pleased with it, as a substitute for coffee. We have always used the best Java and Mocha in our family, but I am free to say I like the GRAIN-O as well as the best coffee I ever drank. Respectfully yours,

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, July 9th.—A large number of friends and relatives attended the funeral services of the late Mrs. Enander, which were held from the residence yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. S. K. Doolittle, of the First M. E. church, presided, and spoke very feelingly. Interment was made in the Middlesex Hillside cemetery.

Charles Richardson, of Dunellen avenue, had a little experience with a live electric light wire Saturday which will make him rather wary of all wires in the future. A pole belonging to the electric light company blew down on that street and Richardson attempted to put the wires out of the way. He was using a rake to pull them around with, which, as long as he held the wooden handle, prevented him from being shocked. By accident, however, he touched the iron part and received a terrific shock. He was unable to let go and his shouts attracted the neighborhood. He finally managed to let go more frightened than hurt.

Constable Polhemus, of Lincoln, arrested five men Friday night, who were sleeping in a freight car near the "tanks." They were lodged in the borough jail and brought before Justice Warden Saturday morning. They gave their names as Joseph Smith, of Bound Brook; Patrick McGough and John McCloud, of Newark; William Schofield, of Elizabeth, and Joseph Martin, of New York. The men told a hard-luck story of being out of employment and three of them claimed to have positions waiting for them in New York. As the prisoners had committed no serious offense the judge discharged them.

An exciting game of baseball was played on the Lincoln avenue grounds Saturday between two teams, captained by Ted Baron and Adam Dealaman. The former team won by a score of 18 to 7. The batteries were Baron and Craig and Dealaman and Bates. The feature of the game was a three-base hit made by Elmer Giddis.

A number of borough people attended the wedding of Miss Jennie Wharton and John Sutton, which was performed by Rev. Dr. Rhodes, at Califon, Friday. J. S. LaRue, formerly of Dunellen, was best man.

Rev. Albert B. Robinson, of Westfield, occupied the Presbyterian church pulpit yesterday, at both morning and evening services.

Peter Benward was forced to give up work Friday night on account of sickness. His place was taken by Thomas Costello.

Miss Edwina Eckel, of Westfield, who has been visiting relatives in the borough for the past week, returned home yesterday.

After having remained idle since Wednesday, the merry-go-round was again started up Saturday night.

Scotch Plains, July 9—Rev. G. M. Shott and daughter, Miss Elsie, leave tomorrow morning for Cincinnati, where they will attend the National convention of the Baptist Young People, which will be held in that city from the 12th to 15th. Mr. Shott expects to be away for two weeks. At the close of the meeting they will visit relatives and friends through Ohio. During his absence his pulpit will be occupied by a supply.

Scotch Plains people are wishing and waiting for the new trolley cars to be put on. The ones now in use are far too small to accommodate the large crowds on Sundays and during the evenings. Consequently when a car gets to Scotch Plains it is crowded and they are obliged to take standing room only.

A game of base ball was played Sunday afternoon between a picked nine from the village and a team from Clinton avenue, Plainfield, on grounds near Graceland. Five innings were played when a dispute arose and the game was broken up. The score stood Scotch Plains 1, Clinton avenue 10

Those who are obliged to use the sidewalk along Front street are beginning to wonder if the coating of cinders, which was put on some time ago, will ever be rolled. As it is now pedestrians find it much pleasanter walking in the road.

A New Romantic Novelist.

The Century Company announces the discovery of a new romantic novelist in a young New Yorker, Miss Bertha Runkle, whose maiden effort is to be The Century's leading piece of fiction for the next eight months, beginning in the August number. It is described as a dramatic romance of love and adventure, and is entitled "The Helmet of Navarre." The scene is Paris during the siege by Henry of Navarre, and the action occupies but four days of the week preceding the Sunday when Henry entered the city to give his adhesion to the Catholic church and accept its ecclesiastical rites—the occasion of his saying that Paris was worth a mass. The story is full of vigorous action, and the plot is said to be one of fascinating interest. Miss Runkle is the daughter of Mrs. L. G. Runkle, a lady of large literary attainments, well known by her editorial connection with the New York Tribune, and as one of the working editors of the "Library of the World's Best Literature," and similar enterprises.

Hamburg. Die Bürgerschaft genehmigte die Anträge des Senats betreffend die Umgestaltung des Rathhausmarktes behufs Errichtung eines Denkmals Kaiser Wilhelms des Ersten, sowie außer den bereits bewilligten 250,000 Mark weitere im Kostenvoranschlag vorgesehene 698,700 Mark.—Schulrath Professor Dr. Hoche ist jüngsthin mit einem Ruhegehalt von 13,400 Mark pensionirt worden. Damit ist ein Beamter ausgeschieden, der sich um unsere höheren Staatsschulen hoch verdient gemacht hat.—Der in weiteren Kreisen bekannte Bankier und Lotteriegeschäftsinhaber Flörsheim beging mit seiner Gattin das Fest der goldenen Hochzeit. Das im 79. Lebensjahre stehende Jubelpaar erfreut sich noch voller geistiger und körperlicher Rüstigkeit.

Kuxhaven. Das durch die großen Küstenforts Kugelbaake und Grimmerhörn bei Kuxhaven zwecklos gewordene Küstenfort Grauenort, das 1870 mit großem Kostenaufwand erbaut wurde, ist neulich auf Abbruch meistbietend verkauft worden.

Lübeck. Kriminalschutzmann Bader, ein geübter Radler, war auf einer dienstlichen Ermittelungsfahrt nach der Vorstadt St. Lorenz begriffen und wollte einer vor ihm gehenden Dame, die sein Glockensignal nicht beachtete, ausweichen. Hierbei gerieth er unter die Räder eines Brodwagens und trug lebensgefährliche Verletzungen davon.

Oldenburg.

Oldenburg. Aus Zürich kommt die Nachricht, der verstorbene Großherzog Peter sei einer der treuesten Abonnenten des unter dem Sozialistengesetz in Deutschland verbotenen „Sozialdemokrat" gewesen. Er habe sein Abonnement regelmäßig erneuert und die nach oben abgerundeten Abonnementsbeträge regelmäßig an die Expedition des „Sozialdemokrat" geschickt. Das Blatt sei ihm unter Kouvert zugegangen, weil die deutsche Post sonst dasselbe nicht befördert hätte. Der „Vorwärts" knüpft an diese Mittheilung die boshafte Frage, ob vielleicht aus diesem Grunde der „Reichsanzeiger" vergessen habe, dem verstorbenen Bundesfürsten einen Nachruf zu widmen.

Mecklenburg.

Neustrelitz. Dem verstorbenen Obermedizinalrath Dr. Rudolphi, der das Karolinenstift leitete und ihm 15,000 Mark vermachte, soll vor dem Stift ein Obelisk mit einem Reliefporträt gesetzt werden, wozu bis vor Kurzem 2500 Mark zusammengebracht waren.

Braunschweig. Anhalt.

Braunschweig. Schwere Gewitter suchten verschiedene Gegenden des Herzogthums und der Umgebung heim. In Brechtorf wurden ein fünfjähriges Mädchen, in Hasselfelde ein Pferd und zwei Kühe vom Blitz erschlagen; dort brannten auch ein Ackergehöft, in Mörse zwei nieder. Im Solling und an der Weser vernichteten strichweise Wolkenbrüche und Hagelschlag einen großen Theil der Ernte.

Dessau. Der Herzog gestattete Frau Oppenheim, der Tochter des verstorbenen Baron von Cohn, den Namen und das Adelsprädikat ihres Vaters anzunehmen. Sie nennt sich demnach Baronin v. Cohn-Oppenheim. Frau Oppenheim stiftete 1,000,000 Mark für wohlthätige Zwecke in Anhalt.

Jeßnitz. Das Schwurgericht verurtheilte den Uhrmacher Klotzsch wegen Münzverbrechens zu fünf Jahren Zuchthaus. Der Verurtheilte hatte ungefähr 10,000 falsche Markstücke in den Verkehr gebracht.

Großherzogthum Hessen.

Darmstadt. Die hessischen Landwirthe sind zu ihrem eigenen Nachtheile noch nicht sehr eingenommen für die Versicherung gegen Hagelschäden. Aus einer kürzlich erschienenen amtlichen Aufstellung über die Hagelschäden im Großherzogthum Hessen ist ersichtlich, daß sich während der letzten zehn Jahre der Gesammtschaden auf 3,491,768 Mark belaufen hat, während die ausbezahlten Entschädigungssummen nur 582,351 Mark betragen haben.

Mainz. Die Kostenanschläge und Pläne für die projektirte direkte Eisenbahnlinie Mainz-Wiesbaden sind seitens der preußischen und hessischen Eisenbahndirektion ausgearbeitet. Die auf Staatskosten zu erbauende Linie wird von Mainz über Mombach und die Petersau, Amöneburg nach Kurve zur Einmündung in die Staatsbahn Frankfurt-Wiesbaden beziehungsweise Frankfurt-Kassel-Biebrich-Rüdesheim-Koblenz erbaut. Da die im Rhein liegende Insel Petersau überschritten werden soll, so wird die Erbauung zweier Eisenbahnbrücken über die beiden Arme des Rheins erforderlich.

Mörfelden. Viel Aufsehen erregt das Gerücht, ein Forstgehilfe, der sich kürzlich entleibte, habe in einem zurückgelassenen Briefe eingestanden, den seinerzeit vielbesprochenen, an einem Mörfeldener Landwirthe auf der Landstraße verübten Raubmord begangen zu haben. Der vom Schwurgericht in Darmstadt als schuldig befundene und darauf hingerichtete Schuhmacher Kuhmichel sei unschuldig verurtheilt worden.

A healthy wife is a husband's inspiration. A sickly half-dead-and-alive woman, especially when she is the mother of a family, is a damper to all joyousness in the home. I sometimes marvel at the patience of some husbands. If a woman finds that her energies are flagging and that everything tires her, her sleep is disturbed by horrible dreams, and that she often wakes suddenly in the night with a feeling of suffocation and alarm, she must at once regain her strength. It matters not where she lives or what her name is; what she needs is a Ripans Tabule.

SUMMER SKIRTS.

There Is Much Variety Allowed This Season.

Skirts are flat in front and at the sides—except those of thin goods, which are often gathered—and have plaits or gathers at the back. Last year's skirts, however, without any fullness at all behind and simply buttoned there or at the side, may be worn this summer without reproach, although they are not likely to remain in favor longer than next fall, the tendency being toward increasing amplitude all the time.

Gowns of lace over silk or satin are extremely fashionable. The lace may be bought in the piece, and it is applied smoothly over the silk, to which it is fastened, so that it closely adheres. It is to be had in black, bise and white.

Plaited and full skirts, although pretty in themselves, are not practical for traveling and general service. For these purposes a tailor made skirt, plain and rather short, with a simple decoration of stitching or straps is better.

VOILE COSTUME.

The picture shows a gown of lilac voile. The skirt is plain around the hips, but, just below them, has a series of plaited fans let in. The plain, close bodice has a wide collar of mandarin panne, which forms draped revers. The plastron and high collar are of white guipure. The tight sleeves are draped at the top, showing prints of guipure. Small enameled buttons serve as a decoration, and there are enameled medallions on the belt. The hat of rice straw is draped with white tulle and trimmed with blue flowers.

WHAT IS WORN.

Skirts of Different Kinds For Summer Costumes.

The lower skirt of taffeta over which the skirt of transparent gowns is made must be of the same length as the outside skirt and very carefully fitted. Around the foot is a deep, full flounce of plaited silk, which helps to hold the unlined thin skirt in the proper shape. Glace taffetas have been relegated to the position of these underdresses and are not used for entire gowns, being replaced by plain or embroidered taffeta.

Although gathered and plaited skirts are new and are much worn, the plain skirt holds its own without difficulty, as it is extremely graceful and better than any other style sets off to advantage a pretty figure. All skirts, plain or otherwise, are so made as to cling at the hips and flare at the foot and are long and without any stiffening which might render the folds harsh and sharp.

SILK WRAPPER.

The illustration given today shows a charming wrapper of ivory liberty silk. It is made in a loose blouse form and is gathered in at the waist by a cord of black velvet terminating in pompons. All the edges have many bands of stitching as a border, and down the front is a jabot of plaited ivory mousseline de soie. The wide collar, which is draped at the shoulders by choux, is bordered with a plaiting of mousseline, and similar plaitings finish the half length sleeves. The plastron is of plaited liberty silk.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

A church society in Brooklyn discussed at a recent meeting the question: "Which is more demoralizing, fashion or tobacco?"

Prof. Harnock, a Berlin theologian, has come forward with the startling theory that the epistle to the Romans was written by a woman, probably Priscilla, whom Paul mentions in one of his letters.

Yale's senior class of the Divinity school has been in New York studying sociology. The course includes this visit to New York for the study of types, conditions and charity systems. The class numbers about 30. The visit includes the Mills hotel and Chinatown.

The sextonship of the parish church at Chapel-en-le-Frith, Derbyshire, England, has been retained in one family since 1631. The latest incumbent, Joseph Bramwell, who has just died, had held office since 1893. He was buried in a vault in which lay the bodies of the eight predecessors of whom he was a descendant.

Dr. Jerome H. Raymond, who is said to be the youngest college president in the United States, has resigned the presidency of West Virginia university because of difficulties in which he became involved with the faculty and trustees. He had requested from the trustees the removal of five professors, whom he charged with incompetency and insubordination. When the board failed to adopt his suggestion he resigned.

Russia's Academy of Sciences has a prize of 1,500,000 rubles to bestow. In 1833 Gen. Arakczeijew bequeathed to it 50 rubles which were to accumulate until 1925, when three-fourths of the sum should be given to the best history in Russia of Alexander I.'s reign. The other quarter was to be spent in printing the work, in having it translated into French and German, and for a prize to the second best work. The accumulation will amount to nearly 2,000,000 rubles.

Several counties of Iowa have been successful in the novel educational experiment of maintaining a central township graded school, to and from which the pupils are conveyed in carriages at public cost. Among the advantages are better teachers, better scholarship, better attendance, and lessened expense. While there is no effort to impose this policy on the townships by state legislation, at present, it may be that further experiment will demonstrate the propriety of universal adoption.

A MUSIC BOX IN HIS RING.

Pathetic History of an Odd Instrument and the Weird Little Tune It Plays.

The most charming little ring and interesting little curio in the world is the property of Mr. Temple, of London, says the Kansas City Star. This gentleman is a nephew of the celebrated Sir Richard Temple, and the ring in question is a highly prized old family heirloom.

Inside of this tiny circle of gold are the works of a perfect little music box. You touch a spring and hold the ring quite close to your ear. Then you hear a sweet, weird little tune.

This ring was once in the possession of one of Mr. Temple's ancestors, who lived in France. He was a stanch royalist, and in the days of the revolution he valiantly espoused the cause of the unfortunate Louis and his lovely, doomed queen, Marie Antoinette. He was arrested, thrown into jail, where he lingered for days and weeks.

One of his few pleasures in the gloomy solitude of his dreary dungeon was to listen to the voice or tune of the little musical ring, which he always wore on the third finger of his left hand. He had inherited it from his grandfather, who had it manufactured in Genoa at great cost.

One day sullen-faced men, heavily armed, came to his dark dungeon, and told him he must follow them. He knew that this meant the guillotine. He stepped bravely out to meet his fate, determined to die like an English gentleman and a brave man. And he did.

A strange fancy took possession of him just before they led him to the block. He touched the spring of his little ring and lovingly held it to his ear. It sang its little tune merrily and briskly.

In the course of time the little ring found its way back into the Temple family, but it was silent. Its present owner took it to a London jeweler, who found in the musical mechanism a clot of blood that for years had lain there and impeded the working of the machinery.

This was removed and the little ring sings again the same weird little tune.

Foulness in Drinking Water.

In the journal of the New England Waterworks association Messrs. Whipple and Jackson give the results of their study of the biology of Asterionella formosa, a diatom which is a frequent cause of foulness in drinking water in America, giving to it a fishy or geranium-like odor, caused by the formation of an oil analogous to the essential oils. The diatom forms spores during periods of stagnation at the bottom of reservoirs, and increases with great rapidity when these spores germinate, this growth taking place chiefly during the spring and autumn. The growth of the diatom is greatly favored by light, and the best means of preventing its increase is by storing the water in the dark.

WONDERS OF MAGIC.

Performed by the Medicine Men of the Navajo Indians.

Tricks Equaling in Delicacy and Intricacy of Motion the Wonderful Feats of Hermann and the Jugglers of India.

[Special New Mexico Letter.]

AS ONE rides along on the line of railway that crosses New Mexico to California and sees here and there, near Gallup, and later on, bands of Indians on horseback, wretched hovels of boughs and earth, evidently the homes of Indian people, and now and again a woman weaving a blanket, or a boy herding horses, or a girl driving home a flock of sheep or goats, he little dreams that here, indeed, he is in the region where a clan or fraternity of magicians or conjurers live, some of whose tricks are as surprising as those of Hermann, and puzzle keen white men who attempt to explain them.

When a Navajo is sick there are several ways he can be treated. A shaman will come to his hogan and there perform such incantations and ceremonials as he deems best to secure the restoration of health of his patient. Or the invalid may be removed to the medicine hogan of the shaman, there to be treated according to the notions of the practitioner. But most desired method of all, the shaman comes to an appointed spot where his patient awaits him, and, after assurances are given that all the necessary expenditures will be met, sends messengers duly qualified and equipped to invite a number of other shamans to aid him in the ceremonies, the dances, the incantations and the chantings or singings that are required.

Now let us leave the railway and go into the heart of the Navajo reservation, 20 or more miles north. Here we shall find nearly 20,000 Navajos, but we might hunt for a score of years and never come upon one of these ceremonies unless our previous friendship with some great shaman gained for us an invitation.

NAVAJO MAGICIANS WITH THEIR FIRE WANDS.

A lodge or medicine hogan is constructed, in which sand paintings that have great virtue (to the Indians) are made, and a variety of performances are carried on within this secret place that few white men ever have witnessed. These continue for eight days, and it is on the ninth that the tricks of magic are performed. They are all separate and distinct parts of a great fire dance, the main feature of which, however, it will be impossible here to recount.

An immense woodpile, composed of old trees of juniper, cedar, pinyon and the like, the most inflammable materials that the country affords, is made. The trees are all stood upright, with plenty of the smaller branches tucked in between the trunks to aid combustion.

SWALLOWING A PLUMED ARROW.

Then around this woodpile a corral or stockade is built. The woodpile alone is over 60 paces in circumference, and the outer circle is correspondingly large, for there must be room for more firewood to replenish the great fire as it burns low, and room for scores of visitors and for all the performances that are to take place within the sacred area.

I must not forget to describe the interesting manner in which this corral is built. Just after sunset the chief singer of the shamans, with rattle in hand, takes his place where he intends the gateway to be, to the east of the woodpile. He marks off a place about ten feet long and thus defines the gateway. Now, raising his rattle, he begins his monotonous song, rattling at the same time.

In a moment every man in the vicinity rushes to the spot and helps build the fence with the saplings that have been cut and brought here during the day. The work goes on with speed, and in about an hour is completed, when rattling and singing cease, and the shaman disappears. From that moment the circle is sacred, and no wrong, evil or unclean thing or act can be permitted within its sanctified region. The people now take their places inside, some building small fires for themselves near the edge of the circle. Soon the chorus and orchestra appear. Marching up to a small fire they begin their drumming and singing and keep it up without cessation until morning. In a moment the great central fire is lighted. The darkness speedily disappears. The immense pitch-pine fed flames shoot up into the sky and the heated air carries up with it showers of blazing sparks which give wild brilliancy to the scene. The heat soon becomes so intense and the glare of the fire so incandescent that it is impossible for one to bear to look at it or have his face towards it. I felt I should be compelled to leave the circle. But just as I was about to flee I was shamed into remaining by the presence of the naked shamens who were to perform their fire ceremonies of magic. Each of the dozen naked men, daubed over with some white, clayey substance, who rushed into the circle yelping like wild coyotes, carried in his hand a tiny wand tipped at the end with eagle feathers. The moment they came within the influence of the magic circle and the fire they began to walk slowly, and then posture and pose as they circled around in single file. Holding their wands up and down they made every kind of a posture, most of them surprisingly graceful, reminding one somewhat—yet without its ridiculous and laughable features—of the negro cake-walk.

Twice they circled the fire. Then watch them! In the face of that fearful furnace heat, stark naked except for the breech cloth, they try to reach the fire that they may set ure to the eagle down on their wands. Some, crawling like serpents, others making wild dashes, others running forward for awhile, then backward and then forward alternately, sought to get near enough to fire their wands, and it was horribly fascinating to watch them. At last all accomplished it.

Then began the magic. Showing to the spectators the burned feathers, holding the wand so that all could see it, each dancer began to wave his wand up and down, and make all kinds of motions, until at length his efforts were successful, and to our surprise we saw the down restored. Some did this speedily, others more slowly, but each one in turn succeeded, and as he did so, ran yelping out of the corral to the medicine hogan.

Now the arrow swallowers come forth. These are two in number. Each man holds in his hand a large plumed arrow. Stepping up to the patient, who during all this time is seated on a bearskin in the circle, each one lifts up his arrow, plumed about half way down, and taking hold of it just below the pluming or feathering, gives a fierce yell and gestures to his throat and signifies clearly that he intends to swallow it thus far. Then, in a moment, throwing his head back, he places the arrow in his mouth and steadily and slowly forces it down until half its length has gone. Now, turning to his companion, who has done likewise, he dances a kind of rude side-dance, with the arrow still in his throat, and the feathered end sticking out. As soon as the dance is over the arrows are withdrawn and taken and used in some mystical manner over the patient.

Again the circle is cleared. After an interval of perhaps an hour a long line of performers, 20 to 30, appear, and we see that something wonderful is expected to happen. After circling the fire and dancing, they withdrew, to reappear later.

After midnight the sun show dance took place. This is most effective and beautiful. On a wooden crescent-shaped dish, just large enough to stand on the head, radiating eagle plumes which represent the sun are fastened. After preliminary dances, circlings and mummery eight of the dancers, with these exquisite plume dishes apparently hovering over their heads like a halo of light and without any mode of fastening them, began a well-timed, slow song, accompanied with clapping of hands and stately movements that were delightful and impressive.

Now came 16 performers, bearing a rude plank and a basket containing an effigy of the sun. It was composed of a small mirror with radiating scarlet plumes. Standing in a close circle so that we could not see what was going on, the dancers went through certain movements, shouting loudly: "Thohey! Thohey!" The circle then opened and we saw the plank standing upright on a small Navajo blanket, no one holding it and apparently nothing mechanical supporting it, and while wondering what it meant, the sun's effigy slowly began to climb up the plank, higher and higher, until, when nearly at the top, it descended as slowly as it rose. During all this the chief shaman stood before the plank vigorously rattling and talking to the plank and representation of the sun.

"Midway" Features of Paris EXPOSITION

Even to the Disappointed Visitor There Are Many Things to Interest and Instruct

ONE of the numerous American visitors who have already taken in the sights of the Paris exposition said to me the other day that in his estimation the whole show was a failure.

I believe that he judged the exposition harshly, and that in time he will realize that he saw many things at Paris that were of interest. Had he said that the exposition was a disappointment I could easily have agreed with him, for such it has proven to a large number of visitors. In the first place, the great show is by no means complete even yet, and it cannot possibly be ready for judgment before the middle of June, and even at that one who saw the grounds on opening day wonders how the transformation has been accomplished. When April 15 arrived the task of completing the exposition before the middle of the summer seemed hopeless, and the foreign newspaper men in Paris were prepared to send the news abroad that would keep visitors at home for two or three months at least, but the exposition authorities begged so hard, and promised so faithfully to have it in better shape at an early date, that the verdict was suspended for a time, and the promise has been kept much better than it seemed possible to keep it.

Comparisons are always odious, and I have none to make. But because I do not care to make any of my own will not prevent me from repeating a few remarks I overheard the other day. It was a titled Englishman speaking as he stood in the rotunda of one of the Paris hotels:

"This fair proves that Paris must take second place as an exposition giver," said he. "Chicago was far ahead of her last effort, and we had expected that Paris would be as far ahead of the Chicago show this time as she was beaten by Chicago, but she is not. In fact the Chicago exposition was a much better show in every way than this one is, and I venture to say that nine-tenths of the people who saw that one and then come to Paris and see this one will be disappointed. I know that I have been."

The American visitor who pronounced the fair a failure should have taken the same view of it as this English nobleman, who is one of the few who are spending their time in sightseeing instead of fighting the Boers in South Africa.

Speaking of fairs reminds me of a pointer that I have intended giving those who expect to visit Paris this year. If you want to court the good graces of the Parisians do not speak of the exposition as a fair, call it an exposition. The Parisians have learned to distinguish between the two. Chicago had a fair, and a big one, it is admitted, but Paris has an exposition, and expositions are in a higher class by themselves.

No matter whether the visiting American be disappointed or not; no matter whether he pronounces the Paris effort a failure or a success, I venture to say that he will find many things inside the exposition grounds that will be interesting and instructive. He begins to see things from the time he comes within range of the monumental entrance to the exposition. It is well that the authorities here provided the beautiful entrance that they have, it takes much of the curse away from the remainder of the show. To the person who visits Paris with the intention of making comparisons this entrance gives a first good impression in favor of Paris, for Chicago had nothing to compare with it excepting the water entrance which comparatively few people used. This entrance is colossal in proportions. It is formed of three great archways, with an opening of over 65 feet each. They form a triangle and cover more than 29,500 square feet. The gates through which visitors pass are so arranged that 60,000 persons may be admitted per hour. The artistic decoration of this entrance has been secured by the extravagant use of multicolored imitation stones from which during the day the sun's light is reflected and at night the light from countless electric lights.

"Midway" features are scattered throughout the entire exposition grounds. They are crowded about the Trocadero, and are an especial feature on the Rue de Paris. But the "Midway" as Chicago knew it is lacking in many respects, and this can be said without detriment to the Paris exposition, for while the side show feature of the Chicago fair appealed to practically every visitor, it was but the tail of the kite after all, and the Paris kite is getting along to a great extent without a tail.

Not that there are not side shows at Paris. They are innumerable, but they are of a higher order than many of those seen at Chicago. There is the Mareorama, for instance, that is a good sample, and one that is attracting its full share of visitors. It gives for a small consideration a pleasant trip along the shores of the Mediterranean that is instructive and entertaining to those who have neither the time nor money to enjoy the actual experience. This trip on the Mediterranean is made aboard a modern boat that is fitted with every device tending to increase the deception. The building which houses this peculiar feature is but 125 by 105 feet square and 75 feet in height, yet inside it one journeys for hundreds of miles in a completely rigged vessel that gives all the sensations of a voyage at sea and travels quietly past the beautiful sights of the Mediterranean. The whole arrangement is but a simple optical illusion, the effect being produced by moving canvas on which is painted in miniature the scenes along the coast. The journey will consume but a short time, as the rate of travel is 100 miles per minute.

The restaurants on the exposition grounds are among the notable and numerous features, and may be classed with the side shows in a way, as many of them are typical of peoples and nations. The Chinese restaurant, with its long-queued waiters from the streets of Peking, is proving a popular place of refreshment. From the outside it is typical of the Flowery kingdom, but once inside much that commends it to the seeker after novelties is lost. The building is Chinese in architecture. On the inside it is again Chinese in inconvenience and in complication, but aside from these things all that remains to typify China are the waiters. It is run by a Frenchman, who serves the choicest of French dishes instead of the relishes of the Chinese.

Another restaurant where one's curiosity may be satisfied, however, is in the Chinese pagoda, a huge red affair of seven stories, directly across the street from the Chinese restaurant. In this building the native Chinese will serve you with Chinese dishes that you are expected to eat Chinese fashion—if you eat them at all. This pagoda forms one of the attractions of the Paris "Midway." It is by far the most hideous thing on the exposition grounds, and yet its oddity makes it attractive as a curiosity. Thousands of visitors are climbing its winding stairways every week, and wishing for an elevator to add to the incongruity.

From the far east come many of the side shows of the exposition that are neither vulgar nor misleading, but are for the most part instructive, which may be said of the great majority of the Paris side shows.

BERNHARD BRISTOL.

THE MAREORAMA, PARIS EXPOSITION.

Growth of Steamships.

The New York Times tells of an incident that shows how large ocean steamships have become: "Once a little immigrant boy about seven years old was lost for four days on the voyage over. He left his mother and started in quest of adventure about the big ship, but upon growing tired was unable to find his way back to her. Instead of asking some one to show him where to go or telling that he was lost, the young truant decided to continue his explorations indefinitely. When found he was sleeping in an empty coal box down among the engines. One of the crew took him to the captain, who detailed six stewards to search for his mother. They found her with some difficulty, and discovered that she, too, had been lost, having started out to look for her son and not being able to get to her own part of the ship again."

THE WOODCHUCK'S WAYS.

He Sleeps for Six Months Out of Every Year, But Is a Lively Fellow Nevertheless.

The woodchuck sleeps for six months out of the twelve. "I've been asleep all winter, but now I'm wide awake and ready to enoy the spring and summer," a writer in St. Nicholas fancies him saying, as he comes to the mouth of his hole under the old tree. In the early part of last autumn, when he was very fat from his many summer feasts of red clover, he filled this nest nearly full of leaves, crawled into the middle of the long mass and, curling himself up into a ball, went to "sleep."

The woodchuck's appetite makes him the plague of every farmer, and his queer and interesting ways make him the delight of every farmer's boy. If we dig him out of his home in the winter, we shall find what appears to be a football covered with fur. Let us take him in by the warm fire in the farmhouse, and soon he will wake up, but in such a drowsy way as not to be frightened. Before long he will roll up and go to sleep again. He is the soundest of the winter sleepers. The gray squirrel "sleeps" (hibernates, it is really) only in the coldest weather; the chipmunk sleeps more, but awakes from time to time for a nibble at his store of nuts; but the woodchuck sleeps continually for about six months. In middle and late summer he lives alone, and for a large part of the time sits perfectly still at the mouth of his hole. The scientific people name him Arctomys monax. Those of you who have commenced to study ancient tongues know that monax means monk; so you see grown-up people have their fancies when they say in this scientific name that this is the bear-mouse monk.

While woodchucks are not rapid runners, it is very difficult to catch them, for they usually go but a little way from the hole, and keep a sharp watch to see if anyone is coming. Sometimes the farmer's boys dig out the whole family of woodchucks in the spring. John Burroughs tells in "Riverby" an interesting story about feeding milk to young woodchucks, and says that they would hold a spoon in their little shining black paws; and in "Pepacton" he tells how the farm dog "Cuff" outwitted an old woodchuck.

CATS BY THE SCORE.

They Cheer the Life Savers Along the Atlantic Coast and Keep Off Vicious Rats.

Nearly every life-saving station along the Atlantic coast of Long Island is a haven for cats. It may seem strange that among the beach hills, surrounded by water in many instances, the cats should be represented so largely in Uncle Sam's service, but life-savers say that if it was not for the presence of the animals life would be a constant bore and at times dangerous, for hived among the beach hills with their growth of sea weed are swarms of rats, vicious as wildcats and ready to devour anything from a jolly fat lifesaver down to a fish.

These rats migrate at frequent intervals, but generally make their abode near the stations, where they can secure food at times when the cats are away or many of them are asleep. Sometimes a lively chase occurs when a swarm of rats is discovered pillaging from the station's crumb heap, and frequently fierce battles ensue between the cats and their enemies.

Capt. John Edwards, of the Short Beach Life Saving station, opposite Freeport, has the largest number of cats, there being about 50 at present in the family at the station. The captain and his crew take great pride in showing them to visitors and explaining the reason of their habitation among them.

Each man in the crew has become strongly attached to the cats, and at a signal from any one of them all the pussies will scamper toward the station and stand in a circle as if expecting orders. When meals are ready the cook calls them by a shrill whistle, and each family seems to form into a group for eating.

Some of the cats at Capt. Edwards' have been there for ten years and know every maneuver of the wreckers in their work of saving people from stranded vessels.—N. Y. Journal.

An Island of Black Cats.

One of the queerest corners of the earth, according to Capt. John C. Reinman, is Chatham island, off the coast of Ecuador. This island lies 600 miles west of Guayaquil and the equator runs directly through it. Capt. Reinman, who was sent to the Galapagos group of islands to inquire into the proper grounding of a deep-sea cable, stopped at Chatham island, and says it abounds in cats, every one of which is black. These animals live in the crevices of the lava formation near the coast and subsist by catching fish and crabs instead of rats. Other animals found on this island are horses, cattle, dogs, goats and chickens, all of which are perfectly wild.

GREAT AMERICAN BIRD.

According to Charles E. Holder the California Vulture Is Without a Rival.

No more interesting study, for the laymen or man of science, can be found than the effect of civilization upon the fauna of a continent. In America the results have been so marked and far-reaching that it is of more than ordinary interest. Within comparatively few years some types of animals have been almost exterminated, others constitute a passing show, and without the most stringent rules and regulations they will soon disappear.

Among the most interesting birds on the Pacific slope is the California vulture — Pseudogrypus Californianus—which well represents in North America, the great condor of the Andes, and exceeds it in stretch of wing, but not in bulk. I have seen this fine bird soaring high above the Sierras, and once succeeded in creeping upon a specimen which had come down into the lower country, and was in a grove of live oaks at an altitude of about 1,000 feet, in the San Gabriel valley. I lay in the cover for some little time watching this great American vulture, which with head well up, its big wings drooping, presented a fine picture. I satisfied myself with aiming at it, then came out of my concealment to drive it away, knowing that the first pot hunter who came along would bag it, as the bird was in demand by the insatiate curiosity dealers who have a price on the head of every bird. The great vulture slowly moved away with ponderous flight, and I watched it rise higher and higher in great circles, congratulating myself on having aided, in all probability, in the preservation of at least one individual. A week later, however, I learned that a California vulture had been shot in the same grove by a sportsman, and brought to town, where it was sold to the highest bidder.

That the bird is destined to extinction is evident from the fact that every collector or curiosity dealer has a standing offer for all the birds and eggs they can get. Thirty or 40 years ago these birds were so common that it was not unusual for the Mexicans to catch them with a lariat, roping them after the vultures had gorged themselves with food. I once had access to a large South American condor which I found very amenable to the taming process. After some weeks it came to know me, and would hold up its head to be scratched, like a dog. The living California vulture that it was my good fortune to see, appeared to be quite as heavy and powerful a bird, though there is no doubt that the Andean form is the superior in this respect. As to their strength, Dr. Cooper states that four could drag the body of a young grizzly bear, weighing 100 pounds a distance of 600 feet. Dr. Newbury observed these birds in the Sacramento valley in 1856, and refers to their fine soaring powers; and Dr. Canfield states that he has seen as many as 150 vultures around a dead antelope in the Columbia river region. Southern California to-day is undoubtedly the principal retreat for the great bird, which will be hunted in the winter from peak to valley, and from one live oak grove to another until they too have joined the majority.—Scientific American.

FIRM DID NOT FAIL.

How a Very Smart Young Traveling Man Was Taught a Lesson Which He Never Forgot.

It is well to take an interest in your employer's business, but it is not well to presume on your worth. No man or boy is absolutely indispensable, although he may occupy a very exalted position.

A laughable instance is reported about a young man who was a drummer for a large wholesale house. He was clever and a hard worker, but exceedingly bumptious. A favorite opinion of his was that the firm could not get along without him.

"I have no doubt," said he, one day, "that if I should die, the firm would have to put up the shutters inside of a year."

He had made the same remark many times before, but this time some envious clerks carried it to the ears of the firm.

The senior partner sent for him next day.

"I understand, Mr. Smart," he said, gravely, "that you think the firm would fail if you died."

Mr. Smart hemmed and hawed and tried to turn it off as a joke, but it wouldn't do.

"It has worried me very much," continued the senior partner, "and so we have concluded to try the experiment. Just consider yourself dead for a year, Mr. Smart, and if at the end of the year the firm feels itself dying we will send for you."

"But, sir—"

"That will do, Mr. Smart. You may go."

He went, a sadder and much wiser young man, and the firm did not die after all.—Golden Days.

CYCLING COMMENT.

What promises to be one of the features of the national L. A. W. meet to be held in Milwaukee during the week of July 10-15, is the exhibition of the cycling manufacturers of the country. H. P. Hanaford, who is in charge, announces that the floor space of the "Art Gallery" of the exposition building where the exhibition is to be held is nearly all taken, and there promises to be the greatest exhibit of cycles and cycle appliances ever made in this country, and all should bear in mind that visit the same that there will be no extra charge for admission.

With the League of American Wheelmen, and the National Cyclists Association, working in unity, the twenty-first National L. A. W. meet, to be held at Milwaukee, July 10 15, promises to outrank any of its predecessors. The absolute absence of any friction regarding race control, and the perfect harmony existing between the two great wheeling organizations, gives the Milwaukee meet an indorsement no other meet every enjoyed. It assures the participation in the races of every noted racing man, and the attendance of all prominent wheelmen. In addition to this, the Century Road Club of America has come to the fore, completing a great triple alliance of the wheeling organizations of the country working as one for the success of the meet.

GOLF

It is reported that recently Frank Talmage made nine holes on the Hillside Tennis and Golf course in 39, beating the best record made.

Next Saturday afternoon on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course the Hillside team will compete for honors with the team from the Newark A. C., in the East Jersey Golf Association tournament.

Despite the fact that he is kept very busy looking after the course and giving instruction to the members, Andrew D. Blair, the Park Golf Club professional, finds time occasionally to put up some great golf. Friday he played thirty-six holes that will hold the Park Club course record for some time. In the morning he made eighteen holes in company with William M. McCutchen, scoring a 47 and a 42, making a total of 89. In the afternoon he played with J. H. Parker and made a 42 and a 41, a total of 83, for eighteen holes, and 172 for the thirty-six holes made during the day.

The Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will send a team to Finderne Thursday afternoon that promises to swamp the players of the Somerset County Country Club. The latter club invited a team of five from Hillside to visit that course and the invitation was accepted. The team will probably be made up of W. L. Glenney, Frank Reinhart, Frank Talmage, J. Whitney Baker and Howard Wright. It was first planned to send a team of "duffers," but Dr. Ard, who looks after the team play, has decided that the Hillside Club might as well show the Finderne people how to play golf.

ROD AND GUN.

Local fishermen report weak fish to be very plentiful at present and large catches are being made daily. Sam Neal and Edward Eaton caught twelve fine ones at Boynton Beach Saturday, and Harry Dreier secured seven, one of them being a four pounder. Most of them were caught on the incoming and flood tides.

ON THE DIAMOND

Warren McLoughlin, who has secured a place of pitcher in the National League, pitched his first game Saturday on the Philadelphia's against the Cincinnati's. He made a very creditable showing and will probably be kept on the team.

WHAT THE DELEGATES THINK OF TICKET

Interviews With the Men Who Represented New Jersey at Kansas City Convention.

ALL ARE SATISFIED WITH IT.

EACH HAD HIS REASON FOR LIKING CANDIDATES AND PLATFORM.

Leading Democrats of the State Give Their Opinion on the Coming Campaign to a Correspondent.

The delegation of men who represented New Jersey at the Democratic National convention at Kansas City have either returned to their homes in the "Garden State" or else gone further west to meet the Presidential candidate of their party and see some of the wonders of their country. Among the latter is James E. Martine, of this city, one of the delegates-at-large.

Judging from what they have to say, the delegates are quite well satisfied with the results of the convention and with New Jersey's showing there. They believe that the representatives from this State had not a little to do with bringing about the results achieved.

A correspondent, who was with the party, interviewed them at the close of the convention and learned their various opinions of the nominations made and the platform adopted.

"The Democratic party is in an excellent position to make a fight," said Senator Johnston Cornish, chairman of the delegation. "We have a very strong ticket and our candidates stand upon a platform which should certainly appeal to all Democrats and even to those voters outside of our party who are opposed to an imperialistic policy. Mr. Stevenson, I believe, will lend strength to the ticket."

"It is a strong ticket and one which I believe will meet with warm approval in New Jersey," remarked Mr. Gourley, the State chairman. "We propose to make a contest right from the start and will put up a hot fight. The platform is satisfactory, for as a matter of fact, no matter what the result of the election may be, the currency question cannot be changed for some years after the next President's term shall expire."

"It is a good ticket, a strong ticket," is the way Mr. Daly put it. "Mr. Stevenson represents the extreme conservative element in the United States and links the old with the new dispensation of Democracy.

"The ticket is a grand one," declared James E. Martine, one of the delegates-at-large, enthusiastically. "I would have voted for Sulzer myself and would have nominated him in the convention, but at Mr. Sulzer's wish I did not do so. However, I propose to support the ticket with all earnestness and I believe, despite what the platform says, that money is still the issue, even though the present financial system cannot be changed for two or three years. We certainly had a tumultuously enthusiastic and harmonious convention and I believe that we have candidates and a platform with which we can appeal to the working classes of New Jersey with chances of success."

"We have the best ticket the Democratic party ever put before the American people," was the earnest declaration of former Congressman Thomas Ferrell, one of the delegates-at-large. "We have a platform which all Democrats can indorse and support, and I believe that the emphatic declarations against imperialism and trusts will help our party immensely in New Jersey."

"It is a very strong ticket, indeed," was the sentiment of Judge James J. Murphy, of Jersey City, who went to Kansas City as alternate for Robert Davis, the Hudson county leader. "I think," he added, "that the making of imperialism the paramount issue, and the naming of a conservative man like Stevenson for Vice President will unite and harmonize the Democracy of New Jersey."

"It is a very strong ticket, and one which should unite all factions of the Democratic party," said Congressman J. S. Salmon. "I think that the prospects of the ticket being elected are very good, and I believe it will receive the electoral vote of New Jersey."

"I like the ticket and like it first rate," said Mr. McDermit. "No better man than Stevenson could have been placed on the ticket with Bryan, in my judgment, and I am hopeful of success in New Jersey."

"It is a good ticket, and one which should meet with the approval of all Democrats throughout the country,"

BERRY PICKERS FOUGHT

ISAAC AND JAMES WOOD, OF SCOTCH PLAINS, WANTED A MONOPOLY.

Aged John Heckeny Came Along and Wanted to Pick, Too—Trouble Followed—The Woods Arrested.

Isaac and James Wood, of Jerusalem road, were brought before Judge Schick yesterday afternoon charged with assault and battery upon John Heckeny, an old man 71 years of age. The Woods and Heckeny are neighbors and have always been the best of friends until yesterday when the Woods decided to go picking blackberries.

Their wanderings led them on the farm occupied by James Moore. Here the crop of berries were quite plentiful and they concluded that this one particular spot was theirs by right of discovery. So when Heckeny put in an appearance and started to pick, too, they were up in arms over this invasion of their rights and ordered him off the place. The old man was outnumbered, two to one, but knew his rights and refused to go. This angered the two, it is said, who proceeded to beat the old man.

The cries of the old man were heard by John Edwards, who was working nearby, and he rushed to the scene. Upon his arrival, it is said, he found one of them pounding their victim with his fist, while the other was using a fence rail. His timely assistance probably saved the old man's life.

As soon as he was able Heckeny was brought before Judge Schick and warrants were issued for the arrest of the brothers. They were soon apprehended and brought before the Court. The evidence proved conclusively that the assault was unprovoked and atrocious. Judge Schick held them in $200 bail each to appear before the October Grand Jury. As they were unable to furnish the bonds they were committed to Elizabeth.

As soon as James Wood, father of the prisoners, heard of his sons' arrest he went before Judge Clark and asked for a warrant for the arrest of John Edwards, who had come to the old man's rescue. Judge Clark knew nothing of the facts of the other case so granted a warrant for Edwards. When Edwards was brought before him and told his story he was immediately discharged, as the Judge claimed that anyone who interfered when two young men were beating an old man 71 years old, could hardly be guilty of assault and battery, but should be considered a hero instead of a criminal.

GOV. VOORHEES TALKS CONCERNING THE SUCCESSOR TO LIPPINCOTT.

Among Those Under Consideration are Lindabury, Bergen and Vroom—No Pressing Need for Hurried Choice.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, July 10.—Governor Voorhees has not yet appointed a successor on the Supreme Court bench to the late Justice Lippincott, and will not do so, he intimates, for some days.

The Governor said there was no pressing necessity for the appointment to be made immediately, as this was vacation time, when the courts are not rushed with business. Besides, it was a little bit early, considering the fact that Judge Lippincott had only just been buried.

"While the names of several prominent lawyers have been mentioned to me," said the Governor, "still none of their friends have begun as yet to push their respective claims, as they recognize the fact that it would be a little premature to do so. The appointee, as I have stated, will be a Democrat, and only lawyers of that political faith will be considered by me in connection with the position. I have under consideration Richard V. Lindabury, of Newark; Former Judge A. Q. Garretson, of Jersey City; Former Speaker James J. Bergen, of Somerville; Eugene Stevenson, of Paterson; Garret D. W. Vroom, of Trenton, and some others. Vice-Chancellor Stevens' name has also been mentioned.

"I may say that all the names that have been submitted to me for consideration are men of ability, any of whom, I feel, would reflect credit on the Supreme Court bench."

MET ON LAWN INSTEAD.

Electric Lights Unkindly Went Out as the Meeting Began and An Adjournment was Necessary.

The services at the East Third Street mission were somewhat delayed Sunday evening through the failure of the electric light system to work properly.

It has been the custom during the summer months to hold the Christian Endeavor services on the lawn in front of the chapel and to hold the regular services immediately after in the chapel.

After the C. E. services Sunday evening those present adjourned to the chapel according to the custom. The services were just about to begin when all the lights in the building went out and the congregation remained in the dark. After several vain attempts to discover the cause of the trouble, the people again adjourned to the lawn.

Notwithstanding the misfortune the services were conducted in the usual manner and all enjoyed an interesting meeting. Those present were much pleased with the out-door service and suggest its continuance in the future.

Fred. H. Martin, of this city, was in charge of the meeting.

Go to Bonn's.

DRIVER M'GANN TALKS.

GIVES HIS SIDE OF THE BOROUGH FIRE DEPARTMENT TROUBLE.

Says Trouble Was Over Responsibility for Horses and Not Over Prices for Services of Horses.

A reporter of The Daily Press interviewed Thomas McGann, of the borough, this morning, concerning the trouble of July 4th regarding the arrangement at Warren Engine Company house for horses to pull the apparatus. Mr. McGann stated that the trouble was not over the question of how much money he was to receive for the thirty hours' duty, but it was a question of drivers and the responsibility for his horses while in charge of other drivers not engaged by Mr. McGann.

He says that Chief Debele had engaged six drivers and there was to be three shifts. Each man was to receive $2 for the ten hours on duty. Mr. McGann did not like the idea of having so many different persons handle his horses, but was willing to abide by the arrangement, providing Chief Debele would be responsible for any damage. He says the Chief told him he would not be responsible for the horses no more than any ordinary taxpayer.

Mr. McGann objected to this and he had a consultation with Mayor Smalley. The latter informed him that the borough would be responsible. The four horses were then kept on duty under the old arrangement. That is, if the apparatus was taken out by the horses Mr. McGann was to receive $5 each time.

BUSY TIMES AT SEA GIRT

COL. GILLMORE SEES THAT BOYS HAVE PLENTY TO DO.

Happenings Among Members of Second Regiment Now Enjoying Life by the Sea Shore.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Camp Voorhees, Sea Girt, July 10.—A strong breeze blew over the camp yesterday and today, making life much more pleasant for the members of the Second Regiment.

There is not an idle moment in the camp, Colonel Gillmore keeping the boys right down to work all the time.

Captain James M. Oliphant, quartermaster of the regiment, is without exception the busiest man on the grounds. He must fill requisitions of all kinds and at all times.

The commissary, under Colonel Earley, assisted by Captain Stanley McLewee, furnishes the food for the regiment. Colonel Earley is well known to most of the boys. He was in camp when the Fourth New Jersey Volunteers were here, and at that time gained many friends.

The officer of the day today is Captain Matlock of Company I, Newtown, and the officers of the guard are Lieutenants McCullough and Hickey of Companies A and I, respectively.

Company E was in command of First Sergeant Spellane yesterday, the other officers being out of camp. Sergeant Spellane drilled the men and every man was in line.

Chris Hill, the popular comedian, went crabbing today and returned with forty choice crabs. He is organizing a ball team to be called the Gas Ranges. He hopes to continue the team when he goes home.

Private Wm. Butler, of Company D, has been appointed orderly for the colonel.

Six o'Clock Closing For Crosby & Hill.

Beginning last evening Crosby & Hill, the well-known West Front street merchants, inaugurated the custom of closing their store every evening, except Saturday evening, at 6 o'clock. This change will continue for the remainder of the summer and is much appreciated by the clerks who now have the opportunity of enjoying these delightful summer evenings.

Third Church of Christ.

Rev. David Blow has established what is known as the Third Church of Christ, and a meeting place has been secured at the corner of Prescott place and South Second street. About twenty colored people have thus far joined and communion services were held there Sunday last.

New Collector Took Office.

Collector James A. Martin resigned his position today and his successor, Frank H. Smith, assumed control of the office. Mr. Martin has not decided as yet what he will do, but will probably live in retirement for awhile to recuperate.

Mines Likely to be Worked Soon.

DEMOCRATS BEGIN.

Democracy of Somerville is Busy Preparing for Opening Gun of the Campaign This Evening.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, July 10—The Democrats of Somerset county are preparing to start the campaign for Bryan and Stevenson this evening when a ratification meeting will be held at Somerset Hall. The speakers who have promised to attend are Allan Benny, of Bayonne, Peter F. Daly, of New Brunswick, and Former Senator Richard Kuhl, of Flemington. It was hoped that James E. Martine could be secured to address the meeting but his absence in Colorado will make it impossible. A lively demonstration is expected. With few exceptions, it is said that the Democrats of Somerset county are perfectly satisfied with the results of the Kansas City convention.

FOUGHT OVER A WOMAN

O'DONNELL DECLARED THAT REEDY STARTED THE QUARREL.

Reedy Made Charge Against O'Donnell Claiming the Somerville Man Assaulted Him—Case Dismissed.

Edward O'Donnell, of Somerville, was arraigned in Justice Mosher's court this morning on complaint made by James Reedy, who charged the defendant with having assaulted him on Madison avenue last evening.

Reedy swore that while coming from the train last evening he met O'Donnell, who invited him to have a drink. O'Donnell was then rather intoxicated, he claims, but Reedy, thinking that he might be of some aid to the man, accepted the invitation. The men had a drink in a nearby saloon, and O'Donnell became rather boisterous and insulting in his remarks.

At the request of the bartender Reedy took O'Donnell out of the saloon and walked him up Madison avenue. When the two men reached the Madison avenue bridge Reedy claims that O'Donnell struck him in the neck. He, in self-defence, took a hand in the encounter and soon bested his man. The two men walked down town and separated.

O'Donnell testified that, although he was intoxicated, he did not strike the first blow, and that Reedy had a grudge against him because he was in the good favor of his wife. The Justice said that in consideration of the fact that so far as his court was concerned the defence had always borne a good reputation, and as both men were equally to blame for the trouble he would dismiss the case on promise of the defence to leave Plainfield and not to return again inside of six months. O'Donnell promised and the court adjourned.

The Justice was aroused from slumber at the early hour of 1 o'clock this morning by Reedy, who had the Justice draw up the papers for O'Donnell's arrest.

The Justice hopes there will be no more early morning carousals.

AT FRESH-AIR CAMP.

Endeavorers of Park Avenue Church in Charge of Services at Camp Woolfe—Special Music Given.

Twenty-five members of the Park Avenue Baptist church Christian Endeavor Society had charge of the meeting at the Westfield Fresh-Air Camp last evening. Mrs. Alice S. Runyon, superintendent of the missionary department of the Local Union, led the meeting. The topic was "The Good Shepherd." During the service Miss Ada Runyon and Thomas Cuming and Miss Adelia Runyon and Miss Adelaide Runyon rendered duet selections in a pleasing manner.

A feature of the service was the part taken by the mothers at the camp who gave testimonies which were impressive and helpful. At the close of the meeting the Endeavorers remained to visit the nursery and to talk.

Much Work On Hand.

There is a great rush of work on hand at present at the Pond Tool Works which keeps a day and night gang going steadily. Of late several new men have been engaged and if the rush keeps up more will be needed.

WOODBRIDGE HAS GHOST

STRANGE HAPPENINGS REPORTED IN AN OLD ROOKERY.

Thrilling Experience of Teamster Richard Little—Spook Now Roams About With a Lamp.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Rahway, July 10.—There has been wild excitement prevailing among the inhabitants of the clay mining districts of Woodbridge over a rumor that one of the old rookeries of that locality is haunted by the spirit of some former resident.

It is claimed that some time ago a young man by the name of Richard Little, a teamster, was driving home late at night, when his team was brought to a sudden stop which nearly threw him over the dashboard of his wagon. He regained his seat and with whip in hand, applied to the animals, whose strength combined could not start the empty wagon. As he was about to give up the task he was seized bodily by a supernatural power and dashed upon the green about fifty yards away. He was not injured in any way and was able to pick himself up and resume his errand.

This time Mr. Spook shows up in a different form by illuminating the entire house from cellar to garret and takes a delight in roaming about the lighted rooms with a lamp in his hand of about 50-candle power. It is said that no form of a man or woman can be seen in the illuminated house, only this powerful lamp moving from room to room. Some say that it is the reflection from Will Lansley's dynamo at Carteret, but there are other views of the matter.

WANT CHEAPER FARE.

An Effort is Being Made To Secure a Five-Cent Fare From Plainfield To Fresh-Air Camp.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, July 10.—Efforts are being made by those in charge of the Union Fresh-Air Camp, of Westfield, to secure from the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company the right to ride from Plainfield to the camp ground for a single fare of five cents.

The camp is situated on Summit avenue, about three quarter of a mile from the depot. The cars pass directly in front of the camp ground. Formerly passengers have had to pay a fare of ten cents in order to ride to the ground, as the five-cent fare only carried them to Westfield station.

The matter has been referred to Colonel E. W. Hine and he has promised to take immediate action.

Miss Curry, the matron in charge of the camp work, has established a day nursery in connection with the East 9th street nursery, of New York city, of which she has charge. About 40 children are entertained in this department, and they remain all summer.

The services at the camp on Sunday afternoon were conducted by Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of Plainfield. There will be services every evening during the week except Saturday.

About 140 mothers and children are now being entertained at the camp.

Fake Tale From Mauch Chunk.

A rumor eminating from Mauch Chunk to the effect that a strike was in progress on the Jersey Central Railroad was given publicity in several of the Newark and New York papers yesterday. It is emphatically denied by an official of the road. Some of the correspondents of that part of the Central line persist in sending forth lively "fakes" about the dangers of a strike on the Central.

Hundred-Mile Run a Success.

The century run managed by the Eveland Cycle Company, of Jersey City, and held Sunday over the course extending from Jersey City to Plainfield and return, was a great success. Sixty-seven out of the 110 riders who started finished within the time limit. The majority of the riders took dinner in this city at McVey's Hotel.

Informal Complaints Were Made.

Edward Marcellus, Jr., who was arrested last week and sentenced to forty days in jail by City Judge Runyon, had never before appeared in court to answer to a complaint, as was then stated. A number of informal complaints had been made to both the Judge and the police, however.

Local Road Races.

Victor Christofferson, of this city, is arranging a series of road races amongst the local cracks to take place within a short time. Good prizes, well worth trying for, will be offered. He is also arranging a pursuit race with four of Plainfield's best riders for $50 a side.

DEADLOCK IN COUNCIL; NO COUNCILMAN NAMED

Winfield S. Angleman Was Slated as F. H. Smith's Successor But There Was Opposition.

VOTE WAS FIVE TO FIVE.

ON ACCOUNT OF TELEPHONE COMPANY, RUNYON NOT CHOSEN.

Councilman Craig Nominated Mr. Angleman While the Name of Frank E. Randolph Was Presented by Councilman Lee—Failed to Break Deadlock.

The principal object, for which the adjourned meeting of the Common Council was held last evening was not accomplished, and strange to say, the members might have remained in session all night and they probably would not have come any nearer in deciding the question—that of electing a successor to Frank H. Smith from the Fourth ward. It was said after the meeting that it had been practically agreed that Winfield S. Angleman was to be the man, but Mr. Lee gave some of his fellows a surprise when he placed in nomination the name of Frank E. Randolph, of 442 West Front street, who is employed at the Potter Press Works. Mr. Craig nominated Mr. Angleman, the man agreed upon. Two ballots were taken and both resulted in a tie, each candidate receiving five votes. Then followed a discussion as to when it would be convenient for the Council to hold another session to settle the matter, and it was finally decided to allow the president to call a special meeting if necessary.

Prior to the attempt to elect a Councilman Mr. Lee moved to take a recess of five minutes. This was done, but there must have been a slip somewhere between the time of going and coming in, for there was the equal division of opinion and votes on their return.

Another strange feature was that Charles W. Runyon's name was not mentioned. This is explained by the fact that the Corporation Counsel had been consulted by some of the members regarding Mr. Runyon's candidacy, and had been informed that under the circumstances that another telephone company is trying to get into Plainfield, and Mr. Runyon being manager for a similar corporation, it would not be wise. This is probably the reason why Mr. Runyon was not elected. Between now and the time of holding the next meeting the deadlock will probably be straightened out.

A considerable amount of routine business occupied the attention of the members aside from the important matter which was not settled. George W. Cole and J. B. Coward, executors for the estate of Elias Cole, asked the Council to make an apportionment of the taxes on the estate. The matter was referred with power.

Collector-elect F. H. Smith presented his bond for $25,000. It was signed by J. Frank Hubbard, Jas. E. Buckle, R. L. Tolles, David C. Smalley and George J. Tobin. It was approved by the Corporation Counsel and ordered filed.

Mr. vanHerwerden, of the School Board of Estimate, stated that the Board had determined that $53,120 would be needed for 1900 to run the schools of the city. This is exclusive of the amount apportioned by the County Superintendent of Schools. He then offered a resolution that the sum of $53,120 be assessed and collected for school purposes. He also offered an ordinance fixing that sum to be raised, as required by law.

Mr. Tolles reported back the claim for damages made by Matthew Roger Brown, of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, and stated that in conversation with the Corporation Counsel, the latter informed him that Mr. Brown had no claim against the city for the fact that the Plainfield Street Railway Company had left the pile of stone on Watchung avenue near the Y. M. C. A. building into which Mr. Brown collided with his horse and wagon the night he was injured. On motion of Mr. Tolles the complaint was returned to Mr. Brown's counsel, Nelson & W. N. Runyon, and a copy of Mr. Marsh's opinion will also be furnished them.

Mr. Tolles offered a resolution authorizing the street committee to arrange with the Plainfield Street Railway Company to lower the grade of Watchung avenue under the railroad bridge not over six inches, at no expense to the city, and the street to be put in better condition than at present. The resolution was adopted, but not until there was some discussion regarding it.

THE BOERS IN LONDON

Afrikander Leaders Trying to Change British Opinions.

JOHANNESBURG MAILS SUSPENDED.

Lord Roberts Reports Some Sharp Fighting—Imperial Light Horse Sustain Heavy Loss—Women Denounce Annexation.

LONDON, July 10.—The five Afrikander leaders who arrived on Saturday last seek to impress the idea upon the English that public opinion is favorable to Boer independence. They have been asked to leave the hotel at which they are stopping. Among them is Professor Devos of the Stellenbosch Theological seminary and D. De Wet, formerly a member of the Cape Colony cabinet.

The Cape Town correspondent of The Standard says under date of July 9:

"The postoffice authorities have issued a notice that civil mails have been suspended for Johannesburg. This, with the fact that telegrams for Pretoria are refused, causes uneasiness."

Lord Roberts telegraphs to the war office from Pretoria as follows:

"The officer commanding at Heilbron reports that State Secretary Blignaut, State Attorney Dickson and members of the council of Vantander and Kuppervergen came in yesterday and surrendered.

"Hutton was attacked yesterday in a position he was holding by a large number of Boers. He cut them off without much difficulty, the 5 inch guns with him being found most useful. Our only casualty was Lieutenant Young of the First Canadian mounted troop, slight scalp wound. The enemy left several wounded on the ground and sent a flag of truce with a request that they might be received in our field hospital.

"I regret to say that Captain Currie and Lieutenant Kirk of the Imperial Light horse, who were reported wounded in my telegram of yesterday, were both killed. One squadron of this distinguished corps pressed a very severe force of the enemy in a gallant attempt to carry off a wounded comrade, to which they attributed the heavy loss sustained. In addition to the officers a farrier sergeant and three troopers were killed and the sergeant major, three sergeants and seven troopers wounded."

Women Protest Against Annexation.

CAPE TOWN, July 10.—At a meeting of Afrikander women here, called to protest against the annexation of the republics to the British empire and the punishment of the rebels, Mrs. Olive Schreiner Cronwright denounced the British policy. She said she was ashamed of her English descent and added: "If the republics are annexed, if the Afrikanders are oppressed, peace is impossible. Every trench of Boer dead is a grave of England's honor. Every bullet making a wound also finds a billet in the heart of the empire." It is reported here that President Kruger's retention of large amounts of gold at Machadodorp has created the utmost discontent among the mercenaries, officers and men. They expected substantial rewards for championing the Boer interests, but have received nothing. It is added that visiting foreigners who have subsequently advocated intervention are believed to have received substantial sums. Proofs, it is further asserted, have been discovered in Pretoria which promise startling developments.

Horses and Mules For Manila.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Recent orders of the war department involve the sending of about 4,000 horses and mules from this country to the Philippines. Most of these are cavalry horses, forming an important part of the equipment of the squadrons of the First, Third and Ninth regiments of cavalry ordered to the Philippines. The transportation of the animals across the Pacific is a difficult problem. The transports available are not nearly sufficient for the extensive movement in prospect, and it will be necessary to procure at least six additional animal transports. Even with the increased supply of vessels it will take a long time to make the transfer, and each vessel probably will be required to make two trips to Manila. Quartermaster General Ludington is in negotiation with ship owners for the charter of the necessary steamers.

Indians Call on McKinley.

CANTON, O., July 10.—A delegation of full blooded Indians waited on the president yesterday afternoon and were greeted with very cordial handshakes. They are connected with the Pawnee Bill Wild West show and were accompanied by the man whose name the show bears. There was the usual number of callers to pay their respects or to see the president on personal business and a number to talk over matters in connection with the coming of the notification committee on Thursday. The survivors of the president's old regiment in the civil war, the Twenty-third Ohio, are coming and will be entertained by the local posts of the G. A. R. Senator Fairbanks of Indiana will be one of the visitors on that day.

Important Life Insurance Decision.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—Judge Sewell yesterday sustained the demurrer to the complaint in the suit of Charles G. Gebbhardt, executor of the estate of the late Jonathan Lloyd White, to recover $53,883 from the Mutual Insurance company of New York. In August, 1898, White paid $53,883 to the Mutual Insurance company for an annuity of $3,600 a year. Four months later he lost his life in the Baldwin hotel fire. His executor sued to recover the original sum paid. The court finds for the company.

Highway Robber Caught.

HARTFORD, July 10.—After a long chase, during which shots were fired by the officer, one of which took effect in the back of one of the fugitives, John Foley, 19 years old, and Levi Kusnitzky, 18, were arrested, charged with highway robbery. The complainant in the case was John Kennedy, 69 years old, of Chicopee, Mass., who reported to the police that he was held up and robbed in one of the city parks.

Another Afridi War Feared.

LONDON, July 10.—Advices to The Express from Peshawur, in the Punjab, under date of June 19, says that 100 Afridis made a sudden night descent on 200 Afghans who were engaged in building a fort near Dacca and killed a number of them. It is feared in some official Indian circles that another Afridi war is brewing.

Mrs. R. Wortman living with her daughter Mrs. S. E. Cook of 204 Somerset street says:—"I used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results for severe pains across my back and hips, which no doubt was caused by the kidneys being out of order. It was painful for me to stoop or bend forward and I could not sit ten minutes in one position, but had to be constantly changing about. I used many different kinds of medicine recommended for kidney trouble, but I could not see that any of them benefitted me. Doan's Kidney Pills were procured for me at L. W. Randolph's drug store and it is the only remedy I ever used that gave me any relief. I always keep a supply of them on hand and would not think of being without them."

Foreigners Said to Be Safe In Peking.

PRINCE CHING OPPOSES PRINCE TUAN

Capture of the City Necessary, and Delay Adds to Boxer Forces—Empress Dowager Very Much Alive. American Troops Reach Taku.

LONDON, July 10.—With the foreigners in Peking probably safe amidst civil war, with Prince Ching on their side, with the powers united and their forces constantly increasing, the outlook in China is now rather more hopeful than it has been for a month past. It appears from the cautious statement given out by Taotai Sheng in Shanghai that the reason the heavy guns bearing on the legations at Peking were not used is that Prince Ching, who is served by 10,000 troops, seized all the artillery ammunition. Sheng likewise intimates that Yung Lu, commander in chief of the northern army, is associated with Prince Ching in opposing Prince Tuan's ferocious designs and dictatorial ambition. Sheng, who appears to be the sole Shanghai conduit of Peking news, cheers the foreign consuls by these confidential communications, but takes excessive precautions to prevent the Chinese from thinking him friendly to the foreigners.

The feeling of unrest in the southern and central provinces continues. The members of the official class in those provinces strive to remain neutral, with a leaning toward the foreigners, until they shall see whether the moderate or extreme factions will win in Peking. Prince Ching seems to be standing for the dynasty and the old order against Prince Tuan's inordinate ambition.

From the foreign viewpoint the capture of Peking is the key to the situation, as there is a fear, says The Daily Mail's Shanghai correspondent, that delay now means 100 recruits for the Boxers for every soldier of the allies in the land.

Two couriers arrived at Tien-tsin on July 1 from Peking. One brought a letter from Sir Claude Macdonald, the British minister, to the same effect as that previously received from Sir Robert Hart. The couriers confirm the reports of the death of Baron von Ketteler. They say that Prince Ching is doing his utmost to protect the foreigners, but that the native feeling against the whites is strong. Two high officials opposed to the Boxers are reported by the couriers to have been assassinated.

Sir Claude Macdonald's letter is dated four days earlier than that of Sir Robert Hart's.

A dispatch to a news agency here, dated Tien-tsin, July 2, says:

"The empress dowager, so far from being dead, is actively striving to prevent the factions fighting. Prince Ching has informed her that he would rather lose his head than be constantly obliged to warn her of the consequences of the prolongation of the present anarchy. Prince Tuan is quite willing that Ching should be decapitated, but the dowager empress will not allow this. Prince Tuan has decided that he will take full responsibility. He purposes to retake Tientsin and Taku. Outside of Peking, except in the Pe-chi-li and Shangtung country, the people are supremely indifferent."

However all this may be, the allies at Tien-tsin are having an exceedingly unpleasant time.

The Times this morning says:

"Some Chinese officials are evidently desirous to have it believed in Europe that the legations in Peking are still under the protection of one section of the Chinese army, but that only makes it more remarkable that they should not employ the only convincing argument by allowing direct communication between the ministers and the outer world. We do not wish to insist too strongly upon this aspect, but these circumstantial rumors lack the confirmation so easily supplied if they are true."

The Daily Mail's correspondent at Chefu announces under date of July 7 that the Ninth United States infantry has arrived at Taku.

THE CABINET CONFERS.

Sending of Re-enforcements to China Hurried by Kempff's Dispatch.

WASHINTON, July 10.—Developments in the Chinese situation were considered by members of the cabinet at a consultation held yesterday. The participants explained their conference by saying that it was the first opportunity that had occurred lately to gather as many as four of the cabinet members for consultation. Results followed in the shape of renewed activity in the dispatch of re-enforcements to China. Admiral Kempff's cablegram, giving his estimate of the amount of force he regarded as necessary to represent the United States properly in the movement upon Peking, was carefully considered. An agreement was reached to say nothing about the admiral's figures, on the ground that it would be impolitic to make our needs known to the Chinese in the first instance and also because of a desire on the part of this government to avoid being put in the position of appearing to set up a standard for the other powers in this matter.

It is understood, however, that the pith of Admiral Kempff's communication is the necessity of speedy re-enforcements if quick action is desired, and on the latter point there is not a dissenting voice among the cabinet officers. If re-enforcements are to be got to China speedily, they cannot come from the United States. According to the schedule already in execution, only one steamer, with two battalions of one regiment, has started from San Francisco, and the next steamer is not to start before the 15th of the present month. This is about the best time that can be made with the present facilities, and at that rate many weeks and even months must elapse before the 6,000 additional troops ordered east Saturday can be landed there.

Boxers Should Be Thrashed.

LEWISTON, Me., July 10.—The Journal yesterday printed an interview with Rev. Mr. Nichols of Brunswick, who has returned from China after an experience of seven years as a missionary in that country. Rev. Mr. Nichols says, "I do not believe in war as such, but the only thing to do is to thrash the Boxers." He says that the Boxers must be shown that the foreign powers can conquer. From the slightest vantage they take new hope. The antiforeign feeling was spreading when he left China more than a year ago, and he believes that the empress dowager encouraged the antiforeign movement up to the time she realized it was going to hurt her interests. Japan, he says, is taking the step she ought to have taken at the very first. Prompt interference by Japan, in the opinion of Mr. Nichols, might have prevented serious hostilities.

The Emperor Declares Vengeance.

KIEL, July 10.—Addressing the First naval division prior to its departure for China yesterday, Emperor William said: "Yours is the first division of armored ships which I send abroad. Remember you will have to fight a cunning foe, provided with modern weapons, to avenge the German blood which has flowed, but spare the women and children. I shall not rest till China is subdued and all the bloody deeds are avenged. You will fight together with the troops of various nationalities. See that you maintain good comradeship with them."

Dr. and Mrs. Neal Safe.

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., July 10.—A cablegram just received here from Chefu reports the safety of Dr. and Mrs. James B. Neal of this city. The doctor and Mrs. Neal were located at Tung Chou, where they had charge of a Presbyterian hospital, and the message reports that they arrived safely at Chefu after encountering great difficulties in escaping the savage hordes of Chinamen.

THROUGH NIAGARA RAPIDS.

Thrilling Experience of a Man In a Boat In the Whirlpool.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 10.—Yesterday afternoon Peter Nissen of Chicago made a trip through the Whirlpool rapids to the whirlpool in a small boat 20 feet long, 6 feet beam and 4 feet deep. When Nissen came here, he gave the name of Bowser, while his boat was named the Fool Killer. His trip was wonderfully successful, and he has won all the honor such affairs have. He has spent ten days in trying to get his boat in the river and has come in contact with the authorities of two countries, who tried to drive him off, but he was determined to make the trip.

His boat took the first waves in nice style. It rode high in the water, and Bowser went quite a distance without even getting wet. When he reached the wave where Captain Webb lost his life, the water struck him a terrible blow, and some thought he was swamped. Wave after wave broke over him from this on. His boat rode sideways, and this brought the force of the water full against him. By this time it was a continuous tossing, but the craft did not capsize, it was so heavily weighted, and when at 5:02 o'clock it shot into the whirlpool Bowser was still in the boat, and after it had proceeded across the pool he was seen to stand up. He drifted around the pool about 40 feet out from the Canadian shore. He went around the pool four times, and his experience was thrilling. The first time around he saw a boy fishing on a rock, and he attempted to throw a line to him. The boy did not know that any person was navigating the rapids and had not seen the boat, so hidden was it by the waves, and he was so frightened to see a human being out there in a boat that he did not get the line. Then Nissen drifted on. More than once he was caught in deep whirls, and his boat stood on end repeatedly.

The water in the river was very high, and this had brought a large amount of driftwood, logs and timber into the pool. Right into the midst of this Nissen and his little vessel were swept. Huge logs were sucked down in whirls, then sent up far in the air over his head, more than once threatening to fall upon him and his boat. There was a big piece of cribbing in the pool, and this bumped against him until he was frightened, and he feared that it would destroy his boat. Finally he got free of the debris and was carried well in toward the Canadian shore, when three boys swam out and took hold of the line and towed him ashore at 6 o'clock, after an hour in the pool. He was cold from the exposure. After warming at a fire he was helped up the bank and was driven to his hotel. He has concluded that the rapids are too rough for a regular line of boats from the falls to the pool.

GOEBEL MURDER CASES.

Trial Begun at Georgetown of the Five Suspects.

GEORGETOWN, Ky., July 10.—Not since the civil war days has this quaint Kentucky town held so many strangers as are here to attend the trial of the quintet of men accused of participating in the assassination of Governor William Goebel.

The accused, who are to have a final hearing at this special term of the circuit court, are Caleb Powers, Henry E. Youtsey, "Tallow Dick" Combs, Harlan Whitaker and John Davis. They all declare themselves innocent, ready and anxious for trial. The commonwealth says also that it is ready.

A Submarine Volcano.

LONDON, July 10.—A dispatch to The Times from Sydney says that while the cruiser Ringaroona was practicing off the New Hebrides she lost a torpedo. Three divers attempted to descend to recover the torpedo, but they encountered an active submarine volcano. The water below the surface was boiling. The men bled from their ears and noses, and their diving suits were injured by the heat.

Big Dock Fire Averted.

LIVERPOOL, July 10.—An alarming fire broke out at the sheds of Elder, Dempster & Co., at the Liverpool docks. Large quantities of palm oil caught fire and blazed fiercely. The flames spread to the company's steamers Benguela, Bonny and Oron, which, however, were towed to places of safety, and the flames on board of them were extinguished.

Armor For the Wyoming.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., July 10.—A special train left the Bethlehem Steel company's ordnance works last night for San Francisco with 130 tons of finished armor to be placed aboard the transport Wyoming, now being finished for service to the orient.

Noted Racing Farm Sold.

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 10.—Ex-State Senator C. J. Bronson has purchased the Kingston stud farm from Mrs. J. B. Ferguson, wife of the famous starter, for $30,000 cash. It is one of the most noted racing farms in Kentucky.

Governor Allen In Washington.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Governor Charles H. Allen of Porto Rico, who is on a visit to the United States on official business, has arrived here from New York. He was accompanied by Mrs. Allen.

THREE CORNERED COMMITTEE

Bryan Campaign to Be Conducted by Members of All Parties Interested.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 10.—Plans for the Democratic national campaign of 1900 were outlined and practically agreed upon at a protracted conference between the leaders of the party. The plan includes the appointment of a campaign committee as agreed upon between representatives of the Democratic, Silver Republican and Populist parties at Kansas City. This committee will include members of all three parties and perhaps also Democrats not members of the national committee, but prominent in the councils of the party. This committee will, it is said, have charge in a measure of the practical working of the campaign and will work for fusion on state and congressional tickets whenever possible. The press and executive committees, it is expected, will, with one or two exceptions, be the same as last year.

The personnel of all the committees was left in the hands of Chairman Jones. The question of national headquarters was also left in his hands. It was stated that Chicago would probably be chosen. An understanding exists that Mr. Bryan will not tour the country as he did during the campaign of 1896, but will make trips from time to time to the larger centers of population, remaining in Lincoln a great deal of the time. Many visitors are expected here during the campaign, and Lincoln will in a way be a central point in the campaign.

Mr. Towne may not announce his decision in regard to the vice presidency for several days, although several Populist leaders in the city stated that he might announce his withdrawal to the Populist executive committee today. Senator Jones and Committeemen Stone, Campau and Johnson left for Chicago last night, where they expect to meet Congressman Richardson of Tennessee, permanent chairman of the Democratic national committee, and discuss the make up of the various committees prior to their announcement.

Silver Bricks Found.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 10.—While hunting on his farm on Saturday Isaac Martin, a farmer of Knox county, was attracted by what appeared to be a recent excavation near a large sycamore tree, and, upon investigation, three feet under ground he found two silver bricks. He took them to Vincennes, and a jeweler tested them and pronounced them silver with a slight alloy of lead. One of the bricks weighs 13 pounds and the other 18 pounds 9 ounces. The smaller brick bears the letters "J. B.," but beyond this there was nothing to serve as an identification mark.

BIG STRIKE ON AGAIN.

Union Employees of St. Louis Transit Road Annul Settlement.

ST. LOUIS, July 10.—It was decided yesterday afternoon by the union employees of the St. Louis Transit company to resume at once their strike and boycott which was settled recently after being on nearly two months. The boycott operations against this company were resumed this morning.

When the strike and boycott terminated on July 2, there was discontent among the men over the terms of settlement, and since that time the dissatisfaction has grown daily. Charges were made that the company had failed to keep the agreement of July 2, and a dozen or more instances were cited tending to prove that there had been a breach of faith.

Several meetings were held during the week, and committees were appointed to procure proof of infidelity on the part of the company. At a meeting of the executive committee of the Railway Men's union held on Saturday a batch of affidavits were presented to the effect that men had been employed by the company since July 2 in violation of the terms of the agreement of that date.

After a session lasting several hours the executive committee determined to call a mass meeting of the street railway men and to recommend to the meeting that the strike be declared on again.

The Central Trades and Labor union met later and indorsed the action of the executive committee.

NOME HEARD FROM.

Steamers Reach Seattle From the Goldfields.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 10.—Two steamers, the Charles Nelson and the Centennial, have arrived at Seattle from Nome, and two, the Senator and Aberdeen, have sailed for that destination.

The Nelson brought the latest news from Nome, having left there June 26. She brought three passengers, E. L. Fielder, Dr. A. H. Smith and a man named Ward. Fielder, who is a resident of Terre Haute, Ind., says he came down to purchase machinery and supplies.

The Centennial reports that the barge Skookum made the trip in good shape. The Centennial had nine passengers. The Centennial's passengers report that four or five miles up and down the water front at Nome it is impossible to move on account of baggage being piled up down to the water's edge.

Dr. Smith, who returned on the Nelson, was one of the charterers of the bark Northern Light, which went north. At Cape York the crew deserted, and Indians were substituted in their places. The latter got drunk, tried to loot the ship and with difficulty were ejected. The ship was towed to Nome, where her cargo was disposed of at a handsome profit.

Weekly Report From India.

LONDON, July 10.—The secretary of state for India, Lord George Hamilton, has received the following from the viceroy of India, Lord Curzon of Kedleston: "The rainfall has been fairly general this week in Bombay, Deccan, Berar, Khandeish, the central provinces, the Gangetic plain and the Punjab, but has been much below the average for these tracts, except in southern Deccan. Little or no rain has fallen in Rajpootana, Guzerat and central India. The cholera mortality continues high in Bombay. The May mortality there was appalling. The number of persons receiving relief is 6,013,000." The governor of Bombay telegraphs to the foreign office as follows: "There were 10,320 deaths from cholera and 6,502 fatalities in the famine district during the last week in June. The total deaths among the numbers on the relief works in the British district were 5,324."

New Gold Mines Found.

HERMOSILLO, Mexico, July 10.—Martin Hulen, formerly of Aspen, Colo.; Tom B. G. Gedine of San Francisco and James Crawford of Benson, A. T., have arrived from the placer goldfields of Lower California, bringing with them over $200,000 in dust, taken out in eight months. The field embraces a tract of about 250,000 acres. There are few prospectors in the region, and those there are making fortunes rapidly. Jose Ibarrao, a Mexican, took out $100,000 and left for the City of Mexico.

Many Children Die.

NEW YORK, July 10.—Five hundred and forty babies not yet a year old died during the week just closed in Manhattan, Bronx and Brooklyn, and 188 other little ones who had not yet reached their fifth birthday were taken away. The intense heat was largely the cause of the increased mortality.

CUBAN REFORMATION

Changes In Rural Taxation Ordered by Governor Wood.

JUSTICE TO DEVASTATED ESTATES.

Uninjured Estates Must Pay According to Ability to Produce Instead of Actual Production — Plans For Independence Praised.

HAVANA, July 10.—General Wood issued today an important order on the recommendation of the secretary of finance with regard to the power of municipalities concerning the taxation of rural estates already decided upon. It is intended particularly to prevent injustice to those whose estates have been ruined during the war by the burning or devastation of the sugar plantations, the destruction of machinery and farm buildings and the razing of fences. The treasurer fiscal of the zone will decide such cases, but his decision may be appealed from either by the mayor or an interested party to the secretary of finance.

The most important feature of the order confers the right of taxation of estates which were not destroyed and yet have not been worked. These will be taxed according to their present ability to produce. There are many estates such as these in Cuba, the owners of which have been retarding the prosperity of the island by refusing to work their plantations until some definite form of government for Cuba has been decided upon. Many of these owners, who are mostly Spaniards, but include a few Americans, will now be compelled either to pay for keeping their estates in idleness or to work or sell them.

Civil Governor Betancourt of Matanzas called upon General Wood to express his appreciation of the steps the governor has taken toward giving the Cubans independence and also of General Wood's attitude in endeavoring to lift up Cuban public life. In this connection he mentioned particularly the reorganization of the Havana university and said he hoped that in the future it would be a university in fact as well as in name and that its professors would be chosen rather for their fitness than because of their relations to politicians.

El Comercio suggests the forming in each muncipality of a syndicate of proprietors and farmers to pledge their credit to the full value of the land in order to obtain agricultural implements, oxen, etc.

War a Benefit to Spain.

CHICAGO, July 10.—Dr. Leopold Arnud, Spanish consul in Chicago since last November, has tendered his resignation and will leave for South America, where he expects to spend several months touring. The ex-consul said that he believed the work of reviving commercial interests between the United States and Spain had been done well. "Spain today is on the road to become one of the foremost powers of Europe," said Dr. Arnud. "The people have come to realize that the war with the United States was a war of governments, and no animosity exists between the inhabitants of the two countries. The war was a good thing for Spain. The nation had been giving its best men and $100,000,000 annually to the wars in progress in the Philippines, Cuba and Porto Rico. As a result of the recent conflict the powers of Spain are concentrated for the country's development and advancement. In ten years the world will not recognize the nation."

Jester on Trial at Last.

NEW LONDON, Mo., July 10.—The trial of Alexander Jester, charged with the murder of Gilbert W. Gates 29 years ago, began here yesterday. A jury had had not been secured when court adjourned last evening. Young Gates mysteriously disappeared while traveling from southern Kansas to his home in Illinois. A few weeks afterward Jester was arrested for his murder, the young man's wagon and other effects being found in Jester's possession. Jester broke jail, however, and nothing more was heard of him until about a year ago, when a sister, with whom he had quarreled, gave him up to the authorities. He was then living in Oklahoma City, O. T., under the name of W. A. Hill. John W. Gates, the millionaire steel magnate, whose brother the dead man was, is not attending the trial, though he has been active in hunting evidence against the aged prisoner.

The Colombian Revolution.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, July 10.—General Gorsira, the Venezuelan minister to Colombia, has arrived here on his way to Caracas to report to his government specially on the Colombian revolution. He said another revolution is impending in Venezuela, headed by Dr. Pietrie. A private dispatch received here announces that starvation practically exists at Cartagena (Colombia) and that the rebel general, Uribe, was recently near Bogota, the capital of Colombia.

Four Years More For Diaz.

CITY OF MEXICO, July 10.—Electoral colleges met in the chief towns and cities all over the republic yesterday and cast their votes for president. The returns will come in slowly from the outlying states, but a great majority of the votes were cast for General Diaz, insuring his re-election for the term of four years, dating from Dec. 1 next. The Clerical and Conservative party made no nominations this year.

Pay Director Cochran Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, July 10.—Pay Director George Cochran of the United States navy is dead at his home, 512 Woodland terrace, West Philadelphia, from a complication of diseases. He was 61 years of age and would have been retired in another year with the rank of rear admiral, to which rank he was promoted eight months ago.

Another $100,000 For Starving India.

Mr. Frease, who is treasurer of the interdenominational missionary relief committee in India, The Christian Herald has cabled a further remittance of $100,000 from the relief fund, to be expended in the famine districts where, in the committee's judgment, it is most needed.

Mr. Cleveland Talks.

Among the conservative element of the eastern Democracy, Former President Grover Cleveland is looked upon as one of the leaders of the party. His sayings are listened to with more than usual interest. There has been considerable speculation as to just how he would receive the news of the happenings at the Kansas City convention and what its ideas on the results of that gathering would be.

Mr. Cleveland is now at his summer home at Gray Gables, Buzzard's Bay, Mass., where he made a statement concerning his opinion of the platform adopted at Kansas City.

"I most ardently hoped and desired," he said, "that the platform to be constructed at Kansas City would be consistent with the professions of those in charge of the Democratic management, namely, that harmonizing discordant sentiment in the party should be an object of supreme importance. In these circumstances the incorporation of a specific demand for free silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 is, of course, a great surprise and disappointment.

"On the basis of such a declaraton the method by which the party is to be harmonized and Democracy is to gain the confidence and support of our thinking and reflective citizens is beyond my comprehension."

As regards the Democratic ticket Mr. Cleveland would have nothing to say.

"What would be the use?" he asked. "Whatever I might say would only be twisted for political purposes."

Long ago a literary Scotchman, "Kit North," predicted that advertisements would become models of composition, says the Philadelphia Record; that because every word must be paid for, big advertisers would try to escape the useless expense of redundance, fine writing and mere space filling. "Ad" writers are learning the art of expressing themselves in the fewest, plainest and most direct words—an art which is held to be a fundamental requisite to success in many forms of pure literature.

It is wonderful how rapidly the game of golf has risen in general popularity. The recent contest for the amateur golf championship of the country was watched with much interest by people all over the land who never even knew what the sport was three years ago.

William Jennings Bryan and his Democratic managers do not favor two vice presidential tails to his kite and it looks as if Charles A. Towne, the Populist nominee, would withdraw in favor of Stevenson.

There is something the matter with the peach crop prophets. The tales about the utter destruction of the peach trees has not appeared as yet.

It must be a great emergency indeed that will place England, Russia, Germany and Japan side by side.

Woodbridge is the happiest town in New Jersey at present. It possesses a ghost.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

A host of newspapermen swarmed about the vicinity of the Standard Oil Company's works at Bayonne last week during the progress of the big conflagration there. An amusing story is told of one correspondent from Newark. He was in the yard of the Tide Water Oil Company, which is next to the Standard Oil Company's refinery, when the great steam siren, which blows for fires and at the closing hours, let off its noon blast. The Newark man was standing close by the engine house on which the whistle is located when the wild shriek of the whistle was heard. Without casting one look behind, the correspondent fled almost to the entrance to the yard before he stopped to investigate. His companions found much amusement in his sudden and hurried departure.

* * * * *

Hosts of strangers visited Bayonne during the progress of the great oil fire in the yards of the Standard Oil Company at that point last week. The people arrived day and night by train and trolley until the Bayonne authorities were powerless to control them. The wonderful sight was witnessed by thousands during the time it lasted and many Plainfielders were included in that number. The sight was a particularly impressive one at night, but the great crowds and the poor places for observation made these evening visits rather thrilling at times. A party of amateur photographers from this city went down one evening in an attempt to secure some views of the great conflagration. In the crowd their cameras were upset, their plate holders stolen and they were roughly handled. Other camera enthusiasts met with better luck and secured a number of good views.

* * * * *

To happen upon a name in reading that recalls an old acquaintance has all the charm of meeting unexpectedly a familiar face in an unlooked-for quarter. Many Plainfield readers of Harper's Bazar of Saturday last, with its article on "Art Student Life in Paris," by Katharine DeForrest, have had this pleasant experience in encountering the name of Miss Acly, who resided here for a number of years and was at that time secretary of the Relief Association. In connection with the Girls' Club of Paris this reference is made to her in association with Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, the founder of the club. "Miss Acly, a distinguished woman who was prevailed upon to take the head of it, had proved her fitness for the position through conspicuous success in directing girls in Paris and making a home for them." The article says further Miss Acly regrets that so much has been written about this club throughout America for it suggests the idea of coming to Paris to an indefinite number of girls who have no proper reason for leaving home.

Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.:
Gentlemen:—My mamma has been a great coffee drinker and has found it very injurious. Having used several packages of your GRAIN-O, the drink that takes the place of coffee, she finds it much better for herself and for us children to drink. She has given up coffee drinking entirely. We use a package of Grain-O every week. I am ten years old.
Yours respectfully, FANNIE WILLIAMS.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, July 10.—A number of Dunellen people are indignant over the treatment they received at the hands of the Plainfield Street Railway Company, last Saturday night, or rather Sunday morning. They had been to Boynton Beach for a day's outing and had left for home shortly after 9 o'clock. Through bad connections and vexatious delays they were about four hours on the car and had not yet reached Plainfield. To make matters worse, their car ran off the track and it was after 3 o'clock Sunday morning before it was finally replaced and they reached Grant avenue and Front street. What was their surprise when at this point they were told to get out and walk, as the car was going to the barn. They protested, but to no purpose, and they were forced to submit. It was nearly 4 o'clock when the tired citizens finally reached the borough saying all sorts of things about street railways in general and the Plainfield company in particular.

The circus, which was to have been in the borough yesterday, failed to make its appearance. Their absence was due to a sudden wind storm which played havoc with their tent while they were performing at Sayreville Thursday night. The entire top of the tent was ripped off and torn into shreds. It was necessary to procure a new top and until this was done no performance could be given. An agent of the circus was in town yesterday and stated that the show would be in the borough tomorrow without fail.

While descending the stairs at his home Saturday night Peter Conover made a misstep and fell to the bottom. He landed heavily but fortunately escaped with a sprained ankle.

Charles Johnson, who died at his home in Plainfield yesterday, was well known in the borough, having resided here for some time on Main street.

William Brokaw returned to work at the Pond Tool Works yesterday after an absence of seven weeks caused by an injury to his hand.

J. S. LaRue, of Califon, who has been spending a few days with M. B. Smalley, returned home today.

Gladys Harrison, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Harrison, is quite sick with the measles.

W. H. Taylor has given the contract for the installing of a gas making machine at his hotel.

Thomas Kelley and George Rinehart, spent Sunday at Bayonne.

Fred Sandford, of Plainfield, spent yesterday with friends in town.

John Heil, of Raritan, was the guest of Bernard Sirisky Sunday.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

New Market, July 10—C. T. Rogers had made preparations to cut his wheat Thursday, but some one got ahead of him a few nights ago and made off with a wagon load of it. It was not discovered until yesterday and it was then too late to find any trace of the thieves.

Several families from New York and Brooklyn have arrived in town and are spending the summer at Leno's boarding house.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad will run a special excursion to Mauch Chunk next Sunday.

Frank Doty, of Plainfield, was the guest of friends in town yesterday.

Daniel Moody spent Sunday at South Plainfield.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Scotch Plains, July 10—The death of Ernest Marsh occurred at the home of his parents yesterday morning after a lingering illness with consumption. While the death was not unexpected, as all hopes of recovery from the dread disease had been given up, still the announcement was a sad blow to his many friends who had been hoping against hope that there would be a change for the better. All that medical skill and kind nursing could do was done to ward off the ravages of the dread disease and prolong the end, but it was of no avail and the end came peacefully at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. The parents have the sympathy of the entire village in their loss of a bright and promising life, just budding into manhood, from their family circle. Funeral services will be held from his parents home Thursday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Rev. J. S. Braker will officiate, assisted by Rev. Mr. Woodruff. The B. Y. P. U., of which Ernest was a member, will attend the last sad services in a body. Interment will be made in the family plot in the Baptist cemetery.

Mr. Coriell thought it was a good time to secure more of Watchung avenue for the city, for he thought the trolley company could move their tracks near the Friends Meeting-house. Mr. Tolles stated that the proposed improvement would cost the company about $1,500 and he thought the city should not be too hard on them. Mr. Buckle felt likewise in the matter. The grade is to be lowered so that the company's new cars can go under the bridge.

Another resolution by Mr. Tolles fixed the assessment for the Hibbard-Rodman Ely Safe Company at $20 for connecting the factory on Clinton avenue with the sewer. This was done because no assessment had previously been fixed.

Another ordinance offered by Mr. Tolles provided for the vacating of the north and south side of Church street at the request of the Jersey Central Railroad Company who want to close that crossing. The City Clerk was instructed to give notice that the above ordinance has been presented to the Council and it is the intention to adopt it.

Mr. Gloak called up the ordinance relating to junk dealers and it was adopted on its third reading. He also introduced an ordinance to amend the ordinance relating to cartmen, peddlers, etc., and it changed the original ordinance so that it includes corporations as well as individuals. This was adopted on its first and second readings.

Mr. vanHerwerden reported that the city owned a lot in the Methodist cemetery that needs care and attention, and on his motion the sum of $20 was appropriated from the general fund to keep this plot in repair for this year. The same member moved that $30 be appropriated to L. Moraller & Son, for the operation of the town clock. He said that this firm's work had been satisfactory, and he moved their services be continued in looking after the clock for another year.

In conclusion Mr. Tolles offered an ordinance pertaining to the repair and permanent improvement of Orange place, which provides for the spreading of broken stone four inches in the centre and three inches on the side of the street. The ordinance does not become operative, however, until the property owners on the street deposit $150 with the City Clerk toward having the improvement made. The total cost will be $200. The ordinance was adopted on first and second readings and ordered engrossed and advertised.

Honest Usher.

At a crowded lecture one evening a young woman, standing at the door of the church, was addressed by an honest Irishmen: "Indade Miss, I should be glad to give you a sate, but the empty ones are all full." From the number who say "I am going sure" the above may apply to the First Baptist church excursion on Thursday—but the committee state that ample accommodations have been provided. A seat for everybody and a good time assured to all.

THE MODE.

Trimmings and Accessories Most In Vogue.

The sleeve of demi length, allowing a longer sleeve to escape below it, is the newest of any. This effect is produced in boleros by simply having the short sleeve finished with revers or a cuff, the long mitten sleeve of the gown bodice supplying the second sleeve.

Transparent sleeves of lace or embroidery are much used for summer gowns, but never for the street.

Small ruffles of taffeta are immensely employed as trimming. They are bordered with tiny ruches, narrow ribbon or lace. The little ruches are ubiquitous, appearing upon everything, even parasols. Some of the newest of the latter are completely covered with them, set rather close together and running horizontally. Often the ruches are of a color contrasting with the silk of the cover—black or red, white on mauve or blue. The handle is ornamented with a large chou of mousseline de soie.

YACHTING COSTUME.

An illustration is given of a yachting costume of navy blue serge. The skirt is trimmed with blue and white wide galloon, arranged in curved applications. The bolero, also trimmed with galloon, has a wide sailor collar, bordered with a band of white cloth. It is worn over a white cambric shirt waist. The high plaited belt and the cravat are of black liberty satin. A sailor hat of navy blue straw is worn with a white band.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SUMMER STYLES.

Variations of the Sack—Flounces as Trimming.

The sack remains as a summer wrap, but is not so long as it was in the spring, falling no lower than the knees. It is straight in front, curved at the sides and flaring around the edge. The sleeves, expanding over the hand, are tight to above the elbow, where they increase in size toward the shoulder. These sacks are made of thin cloth in the tailor made, plain style, or are of perforated cloth over silk, with applications of guipure or silk and plaitings of mousseline de soie.

For thin gowns of muslin, foulard, bengaline and similar fabrics the favorite trimming consists of flounces, circular or gathered, but usually circular. An odd number of flounces is used—three, five or seven, generally—and the edge is trimmed with narrow lace, ribbon, velvet, ruches or some other decoration. They are higher at the back than in front, or vice versa.

CREPE COSTUME.

The illustration given today shows a gown of straw colored crepe de chine. The skirt and bodice are accordion plaited and are trimmed with vertical bands of black chantilly insertion. These are of different lengths, two bands in front extending the full length of the figure, the others being shorter. Around the hips are two groups of three narrow black velvet bands arranged horizontally, and the bodice is adorned with two similar groups. The sleeves are trimmed in the same way and have plaitings of straw crepe de chine at the wrists. The hat is of leghorn straw in the natural tone and is trimmed with pink roses. The parasol is of black chantilly. The gown is made over an underdress of straw taffeta.

HOW TO ADJUST EYEGLASSES.

Instructions by an Optician Which His Customers Will Not Always Heed.

"Oh, yes," said the optician as he fitted a pair of glasses on the nose of a customer. "There is an art in putting on nose glasses and at least a half of the people who wear glasses don't know how to put them on. The result is that the moment they begin to perspire a little or when they shake their heads or make any unusual movement, off go the glasses smash on the floor or more often the sidewalk. Of course we opticians don't kick, for that very thing gives us a good part of our business. There is a good profit in putting in new lenses. Really the only sensible glasses to wear are spectacles. They fasten over the ears and they never fall off and they don't get out of adjustment. They fit on the same place every time and the eye looks through the center of the lens as it should look. But most people think that spectacles make them look older or something like that and they insist on nose glasses. Then they don't know how to put them on and if they don't get them just right the eyes don't look through the center of the lenses, and if there is any disorder of the vision other than nearsightedness the improperly adjusted glasses often do more harm than good, to say nothing of the expense from breakage. Now, madam, if you feel you must wear glasses instead of spectacles take them like this."

He took the glasses and held them perfectly level before him, says the New York Sun. "Stretch them wide apart and approach the nose like this." He advanced them toward the tip of the nose; "now raise them up so." Still holding the glasses so that the springs stretched wide over the nose he advanced them upward until the upper points of the clips were directly under the eyebrows. "Now let go," said he. The glasses were on firm. "Shake your head," said he. The customer shook her head. The glasses wiggled, but did not fall off.

"You see," said the optician, "yo can't shake them off. They sit perfectly and just fit the eye. You don't want anything better than that, do you? Now try putting them on yourself."

The customer put them off and attempted to put them back. She got them on askew.

"No! no! no!" said the optician, "that's all wrong," and he showed her over again how it should be done. It took six times trying before the customer mastered the knack and went away happy.

"She'll be back in a month," said the optician, "wanting one or two new lenses to replace her broken ones. Now I've shown her exactly how to put them on, but she'll get careless after awhile and will forget all about it. I can always tell about that by the way they catch on to the knack of adjusting them when they first put them on. People who have to wear glasses at all should wear spectacles. But if they will wear nose clips they must learn how to adjust them or they'll ruin their eyes and break their pockets at the same time. Women are no worse than men in that. I've got one customer who paid me last year $50 for new lenses. That's about one dollar a week, and I can't get him to wear spectacles yet."

SPAIN'S COLONY IN AFRICA.

She Is Trying at Last to Turn the Rio de Oro Province to Good Account.

Now that Spain has lost all her large colonies, she is doing all she can and encouraging every effort on the part of her people to develop the small colonial possessions still remaining to her, particularly in Africa, says the New York Sun. Spain's largest possession in Africa is the district of Rio de Oro, south of Morocco. It fronts on the Atlantic between Capes Bojador and Blanco for about 500 miles, and extends inland from 420 miles in the north to 600 miles in the south. This territory is about one-twelfth as large as the United States, but inland it is mostly sand, and development is possible on an important scale only in the coast regions, unless minerals may be found in the interior.

Spain's ambition is to make the most of the fertile strip along the coast, developing plantations to supply Spain with a variety of tropical products and establishing trading posts for goods of Spanish origin, which may be exchanged with the natives for their gold dust and ostrich feathers. Inducements, therefore, are being offered to a considerable number of farmers and traders to go to this new region and make it worth something to the home country.

A mineral survey of the region is now under way. It is quite certain that in some parts considerable gold may be obtained, particularly along the Rio de Oro. The Spaniards will also endeavor, unless France too strenuously opposes the idea, to divert some of the trade from Timbuctoo to their port on the coast and thus establish direct trade relations with the fertile Soudan. Up to this time Spain had entirely neglected this great possession in Africa and it is scarcely probable that its development would now have been undertaken if Spain still had her former large colonial interests to absorb her attention.

Why He Stopped.

"You used to say," she said, tearfully, "that you loved me more than you could tell."

"Yes," he replied, carelessly, "that's why I stopped trying." — Chicago Times-Herald.

Increase in the Cotton Trade of the Country

There Seems to Be No Limit to the Possibilities of the South's Production

THE determination of the exact date at which cotton was first exported from the United States is a problem of more difficulty than intrinsic importance. For a long time there has been a controversy as to whether cotton grown within the present continental limits of the United States was exported to Great Britain before the close of the revolutionary war. There are records in 1747, 1753, 1757, 1764 and 1770 of shipments of cotton from several colonial ports to Great Britain, but it is contended that the cotton so shipped was the growth of the West Indies, and several authorities have claimed that no cotton grown in the present area of the United States was exported previous to the revolution.

The first undisputed record of a shipment of American cotton to Great Britain was in 1784, in which year eight bags shipped from the United States were seized and temporarily confiscated by the authorities on the ground that the region from which they came was not capable of producing so large an amount of cotton, and that American vessels were debarred by treaty from carrying West Indian cotton to England. The cotton, which was subsequently released, was sold with only the greatest difficulty, and other shippers of American cotton were informed that it was too dirty and too undesirable to pay transportation. Shipments of cotton continued, however, in very small quantities, 14 bags being sent in 1785, six bags in 1786 and 109 bags in 1787, the bag being estimated at 150 pounds.

The establishment of a regular and definite export of cotton from the United States to Great Britain began, however, with the introduction of the sea-island cotton. In 1788 almost 60,000 pounds of this variety were exported, and so great was the favor accorded to it that it sold on the market for two shillings two pence per pound, the price ranging considerably higher than that for West Indian or Pernambuco cotton. The export continued, with considerable fluctuations, and in the course of the next 20 years increased largely.

DIAGRAM SHOWING TRADE IN AMERICAN COTTON.

It was the invention of the cotton gin, however, which revolutionized the export trade of the United States and gave to this country its present position as chief purveyor of the cotton mills of the world. Until 1780 the increasing demands of the English cotton spinners for raw material was satisfied almost entirely by shipments from the Mediterranean ports, and especially from the city of Smyrna. The amount of these imports, however, was small, the market uncertain and the means of transportation primitive, so that both the receipts and prices of cotton fluctuated widely. From 1780 on the West Indies began to ship small quantities of cotton, and so favorable was the reception accorded to it that it soon became a most serious competitor to the Smyrna cotton. At about the same time Brazil also commenced to export cotton to Great Britain, and within a short time gained the first place on the market, Pernambuco cotton being held in higher favor than any other cotton until the introduction of the sea-island cotton in 1788.

During this period the production of American cotton was very slight and practically all of that produced was consumed at home, while a considerable amount was also imported from the West Indies and Brazil. Thus, in 1790 it appears that there was considerably more cotton consumed in the United States than was raised there, and shipments during the succeeding years increased very slowly. The demands for the raw material, however, had increased very rapidly in Europe and more particularly in the United Kingdom. The industrial revolution had advanced with remarkable rapidity in the textile industry, and by 1787 it was estimated that there were in Great Britain 145 cotton mills with 1,951,000 spindles in operation and employing in the various stages of cotton manufacture 350,000 persons. The amount of cotton consumed had increased from 6,000,000 to 22,000,000 pounds in the six years from 1781 to 1787, and English spinners sought in vain for a suitable source of supply for the raw material. Cotton was being transformed from an article of luxury to be used by the rich to an ordinary necessity of life to be used by all classes, and the demand made upon the hitherto existing sources of supply was therefore great. The East India company was requested by the Manchester spinners to cultivate raw cotton more extensively in the territory within its jurisdiction; but, while there were 400,000 pounds exported from there in 1790, the cotton proved of inferior quality, conditions were generally unfavorable, and the demand fell off and soon ceased.

After 1793, therefore, the cotton from the United States had an admirable opportunity for securing the British market. Importations into Great Britain from this country increased from less than 500,000 to over 15,000,000 pounds in the period from 1793 to 1800, imports from the United States forming 28 per cent. of the total imports into Great Britain in the latter year. Despite the great increase in the supply, however, the demand so rapidly increased that the price for uplands was over three times as great in 1799 as in 1790. The American cotton was held in great favor, and by 1802 the exportation of cotton from the United States to that country exceeded for the first time those from the West Indies to Great Britain; while during the period from 1806 to 1810 the imports of cotton into Great Britain from the United States were more than three times the amount sent by either Brazil or the West Indies and formed over half of the total imports into the kingdom.

The export trade of the United States in cotton was considerably crippled, however, by the Napoleonic wars, the English orders in council and the Berlin and Milan decrees of the French government looking to the destruction of American commerce, the policy of nonimportant and embargo at home, and, finally, by the outbreak of the war of 1812, which affected not only our commerce, but the producers of cereals and growers of all agricultural staples. The total exports of cotton declined from 66,000,000 pounds in 1807 to 12,000,000 in 1808, the year of the embargo, of which about two-thirds reached Great Britain and one-sixth France; the importation into the latter country from the United States having began in 1801. After the embargo had been removed the exports of cotton rose rapidly to 94,000,000 pounds in 1814, though it sank during the war to an average of 18,000,000 pounds. At the conclusion of the war the exports again increased to 83,000,000 pounds, at which height it maintained itself during the next four years. During the next decade the increase was very rapid, the total cotton exports increasing from 128,000,000 in 1820 to 298,000,000 in 1830, of which Great Britain took 202,000,000, or 68 per cent. During the next decade the increase was practically continuous and even more rapid, the exports in the year 1840 amounting to 719,000,000 pounds, of which 478,000,000, or 67 per cent., went to Great Britain, the exports for this year, however, being abnormally large. During the decade from 1840 to 1850 the exports of cotton fluctuated considerably—from 518,000,000 in 1841 to 971,000,000 in 1849. But, while the total exports for this decade was considerably in excess of the decade preceding, the exports for the year 1850—681,000,000—were smaller than for the year of abnormally large exports—1840. Perhaps the decade of greatest extension of all was that from 1850 to 1860, when the exports increased from 681,000,000 to 1,740,000,00 pounds, of which 71 per cent. went to Great Britain.

Since the war the export of cotton, which for some time was crippled by the disorganized political and economic conditions of the south and by the lack of capital and the abolition of slavery, has grown with the utmost rapidity, and during the last decade the exportation has amounted to almost 30,000,000,000 pounds or 60,000,000 bales, of 500 pounds each, and in value to over $2,500,000,000. The value of the cotton so exported has declined, however, from $291,000,000 in 1891 to $210,000,000 in 1899, owing to the fall in the price of that staple, though the rapid increase in price during the last 12 months will probably result in increased receipts for cotton for the fiscal year 1900.

Clear Out of Her Head.

"Of course not; a sane woman would remember how hideous she would look with her hair out of crimp."—Chicago Record.

INTO CHICAGO ON A WAY FREIGHT TRAIN

What the market square is to the county seat town of the country Chicago is to the great productive territory surrounding her. True, the great city reaches out like the arms of an octopus and grasps the products of the territory north, south, east and west of her, but it is to the towns and farms within a hundred miles or less that Chicago is the market place.

Like the Arms of an Octopus.

A great city begets smaller cities, and Chicago has had much to do with the growth of such places as Elgin, Joliet, Aurora, Waukegan, Kankakee, Kenosha, Rockford and others of equal importance. Manufacturing interests thrive in all of these places because of their nearness to a market center. The manufacturer finds cheaper locations for his factories in these surrounding towns, his employes find cheaper homes and cheaper rent, his taxes are less, and in many ways the production of his goods costs him less, and yet so near is he to Chicago that he can ship from the larger city in competing with other concerns in his line.

Belt railways connect these towns with every railroad entering Chicago, and freight can be shipped in car load lots as cheaply from them to any point in the union as from Chicago itself, and so it is that the products of the mills in the towns that Chicago has helped to build reach a world-wide market through the western metropolis and aids in the production of the commercial and industrial figures with which she startles the world.

Just what proportion of the business claimed by Chicago is really done by these smaller cities is hard to estimate, but it is very large. From each of them hundreds of car loads of manufactured products are shipped into Chicago and out again each month, and the amount is constantly growing while the territory over which this vast manufacturing district is spread is rapidly growing.

Who Makes the Profits?

The city of Rockford, a place of some 50,000 people, is seemingly one great factory. Out of its railroad yards long trains are sent every day laden with freight that will find a market through Chicago.

Gets a Half Cent for His Work.

Its greatest industry is its furniture factories, which have made the name of Rockford known throughout practically the entire civilized world. The operatives in these great furniture mills are Swedes, one-fifth of the entire population of the city being of this nationality. They make good wages, live nicely, and are a credit to the community. They are paid by the piece for practically everything that they make, and when one considers the prices they receive one not only wonders how they can possibly earn the salaries they do, but also who makes the profits in furniture.

Think of a man being able to earn two and a half and three dollars a day putting chairs together when he receives but about one-half cent for each chair. That is, of course, the ordinary dining-room chair, of which hundreds of thousands are shipped out of Rockford each year. Such a chair will sell for close to one dollar to the consumer. It is turned out entirely by machinery, excepting the putting together and varnishing, neither of which will cost one cent per chair. In fact, the whole cost of the ordinary wood bottom dining-room chair that sells for from one to one and one-half dollars, does not cost, material and all together, much over ten cents.

Who makes the profits? When one stops to think for a minute he can easily realize that the profits to each individual are not so great as at first imagined. Freight must be paid; they must be sold first by the manufacturer, then by the wholesaler, then by the retailer, and the profit for each, all things considered, is comparatively small.

Chicago's Milk Supply.

From the territory north and west of Chicago, of which Elgin is practically the center, comes the butter, the eggs, the cheese, the milk which the great city consumes.

Waiting for the Chicago Milk Train.

Not less than 300 car loads of milk is shipped into Chicago each day; each car contains an average of about 400 cans and each can contains four gallons of milk. By the aid of a little multiplication it will be seen that Chicago is purchasing from the farmers nearly 1,000,000 gallons of milk daily, or one-half gallon for every man, woman and child in the city.

Milk can be shipped into Chicago with profit from points 100 miles distant. From Belvidere to Chicago, a distance of 78 miles, the Northwestern road charges the shipper about 18 cents per can, or a trifle over two cents a gallon, and the milk sells for 20 cents a gallon delivered to the consumer in town. Of course, the farmer does not get all of the difference; the dealer in the city makes the greater profit probably, but the farmer finds cows more profitable than hay, wheat, corn or oats.

Along the railroads running through this section of territory are many large factories for the bottling of milk. As a rule milk put up in this way sells for a better price in the city, and especially to the small consumer, than that which is not bottled. One large milk concern ships from Elgin to Chicago each day five cars of bottled milk, besides a large amount of milk in cans.

All through the night these milk trains are reaching the city, and milk that comes from the cow in the evening is sold to city customers by seven o'clock in the morning, while the morning milk is delivered to city customers in the evening.

Butter and Cheese.

The milk business proves a veritable gold mine for the railroads. On all roads from all stations the average charge per can will not be far from 17 cents; on an estimated 120,000 cans per day that means over $20,000.

Butter and Cheese for Chicago.

Some of the best paying stations along the various lines of road passing through this dairying territory are the little sheds at a road crossing from where milk is shipped into Chicago. Take, for instance, the little station of Freeman, on the Freeport branch of the Northwestern. The station itself is but a little shed with none of the conveniences of the country town depot, without desks, telegraph instruments, or even chairs or benches, and yet the company receives from that point from $2,500 to $3,000 per month from the shipping of milk.

Freeman is by no means an exception. It is if anything below rather than above the average, and it is maintained merely as an accommodation to the dairy interests near that particular road crossing. From the little city of Belvidere the receipts from milk shipments are much higher, that being considered one of the best shipping points within the milk district.

The butter and cheese interests are quite as important as that of milk. The way freight crew bound for Chicago that does not have from 10,000 to 15,000 pounds of butter to load into cars at Marengo, and from 6,000 to 10,000 pounds of cheese from the same place, considers themselves fortunate.

This commodity is poured into the Chicago markets at an ever increasing rate, and yet there is seldom an overproduction, but oftentimes a shortage. And Marengo is but one of hundreds of stations shipping butter and cheese into the city daily.

Value of Farm Lands.

Chicago buys more live stock from the great plains of the west than any other city in America, and at the same time there is being shipped through the city from this outlying territory a large number of cattle for western points. Fine dairy cattle are the rule throughout this territory, and it is of these that the west is buying freely, many of them going as far south as the City of Mexico.

A Profitable Crop Near Chicago.

The unlimited market for dairy products which Chicago offers to the farmers in this surrounding territory has added more than 100 and in many cases as much as 200 per cent. to the value of their land. It is seldom that land of even a second grade can be bought for less than $100 per acre, while the same land 100 miles farther away from the city would sell for half of that sum or less.

It is the opportunity for a diversity of crops with the convenient market that makes the difference. So profitable has the dairy interests of this territory become that the growing of the ordinary agricultural crops has been practically abandoned, and every way freight train that leaves Chicago for points in this section carries to these farmers large quantities of feed raised on the farms of Iowa, of Michigan, of Indiana, of Wisconsin, and of other portions of Illinois, but the way freight into Chicago carries a cargo that is more profitable to the farmers and more profitable to the railroads.

DISTINCTION EASY TO WIN.

One Man Who Succeeded by His Energetic Work on the Big Base Drum.

"It is a curious and interesting fact," said Col. Calliper, according to the New York Sun, "that a man can achieve distinction in his community in whatever walk he may follow, no matter what that may be. It is not required that his shall be a lofty pursuit, but only that whatever he does shall be done superlatively well, or in such manner as to catch the public fancy. I once knew a bass drummer in a band who, when the band paraded, was the center of attraction in it.

"He made of bass drumming an art and a science, too; he was, in fact, devoted to it; a prime essential to high success in any line. His drumming had novelty, and humor, too. He carried his drum himself, in front of him without help, by straps around his back, and used two drumsticks. It was years ago that this bass drummer flourished, but he played then in what is now called ragtime, most effectively; omitting strokes to put them in later, always in perfect time, but often with the most surprising variations; flourishing one stick, or both, in the most animated and eccentric fashion, and bringing one or both into play again in the most unexpected ways, with single strokes, and double strokes, and strokes tumbling over one another in odd sequence, curious and curiously shaded combinations of sounds that appealed to the sense of the grotesque and humorous irresistibly. People used to walk along on the sidewalk when the band turned out to see and hear the bass drummer play. Many a time myself, by night, in political campaigns when we had torchlight processions in the town, and and the band out to lead them, I have walked along where I could see him and watched his drumsticks flying, and listened fascinated and delighted to his stirring and bombastic drumming. Folks that didn't know him used to ask his name; they wondered at him, and wanted to know who he was.

"His walk in life was playing on the bass drum; which might not seem to be the surest path to fame. But he played the bass drum with devotion, spirit and originality, qualities that command respect and admiration in whatever pursuit they are displayed, and so he stood easily, as it was quite right he should stand, among those who had achieved distinction in that community."

Table Rock.

At the present time but little of this famous promontory projects over the Niagara falls. It is at this point that the finest view of the falls is obtained. Originally a great mass of rock overhung the cataract, but in 1850 a huge section of the ledge, 200 feet in length and 100 feet thick, broke off and crashed into the chasm, carrying with it an omnibus that was standing there. Dickens wrote as follows of the view from Table Rock: "It was not until I came on Table Rock and looked—great heaven!—on what a fall of bright green water that it came upon me in its might and majesty. Then when I felt how near to my Creator I was standing, the first effect and the enduring one—instant and lasting—of the tremendous spectacle was Peace. Niagara was at once stamped upon my heart, an image of beauty to remain there changeless and indelible until its pulses cease to beat forever."

THE MATERNAL COCKROACH.

From This Account She Apparently Believes in the Malthusian Theory.

"The mother mosquito may launch her silvery boat of 40 dozen eggs on the still waters in the early morning and then sing the happy hours away while she seeks her one chance in three million to imbrue her pumps in warm, red blood, but the mother cockroach remembers who she is and of what long lineage she comes, and does her 16 eggs up in a nice, neat case, which she carries about with her till she feels the thrill of life within it, writes Harvey Sutherland, in Ainslee's. "Then she helps the little ones rip open the crinkled seam of the valise and teaches them their first lesson of economy by eating up the empty egg case. They remember it when their baby clothes burst off them and they come out, white and soft. They do not send their cast-off garments to sufferers by flood and famine; they eat them. Mother cockroach broods the little ones and protects them. Indeed, I know of no more touching spectacle than a happy cockroach home with all the little ones playing around, climbing over Uncle George, or sitting on Uncle Harry's back, or cuddling under mother or Aunt Eliza. (The names, of course, are fictitious, but the fact may be easily verified.)

"The progeny of a pair of early spring house flies will number 2,000,000 before the summer is ended, so it is calculated, but under the most favorable conditions there will not be more than one brood of 16 cockroaches in a season. It used to be thought that it took the young from four to five years to grow up, but that was too extravagant a guess. Observation shows that the Croton bug matures in from four and a half to six months, and specimens of Periplaneta Americana, the standard American cockroach, hatched on July 11, began to go out in society between March 11 and June 12 of the following year. In the colder climates they retire from active business to winter quarters, where they hibernate.

"Being so few in family, it is evident that the life of a cockroach is a good insurance risk as compared with that of the fly, the moth or any other of the six-legged tribe. Why? In all these millions of years since the era of the coal measures he has learned how to live. He is smooth; he is agile; he is thin, hard to catch and easy to hide. His eyes may not amount to much to warn him of the approach of foes, for they are bent under, like his mouth parts, so that he may see what he is eating, but his antennae are a hundred joints in length, sensitive to odors, but especially to jolts and jars, which are what sounds must be to an insect. The old Romans called the cockroach lucifuga, fleeing the light, but the old Romans did not observe closely or they would have seen that it was not the light that the insects fled from, but the one that carried it. Flash light on them all you like. They do not object. But take a step, whose tremor is conveyed to the walls and floor, and sets their antennae to swaying and the scuffling of their wings shows how anxious they are to get away and under cover."

SPANISH RESIDENTS IN CUBA.

Nearly Seventy Thousand Have Chosen to Preserve Allegiance to the Crown.

Acting Secretary Meiklejohn has received a report from the secretary of state of Cuba, through Gov. Gen. Wood, of Havana, showing that 66,869 Spanish residents of the island have preserved their allegiance to the crown of Spain, under the terms of Article 9 of the Paris treaty of peace. The registration is complete, with the single exception of the returns from the municipality of Caney, in the province of Santiago, which have not yet been received, says the Washington Star.

The registration of Spaniards, according to provinces, is as follows: Havana, 31,274; Pinar del Rio, 5,284; Matanzas, 6,249; Santa Clara, 16,045; Porto Principe, 1,586; Santiago de Cuba, 6,431.

Article 9 of the treaty of peace between the United States and Spain provides that "Spanish subjects, natives of the peninsula, residing in the territory over which Spain by the present treaty relinquishes or cedes her sovereignty, may remain in such territory or may remove therefrom, retaining in either event all their rights of property, including the right to sell or dispose of such property or of its proceeds, and they shall also have the right to carry on their industry, commerce and professions, being subject in respect thereof to such laws as are applicable to other foreigners. In case they remain in the territory they may preserve their allegiance to the crown of Spain by making, before a court of record, within a year from the date of the exchange of ratifications of this treaty, a declaration of their decision to preserve such allegiance; in default of which declaration they shall be held to have renounced it and to have adopted the nationality of the territory in which they may reside.

"The civil rights and political status of the native inhabitants of the territories hereby ceded to the United States shall be determined by the congress."

Unsettled.

"Can you tell me what sort of weather we may expect next month?" wrote a subscriber to an editor, and the editor replied as follows:

"It is my belief that the weather next month will be very much like your subscription."

The inquirer wondered what the editor meant, till he happened to think of the word "unsettled."—Cumberland Presbyterian.

A team match was played yesterday at the Morris County Golf Club links between the St. Paul's School of Concord and the Pomfret School. 1900 PICNICKED.

Members of Class of 1900 of High School Enjoyed Evening on the Mountains.

A jolly party composed of fourteen members of the class of 1900, of the Plainfield High School, journeyed to the mountains last evening, near the Mountain Park Inn, for a moonlight picnic. The start was made by the 5:30 trolley car, and upon their arrival there was still daylight enough to have a good time before darkness set in. The hours were spent in playing games, one of which was an informal baseball game.

A feature of the evening was the serenading of Mrs. Herring at her summer cottage, who kindly invited them in and entertained them for an hour. Refreshments were served in front of the inn, while the picnicers were enjoying the beauties of Plainfield by night. The start for home was made at about 10 o'clock.

An Old Resident.

Ellis F. Marsh, of Muncie, Ind., is visiting his niece, Mrs. John Stryker, of West Sixth street, and his brother-in-law, Amos Moffett, whom he has not seen in forty years. Mr. Marsh who was well-known in Plainfield in the early sixties, was living in Rahway when the war broke out and enlisted soon after. When the war ended he moved west, living in various places, this being his first trip east. He was greatly struck with Plainfield's growth and could hardly believe it was the same little village he remembered forty years ago.

THE CITY PARK.

Common Council Appropriates $100 Toward Keeping Park in Order This Year.

The action of the Common Council last evening in authorizing the payment of $100 from the general fund to the Town Improvement Association for the purpose of keeping the City Park in repair and order, will call forth the praise of a large number of people who will be pleased to learn that this small but important part of the city is to be cared for properly. It is now in fine condition and reflects great credit upon the members of the Town Improvement Association who have taken such an interest in this park. The money appropriated by the Council will suffice for this year, and it is to be hoped that next year the women will be assisted to a greater extent in their efforts to maintain a City Park.

was the terse comment of General E. P. Meany, of Newark, one of the delegates from the Sixth Congressional District.

"The convention's actions were extremely wise in every respect," is the way Addison Ely summed up the situation. "In my judgment our party has the best platform it has had in thirty years, and the candidates are eminently satisfactory in every particular."

"The ticket is a winner. The platform is excellent. I was personally in favor of Stevenson for Vice-President from the outset," were the views expressed by Mayor Edward Hoos, of Jersey City, who, with Mr. Daly, represented the Seventh District.

"Best ticket that could have been made," declared Delegate Samuel Tredell, of the First Congressional District.

"I think it is an excellent ticket—I do, indeed," replied H. H. Postoll, of Atlantic, when asked to express his views. "I regarded the nomination of a Presidential candidate as settled before the convention began, and I believe the delegates acted wisely in naming Stevenson for the second place."

"Bryan and Stevenson ought to secure a majority of the votes in the electoral college," said M. J. Doyle, of the Eighth District. "They make an excellent team of candidates and stand upon a platform which is a clean-cut, emphatic expression of Democratic principles without being too radical."

"The ticket is a very strong one," said George Pfeiffer, Jr., of Camden. "The convention did the right thing in making imperialism the paramount issue, and I see no danger in having 16 to 1 specifically mentioned in the platform."

"I don't think the ticket could be excelled," opined Dr. S. O. B. Taylor, of Somerset. "It is all right, all right. The platform should unite all factions of Democrats, and as long as there is a bitter fight on in New York the convention did well to go outside of that State for a Vice-Presidential candidate."

"Bryan's nomination was a foregone conclusion, and I'm glad Stevenson was given the second place on the ticket," remarked David Crater, of Monmouth.

"I like it very much and believe it will be strong in New Jersey," was the estimate of the ticket given by William H. Harrison, of Ocean.

"My first choice of the Vice-Presidency was Hill, but I am well pleased with Stevenson," commented Jacob L. Bunnell, of Sussex, who attended the convention as alternate for J. Howard Lake. "Our ticket," continued Mr. Bunnell, "combines the activity of vigorous young manhood and the conservatism and experience of age."

"Though I would like to have seen William Sulzer nominated with Bryan, I am well satisfied with the ticket as it is," said James J. Manning, of the Eighth District. "I like the platform and think that the convention made a good move when it declared imperialism to be the paramount issue."

TROLLEY PARTY.

Carload of Elizabethans Order of Eastern Star Enjoyed Kindness of Plainfield Members.

A special trolley car brought sixty members of the Eureka Chapter Order of the Eastern Star, from Elizabeth to Plainfield last evening. Here they were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Westphal, of 412 East Third street, who are both members of the order. The interior of their store was converted into a banquet hall where the visitors from Elizabeth were hospitably entertained. An informal musical programme added to the evening's enjoyment. At 11 o'clock the Elizabeth party departed for home.

DAMAGE BY STORM.

Warren County Suffers Considerable Loss by Fire and Lightning—Barn Was Burned — Horses Killed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Washington, July 10.—During the thunder storm which passed over Warren county Sunday night the barn of John Bodine, near here, was struck and burned together with its contents, including a lot of hay and grain. Bodine drove into the barn during the shower, and lightning struck the building just as he had entered. The horses were not affected, and he succeeded in getting them out. When he went to release four other horses in the stable he found them all dead, having been killed by the bolt.

A bolt struck the Presbyterian church spire, but little damage was done except to the chandeliers. Two boys standing in the doorway were stunned.

ESCAPED FROM JAIL.

Alleged Firebug George Miller Escaped From Jail at New Brunswick While Prisoners Were Fed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, July 10.—George Miller, alias Fritz Meyer, escaped from the county jail in this city Saturday afternoon. Miller is charged with setting fire to the works of the Consolidated Fruit Jar Company.

Messler opened the jail Saturday afternoon to allow the "trusties" to carry the mush and milk to the other prisoners and while they were passing to and fro, Miller slipped out unobserved. His absence was discovered in a few moments but it was then too late. No trace of him has been discovered. His capture was originally effected only after a long hunt by Detective Oliver.

Among the Police.

Patrolmen Saunders and Saffron resumed duty last night after their annual vacations, their places being taken by Patrolmen Vanderweg and Watson. The members of the force are greatly disappointed over the non-arrival of the Maryland watermelons which Saunders promised to ship them. Jim claims they were sent, but his brother officers are inclined to doubt his statement.

NO STRIKE FEARED ON THE CENTRAL.

Employes are Satisfied and are Not Looking for Trouble of Any Kind.

FEW MEN WERE LAID OFF.

SERVICES OF TWENTY TRAINMEN DISPENSED WITH.

Their Services Were Not Needed—Central Officials Have Made Voluntary Concessions to Its Railroaders.

Rumors about a pending strike on the New Jersey Central Railroad have caused very little excitement in the railroad yards at Communipaw. No serious troubles are feared there, and the prevailing impression among the railroad men in that vicinity is that the rumors are merely a revival of similar reports that have originated in Mauch Chunk and Wilkesbarre at stated intervals.

There was not the slightest intimation in the New Jersey Central depot yesterday of any impending trouble.

One of the alleged grievances mentioned in the latest strike reports is the reduction of freight train crews from four to three. The crews formerly consisted of a conductor, head and middle brakemen and a flagman. The middle man has been dispensed with on some of the trains, and this is given as one of the causes of the present dissatisfaction.

The facts as related in the Central Railroad depot today are these: A short time ago the New Jersey Central, in its efforts to run the fast freight trains between Jersey City and Easton on the most economical plans consistent with the rules of absolute safety, reduced on five of the freight trains the number of train hands from four to three. On all the trains in the mountain districts where steep grades require extra precautions, the number of men composing the crews has not been reduced; neither has any change been made in the makeup of the crews on the coal trains, or other freight trains or passenger trains.

In reducing the number of train hands on these five freight trains the Central has merely done what the Lehigh Valley did some time ago.

In the Mauch Chunk districts a few extra train men have been laid off on short run freight trains on the level stretches. Altogether the force has been reduced about twenty men.

The only men who are dissatisfied are the few who have been laid off.

Chairman Lee Fritz, of the grievance committee, of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, No. 372, with headquarters in Elizabeth, would be among the first to move in the matter in case there was any serious trouble.

Up to yesterday afternoon Mr. Fritz had not mentioned the subject either to General Superintendent Olhausen or to W. W. Wents, Jr., the division superintendent of the Central Railroad Company.

As a sample of the harmonious relations at present existing between the Central and its employes this incident is related:

When the hot spell came on last week the Central management, without the slightest solicitation on the part of the train men, voluntarily issued orders adding an extra fireman on all the Brooks twelve-wheel engines. These locomotives are of the large type and their furnaces need special attention. The company realized that during the extremely hot weather it would be specially trying for one fireman to attend to these furnaces, so the superintendent of the motive power on July 7th ordered an extra fireman put on each of these large locomotives during July and August.

HELD AS A TRUST DEED.

RAND TRIED TO SELL PROPERTY BELONGING TO GOLDSTEIN.

In Court of Chancery Vice Chancellor Stevens Decided in Favor of Goldstein.

A point of considerable interest has just been decided in the Court of Chancery in the case of Goldstein against Rand.

Goldstein purchased some property and put it in the name of Rand, who was to hold it for him. Afterwards the defendant, Rand, loaned Goldstein some money, and Goldstein gave Rand a document to the effect that he released all claim to the property in settlement of the claims of Rand. The latter thereupon undertook to sell the property as his own, whereupon Goldstein through his counsel, Bruce & Runyon, brought an action before Vice Chancellor Stevens against Rand to restrain the disposition of the property, and to have the deed declared a trust deed, and the other paper as in the nature of a mortgage.

After a bitter contest the court decided with Goldstein that the deed was a trust deed, and the other paper as a security that the property was still Goldstein's, and that Rand held it only as security for money which had been advanced, and for which an accounting was ordered.

Judge Hudspeth, of the firm of Hudspeth & Puster, of Jersey City, represented the defendant, Rand.

TRUSTEES ARE RESOLUTE

LIVELY TIMES EXPECTED AS RESULT OF ENTERING PARK AVE. CHURCH.

Young Men are Uneasy Over Prospect of Getting in Court—Police Have Number of Names.

A feeling of general uneasiness prevails among the crowd of young men and boys who participated in the bell ringing at the Park Avenue Baptist church the evening before the Fourth. The announcement in The Daily Press that the trustees were determined to bring the offenders to justice has somewhat alarmed the young men. The prospect of appearing in city court as a prisoner is not the most attractive.

The sons in a number of prominent and wealthy families in this city are said to be implicated in the trouble and the promises of the trustees of the church, if carried out, are likely to cause quite a sensation.

One arrest was made as a result of the trouble. Patrolman Myers arrived on the scene just in time to catch one lad and place him under arrest. Some of the others who were present declare that he had nothing to do with the breaking and entering of the church and that he was merely a spectator. The real culprits, they say, escaped.

There was a large crowd present at the time but only a comparatively few went into the church to ring the bell. These are the ones whom the trustees are anxious that the police should capture. It is understood that the police are acquainted with the names of a number and are trying to complete their list before making any arrests. The trial of the one lad captured has been set down for tomorrow morning.

DIDN'T HIT THE GIRL.

But in Saving the Child Edward Martin Injured Himself in a Painful Manner.

As Edward Martin, the porter at the North Avenue station, was riding out East Third street on his wheel yesterday noon, bound for home, a small child ran out into the road, directly in Martin's path. The warning of the bell was of no avail so Martin made a sudden swerve to avoid the child and was thrown headlong on the road as a result. His hand and arm were badly cut and he was bruised about the side. This morning he is on duty with his hand bandaged up.

MR. MARTINE VISITS BRYAN AT LINCOLN.

The "Farmer Orator" and the Presidential Candidate Enjoy a Cordial Talk.

MARTINE PLEASED BRYAN.

THE NEBRASKAN LIKED HIS ATTITUDE AT KANSAS CITY.

Col. Bryan Expressed His Pleasant Remembrance of His Visit to Plainfield—Mr. Martine on His Way Home.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Lincoln, Neb., July 11—James E. Martine, of Plainfield, who was one of the New Jersey "Big Four" at the Kansas City convention, was a guest of Col. Bryan at the latter's home here yesterday. The meeting between the Jerseyman and the Presidential candidate was very cordial, and although the time of Mr. Bryan was much occupied and many other prominent Democrats were waiting for conferences with him on political matters of the utmost importance, he talked with Mr. Martine for some time.

Mr. Bryan spoke especially of the pleasant time he had at the home of Mr. Martine last February and the gratifying reception he received from the Democrats of Plainfield and vicinity when he spoke in Plainfield. The Presidential candidate said that he should always remember his visit to Plainfield with the most friendly feelings for Mr. Martine.

Speaking of the attitude of the New Jersey delegation at Kansas City, Mr. Bryan assured Mr. Martine that he was glad that the latter had stood resolutely for the principles of the Democratic party as enunciated in the Chicago platform and finally re affirmed in the one adopted at Kansas City. Mr. Bryan said he was highly pleased with the convention throughout and he believed that victory would be accorded the Democrats by the voters of the country at the close of the campaign.

In his characteristically enthusiastic manner Mr. Martine assured Mr. Bryan that the people were for him this year and that no amount of coercion and the use of money on the part of Republicans to thwart the will of honest voters could defeat the Democratic ticket in 1900.

After leaving Mr. Bryan's home Mr. Martine spent the rest of last evening attending the ratification meeting in this city and in visiting with the scores of other prominent Democratic leaders who are gathered here in Lincoln.

Mr. Martine arrived here from Denver yesterday morning. He was in Denver Saturday, Sunday and Monday, visiting old friends. He will leave Lincoln today and probably arrive home Friday or Saturday. Mr. Martine will spend part of September and all of October in campaigning for Bryan and Stevenson in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

While here Mr. Martine also had the pleasure of meeting the Vice Presidential candidate, Mr. Stevenson, for a few minutes.

The Daily Press received the following telegram from Mr. Martine this morning, dated at Lincoln:

"Bryan bids me to express his kindest regards for Plainfield's Democracy.

"J. E. Martine."

SOMERSET FREEHOLDERS.

Refuse to Pay for a Letterbox in Surrogate's Office—Pension for a Pauper.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, July 11.—The Board of Freeholders met yesterday at the Court House and passed a large number of bills. A bill for placing a letter box in Surrogate Spencer's office was refused payment. The lunacy committee and Counsel Frech were directed to investigate the financial condition of relatives of county charges in the State Asylum and see if any of them were not able to contribute to their support. Counsel Frech reported that he had secured a pension of $12 a month for Noah Drake, a county charge in the asylum, and the county would be reimbursed for his keep. The Board adjourned to meet at the Hamilton street bridge, Bound Brook, next Tuesday at 2:30 p. m.

POSTOFFICE AND BANK.

THESE TWO INSTITUTIONS NEEDED IN THE BOROUGH.

Sentiment of Borough People Manifestly in Favor of a Sub-station Across the Brook.

A canvas has been made among the business men of the borough regarding the proposed postal sub-station in that place, and the opinion of nearly everyone is in favor of it, notwithstanding the statements of another newspaper. The people realize that a postal sub-station means a handy place for them to purchase postal cards, stamps, money orders, etc., and that they will still have the same free delivery that they have now. There has been an effort made to give boroughites the impression that the free delivery will be taken away and that there will be long and unnecessary delays in the delivery of mail. All this is untrue, and from the first no such plan was intended.

Several weeks ago a representative of The Daily Press had a talk with Senator Reed about the matter and he stated very plainly that it was proposed to establish a postal sub-station but not a postoffice. In time there may be a postoffice in the borough, but not now. The sub-station was granted by the postal autorities at the request of many leading borough citizens who have the interest of the borough at heart and want to secure such an institution to advance the interest of that municipality.

Another thing talked of for the borough is a National Bank. This has been under consideration for some time and may be a reality in the near future. These things are all intended to bring North Plainfield into prominence. Another move to bring about this purpose is the proposition to change the name of the borough so that it may not so often become confounded with Plainfield as at present.

It now remains for the people of the borough to decide whether that place shall progress and become an active and live independent municipality. The time has arrived when the borough must go ahead or stand still to eventually be joined to Plainfield and lose its identity altogether. Certain changes have taken place in the business world of the borough of late that argues against that place as a good locality for business, and some heroic measures will have to be adopted to retrieve lost honors.

WILD ANTICS OF A HORSE.

Animal Frightened at a Train and Jumped Into a Wagon Behind Which He was Being Led.

William Demler and Fred Nelson, of Watchung, had a narrow escape from serious injury yesterday afternoon owing to the antics of a horse which they were leading from the rear end of a road wagon they were riding in. They were just passing under the railroad bridge on Grant avenue when a train went over it. The rear horse became frightened and started to run away, but Demler held him. The animal then raised its front feet high in the air and brought them down on the back of the seat. Both feet went through the bottom of the wagon, imprisoning the horse which began to struggle frantically to free itself. Before the men could get out of the wagon the animal had wrecked a rear wheel and partially demolished the frame. They were unable to ride in it and were forced to walk to their destination. Had the horse's hoofs gone a little further over the seat at first both men would undoubted have been seriously injured.

New Printing Firm.

A printing office is about to be established by Louis M. Hummer and Charles E. Buell, of Craig place. They will be assisted by Mr. Buell's son, William Buell. It is understood that the new firm will make a bid for certain kinds of Government printing.

Ax Hit Him on the Head.

George Morton, of West Front street, is suffering from the effects of a blow on the head with an ax, which he received in a peculiar manner. He was splitting wood in the yard when the ax caught in a clothesline and rebounding struck him on the right side of the head. The blow stunned him for sometime and he still feels the effects of it.

Lowering the Grade.

Work will be started at once lowering the grade on Watchung avenue under the railroad bridge. It will be done by the trolley company at their own expense.

Miss Cramer, a nurse at Muhlenberg Hospital, will leave Friday for her home at Pluckamin, where she will spend a portion of her vacation.

LICENSE FOR EMERY REFUSED BY COURT.

Judge Vail Caused a Great Surprise by His Action This Morning.

EMERY'S CONDUCT WRONG.

JUDGE VAIL SAID HE DIDN'T AGREE WITH DECISION OF JURY.

Court Thinks That the Morals and Good Order of the Community Will Not be Served by Granting Emery's Application.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, July 11—A great surprise was sprung in the Union county court this morning when Judge Vail announced that he had decided that it was best for the morals and good order of the county that the application of William S. Emery, of Scotch Plains, for a hotel license, should be refused.

For over a year past Emery has been under the fire of the Citizens' League, of Scotch Plains, headed by Rev. G. M Shott, pastor of the Baptist church. Last spring Emery was indicted by the Grand Jury for selling liquor illegally, but before the indictment was brought to trial Emery's license expired and he made application for a new one. Until the indictment was decided, Judge Vail decided to lay over the application.

A month ago the trial was held and, though much strong evidence was given against Emery, the jury brought in a verdict of not guilty. It was thought that this action assured Emery his license.

But when the application was brought up this morning Judge Vail stated that though the evidence given at the trial must have convinced the jury of Emery's innocence, it certainly did not satisfy the court and he had decided to refuse Emery's license. The decision came like a thunder-bolt out of a clear sky, and Emery and his friends were greatly dejected at the decision.

Emery was arrested a few days ago for selling without a license again, and is now awaiting the action of the Grand Jury on the charge.

NEW ADJUTANT CHOSEN.

Charles Stephens Will Succeed the Late E. C Morse in Office in Winfield Scott Post.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., met last evening for the last time until the last meeting night in August. It was necessary to choose a successor to the late Ephraim C. Morse, who was adjutant of the Post, and Past Commander Charles Stephens, was elected to that position. A set of resolutions, handomely engrossed by Comrade Hector C. Smith, were introduced and unanimously adopted, and were ordered presented to the be reaved family of the late Mr. Morse. The resolutions were framed, and last evening Past Commander W. W. Cornell called and presented them to the family.

Hoop and Bicycle Mixed-up.

The practice of rolling hoops in the street, which is indulged in to a great extent by the small boys and girls in the vicinity of West Third and New streets, came near resulting seriously to a young lady riding a wheel on Third street last evening. A misguided hoop went astray and struck her front wheel. It became tangled in the spokes and threw her to the ground. She escaped with a few slight cuts.

Moonlight Bicycle Spin.

Thirty-five of the young people of the Seventh-Day Baptist church enjoyed a bicycle party last evening, in which Miss Jessie Utter, of Central avenue, acted as hostess. The party met at her home and then took a spin to Westfield by moonlight. On their return they went to Miss Utter's home, where refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

DALY WOULD BE JUDGE.

WANTS GOVERNOR TO PUT HIM ON SUPREME COURT BENCH.

It is Said That the Governor Has Decided Not to Appoint a Hudson County Man.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, July 11.—Governor Voorhees has not yet decided upon a man to fill the vacancy on the Supreme Court Bench caused by the death of Justice Job Lippincott last week. Several friends of aspirants for the position were at the State House yesterday to urge the claims of their candidates. Congressman William D. Daly, of Hoboken, put in an application and had an interview with the Governor, in which he declared his candidacy for the appointment. It was said last night by those who are supposed to know the Governor's attitude that he has made up his mind not to appoint a Hudson county man to the vacancy. If this is so, it lets ex Governor Werts out of the race. When Werts was in the Gubernatorial chair he tendered a Supreme Court Judgeship to the then Senator Voorhees, and it was thought that the latter would return the compliment. Rumor has it that the appointment will be offered to Garret D. W. Vroom, of Trenton, who is a prominent lawyer and Supreme Court Reporter. He is a son of the late Governor Vroom. A few years ago he was offered a Vice-Chancellorship and declined it.

WHICH WAS THE BETTER?

CHIEF KIELY INTERFERED BEFORE QUESTION COULD BE SETTLED.

Lively Fracas in Somerset Street Hotel Both Men Arrested—One Tried to Outrun Saffron.

It was a question as to whether John Louden or Patrick McDonald was the better man. They discussed the question in Blimm's Hotel last evening, and finally one suggested that they had better step out back and settle it then and there. En route to the yard in the rear of the hotel they came together and started to solve the disputed problem.

Chief Kiely heard of the disturbance and reached Somerset street in time to see a great crowd gathered to watch the fight. Kiely assumed command and marched away with McDonald. A short distance away he met Patrolman Saffron who was hurrying to the scene. McDonald was turned over to that officer while the Chief went back after more.

Louden was holding forth when the Chief reappeared and captured him as well. Louden was then taken to the station house. Saffron had meanwhile started for police headquarters with his prisoner. He allowed McDonald to walk along without restraint. When they reached Fourth street the prisoner made a sudden bolt to the west.

McDonald made a miscalculation. He thought he could outrun Saffron, but he found the officer a sprinter, who ran him down in a block and brought him back safe to the jail. The two men were locked up for the night.

The two men were released early this morning and will appear before City Judge Runyon tomorrow morning for trial.

Commissioner Hunt Returns.

William J. Hunt, president of the New Jersey State Sewerage Commission, who returned on Monday from Europe, where he went as American representative at the Guttenburg celebration, found time while he was abroad to study the methods of sewage disposal in England and Europe. He will present a report on the subject to the Commission. Mr. Hunt said yesterday in his office at Newark that he believed the problem of Passaic sewage could be solved by the application, with slight changes, of the methods now in operation in Europe and the United States.

Picnicked at Netherwood Farms.

Miss Anna Searing and her Sunday-school class at Trinity Reformed church enjoyed a picnic yesterday in the woods adjoining the Netherwood Farms. Everyone had a jolly time playing games, etc., and the ramble through the woods was not the least of the many pleasures. Through the kindness of Henry Nischwitz, of the borough, the party was conveyed to and from the woods. There were eighteen present in all, including some visitors.

Improvements Nearly Finished.

The improvements on the Arlington avenue side of the Plainfield High School property are all completed except the erection of the iron fence that is to replace the old wooden one. The place has been neatly flagged and curbed and the yard graded. An iron fence will now be erected in the place of the unsightly wooden one.

AUTO COMPANY NOW READY FOR BUSINESS.

It Will Be Capitalized at $25,000, With Shares Valued at $100 Each.

MEETING HELD LAST NIGHT.

VEHICLES WILL RUN ON SEVENTH AND EIGHTH STREETS.

Formal Meeting of Promoters Held Last Night, and the Articles of Incorporation Will be Filed Today.

The promoters of the Plainfield Automobile Company are rapidly getting down to business and in a very short time the handsome autos will be spinning along the proposed routes.

A meeting of those interested was held at Craig A. Marsh's office last evening. Those present were Mayor Rockfellow, Borough Mayor N. B. Smalley, Assessor Elston M. French, Charles Hand and S. D. Drake. The company was capitalized at $25,000, divided into shares of $100 each. To commence business with $1,000 was subscribed at once. The articles of incorporation will be filed at the County Clerk's office in Elizabeth today.

Craig A. Marsh was made counsel of the company.

Another meeting of the incorporators will be held next Wednesday evening when directors will be elected and other important business considered. Beside the route out Park avenue, through the southeastern part of the city, another and much longer route will be established. It will run out Seventh and Eighth streets. Two vehicles will be used, one running out Seventh street and returning by way of Eighth street; the other one running just the reverse. The benefits to be derived from this route are numerous. In the first place, it will open up the fine property, situated on these streets below Grant and Clinton avenues.

It will bring the beautiful New Market lake in touch with Plainfield, affording the citizens an opportunity of enjoying the boating in summer and skating in winter. It will bring New Market trade to Plainfield and will also be the cause of Seventh street being macadamized. No trolley can do this for the simple reason that they cannot secure a franchise to pass through these streets, as the people do not want it. They are all heartily in favor of the new scheme, however, and most of them have shown their willingness to subscribe for stock.

There is no doubt but what the enterprise will be a paying institution from the very start as there is no great cost attached to it. Where it would cost a trolley company $25,000 to secure a franchise and $100,000 to build and put its road in operation, the new company will only pay out $4,000 apiece for their vehicles and then they are already to start.

The autos can be delivered within three months after they are ordered. The success of the scheme is also assured by the energetic men who are behind it.

PEDDLED WITHOUT LICENSE.

Did Not Heed Warning of Police and was Fined $2 by Judge Runyon.

Harry Kurtzman, a Hebrew peddler of tender age, was meeting with fair success in disposing of his miscellaneous collection of dry goods and notions in Elizabeth until the authorities of that city drove him away. Yesterday he began operations in Plainfield.

Patrolman McCarty discovered him during the afternoon and warned him that peddling without a license was not allowed. Kurtzman kept on peddling. McCarty arrested him shortly after and brought him before City Judge Runyon.

Kurtzman frankly admitted his guilt and was fined $2, which he paid and went forth to more congenial fields of labor.

NEW TROLLEY LINE.

Another Newark-Orange Route Planned by North Jersey Company.

The North Jersey Street Railway Company is about to build another trolley line from the Oranges to Newark that will open up a section now without easy access to the big city. The new line is to be in continuation of the South End road, in Montclair, which runs from Montclair Centre along Orange road to its terminus at the East Orange line. The route will be from Orange road along North Park street to Springdale avenue, and easterly to or near the Newark line.

David Young, general manager of the North Jersey system, hopes to get permission from the Essex County Park commission to cross Branch Brook Park, in which case the new line will run directly down either Third or Fourth avenue to Bloomfield avenue. If this plan is not feasible the road will run in Springdale avenue to the Ampere station of the Lackawanna road, and thence southerly to a connection with the present Orange line at the Roseville barns.

Applications for the franchise are to be made immediately, and as soon as these are settled the road will be pushed rapidly to completion.

Latest Casualty List Issued by the War Office Figures the Total Loss During the War at 48,188 Officers and Men.

LONDON, July 11.—Lord Roberts has sent the following dispatch to the war office, dated Pretoria, July 10:

"Clements' and Paget's forces entered Bethlehem July 7. The former, on nearing the town, sent in a flag of truce, demanding its surrender, which was refused by De Wet, when Paget, making a wide turning movement, succeeded in getting hold of the enemy's most important position, covering the town. This was carried before dark by the Munster fusileers and Yorkshire Light infantry. The following morning the attack was continued, and by noon the town was in our possession and the enemy in full retreat.

"Our casualties were four officers and 32 men of the Munsters wounded and one missing; Captains MacPherson and Weakes and Lieutenant Conway severely and Lieutenant Boyd-Rochefort, Scottish rifles, slightly wounded; seven men of the Yorkshires wounded and one killed and two wounded of the Imperial yeomanry.

"Paget reports that but for the accurate practice of the Thirty-eighth Royal artillery and the Fourth City Imperial batteries the casualties would have been many more.

"Baden-Powell reached Rustenburg during the evening of July 8 without opposition. He found all quiet there and public confidence entirely satisfactory, thanks to the prompt and bold grasp of the situation taken by Major Hanbury-Tracy.

"The district west of this is somewhat unsettled owing to the small force which attacked Rustenburg being still in that neighborhood. Measures are being taken to meet this.

"Hunter's cavalry under Broadwood reached Bethlehem July 8. Hunter, with his main force, was within nine miles of the town when Clements dispatched his report."

The war office has issued another casualty list from South Africa, showing that during the week ended July 7 there were killed, wounded or captured 15 officers and 180 men; accidental deaths, 2 men; died of disease, 4 officers and 194 men; invalided home, 72 officers and 1,306 men. The total casualties as a result of the war are 48,188 officers and men.

The Daily Telegraph this morning says it understands that at the termination of the war in South Africa the Right Hon. Sir George Goldie will be appointed governor of the Cape Colony, Sir Alfred Milner, who now holds both the governorship and the high commissionership of South Africa, simply retaining the latter office.

A special dispatch from Lourenco Marques says a Boer bulletin has been issued asserting that the Boers have recaptured Waterval.

Boers Retire.

SENEKAL, Orange River Colony, July 11.—An extended reconnoissance resulted in the discovery that the Boers had evacuated all their positions around Senekal. Numbers of them appear to have gone toward Ficksburg and the remainder in the direction of Bethlehem. The British commanders express the opinion that the retirement of the Boers foreshadows a speedy end of the war in this section of the country.

Deaf Mute Cured by a Fall.

PITTSBURG, July 11.—Thomas F. Tiernan, who has been deaf and dumb for 59 years, was cured by falling from the roof of a house. None of the members of the family had ever heard him speak. Tiernan climbed to the roof of his house yesterday, and, becoming dizzy, fell to the ground, a distance of 25 feet, alighting on his shoulders. He lay unconscious, but when he came to his family were amazed to hear him ask what had happened.

Gans Gets the Decision.

NEW YORK, July 11.—At the Seaside Athletic club last evening Joe Gans of Baltimore was awarded the decision over Albert Griffith, better known as "Young Griffo," of Australia. Referee White stopped the bout after they had fought 1 minute and 38 seconds of the eighth round, when "Griffo" was so far gone that another punch from Gans would have put him out. The articles called for a 25 round bout at 135 pounds.

More Corn, Less Wheat.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Preliminary returns to the statistician of the department of agriculture on the acreage of corn planted indicate an increase of about 1,200,000 acres or 1.5 per cent over the acreage harvested last year. Of the 22 states having 1,000,000 acres or upward in corn in 1899 all but Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Tennessee and Kansas show an increased acreage, and the total decrease in the five states named is less than 600,000 acres. The condition of winter wheat shows a further decline during June, being 80.8 on July 1, as compared with 82.7 on June 1, 65.6 on July 1, 1899, 85.7 at the corresponding date in 1898 and a ten year average of 79.8. The average condition of spring wheat is 55.2, as compared with 87.3 one month ago, 91.7 on July 1, 1899, 95 at the corresponding date in 1898 and a ten year average of 89.5.

BRIDGE WORK
in Dentistry is the best substitute for nature's work that can be done. Sound roots may be built up and crowned and thus fill up an unsightly space. It has to be made of a material that has strength and durability and one that will not discolor. Gold is the one that stands the test. That is the secret of the expense. But the advantages of a bridge over a plate are many times more than the cost of one compared to that of the other.

Recent Chinese Reports Not Given Credence.

A MESSAGE FROM THE EMPEROR.

Japan's Formidable Preparations Viewed With Distrust by Powers. War to the Death Between Empress Dowager and Tuan.

LONDON, July 11.—"No authentic news from Peking" is still the burden of the dispatches from the far east, and, although the disposition is to believe the optimist reports from Chinese sources, no real confidence is possible until the legations, if they are still in existence, are permitted to communicate with their governments. If, as is alleged, the Boxer movement is losing ground in Peking, it might have been supposed that the Boxers would have endeavored to send up reenforcements from Tien-tsin, but instead of that they are still in great force in the neighborhood of the latter place and are assisted by the imperial Chinese troops with ample efficient artillery.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Mail, telegraphing Tuesday, says:

"A message has arrived here from Emperor Kwang Hsu, dated July 2, by couriers from Peking to the viceroy of Nankin, who forwarded it here. It is addressed to the Russian, English and Japanese governments. It deplores the recent occurrences and solemnly affirms that the foreign governments are mistaken in supposing that the Chinese government was protecting the Boxers against the Christians. The emperor further implores their aid in suppressing the rebellion and upholding the existing government.

"In a separate dispatch to the Japanese government Kwang Hsu expresses deep regret for the murder of Legation Chancellor Sugiyama.

"These dispatches are taken to indicate that the emperor is in seclusion and is ignorant of the seriousness of recent events."

The Chefu correspondent of The Express, telegraphing Tuesday, says:

"The Japanese force is equipped with 36 heavy mortars and 120 field guns and has pontoon and balloon sections. It is expected either Marshal Nodzu or Marshal Oyama will take command. The plan of campaign contemplates operations extending two or three years.

"A further force of 13,000 men will be landed at Taku a week hence and an additional 10,000 soon afterward. Before the rainy season is well advanced Japan hopes to have 63,000 troops in China."

These formidable preparations are viewed with great distrust by Russia, Germany and France.

According to a special Chefu dispatch the fighting around Tien-tsin on the 3d and 4th was the severest yet experienced. The British losses alone were 30 killed or wounded. The Chinese had 75,000 men attacking simultaneously from the west, north and east and made excellent practice with over 100 guns. The defenders numbered 14,000, with scant supplies, and it was only the presence of the newly arrived Japanese and Russian guns that prevented a disaster. One Russian company of infantry, numbering 120 men, had 115 killed or wounded. The German contingent also suffered heavily. By the evening of the 4th the situation was very critical. The allies narrowly escaped total defeat. Providentially, when things were at their worst, a torrential rainfall compelled the Chinese to retire.

On July 6, the rain having abated, the Chinese renewed the attack, opening fire on Tien-tsin with two batteries of 4 inch guns, but the allies, aided by two of the British cruiser Terrible's 4.7 inch guns, succeeded in silencing the Chinese artilley after eight hours of fighting.

According to the Shanghai correspondent of The Express it is war to the knife between the dowager empress and Prince Tuan. In a recent edict the latter boldly discards his mask and signs himself as emperor. He warmly commends the prowess of "his faithful Boxers" and in flowery language appeals to their cupidity and fanaticism. In the same decree Prince Tuan appoints Prince Tzuan, the "iron capped;" Prince Tsaisham, his imperial clansman, and Kang Yi to command the three chief wings of the Boxer army.

Three hundred European refugees from Tien-tsin have arrived at Shanghai in a state of destitution after terrible suffering.

MACARTHUR SENDS TROOPS.

A Regiment and a Battery Ordered to China.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—In reply to instructions of the secretary of war of July 7 General MacArthur cables the adjutant general the following, under date of July 9, 10:40 p. m.:

"Daggett's regiment (Fourteenth United States infantry) and Reilly's battery (Fifth artillery) will leave on the 13th for Taku on transports Indiana, Flintshire and Wyefield. Taylor in Samar not available. For other infantry regiment for Chinese service recommend first one leaving States. Manila nicely cared for until arrival new troops without drawing on Anderson, Bullard or Sargent, which is now impracticable. In addition to one month's subsistence supplies with troops, send with Daggett to establish depot three months' subsistence for 5,000 men. Regiments have 500 rounds ammunition per man.

"Crozier carries 1,000,000 reserve and such miscellaneous ordnance supplies as can be spared from here. With view to medical supply depot stores three months for 5,000 men go with Daggett. There will be eight medical officers in China from Philippines. Send three months' forage 350 animals and partial supply winter clothing for Ninth infantry. Shall keep Indiana and Flintshire in China waters for local service therein. Order all large transports home to expedite transfer troops here. Foregoing arrangements easily changed if department's wishes cabled quickly.

"Seven companies Hardin's regiment and Taylor's battery have been sent to Samar, replacing Hughes' troops therein, which have been concentrated in Leyte. Request authority to permanently transfer Samar department to southern Luzon."

General MacArthur's anxiety as to conditions in the Philippines is indicated in the statement in his dispatch to the department that he has ordered the large transports on the Philippine station back to the United States in order to expedite the transfer of troops to the Philippines. The Sherman is the only one of the large troopships now in the Philippines. The Logan is in Chinese waters, and the Thomas is due at Manila on the 13th inst. General MacArthur's message is taken to mean that these vessels will be sent back to the United States as soon as possible.

Japan's Importance.

YOKOHAMA, July 11.—Nothing is talked of here but the crisis in China. It is now generally recognized by the press and people that this empire, by reason of its geographical position, has the whip hand in this extraordinary crisis and that an opportunity is now afforded it to put the entire world under deep and lasting obligation. Japan has an army of half a million trained and disciplined men, as a military machine rivaling in efficiency the army of Germany. Of late Russia has been looming up as a formidable rival in the orient, and the Russian bugbear has proved heretofore a potently repressive influence alike on the government, the press and the people generally. All that has now vanished in the new national consciousness that Japan has arisen to supreme independence in the eyes of the world and that she is virtually the mistress of the situation.

Chinamen Denounce Boxers.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—The Chinamen of this city, following closely on the footsteps of their compatriots in New York, have issued a proclamation denouncing the Boxers in China and the atrocities they have committed against the foreign residents in that faroff land. The proclamation was posted in various conspicuous places in the Chinese colony. It is signed by Lee Toy, the reputed mayor of Chinatown, and five other Celestials.

PLOT TO KILL M'KINLEY.

Assassination of the President Planned by Spaniards and Cubans.

NEW YORK, July 11.—The World prints the following:

"A plot to assassinate President McKinley has been frustrated. It was concocted by a group of Spanish and Cuban conspirators, with headquarters in New York. One of the plotters weakened and sent a warning letter to a member of the Republican national committee. That letter was placed in the hands of Secretary Charles Dick, who referred it to Chairman B. B. Odell of the New York state committee for investigation. Chairman Odell engaged a detective, who speedily verified certain important allegations made in the warning letter. Thereupon Mr. Odell reported to Secretary Dick, who laid all the facts before Chairman Mark Hanna.

"Mr. Odell's report caused great alarm among the president's close friends and advisers. Mr. Odell made it plain that he regarded the plot as a matter of the utmost seriousness and urged that extreme precautions be taken to keep the president out of harm's reach. Messrs. Dick and Hanna laid the whole matter before the president shortly before he departed for Canton. They instructed Mr. Odell to continue his investigation and cautioned him to work with the utmost secrecy."

Fight With Cattle Thieves.

GLENCOE, O. T., July 11.—One United States marshal was instantly killed and three desperadoes fatally wounded and captured in a fight on the Arkansas river 40 miles east of here. A messenger brought the news here yesterday. In that locality there are a great many bands of cattle thieves, who have terrorized residents for some time. Only a few days ago a farmer was killed while trying to protect his property. The three desperadoes who were captured last night had stolen a whole herd of cattle from the reservation and were taking them to a railroad station when the three marshals overtook them and the fight began.

Ate Four Quarts of Onions.

PALMER, Mass., July 11.—Frank Schuntoski is the onion hero of the town. Just to amuse his neighbors and incidentally to acquire two kegs of beer as a prize he consumed four quarts of raw onions. He offered to wager with Simon Polinska that he could eat a bushel, but came down to four quarts when the wager was made.

Boys Try to Wreck a Train.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., July 11.—Two boys, named Young and Decker, 9 and 12 years old respectively, have been arrested at Owego. They spiked a fishplate on the west bound Erie track, and the Chicago express, just due, would have been derailed if the obstruction had not been discovered just in time.

Cholera Spreading.

SIMLA, India, July 11.—Cholera has appeared in epidemic form at Kohat, 23 miles south of Peshawur. Two hundred and seven cases and 77 deaths occurred among the sepoys and camp followers between July 3 and July 9. The prospects for the monsoon are slightly more favorable.

Vardon Meets His Match.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Harvey Vardon, England's crack golfer, was unable to beat Turpie and Bell at the Midlothian links. Although he tied Turpie in medal play, he lost on holes, 6 down and 5 to go for the 36 holes. The medal play resulted: Vardon, 169; Turpie, 169; Bell, 170.

TEACHERS IN SESSION

Educators of the Nation Meet In Charleston.

GOVERNOR WELCOMES TWO THOUSAND

President Harper Believes Proposed National University Inexpedient and Unnecessary—A School of Diplomacy Favored.

CHARLESTON, July 11.—The old Palmetto state and Charleston, hospitable and historic, gave official welcome to the National Educational association at the opening session of its annual convention. About 2,000 delegates were present in the Thomson auditorium when Chairman Welsh of the local executive committee called the convention to order shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday. The first session, outside of the appointment of a committee on resolutions, was purely one of welcome. Governor M. B. McSweeney greeted the delegates for the state. After extending a formal welcome to the schoolteachers, who, he said, "were abroad in the state," the governor said:

"The soldier is abroad even in this day of civilization and enlightenment. There are those who claim that it is our duty to carry civilization and Christianity to the heathen even though we have to open the way with leaden bullets. It seems that we are about on the verge of another war. It may be the hand of Providence to carry our civilization to the uttermost parts of the earth. We have with us, however, another personage more important in maintaining our civilization than the soldier—the schoolteacher."

Mayor Smyth also welcomed the delegates, and then President O. T. Corson delivered his annual address.

A brief session was held last night, at which a paper on the small college and its work in the past was read by President W. O. Thompson of Ohio State university, Columbus, O.

President William R. Harper read a brief paper on the prospects of the small college. Professor Harper thought the growth and life of the smaller college was guaranteed by many factors. Some of these colleges, he said, should be strengthened, while others would better serve the people if reduced to academies or junior colleges.

The establishment of a national university at Washington was the chief topic discussed at the meeting of the council. The discussion was opened with the report of President W. R. Harper of the University of Chicago, the chairman of the committee of the council on the subject.

President Harper put himself on record as believing that the proposed national university was inexpedient and unnecessary. The majority of the committee, he said, favored a school of research which should be centered about and ultimately associated with the Smithsonian institution. The graduates of certain universities should be permitted to enjoy the courses of this university and should lend a helping hand in the management and support of this school.

A school for the study of international questions, diplomacy and similar matters analogous to West Point was also favored.

Armor Plate Tested.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The naval ordnance bureau yesterday held a test of 14 inch harveyized Carnegie plate at the Indian Head proving ground. This plate formed the last group of turret armor yet untested for the new battleship Illinois, now nearing completion at Newport News. The 12 inch shots were fired according to specifications. The first traveled with a velocity of 1,486 feet per second and penetrated to a depth of 8¾ inches, the shell breaking up and the pieces rebounding. The velocity of the second shot was 1,852 feet per second. In this case the projectile again broke up, and the head remained in the plate. The estimated penetration was 12 inches.

To Notify McKinley.

CLEVELAND, July 11.—Final preparations have been completed by Senator Hanna for the trip of the notification committee from this city to Canton tomorrow. The special train of five cars will leave Cleveland at 9:30 a. m. In addition to the notification committee the train will carry the Tippecanoe club of this city and a band. There will also be a number of invited guests of Senator Hanna, making the total number of persons in the party about 300. The train will reach Canton shortly before noon. Returning, it will reach Cleveland about 6 p. m.

Erie Canal Navigation Stopped.

ALBANY, July 11.—State Superintendent of Public Works Partridge has received information of a bad leak in the canal just this side of Schenectady and the Mohawk river at Lock 21. The water had got into a quicksand formation and was undermining the masonry work, causing an ugly situation. Division Superintendent Parker caused the water to be withdrawn from the level, which will stop all navigation during the four days or more it is likely to take to complete the repairs.

Germans Eat Horses and Dogs.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—"On account of the high price of other meat not only horse meat but also dog meat is used by people as an article of food in Germany," says Consul General Guenther at Frankfort in a report to the state department. The meat inspection bill, says the consul general, does not adequately protect the consumer against bad meat, but excludes many first class products from the country. The consumption of horse meat, he says, is on the increase.

Serious Trolley Car Collision.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Seven persons, five of whom were women, were injured in a collision between three trolley cars of the Third avenue line at Amsterdam avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street, this city. A large number of other persons who were passengers on the wrecked cars were struck by flying pieces of timber and narrowly escaped serious injuries. The three cars were wrecked.

Shut Down Follows Strike.

DERBY, Conn., July 11.—Twenty "loopers" at the woolen mills of A. H. & C. B. Alling went out on strike owing to a refusal on the part of the company to increase the scale of wages for work that is known as "black" material. The management promptly shut the entire underwear department, throwing 200 hands, all women and girls, out of employment.

Troubles Of a Minister.

To benefit others Rev. J. T. W. Vernon, of Hartwell, Ga., writes: "For a long time I had a running sore on my leg. I tried many remedies without benefit, until I used a bottle of Electric Bitters and a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which cured me sound and well." Sores, Eruption, Boils, Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum show impure blood. Thousands have found in Electric Bitters a grand blood purifier that absolutely cures these troubles. Satisfaction is guaranteed or money refunded by L. W. Randolph. Large bottles only 50c.

PART AND PARCEL.
A DAINTY box, an exquisite wrapper, a delicate color, and a clinging fragrance—yet all these will not cleanse the skin! Has it ever occured to you that you pay big prices for these things? Do you care to buy five articles or do you require only one—a strictly pure soap. Remember you pay for perfume whenever you buy it mixed with soap. Don't you think it is wiser to make your own selection of perfume and buy it separately? It is certainly the method adopted by most persons of cultivated taste, those who bathe with pure Ivory Soap.
IVORY SOAP—99 44/100 PER CENT. PURE.

THREE PARTIES RATIFY.

Informal Opening of the Campaign In Mr. Bryan's Town.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 11.—The informal opening of the Democratic presidential campaign took place in Lincoln yesterday. In two ratification meetings, one in the afternoon conducted by the Populists and Silver Republicans of Nebraska and one last evening conducted by the Democrats, William J. Bryan, Charles A. Towne, General James B. Weaver and other leaders of the parties outlined the work of the campaign in the interest of Bryan and Stevenson. Probably 13,000 people, a good proportion from distant points in the state, listened to the speeches and paid homage to the leaders of the parties to which they owed allegiance, nearly 3,000 people packing the Auditorium in the afternoon, while 10,000 gathered in the capitol grounds in the evening.

Mr. Bryan and Mr. Towne spoke at both meetings, although it was their intention to deliver addresses only at the evening meeting, and their remarks, forecasting as they did the fusion of the three parties on the Democratic national ticket, were received with unbounded enthusiasm.

Mr. Stevenson, who is Mr. Bryan's guest, was somewhat indisposed and did not appear at the afternoon meeting. He was present in the evening, however, and received an ovation. At the afternoon meeting the speakers were Mr. Bryan, Congressman Shafroth of Colorado, "Cyclone" Davis of Texas, former Assistant Secretary of the Interior Webster Davis, Charles A. Towne and General James B. Weaver. Mr. Bryan spoke last, only in response to repeated calls. He was wildly cheered as Chairman Edmiston introduced him as "Mr. Bryan of North America."

At the evening meeting Mr. Bryan and Mr. Stevenson were given a tremendous greeting by the crowds. Both were cheered again and again as they appeared on the platform. Mr. Towne delivered the most extended speech of the evening meeting, outlining the campaign arguments on which the Democratic party will fight the campaign of 1900.

Lawyers Wrangle Over Powers.

GEORGETOWN, Ky., July 11.—The defense in the Powers case filed a motion and grounds for a continuance. The motion is based on the absence of about 90 witnesses. The commonwealth objected to a continuance, and the defense, through ex-Governor Brown, asked an adjournment of the morning session of the court in order to prepare affidavits in support of the motion. The affidavits was filed in the afternoon and purports to state the character of the testimony expected to be proved by the absent witnesses. Under the criminal code this is cause for a continuance unless the prosecution shall admit the affidavits as evidence. When the affidavit was filed, the defense held a lengthy consultation, at which it was decided to file objection to the affidavits on the ground of the alleged irrelevancy and incompetence of parts of the evidence offered in it. At 6 o'clock last evening the court adjourned to give the attorneys time to prepare the objections.

Divine Healer Pleads Guilty.

BOSTON, July 11.—Francis Truth, who advertised himself as a divine healer, appeared in the United States circuit court yesterday, retracted his previous plea of not guilty, pleaded guilty and was fined $2,500, which he paid. This action was a surprise, as immediately after an agreement among counsel Truth was called into court. He pleaded guilty to seven indictments accusing him of using the mails to further a scheme to defraud, which involved his divine healing methods, and on five charges he was fined the maximum penalty, $500 each.

Strike May End In Bloodshed.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., July 11.—The Bell island strikers succeeded yesterday in preventing a schooner from unloading coal or any other work being done at the mines. The managers of the mines have applied to the supreme court and the government for protection. The whole available police force of the colony will proceed to the scene at daylight to protect the working gangs. A bloody affray is feared, as this means the last scene of the strike drama.

Killed by the Cars.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., July 11.—Edward W. Trexler, aged 73 years, of Allentown, a retired millionaire lumber dealer, was struck by a fast Philadelphia and Reading railroad freight train and instantly killed while driving home from his farm near Emaus. His horse was also killed and his carriage broken.

Exchange of Porto Rican Coin.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Governor Allen called at the treasury department yesterday and discussed with Secretary Gage the exchange of Porto Rican silver for United States coin now being made at San Juan, Ponce and Mayagnez. Something more than half of the entire volume of money already has been exchanged, but the governor thought that the business might be greatly facilitated by increasing the number of points at which the exchange could be made. Under the law Porto Rican silver ceases to be a legal tender on Aug. 1, and in view of the shortness of the remaining time it is likely that Secretary Gage will designate all of the custom houses and the postoffices at a number of the principal towns at which the people may receive American money in exchange for their own.

Roosevelt Will Address Clubs.

ST. PAUL, July 11.—Secretary Stine of the National League of Republican Clubs, who is here to remain until after the convention next week, has received assurances of attendance from so many clubs that he is of the opinion that this year's will be one of the largest and most successful conventions ever held. The fact that Governor Roosevelt will be present and speak is arousing much interest, especially throughout the west. The speech at this convention, being his first formal utterance since his nomination for the vice presidency, will be really the opening of the Republican campaign.

Cured of Lockjaw.

HARTFORD, July 11.—Richard Manion, Jr., a boy of 12 years of age, will be discharged from the Hartford hospital this week cured of the lockjaw. This is the first instance of recovery from lockjaw in the history of that instituton, in which a considerable number of cases of the kind have been treated. Manion was admitted to the institution on June 13 suffering from an attack of lockjaw brought on from an injury in his left hand.

French Lawmakers Prorogued.

PARIS, July 11.—The senate and chamber of deputies yesterday concluded the debate upon the budget and were prorogued until autumn. The session of the chamber of deputies has been unusually tumultuous, and it preserved this character to the last.

Interesting Facts.

The Daily Press has always strongly advocated the development of the city by the construction and extension of facilities for rapid transportation within the bounds of this municipality and in connection with others. The trolley roads are undoubtedly a great and wonderful benefit for the community when they are properly managed. The Daily Press has stoutly maintained, however, that the franchises for these street railway systems were valuable things, not only to the city but to the owners as well. Such being the case, it was manifestly fair that the capitalists, who secured the right to build and operate the trolley lines, should justly recompense the city for the privileges.

When the agitation in behalf of better terms for the city in return for the granting of the Scotch Plains extension of the Plainfield Street Railway was at its height and The Daily Press made such a strong plea in the interests of the city, the representatives of the syndicate declared that it was outrageous to demand so much. Remembering these statements, some facts concerning the standing of the Plainfield Street Rrilway in the financial circles of Wall street are significant.

The following statement, concerning the present status of the Plainfield Street Railway Company and the allied company, the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company, was prepared for The Daily Press by a reliable authority in New York:

Plainfield Street Railway—Organization. This company operates 11 92 miles of track. Extensions under way and projected. January 1, 1900, it had capital stock issued, $100,000; funded debt, $100,000; other debts, $29,664; total cost of road and equipment, $240,475. In 1898, the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway was incorporated to build an extension of 12½ miles double track from Plainfield to Elizabeth. In year 1899, income from passengers was $67,589; other income $225; net earnings, $19,368. Officers: President, T. A. Nevins; vice-president, J. T. Fritts; secretary and treasurer, Adrain Riker.

Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway—Organization. In 1898, was incoporated to built 12½ miles of double track from Plainfield to Elizabeth. In November, 1899, obtained a 75-year franchise from the city of Elizabeth to operate a double track line connecting with the West Jersey and Elmora branch of the North Jersey Traction Company. On December 1, 1899, line was put in operation from Elizabeth to Plainfield. Also secured control of the Rahway Electric Company, which operates the Rahway Electric Street Railway and the Woodbridge and Sewaren Electric Railway. In June, 1900, the Rahway line was not connected with the main line at Westfield, but expected to be opened about July 1, 1900, stock issued was $150,000. In December, 1899, made a temporary mortgage for $250,000 to the Fidelity Trust Company, of Newark. The company agrees to give the city of Elizabeth $100 per mile for every mile of street occupied with tracks for the first five years and 5 per cent of gross receipts annually thereafter. Officers: President, Chandler W. Riker; vice-president and treasurer, Adrian Riker; secretary, Edwine W. Hine.

To a large class of readers, says the Philadelphia Record, the advertising columns have as constant an interest as any other part of the newspaper. Persistent and systematic advertisers have educated the public to the point of looking to "ads" for information which it would require hours to gather in the stores.

Britain's war upon the Boer republics has now cost her 48,188 officers and men.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Speaking of queer names, the Kansas City Journal notes that Hoisington, Kan., has a well-known citizen who signs himself Vest Coats, and who ought to lay himself aside during the hot weather. Mention is also made of the marriage in Grundy county of Miss Fickle and Mr. Coy.

* * * * * *

The curiosity of the average citizen was clearly shown Monday evening by the large crowd which followed an officer up East Front street, because he was walking a little faster than the ordinary gait. Two or three boys followed him and before long a crowd of a hundred had fallen in line. Rumors of a fire, murder and several other startling things spread, but nothing definite was learned. The officer turned into a house rear Watchung avenue and the crowd waited outside. He soon re-appeared and resumed his beat the curious ones still wondering what it was all about. The truth of the matter was that the policeman had been called to settle a little family quarrel between a father and sons and his quickened gait had attracted the boys' attention and the consequent crowd neither of which knew why they were following him.

One of the old fire engines of the Newark department that has done duty at many fires in that city has entered upon a new phase of its existence. It was taken a week ago to Dr. Leslie Ward's country home at Madison. The engine in question did service for years for No. 5 Engine Company, then it was transferred to No. 8 Engine Company, and when a new apparatus was procured for that company the engine was sent to headquarters.

Dr. Leslie Ward's country home is known as "Brook Lake." There are extensive lawns and a lovely little lake. It has long been a problem with the Prudential vice-president how to keep those lawns fresh and green when the Weather Bureau refused to give regular rain supplies. He bethought him of having a fire engine to serve as a lawn sprinkler and he entered into negotiations with the Newark Fire Department and succeeded in buying the memorable engine.

Engineer Haulenbeck, formerly of No. 1 Engine Company, went to "Brook Lake" and showed Dr. Ward how to operate the "masheen." It was great sport throwing variegated streams all over the lawns. The water supply was obtained from the lake. Hereafter the old engine will do duty as a lawn sprinkler.

Miss Margaret M. Scully, of Franklin place, left the city today to enjoy a vacation of three months.

Gentlemen:—Our family realize so much from the use of GRAIN-O that I feel I must say a word to induce others to use it. If people are interested in their health and the welfare of their children they will use no other beverage. I have used them all but GRAIN-O I have found superior to any, for the reason that it is solid grain.

Yours for health, C. F. MYERS.

HANDS BADLY BURNED.

BRAVE ACTION OF MARGARET WILSON IN FACE OF FLAMES.

Carried a Barrel of Burning Straw From Woodshed in Order to Prevent Serious Conflagration.

While bravely fighting a fire which threatened to burn a storehouse in the rear of her home on Grove street, yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Margaret Wilson was so severely burned about both hands as to incapacitate her from her household duties for some time. As it was she was very fortunate, for had she wore a dress of light material instead of the heavy one which she did wear, it would undoubtedly have caught fire with serious results.

The cause which led to Mrs. Wilson's burns was a barrel of straw in the storehouse which had caught fire in some way and was already commencing to burn the building. The first she knew of it was when she saw the smoke coming out of the open door, and rushing out she saw the blaze.

Without stopping to shout for assistance and thinking only of saving the surrounding property, she rushed in and seized the barrel, and it spite of the fierce heat and flame carried it out. She then procured a pail of water and with the help of some of the neighbors extinguished the blaze.

The condition of Mrs. Wilson's hands was then noticed and Dr. Zeglio was hurriedly summoned. He found them to be a mass of burns from which she suffered great pain. She was forced to sit up nearly all of last night bathing them in cooling preparations. By her quickness of thought and bravery, a serious fire was averted, as there is a large barn directly next to her building which would have soon caught the flames.

NEW ENGINES CAUSE TROUBLE.

Two Big for the Round-house and Too Hard on Firemen.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Phillipsburg, July 11.—The Jersey Central Railroad officials at its yards here are having a difficult time with its new engines which were lately received here. They are of the largest type and are to be used on heavy coal and freight trains. The first difficulty was experienced when they tried to run them into the round-house and found it too small. A part of the walls of the building was taken down, even then they could not be taken in. The next difficulty that confronted them was the turntable, which is also too small to hold the tender and engine, and they have to be taken apart.

The company, when it first put the engines into service, gave each fireman a helper, but decided that it was an unnecessary expenditure of money and took the helpers off. The result was that since that time one fireman after another has been overcome by the heat. On Sunday the fireman on one of the engines fell unconscious when the train reached Bloomsbury, and the engineer was obliged to stop, as none of the crew of the train would fire. A message was sent here for a fireman, but they all refused to go unless a helper was sent with them. They were refused this, and one of the employes of the shop here was sent.

PLAYED MUTE TO STEAL.

Stole Woman Stenographer's Pocketbook and Commutation Ticket

Louise Bird, a stenographer, of Morristown, who is employed in an office at No. 118 Market street, Newark, yesterday placed her pocketbook containing $42 and her commutation ticket, on a desk in the office where she is employed.

Shortly afterward a young man entered. He handed Miss Bird a slip of paper setting forth that he was a deaf mute and needed help.

After he left Miss Bird discovered that her pocketbook was gone. Her visitor discarded his mute appeal outside the office door, where it was found later.

Somerville Wants New Fire House.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, July 11—The Board of Commissioners has voted to hold an election on the question of bonding the town for building a new fire house. Land has been offered them, ranging in price from $8,000 to $25,000. The town is at present free from debt and a large number of taxpayers are opposed to running in debt, but the firemen are all working earnestly for the project, and as there are about 175 of them electioneering, they will probably carry it through.

NEGRO LAD'S INVENTION.

Eugene Burkin, of Chicago, Constructs a Rapid-Fire Machine Gun of Great Power.

Eugene Burkin, a colored boy of 19 years, who lives over on Chicago's great West side, is the inventor of a rapid-fire machine gun which he claims is the most effective weapon of its kind in the world, and is destined to throw the invention of Maxim and Nordenfeldt, now in general use in the armaments of the world, into the scrap heap. Several experts who have seen the model of Burkin's gun pronounce it a marvel of ingenuity, and a terrible weapon. The boy is said to have refused an offer of $50,000 for his invention through motives of patriotism, he being desirous that the United States government should have the first opportunity to test and purchase the weapon.

Burkin is a source of pride to the colored population of Chicago, who are jubilant that one of their race should develop the creative power. The boy has never had any mechanical training, yet all the work on his model has been his own. The first idea of the weapon came to him during the Spanish-American war, when the magnificent work of the American gunners directed his thoughts to guns and their improvement. He constructed his first model of wood, his only tool being a jack-knife.

The lack of funds then threatened to put a stop to the young inventor's work, but he finally obtained enough money to go into an iron works on the West side, which gave him the use of its tools and machinery for five dollars a day. Here he constructed the model, which he sent to the patent office at Washington, which has already allowed 17 of his claims on the weapon. Prominent men of the colored race are using their influence to induce the war department at Washington to conduct a series of tests with the gun. It has been christened the "Maine."

close of the civil war. While he was yet a child he went to Minnesota with his parents from his native state of New York. He was so impatient to become an editor that he abandoned his studies in Hamlin college to take charge of a newspaper, but left his editorial chair in turn to enlist in the volunteer infantry in 1861. He proved himself a gallant soldier, for he rose from the rank of private to that of major in three years. He fought in all the battles of the army of the Potomac, from which he was transferred in 1865 to the army of the Cumberland. He is very popular in Montana, and has large mining interests in that state.

The Bank of France has an ingenious arrangement by which suspicious visitors can be photographed without their knowledge. Behind the desk of the cashier is a hidden photographic studio, and at a signal from any of the employes of the bank a picture of the suspected customer is instantly taken. The camera is also useful for detecting frauds, an erasure on a check, which may not be visible to the eye, being clearly perceptible in a photograph.

The advertising manager of one of the most successful New York dailies relates his own experience with Ripans Tabules as follows: "I had for some time a trouble with my heart, a sort of palpitation or fluttering that was very annoying. It would occasionally produce a choking sensation that would make me take a long breath. It was very unpleasant and rather painful, too. It was not until I had suffered for a considerable time that I resorted to Ripans Tabules. Their effect was not immediate but gradual. Within a week, however, the fluttering had ceased and I found my health again at its normal point. I took one Tabule after each meal and one before going to bed. I am not taking them now, for I have no present need of them. The nicest thing about the Tabules is that their action is so mild and pleasant, entirely without any of the disagreeable features associated with so many medicines. The need of them is rarely more than temporary and good results are often brought about by even a single one."

WANTED:—A case of bad health that RIPANS will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word RIPANS on the package and accept no substitute. RIPANS, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

ON CANNING AND PRESERVING

SOME TIMELY ADVICE ABOUT PUTTING UP FRUIT FOR WINTER USE.

BY GERTRUDE HALL FORBES.

The warm season brings many discomforts to the energetic housewife, but preserving is that special one which is "the trial" of the season. The average man pities his wife when he sees her preparing for the task before her, but however much sympathy he may offer it is not the half that she deserves.

What wonder that with overripe fruit to combat, with a cross cook to coddle into good nature and the sultry weather itself the wear and tear on the nerves should make the best natured woman a veritable tyrant for the time being.

The man who proudly displays the product of his garden arrayed in glass jars must not object if his wife prides herself on the lines of clear jellies and rich preserves and insists as the season approaches on preserving the same as her mother did before her, to the discomfiture of the family because of a day spent in the hot kitchen.

Many housekeepers do "take it easy" with canning, doing a little at a time, but for the woman who goes into it to accomplish something this method of canning would be insufferably slow and very unsatisfactory. Several reasons present themselves for the justification of the housewife who insists on "making a day of it" when she does begin, a very important reason being that no sooner does the fruit get to the point where it is plentiful and cheap than its prime passes, and she who has not taken advantage of the day regardless of whether it is washing, ironing or cleaning day has missed her chance.

Another reason for such energy is that it is economical to buy large quantities of fruit instead of a few quarts at a time, and again there is something in "getting through" with the work.

That canning has benefited by the advances made in household science must be acknowledged, and today the work is far less laborious than it was a dozen years ago. One of the recent discoveries made is that fruits, such as grapes, strawberries, peaches and raspberries, do not require cooking at all. Converting people to this new fashioned way of canning is a slow process. Simply wash the fruit well in plenty of cold water; then put it into stone jars. Into two gallons of boiling water dissolve an ounce of compound extract of salix, allow the water to cool, then pour it over the fruit so that all is covered. Those who have tried this easy method of canning declare that it is the only correct one, though to those who have not tried it this method seems as though it could never end otherwise than disastrously.

Whatever course is pursued there are some few preparations which must be made. One of the first steps is to see that plenty of jars and glasses have been prepared for the reception of the fruit. All receptacles should be well washed in scalding water and thoroughly rinsed in fresh cold water to remove any odor from previous use.

Old rubbers should never be used in canning, for air is bound to get in, with the result that the fruit soon spoils.

Covers should be carefully fitted and especial care taken to see that the edges do not bend up and away from the glass. Frequently old covers have dents and nicks along the edges. Such covers should never be used where there is the least danger of fermentation. They will answer for jams and jellies.

In filling jars with hot preserves it is necessary to first stand the jars into a pan of cold water on the stove and then gradually bring the water to the boiling point. The covers should also be placed in boiling water before they are screwed on to the jars. In the case of jellies which are not boiling hot a silver spoon placed in the jar will keep it from cracking.

Porcelain lined kettles are the best for preserving. Where these are not conveniently had granite ware will answer, though the others are preferable for the reason that with them there is less danger of scorching. Iron, brass, copper or tin cooking utensils should be avoided.

Daily experiments prove the fallacy of the old recipes which invariably demanded pound for pound of fruit and sugar. For canning the proportion of sugar has been reduced, until now the general rule is six ounces of sugar to a pound of fruit. Of course this is for fruits that are used for pies and like dishes. Strawberries, blackberries, cherries and grapes require only six ounces of sugar. Quinces and rhubarb need about ten ounces, and pineapple requires five ounces or less, accordingly as you prefer it very sweet or only medium sweet. Even in preserving and jelly making old fashioned rules call for more sugar than is really palatable, and the quantity is being reduced every year.

Some persons still insist on first cooking fruits and then packing them in jars. This method involves a great deal of unnecessary labor and is no better than the cold packing process. To cold pack prepare the fruit as you would for cooking and pack into the jars, crowding it down as tightly as possible. Fill the jars with cold water and the necessary amount of sugar. Screw on the tops. Have a wash boiler or some kettle that will serve the same purpose and loosely fit into it a board having a number of perforations in it. Stand the jars on the board, fill the boiler with cold water so that the tops of the jars are under cover, bring gradually to a boil and keep boiling 15 to 40 minutes, according to the nature of the fruit, some requiring more and others less cooking.

Fruit canned in this way will retain its shape. While the jars are still hot the covers should be twisted tightly and again when the fruit is cold. If the rubbers and tops are in good condition, this sort of canning will keep indefinitely. Tomatoes intended for soups and gravies need only to be washed and cut into pieces and then cold packed, but those which are to be used without previously straining should first be blanched, then canned in the same way. Peaches are especially fine when cold packed.

Fruit for jellies should first be carefully washed and then all the imperfections removed. Fruits like apples require a little water to stew in when making jelly. Berries quickly supply their own liquor when heated. Cook until tender. Use a wooden spoon when mashing the fruit and then turn it into a jelly bag.

The quickest way is to press the jelly through the bag, though the clearest jelly is made by allowing it to drip through of itself. This requires about 24 hours. If the first method is followed, care must be taken not to press any of the pulp through the bag to cloud the jelly.

Measure the juice. For currant jelly allow three-fourths of a pound of sugar to each pint of juice. The sugar should be heated in the oven and then added to the juice after it has been boiling 20 minutes. After the sugar has been added boil until it jellies. Test by dropping a little on a cold saucer. When the jelly has been made and poured into glasses, it should be placed in the sun and allowed to remain there a couple of days to dry. A cover must be put over it to protect it from the dust. Some cooks place a piece of paraffin on the jelly while it is still hot, which spreads out over the top and hardens into a covering. The same paraffin may be used repeatedly season after season. Another way is to cover with a piece of paper cut to fit the glass, the paper wet with alcohol and then sealed securely from the air.

Only very ripe fruit should be selected for marmalade. Fruits that have cores should be cut into pieces. Place in a kettle with just enough water to cover the bottom and stew until tender. Put the fruit through a sieve to remove the skins and pits, add the sugar and boil fully half an hour longer, stirring constantly. Just before removing from the stove add any desired spices. When cold, marmalade should be stiff enough to stand by itself.

The finest specimens of all fruits should be canned or preserved. Those which are not so good will answer for marmalade, and the pits and parings make fine jelly.

Use only the best white sugar. Put the fruits into tumblers or small jars and thus avoid disturbing a larger quantity than is required.

COACHMEN'S BADGES.

Immunities Secured by Them to Drivers for Foreign Officials at Washington.

The decision of our state department to supply the coachmen connected with the various embassies and legations in Washington with badges, is connected with the principle known in the law of nations as "diplomatic immunities." A foreign minister, with his family and his suite, possesses many immunities and privileges not possessed by the ordinary citizens of the country to which he is sent. He cannot be arrested for a criminal offense, or sued for debt; he pays no duty on the household goods which he brings with him; and he cannot be compelled to testify in court, although sometimes, in the interest of justice, foreign ministers have waived that privilege, says Youth's Companion.

It has often happened in Washington that coachmen attached to the foreign embassies and legations have half-unwittingly violated some police regulation of the city, such as that requiring them to drive on the right-hand side of the street, or to carry suitable lights after dark. When the Washington policeman made an arrest, "diplomatic immunity" would be appealed to, and the offender in consequence would be allowed to go in peace.

Such occurrences have so stimulated the imitative faculty of other coachmen that they have been known, when apprehended for violating some petty regulation, to claim that they were "immunes," too. The badges have been adopted to prevent the possibility of this deception.

A celebrated case of diplomatic immunity occurred in Washington in 1856. The Dutch minister, it seems, was an essential witness in a case of murder; he refused to go into court, although he was willing to make a deposition on oath. As this would have been unavailing, his offer, after some international correspondence, was declined. At the trial of Guiteau, on the other hand, the Venezuelan minister willingly appeared in open court and gave his testimony.

As a rule, diplomatic immunities do not interfere much with the course of justice, or greatly affect municipal regulations. Every self-respecting foreign minister realizes that he is a guest of the nation, and that he should reciprocate for the special privileges he receives by deporting himself as such. In case he wholly fails to do this, the United States government may ask for his recall.

Sunshine and Influenza.

In view of the known bactericidal influence of sunlight it would not be surprising, says the Philadelphia Medical Journal, to learn that an inverse relation exists between the amount of sunshine and the prevalence of infectious diseases, providing, however, the temperature is not excessive. Some observations recorded by Ruheman appear to indicate that influenza is more prevalent when the amount of sunshine is less, and it is not impossible that a similar rule would be found to apply to other infectious diseases also. In the eight years from 1883 to 1900 the number of hours of sunshine during the month of January, when influenza was exceedingly prevalent was between 9.8 in 1900, and 62.3 in 1899—the mean being 36.4. A similar state of affairs was observed in Magdeburg, where from 1882 to 1900 the number of hours of sunshine varied during the same month between 19 in 1900 and 86.3 in 1883. Similar figures were obtained in observations made in other cities of Germany.

SHOUP WAS CRAFTY.

How the Idaho Senator Once Captured an Army of Apaches.

Rare Courage and Tactical Skill Displayed at a Moment When Defeat and Death Seemed Inevitable.

[Special Washington Letter.]

"KEEP your eye on Senator Shoup and see where he takes his seat in the senate restaurant," said Senator Davis, of Minnesota.

This suggestion was made in private conversation, and Senator Davis would give no explanation of his reason for exciting the curiosity of the writer. He is a very warm personal friend of the Idaho statesman; and, of course, it was understood that there was something humorous or interesting in the idea put forth.

After several days of observation it became apparent that Senator Shoup would not take a seat at lunch time in the senate restaurant unless he could sit facing the door. If the tables were occupied so that he could not sit facing the door he would go out, walk about, talking with friends, and await an opportunity to secure a seat facing the door. Finally one evening when alone with him the writer told of the suggestion of Senator Davis, and the subsequent observations, and the grand old man smiled as he said: "It is a peculiar habit, and I did not suppose that anybody noticed it. Of course there is no danger here, but for almost 20 years I was obliged to sit facing the door with my revolvers on the side of my plate, in order to be ready for trouble; and the habit stays with me. I always feel more comfortable when face the door while I am eating."

This brings about a revelation concerning the history of a remarkable man. Senator Shoup was for many years one of the bravest and most active of all the government scouts on the far western frontier. One celebrated scout and Indian fighter has traveled all over the world, giving exhibitions of frontier life; and he gives a realistic demonstration of his knife combat with an Indian chief, in which he came out victorious. But Senator had 11 knife combats with Indians, and the fact is known to but few.

The quiet old man never talks of his prowess, nor of his services to the government. His daily life manifests the sagacity and wisdom of the poet who wrote:

"The bravest are the tenderest,
The loving are the daring."

Senator Shoup is now in the sixty-fourth year of his age. He is about five feet ten inches in height, broad-shouldered, muscular, light of step, and with alert eyes. His smooth shaven face is strong, but gentle, and he is as mild of manner as a schoolboy. But those who know him well realize that his firm set jaws indicate the determination of character which has made him famous and beloved in the intermountain region. Moreover, he is a philanthropist who loves to help those who seem disposed to help themselves.

FACING THE DOOR.

His brother "Jim" was here visiting for a few weeks, and one evening the writer asked: "Is Jim your only brother?"

There came a stern look on the gentle face as he replied: "Yes, 'Jim' is my only living brother. I had another brother once, but he was assassinated by Mexican bandits. When we found him his hands were all cut to pieces, showing that they had attacked him when he was unarmed. It took some time to put them all under ground, but those bandits did not live to tell the story of their crime. The head of their chief is now in alcohol in a glass jar in a city of New Mexico."

If Gen. Custer had been possessed of the tact and diplomacy which Senator Shoup once displayed he might not have met with such a tragic fate at the hands of the Sioux. When he was a lieutenant in the army, on one occasion, he had an experience similar to that of Custer, but he came out of it alive, and in triumph. He ran across a large Indian village, but saved himself and his command and captured the enemy. Ex-Senator Sanders, of Montana, himself one of the bravest of the brave frontiersmen, told the story several times, and the writer one evening induced Senator Shoup to tell the story in detail. He is not now here, and I cannot give the exact date, but it was about 1870; or between 1870 and 1875. It was one of the most thrilling of experiences. Senator Shoup said:

"It was reported at the fort that three emigrant wagons had been waylaid on the Cimarron river, their camp destroyed, the wagons burned, and the people killed or made prisoners. I was detailed to bring in the marauders. I was given 58 picked men, and a sergeant. I selected good men; and the sergeant was a veteran fit to command a company. We were to bring in the marauders who had committed the crime, and to bring back their booty; also the prisoners, if they were still alive.

"We soon reached the scene. The Indians had scattered in all directions. Their trails looked like the points of a star, radiating from that spot. I paid no attention to that, but told my guide to lead to the next watering place, to the southwest. We reached that place the next day. The Indians had been there, had watered their horses, and cooked their food; and had scattered out in all directions again. That is an old Indian trick, to prevent the soldiers from following their trail or to cause delay in following them.

"Paying no attention to that delusion, I pushed southwestward into the Apache country. We had been out from the fort five days, without coming up with the Indians, although we were on the right trail. On the morning of the sixth day, as we came over the brow of a hill, we saw before us an Apache camp of about 1,500. As soon as we saw them they saw us. Immediately the Indian runners were seen mounting and rushing out to call in the braves. There was no doubt that they would attack us, and massacre all of us, if they could; and of course they were numerous enough to do it. The men all knew that as well as I did. But they were game men, and I had perfect confidence in them. Fortunately they also had confidence in me.

"I took my troop to the top of the highest hill on the plateau and formed them into a hollow square. I told them that we must all die game, if it came to a fight; and that whoever surrendered would be tortured to death. They all knew that, too. I told the men, however, that if I could get a parley with the head chief I believed that we could get out of the scrape. Remember, we were five days away from the fort, and reenforcements could not be expected.

"Within half an hour about 400 Apaches came charging down upon us. I told my sergeant that if I got a parley the men were to stand immovable until I raised my sword. At that signal every rifle on the file facing the chief was to be leveled at the chief. And that if I waved my sword the men were to begin firing at the chief and his sub-chiefs.

"Then I rode forth to meet the painted yelling savages. I waved my handkerchief, indicating that I wanted a parley. The old chief, who seemed to know that he had a sure thing anyway, halted his band, and came forward with four sub-chiefs, to parley with me. He said that I was on his ground, in his country, and he intended to kill or capture me and all of my men. I made my interpreter talk fast, and explain to him that I was an officers under orders to bring in those marauders, and that I meant no offense to him or his sovereignty, but hoped that he would see that I was simply obeying orders. I was standing beside my horse, with my left hand on the pommel of the saddle. In those days it was easy for me to jump into the saddle. The old chief sneered, and said that he would make no terms except surrender with me. Then I drew my sword, and said:

"'You see the rifles aimed at you. If I wave my sword, my men will kill you and your sub-chiefs before your men can fire a shot. I will not surrender, but you must. You and your sub-chiefs must walk inside my hollow square.'

"They do so; but I made them drop their blankets and guns before they reached my line. Then the old chief, under my orders, sent word that the marauders must be brought in. The Indians were amazed, but they did as he commanded. It took us seven days, hard marching, to get back to the fort. But we brought in the marauders, and 1,100 Indians came with us. Of course we were guarding the old chief and his sub-chiefs all the time, and kept them under the aim of guns all the time. Nevertheless, we had our hours for sleep, as well as for guard duty. The marauders were properly dealt with; but the old chief, the sub-chiefs and all of the Apaches who followed us back to the fort were given a barbecue and lots of presents, and we never had any trouble with them afterwards."

There is a story of heroism, courage and tactical skill, modestly told by one of the bravest and best men that ever faced a foe. The gallant Custer rushed right into an Indian village and suffered death with his command. Shoup, the frontiersman, captured the whole Indian contingent. And yet few people in Washington know that Idaho's grand old man lived such a life of daring, and accomplished such an achievement of military skill and prowess.

BILLS IN CONGRESS.

But Few of the Thousands Introduced Receive Consideration.

In Spite of Temptation the Majority of Our Public Men Are Honest —The Fate of Private Pension Bills.

[Special Washington Letter.]

DURING the first session of the Fifty-sixth congress the senators and representatives have introduced bills to the number of 15,000; and, exclusive of private pension bills, less than 200 of the 15,000 have become laws.

The congress has expended in printer's ink alone, uselessly, about $5,000, in the printing of bills. When a member of congress thinks that he is thinking and believes that he is legislating, or supposes that he is playing politics, he prepares a bill on some subject, and introduces it. According to the rules of the senate and house of representatives every bill thus introduced must be sent to the government printing office, and 100 copies of it printed, "for the use of congress," although nobody in either the senate or house of representatives cares about it, or sees it, except the individual who introduces it.

Of course, a rich and prosperous country can afford to spend $5,000 uselessly, just as millionaires can afford to throw away tens of thousands; but the sum mentioned is merely used as a sample of congressional wastefulness in many ways. When you multiply $5,000 a hundred times, or a thousand times, you will see that extravagance runs into prodigality, and prodigality runs into wastefulness.

But that is a subject for another story. At present, aside from mentioning the useless printing of worthless bills, let us look only at the fate of those bills. The congressmen send copies of their bills to the chairmen of their county committees, and write letters to them, telling what great things they are hoping to accomplish for the good of "the dear people," when, as a matter of fact, all of them know that the printed bills which they send out will never become laws. They are just so much cheap political claptrap to delude the sovereigns of the soil into believing their congressman is the hardest working member of the body of assembled statesmen (?) in the national capital.

For example, John Smith, of Chicago; James Jones, of Des Moines;

INTRODUCING A BILL.

John Doe, of Milwaukee, and Richard Roe, of St. Paul, want pensions. Their congressmen introduce bills in their behalf. Take the case of John Smith, of Chicago. He receives from his congressman four or five copies of the bill introduced in his behalf, also a letter saying: "I shall appear before the committee on pensions, and shall do my best to secure a favorable report on your bill."

Now innocent John Smith, who does not know how legislation is carried on, believes that he is on the highway of success. He shows copies of the bill to old soldiers, and also shows them the letter from the congressman, who has honored him by writing to him. He spreads the word around that the congressman is just hustling for him and for all old soldiers all the time.

But, as a matter of fact, after having introduced the bill, sent copies to John Smith, and signed a dictated letter, the congressman straightway forgets all about John Smith and his bill, and it is never heard of afterwards. The clerk of the committee on pensions files away a copy of the bill, makes note of its existence in his record, and he also forgets all about it. John Smith has no more show of getting a pension than he had before the bill was introduced. There is nothing in it but delusion.

But some old soldiers are not satisfied with the introduction of a bill and a sweet letter from a congressman. They get their Grand Army posts interested. They get the politicians interested. They fire scores of letters at their congressman until he awakens to the fact, or belief, that unless that particular bill receives favorable consideration there will be a fire kindled out home which will affect his renomination. Then the congressman goes to the committee on pensions, calls up the bill, makes a plea for its consideration, gets a favorable report upon it, and has it placed upon the calendar of the house. Now the bill has some show. Now the congressman can call it up in the house, explain it on "pension day" to the house of representatives, and, if it is really meritorious, he can secure its passage. But even after the bill has been favorably reported the congressman will be likely to forget all about it, unless the old soldier and his friends continue to write letters demanding action.

Included in the 15,000 bills introduced there is one bill which includes 804 claims against the government. There are many thousands of claims of individuals, involving millions of dollars, which the government will never pay. Out of these thousands the senate committee on claims collated 804 which were believed to be just and reasonable. They are all embodied in one bill providing for the payment of a total of $1,841,563.17, and they all relate to alleged injuries done to the claimants by federal troops during the civil war. This bill, involving so much money and apparently purporting to do justice to so many individuals, although favorably reported by the senate, will not become a law. Thus 804 anxious people will be disappointed. But the claim agents, attorneys and lobbyists, who have a 25 per cent. interest in the claims, will be the most unhappy of all.

Now about lobbyists. Usually the people regard lobbyists as corruptionists; and they used to be. But that is practically a thing of the past. The lobbyists of the present day (that is, those who are successful) are reputable gentlemen who act as attorneys for claimaints before congress. They usually charge 25 per cent. for their services. For example, if you have a claim of $1,000 against the government, you must pay $250 to your attorney, provided he gets an appropriation for you. That seems extortion, but it is not. There were 15,000 bills introduced in this congress, and less than 200 have become laws. The lobbyists, or attorneys, who persistently insist upon consideration of bills, and secure recognition, are obliged to live somewhat extravagantly, in order to maintain a proper standing on Capitol hill, and $250 is not much to pay a man who can secure $750 for you, when, otherwise, you would get nothing and receive no consideration whatever. If your claim happens to be $100,000, the lobbyist, or attorney, would get $25,000; and that seems like a big fee. But without some one representing you diligently and faithfully you might get nothing, whereas, by his efforts, you get the sum of $75,000.

Of course, if all congressmen would attend faithfully to their duties, there would be no necessity for the employment of attorneys in claims cases. But congressmen are not perfect men; far from it. The parliament of Great Britain for many years has authorized and recognized lobbyists, and they are attorneys of record.

In matters of national legislation lobbyists are sometimes corruptly employed, although they are properly employed in private legislation. When corporations desire contracts for naval armaments, for military supplies, and for river and harbor improvements, they give large fees to individuals who seem to be able to influence certain congressmen occupying commanding positions. By this means it frequently, almost annually, happens that many thousands of dollars are appropriated which ought not to be appropriated. One lobbyist last year showed me a check for $17,500 for his services two weeks after the naval appropriation bill has been passed. It is within my personal knowledge that he was formerly a lobbyist partner with a man who is now a prominent member of congress; and it is a well-founded suspicion that the congressman corruptly used his official position to secure a certain appropriation in the naval bill, which brought forth that large fee; which, of course, the lobbyist divided with the congressman.

There is national legislation, and there is special legislation. National legislation occupies the attention of the congress to the exclusion of private legislation. The principal work of the congress in national legislation is to provide ways and means for raising revenues for the expenses of the government, and that work is primarily done by the house committee on ways and means and the senate committee on finance; and, secondly, for the disbursement of the government moneys, and that work devolves upon the senate and house committees on approriations. The reports of those committees receive consideration in precedence over all other committees, and their work constitutes the most important that the congress annually transacts for the general welfare.

Although there are constantly discernible persistent efforts on the part of self-seeking persons to pluck the public treasury, it may be truthfully stated that national legislation is practically clean and honorable, and that private legislation receives careful and critical attention. In short, the vast majority of public men are honest and honorable. The shysters and corruptionists are the exception rather than the rule.

SPORTING.

GOLF

The crack Newark A. C. golf team will play the Hillside team in this city next Saturday afternoon. A close game is looked for.

On Saturday, July 21st, the Glen Ridge golf team will contest with the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club team on the course of the latter.

There are a number of the players of the Park Golf Club who are absent from Plainfield but for a short time during the summer and, for their benefit, the season at that club will continue through the summer months.

There will be no cessation of the weekly competitions for the president's cup or the green committee challenge trophy. Saturday afternoon will be the last opportunity for the ladies of the club to contest for the Hooley cup until September.

The excellent showing that Morgan T. Townsend has made this season on the links of the Park Golf Club put him at the top of the list of players in that club. He is now in the lead for the president's cup and the green committee challenge trophy and, with the exception of those made by Expert Blair, has made the lowest scores of the season.

It is undoubtedly true that the absence of Frank Talmage and Frank Reinhart, as well as Willard Wadsworth, A. R. Fisk and C. W. Fisk was much felt last Saturday by the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club team, and accounted in a large measure for defeat. Messrs. Talmage and Reinhart played with their own team, St. Paul, and were responsible in a great degree for the defeat of the home team.

The departure of Fred P. Taylor to Boston will be greatly regretted by the members of the Park Golf Club. Taylor was one of the most enthusiastic players of the club and made an excellent showing. He played from scratch and was a formidable rival to Morgan T. Townsend in the race for club championship honors. Taylor was also a member of the green committee, where he did excellent service under the direction of the chairman.

Most of the best professionals will advise an amateur to stick to the stance and grip that comes most natural. No two "pros" address the ball just alike, nor do they have exactly the same grip. There are, of course, ways of gripping and addressing the ball which are conducive to either a pull or a slice, but these should only be attempted on rare occasions. Let the player learn the art of following through his ball and he will find that both distance and direction will be gained.

There are a number of new things at the Park Golf Club course. A number of signs have been placed about the course marking the water hazards and limiting the bounds to them. The boundary line to the course in several places has been noted. Little metal flags, showing the distance from the teeing ground have been placed at fifty yard intervals on the fair green. New score cards, on which are to be found the ground rules and the "bogey" score, have just been put in use.

Next Saturday will be the last opportunity for the fair golfers of the Park Golf Club to contest for the Hooley cup until September. Last year, when the ladies tried for the Buttfield cup, the weekly competitions were continued right through the summer. So many of the players were absent that those who were home had an easy thing of it. The conditions this year have been changed so that the play will continue up to July 14th and then discontinue until September. Miss Saidee Mae Howell is now well in the lead for the trophy and unless some of the others make a strong brace, she is likely to win the trophy.

ON THE DIAMOND

Charles Smith, formerly pitcher on the Arions, has taken a place on the Clinton Avenue nine and will play with them the remainder of the season.

Warren MacLaughlin is the first Plainfield boy to make his successful appearance in a National League game. MacLaughlin has played ball ever since he was old enough to toddle about and it has always been his favorite sport. He played with the local teams until some of the larger semi-professional organizations heard of his good work and engaged him. Until he secured his position with the Philadelphias he has been playing with a Hoboken team, where his pitching was highly commended. MacLaughlin is a careful, speedy pitcher, keeps his head wonderfully well and is considered an excellent batter. He is a quiet young man and not at all given to boasting of his achievements. His present position with the Phillies was secured through a Brooklyn pitcher, who vouched for the young Plainfielder's good work in the box.

ROD AND GUN.

Forty-five weak fish fell victims to the skillfull angling of Eugene O'Reilly, James Day and William Messler at Raritan Bay yesterday afternoon. Patrick Muldoon was also with the party, but was unable to fish, being kept busy preparing bait and stringing those captured by the others.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Douglass Darby, of Willow Grove, has entered his horse in the races to be held at New Brunswick this week.

It is not likely that for the present there will be any racing to speak of at the Plainfield Driving Club track, as most of the horses will enter other races in this vicinity.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Horace Martin, Jr., of Jackson avenue, has been engaged by G. S. Kenyon, the West Front street bicycle dealer, to take charge of his repair shop. Mr. Martin is an experienced man at the business and he will no doubt give satisfaction.

CRUSHED BY HAY FORK.

Farmer Walked to Depot in Spite of His Fatal Injuries.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Lambertville, July 11.—William S. Holcombe, who farms the Blackwell farm just above this city, met with a probably fatal accident yesterday.

He was unloading hay from a wagon with a traveling fork, when the rope broke and the heavy fork came down, striking him on the head and face. His whole face was crushed in and a large hole made in his forehead, forcing a piece of bone into the brain.

In this condition he managed to walk to the depot with Dr. Larison, and was taken to the Mercer Hospital at Trenton. There is no hope of his recovery.

Mr. Barrows Out of Politics.

The monthly meeting of the Republican city executive committee was held last evening. The attendance was small. The resignation of Elliot T. Barrows was received. Mr. Barrows had been advised by his physician to give up all active participation in politics.

The resignation was accepted with regret. Robert Rushmore and William T. Kirk were elected to membership in the committee to fill the vacancies caused by the resignations of Alex. Gilbert and Mr. Barrows.

Slipped and Fell Under a Train.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, July 11—Thomas Dussy, of Trenton, had one of his legs badly mangled at the Jersey Central station here at 12:40 Monday night while trying to board the owl train for Philadelphia. He was late in reaching the depot, and the train was pulling out. He slipped and fell in jumping on the car step. He was taken to the Elizabeth General Hospital, where his leg was amputated at the thigh. He is very weak and in a critical condition.

COULDN'T CONTROL CYCLE.

As a Result a Little Girl was Thrown and Her Wrist Run Over by Brewery Wagon.

Yesterday about noon Hazel VanSyckle, aged 12 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William VanSyckle, of East Third street, was riding her father's wheel in front of the house. About the same time one of Ballentine & Co.'s wagons came along and the two collided. The girl was thrown from the wheel and one of the wheels of the wagon passed over her wrist causing her to scream. The pain was intense and at first it was thought that the wrist was broken. The driver jumped quickly from his wagon and carried the girl in the house, where an examination was made. No bones were broken and the injury was not serious.

No blame is attached to the driver on the wagon, as it was clearly proven that the girl's wheel was not under perfect control and she was a trifle careless in riding. The wheel was not damaged, and fortunately the girl suffered no serious injury.

TO PUT IN GOOD ORDER.

First Baptist Church Trustees Intend to Improve Evergreen Cemetery.

The First Baptist church trustees are now making an extra effort to put Evergreen cemetery on Plainfield avenue in good condition, and they would like to have the co-operation of all persons who own plots there or who have friends or relatives interred at that place. Thomas Morcom is in constant attendance at the cemetery, occupying the residence at the cemetery, and he will devote much of his time to putting the cemetery in good condition.

For a few years past this matter has been neglected for some reason or other, but the officers of the church are now desirous of fixing the place so as to make it as attractive as possible, and improvements will be made constantly. The cemetery is open from 7 a. m., to 7 p. m., and all loungers or persons disposed to steal flowers or desecrate graves will be kept out. Already quite a change for the better has taken place at the cemetery and more people visit there than formally.

SPITE FENCE STILL STANDS.

Elizabeth Board of Health Takes no Steps to Remove It.

No action has yet been taken by the Elizabeth Board of Health as to the spite fence erected on East Grand street, that city, by Henry Meyer between his house and that of H. U. Beebe, his neighbor, and which physicians assert has caused an outbreak of malignant diphtheria in a family living on the top floor of Beebe's house.

It is doubtful if the Board can order its removal unless it can clearly prove it is a source of disease. Meyer says he is prepared to test the issue in the courts.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JULY 12, 1900. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

KEAN WILL BE ABLE TO EXTEND TROLLEY.

Board of Freeholders Decide to Widen Westfield Avenue to Cranford.

PAYMENT FOR FRANCHISE.

WILL PAY INTEREST ON ALL EXPENSES OVER $73,000.

The Payments to Continue for Ten Years, Providing They Do Not Exceed $10,000 a Year—To Start Work at Once.

The Union county Board of Freeholders have granted to the Elizabeth City Railroad Company permission to extend its route from Orchard street in Elizabeth to the Cranford line, and accepted Senator Kean's offer of $73,000 to be used for the paying of damages assessed on property to be acquired for widening Westfield avenue and for the completion of the improvement. In addition to this amount Senator Kean's company agrees to pay 5 per cent. interest for ten years on all the expense in excess of $73,000 to the extent of $10,000.

This latter concession was made to the county road committee since the last meeting of the board, and it was the only addition made to the proposition, which had been referred to the committee.

Freeholder King presented the report of the county road committee, which recommended that Senator Kean and his company should be released from all that part of the contract made August, 1898, except for the section east of the Cranford line, and including the distance to this city and through Orchard street to Morris avenue. The report sets forth that the commissioners' report will show it to be impracticable to extend the improvement beyond Cranford. It was, therefore, recommended that Senator Kean's proposition be accepted and permission be given for the construction of the railroad, the time for the payment of the $73,000 to be extended until July 1, 1901.

Freeholder Farrell moved that the report of the committee be adopted, and after a brief discussion the motion was carried unanimously.

Freeholder Woodruff asked why the committee had not asked for interest on the probable excess of expense beyond $10,000. He thought the limit should be at least $20,000. No one could tell how much above $73,000 the improvement would cost. The commissioners have not reported, and it may be all property owners will not be satisfied with the awards, and there will be many lawsuits.

Freeholder Farrell said the committee had gone over all these possibilities and had estimates from the county engineers. The highest estimate showed that the cost for grading, moving of buildings, etc., would not exceed $10,000.

Freeholder Robison asked if the committee had any positive knowledge of how much the commissioners' awards will aggregate, and the possibility of the awards being accepted.

County Attorney Codington said he had been with the commissioners from the beginning, but was not in position to say exactly what the total of awards would be. He could say, however, that the proposition before the Board was a safe one. The commissioners have agreed upon awards which will be satisfactory except possibly in one or two instances. Most of the large property owners had donated their lands, and others know the awards and are satisfied. Judge Gilhooly, who represented many of the property owners, could speak for them.

Judge Gilhooly was invited to speak, and he said he represented a large number of the land owners. While they did not all get what they thought they ought to have, they are satisfied and will make no objections to the commissioners' awards. This he knew to be true in case of others not represented by him, and he believed there was a desire to have the improvement made at once. THE BOROUGH BOARD OF HEALTH CLASHES WITH SCHOOL TRUSTEES

Trouble Over the Use of Closets in School Building Which are Said to be Unhealthy.

The Board of Health, acting under instructions from the State Board of Health, have determined that the style of closet that is now installed in the Watchung Public School in the borough, is not sanitary and that its use will have to be discontinued next fall when school opens. This same style of closet has been used in various schools throughout the State, and in every instance Boards of Health have caused their discontinuance.

The Borough Board has been considering this matter for sometime past, and on several occasions they informed the Board of Education that they would like to be present at the school when the system of burning was in progress, but no attention was paid to the matter. They claim that they have repeatedly attempted to be present at these times and have failed. It was rumored that a similar system was intended for the Somerset street school, and the Board of Health made haste to learn the true state of affairs. They were informed that a different system would be used in the latter school, one that would meet with the approval of the Board of Health.

The Board of Health will probably meet in the near future and take definite official action concerning the closet in the Watchung School, and order the Board of Education to remove it and in its place put one that is in every respect sanitary. Those who have seen the closet and know the system thoroughly claim that it does not work satisfactorily and is very unhealthy in every way. It was in this way that the attention of the Board of Health was called to the matter and led to take action concerning its continued use.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Education it was stated that a different system would be used for the Somerset street school, thereby acknowledging that the system in the other school is not sanitary and what it should be. However, the Board of Health is somewhat incensed at the action of the Board of Education in ignoring their request and thereby refusing to assist them in securing the very best system and protecting the health of teachers as well as the scholars. A letter from the State Board of Health to the borough Board was very strong and explicit on the subject and the necessary action will without a doubt be taken in due time.

NO "GOVERNOR'S DAY."

General Cooper Will Review Second Regiment Saturday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Sea Girt, July 12.—There will be no "Governor's Day" nor formal review of the guardsmen at Sea Girt by Governor Voorhees this year.

It has been the custom heretofore for the Governor to review the guardsmen at stated time, but the incumbent of the executive chair has announced his intention of departing from the practice.

Instead, he has asked General Cooper, of Camden, to review the soldiers next Saturday when both the Second Third Regiments will be in camp at Sea Girt.

The Second Regiment will gather up its belongings Saturday morning, preparatory to its departure for home in the evening, while the Third Regiment will arrive during the day and begin its week's encampment.

It will be the first time that the two regiments composing the Second Brigade will have been together, and as General Cooper commands the brigade he will no doubt feel it incumbent upon him to review it.

THOUSAND GO TO THE SHORE FOR THE DAY.

First Excursion of the Season Was That of First Baptist Sunday-school Scholars.

TWENTY-FOUR CARS USED.

ONE WOMAN WHO WAS LATE NEARLY THROWN UNDER CARS.

Second Section of the Excursion Was Mostly Made up of Colored People—Fine Day for the Excursionists.

The population of city and borough is a thousand less for the day. These same thousand people departed early this morning for the seashore on the first of the series of day excursions to Asbury Park that have been a regular feature of the summer season in Plainfield for many years. This morning's excursion was under the charge of the Sunday-schools of the First Baptist church and its chapels, Mt. Olive church and the East Third Street chapel. Twenty-four cars, divided into two sections, were provided to transport the excursionists.

Early in the morning, long before the time for starting, the crowd began to flock stationward. It was the same crowd that turns out for the day at the seaside every year, white gowns and outing suits galore, all bright and enthusiastic with anticipation over the prospect of enjoying the pleasures which Asbury Park offers. There was the regular scramble for seats as if there was any danger of getting left and the continual wonderment at why the train did not start.

The first section stood on the east bound freight track and its eleven passenger coaches and one baggage car filled up very quickly. When the 7:51 and the 7:55 trains came in, there was a wild scurrying in front of the approaching locomotives. As soon as the 7:55 express was well started, the excursion train began to move.

As the train was rapidly getting under good headway a young woman made a rush across the tracks and, before anyone could reach her, grasped the rear hand rail to one of the passing cars. She was swung around between the cars with force. She clung to the rail, and being possessed of a fair amount of muscle dragged herself up on the platform. Meanwhile the crowd held their breath, with the expectation of seeing her ground up beneath the wheels.

The colored congregation of the Mt. Olive Baptist church was out en-masse. Those who couldn't go came down to see their luckier friends off. Most of the second section was devoted to the colored brethren and sisters. Eight out of the twelve cars of the second section were filled and the remainder were dropped off at Roselle.

Buildings of Westfield Fresh-Air Camp Were in Danger of Destruction by Fire.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, July 12.—The buildings of the Westfield Fresh-Air camp had a narrow escape from destruction by fire yesterday morning. The stove pipe runs through the roof of the kitchen without any metal to protect the woodwork. The woodwork caught fire and was blazing nicely when first discovered. The women in the camp organized a bucket brigade and succeeded in extinguishing the flames before much damage was done. Had the kitchen gotten well under way it would have been impossible to save the rest of the buildings.

The Driver at Fault.

Little Miss Hazel VanSickle was not at fault in the collision between her and Ballentine's delivery wagon on Tuesday. Hazel was on her wheel and on the right side of the street and as the driver was approaching her from an opposite direction he pulled the wrong rein on his team and Hazel was run down and thrown from her wheel, injuring one of her arms quite badly. It was a narrow escape from a serious accident, for had the loaded delivery wagon run over her head or body her life would have been crushed out of her.

G. O. P. BANNER UP.

Messrs. Clark and Runyon Stole a March on Republican Committee in the Borough.

Great was the surprise of the borough Republicans last evening when passing up Somerset street, opposite H. N. Spencer's, they beheld the Stars and Stripes floating in the breeze with the names of the Republican nominees. As the Republican club had intended stringing a banner at the same place they wondered where the flag came from and who had put it up. They found out later that a march had been stolen on them by Robert M. Clark and Isaac P. Runyon, who, with the assistance of Herbert Chamberlain, the expert climber, had quietly placed it in position about 9 o'clock last evening. It was done without the knowledge even of Mr. Spencer, in front of whose place it floats.

The flag, which is a very pretty one, was donated by Clerk of Chancery L. A. Thompson, who left its selection to Messrs. Runyon and Clark, who concluded this one was just a good size and purchased it.

At the conclusion of the flag raising the erectors secured permission from Mr. Spencer to use his hall and a pleasant time was had in listening to songs by Robert and Edward Clark and recitations by Mr. Randolph and others.

TRAIN WRECKED FOR MALICE OR PLUNDER.

Baltimore and Ohio Express Encounters "Split Switch" Near Philadelphia.

TWO CARS DEMOLISHED.

NO PERSONS KILLED AND NO ATTEMPT AT OBTAINING PLUNDER.

Not Much Money on Board—Crime May Have Been Committed by Discharged Employes of the Railroad in Spirit of Revenge.

The Chicago Express on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad rushed at full speed at 3 o'clock yesterday morning upon a "split switch," near Holmes Station, eight miles south of Philadelphia. The switch had been tampered with by wreckers. The train passes through Plainfield about 4:30 a. m.

Though five seconds later two cars of the train were demolished, there was no loss of life. The engine-driver, Snyder; the fireman, McDevitt, and the mail clerk, Stevens, narrowly escaped death. More than one hundred passengers, most of them asleep, and the train, express and postal employes experienced a shaking up, but nothing worse.

There has been an impression that some of the through night trains on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad carry large quantities of gold to the United States Assay Office in New York. Whether in the belief that this train was laden with bullion robbers deliberately wrecked it or whether revenge on the part of discharged employes of the company was the motive are problems upon which detectives are now at work.

Mr. Rusk, agent of the United States Express Company, said today there was not bullion on the wrecked train, nor any large quantity of money. "There may have been $5,000 or so locked up in the safe," said Mr. Rusk, "but I am certain there was not much more. We never transport bullion in large quantities on night trains. Our loss is less than $100."

All the circumstances attending the wrecking of the express strengthen the belief that it was the work of men having the knowledge of railroading. The switch is controlled by a lever, on which is a heavy iron ball, and the lever is fastened by a pin and chain.

By throwing the ball so that it would be perpendicular it would result in what is known among railroad men as a "split switch," and would neither admit an incoming train to the siding nor permit it to keep the main track. If experienced railroad men had endeavored to derail the express in the manner that would result in the least possible loss of human life they could have devised no better plan.

Instead of being hurled from the track instantly the locomotive passed, perhaps a dozen feet as the rails gradually diverged before it left the steel. Then it dropped to the ties and ran 150 feet more, all the time losing momentum until it was thrown upon its side, and the telescoping of the cars resulted. The signal lights had been torn from the switch and tossed into a hay field.

The train, which left Baltimore at midnight, was made up of one mail, five express, two day cars and two Pullman sleepers. The two express cars which were demolished were those immediately in the rear of the engine tender.

If robbery was the purpose in derailing the train there was no attempt to carry it out. No suspicious persons were on the scene immediately after the wrecking. Detectives are searching for three young men, shabbily dressed, who were seen loitering around the swith last evening. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company today offered a reward of $500 for the conviction of the person or persons who caused the accident.

PORTO RICAN CONDITIONS.

Immigration Should Be Discouraged. Population Dense.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Roman Dobler, the immigrant inspector recently sent by Commissioner Powderly to examine into the condition of the Porto Rican laboring classes, has submitted his report, in which he says:

"I would respectfully report that, owing to the conditions that prevail in Porto Rico, all immigration of the laboring classes be discouraged and that the undesirable inhabitants of adjacent islands be, as far as possible, prohibited from going to Porto Rico. Strenuous measures should be used to ascertain the number of these islanders, who are typical birds of prey, as, in fact, they are birds of passage. They are consumers, not producers. The population of Porto Rico, as is well known, is already dense, and measures should be used to elevate its character rather than to introduce a new element. The process of assimilation under the most favorable circumstances will be slow and tedious.

"I would recommend further that a commission of immigration be appointed and that two immigrant inspectors, with stations at San Juan and Ponce, also be designated. These, with the aid of an interpreter, could do much to do away with the evils now prevalent. Owing to the great similarity in the personal appearance of the West Indian islanders and the Porto Ricans it will require that a constant supervision be exercised. The commissioner, with headquarters at either San Juan or Ponce, could be in close touch with both the northern and southern sides of the island and could have a general survey of the whole field."

Nearly all of the immigrants, it is said, come from the adjacent islands.

THREE STATE CONVENTIONS.

Populists, Democrats and Silver Republicans Meet In Lincoln, Neb.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 12.—Three fusion state conventions, the Populist, Democratic and Silver Republican, met here yesterday to nominate a full state ticket.

The Populist state convention was called to order by State Chairman Edmiston with over 1,200 delegates present. In his address Chairman Edmiston urged that the delegates work in unity in the interests of the reform forces. His reference to W. J. Bryan as "that noble man, that free man who represents the interests of common humanity," was enthusiastically cheered.

Senator W. V. Allen was made temporary chairman and on taking the chair made a plea for harmony and conservatism, saying there never was a time in the history of the country that such a grave situation confronted it.

Chairman Hall of the state central committee called the Democratic state convention to order and introduced as temporary chairman T. J. Doyle of Lincoln. Chairman Doyle made an address of considerable length. His incidental reference to W. J. Bryan brought out hearty applause.

The Free Silver Republicans organized by electing George Hibner of Lincoln temporary and then permanent chairman, and after appointing a committee on conference took a recess.

A Clever Bank Swindler.

NEW YORK, July 12.—A man claiming to be John L. Barton, representing the Allegan mills of Allegan, Mich., dealing in new and second hand engines and machinery, several days ago bought two pieces of old machinery from Willis B. Burt of Northport, on Long Island, for $40 and sold him new machinery, which was to be paid for when delivered. Later he called on Mr. Burt and asked him to go with him to the bank of Northport and identify him so that he could get a check cashed. Barton presented a check for $525 purporting to be drawn on the New York correspondent of a bank in Allegan and payable to Barton's order. Cashier Brush cashed the check, and that afternoon Barton, after paying Burt $40 and telling him to hold the machinery until notified to ship it, left town. Yesterday Cashier Brush was notified by the New York bank on which the check was drawn that the signature to the check was a forgery. Barton is believed to be the man who fleeced people in other towns by the same story.

Nome Without Law or Order.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The war department has received the following message from General Randall, dated Nome City, Alaska, June 26, via San Francisco, July 12: "At request of Chamber of Commerce have assumed control of affairs in town of Nome until the arrival of the judge and the establishment of municipal government under recent act of congress. Estimated this date 16,000 people in the town and no effective civil organization for protection of life and property."

A Fatal Accident.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 12.—An iron plate falling from the top of a tank at the Liebig Chemical works carried five men from a scaffold to the bottom of the tank. Samuel Hartley, 35 years of age, was killed and four others injured, one of whom will probably die. The men were brought here from Philadelphia to remove the top plate from the tank and were working on a scaffold on the inside of the tank.

No Word Comes From Europeans In Peking.

IMPERIAL ORDER FOR LI HUNG CHANG

Advices From Tien-tsin Fail to Confirm the Cheerful Chinese Reports—Prince Tuan's Edict Lays Blame on Foreigners.

LONDON, July 12.—The Chinese situation again bears a most ominous aspect. Eighteen days ago Sir Robert Hart dispatched his last message, declaring that the situation was desperate, and since then no word has come from the Europeans in Peking.

According to The Daily Mail's Shanghai's correspondent, Li Hung Chang has received an imperial decree ordering his immediate departure for Peking, presumably to break the news of the Peking tragedy to the European powers and in his usual role of negotiator with Europe in difficult matters to endeavor to act as mediator and to avert the vengeance of the powers.

To add to the grimness of this suggestion all advices from Tien-tsin tend to confirm the reports of the perilous condition of the allied forces and belie the optimistic Chinese rumors. Unless re-enforcements speedily reach Tien-tsin another disaster may be expected.

The Daily Mail's Tien-tsin correspondent, telegraphing on July 5, says:

"The situation is about as bad as it can well be. I only trust that we shall not soon want relieving ourselves. A forward movement is impossible. From 30,000 to 40,000 troops are wanted, and there are only 10,000 here. The foreign troops are working well together."

The Express this morning publishes a dispatch from Tien-tsin, dated Friday last, via Chefu, saying:

"General Ma has defeated the allied troops and reoccupied the Chinese eastern arsenal after inflicting great loss upon its defenders. The engagement lasted six hours and was fought with great determination by both sides. The Chinese were eventually able to utilize the effective guns of the fort abutting on the city walls near the taotai's yamen, the allied troops suffering severely from lack of heavy guns and cavalry.

"The Japanese commander sent an urgent appeal to hurry re-enforcements, as the allies were in imminent danger of a general defeat."

Other Tien-tsin correspondents say that no advance is possible until Sept. 1, and explanations are being asked by the papers here of the tardy action of Japan in sending troops, since it is known that she was ready and willing to send them and that Russia raised no objection to her doing so. It is hinted that a difficulty arose as to the manner in which Japan was to be recouped for her heavy outlay. Rumors are current that Japan demanded the cession of a Chinese port.

The Russian papers report that the Boxers are ravaging Manchuria and have damaged 60 miles of the railway, threatening Telin and Kirin, while Port Arthur and Neuchwang are said to be endangered. Russia, therefore, has notified the powers of her intention to dispatch a large military force to Manchuria.

All kinds of stories come from Shanghai, which it is impossible to verify. It is stated that the Boxers have murdered the chancellor of the Peking university and 60 of the members of his family and retainers.

A confidential officer of General Yung-Lu, disguised as a Boxer, is reported to have crept into Prince Tuan's tent while the prince was sleeping with the intention of stabbing him. He was caught by the sentries, so the story goes, and decapitated on the spot. His head was sent, with Prince Tuan's compliments, to Yung-Lu as a warning to him to beware.

The French consul at Shanghai has news that the Chinese prefect at Moukden himself murdered the Catholic bishop Guillon in his yamen. Besides Bishop Guillon, Fathers Crunoet, Corbel, Borguois and Veuille Mot and two sisters of the French mission and numerous native Christians were massacred.

It is stated that Germany intends to send to China 10,000 to 15,000 men well equipped with guns.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Express gives the text of a long edict of Prince Tuan, dated June 29 and addressed to the Chinese embassadors, which The Express declares is identical with the message from Emperor Kwang-Hsu mentioned by the Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Mail and with the Chinese edict published in Washington. The Express considers that the edict proves that Prince Tuan's party is making no attempt to disguise the fact that the worst that could be anticipated has happened.

The edict contains the following paragraphs:

"The anger of our people knew no bounds. They could not be restrained. The task of guarding the legations, which before was difficult, was made impossible."

Elsewhere, referring to the desire to protect the legations still unharmed, it says:

"If it is impossible for us to continue this protection, let it be represented to the powers that we must be held blameless, for the anger of our people grows with the rising of each sun that sees more and yet more foreigners and soldiers coming to overrun and lay waste our country and slay our people."

The correspondent says the edict is intended to pave the way for a final lifting of the veil over the recent history of Peking.

KEMPFF PROTESTED.

Bombardment of Taku Forts Was Against His Will.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Admiral Remey, the commander in chief of the United States naval forces on the Asiatic station, having arrived in Chinese waters is in command over the head of Admiral Kempff, whom he ranks. It is believed that his cablegram relating to the landing of the Ninth infantry has lost a date line, for it is not doubted that the troops were landed at Taku instead of at Chefu, as his message reads. Admiral Kempff has scored another credit through the formal statement by the Chinese government that the bombardment of the forts at Taku, which was done over his protest and without his participation, precipitated the crisis at Peking.

The navy department has detached Commander R. P. Rodgers from the command of the Nashville, now in Chinese waters, and ordered Commander Miles to the command of that vessel. Commander Miles, who is on duty at the Norfolk yard, will sail on Aug. 3 for the Asiatic station, and Commander Rodgers will proceed home upon his arrival there.

The Drews Safe In China.

SYRACUSE, July 12.—A cable message was received in this city yesterday by friends of Mrs. Charles Drew, formerly of this city, who is now living in China with her husband, who holds the office of commissioner of ports under the Chinese government at Tien-tsin, stating that the Drew children were safe in Shanghai and Mr. and Mrs. Drew were safe in Tien-tsin.

BOLD TRAIN ROBBERY.

Express Car Looted on the Illinois Central by Masked Men.

CHICAGO, July 12.—Five masked robbers held up New Orleans express train No. 4 on the Illinois Central railroad at Mayfield Creek, Ills., compelled the American express messenger to open the car and robbed the safe. The amount they secured it not yet known, but it is believed to have been many thousands of dollars. More than $1,000, dropped by the robbers in their flight, has already been recovered.

Bloodhounds are on the trail of the men, and they are being pursued through the woods and swamps of the Missouri country along the Mississippi river.

There were five men in the gang, and as the train pulled around a curve they swung a lantern, which the engineer took for a warning of danger. He stopped the train, and a man jumped into the cab and held a six shooter in his face. The other men went back to the express car and, after overpowering the messenger, blew open the safe with dynamite.

Indications are that the robbers quarreled as to the division of the booty. Searching about the scene after their flight, the conductor of the train found a package of money containing $733.50 and delivered it to the messenger. Later another package was found on the Missouri side by the town watchman of Fort Jefferson. This also contained several hundred dollars. Superintendent King is at the scene in charge of the pursuit and is aided by officers of the American Express company.

MORE BODIES FOUND.

Sixty In All Taken From the Burned Steamer Saale.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Twenty-four bodies were recovered from the hold of the burned steamship Saale yesterday, which makes the total number of dead taken from this ship alone 69. Most of the bodies were so badly burned or mutilated that recognition was impossible, but several were identified by initials or names on articles taken from parts of clothing that sometimes remained. All of them appeared to be of workmen in the hold of the steamship.

After the ninth body had been brought up the man at work in the hold in the search for bodies announced that he had counted 15 piled in a heap in the steward's room. The door of this room was found locked. The fire did not get near the unfortunate 15, and their lives might have been saved but for the breaking of the glass in the windows. When the windows were broken, the room filled with water, and they were drowned like rats in a trap. These bodies were in a better state of preservation than the nine found before them.

All the faces of the dead were distorted and swollen beyond natural resemblance. The odor of the bodies pervaded the ship and was detected on the Jersey shore when the wind shifted that way.

Great pumps were worked in the Saale, and by 2:20 p. m. the vessel was floated. The ship was in nine or ten feet of mud, and when she finally freed herself from this bed she seemed to jump fully two feet out of the water.

More Animal Transports.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Arrangements are making by the quartermaster's department of the army for the transportation of a large stock of subsistence stores and about 4,000 animals, horses and mules to Manila for the benefit of the troops ordered to that country. The present transport fleet was insufficient for the extra demands which have been made upon it, and it has become necessary to charter several additional vessels. Negotiations already have been closed for the charter of the California, a large freight ship which has just been built at San Francisco, and for the steamships Athenian, Kiltuck, Pak Ling and Almond Branch, all of which are at Seattle.

Maine Democrats Meet.

LEWISTON, Me., July 12.—Maine Democrats met here yesterday in state convention to nominate a candidate for governor and six presidential electors. There was great enthusiasm, Bryan and Stevenson flags were everywhere. Hon. D. J. McGillicuddy of Lewiston was named as temporary chairman, and in his address he declared that the Republican party had put issues into this campaign which could not be settled no matter who wins the election. He affirmed that the real issue was American constitutionalism against European imperialism. Hon. M. P. Frank of Portland placed Samuel L. Lord, ex-mayor of Saco, in nomination for governor, and the nomination was made by acclamation.

To Rebuild Lloyd Docks.

NEW YORK, July 12.—General Superintendent Theodore Beul of Bremerhaven and Director Christopher Leist of Bremen, both officers of the North German Lloyd Steamship company, arrived at the Cunard steamship line dock last night on the steamship Kaiserin Maria Therisia and were met by Gustave H. Schwab. The two officials have come to superintend the rebuilding of the docks destroyed by fire ten days ago unless they should decide upon another site.

Naval Movements.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The north Atlantic squadron is engaged at target practice off Newport. The Kearsarge, Indiana and Massachusetts sailed from Newport yesterday and joined the New York and Texas, which went out to sea. The Newport left Newport for Boston. The Vixen has sailed from Key West for Norfolk. The Michigan has left Detroit for Mackinac island. The Iowa has arrived at Port Angeles from Everett.

Steamer Crashes Into Dock.

NEWBURG, N. Y., July 12.—The steamer Emeline of the Newburg and Haverstraw line while landing an excursion party here ran head on against the dock, her bow mounting the timber. Many passengers were thrown down, but none was injured and all were safely landed. The steamer is sinking at the wharf.

AMERICAN ATHLETES

Ready For the International Sports In Paris.

SUNDAY QUESTION FINALLY SETTLED

Our College Men Refuse to Compete on the First Day of the Week, and Frenchmen Are Forced to Respect Their Wishes.

PARIS, July 12.—What appeared to be a disagreeable obstacle in the way of the American athletes participating in the international sports, which began on Saturday, has been amicably and satisfactorily settled. Last night a meeting was held in the rooms of the Racing club, and the question of Sunday games, which it was thought had been favorably arranged, again appeared, and some of the most important events for the Americans were fixed for that day. When the original plans of the meeting were outlined, the sports were scheduled to begin on Sunday, which is the day of all big sporting events in France. The agitation in the United States became such and the refusal of the teams to enter was so general that Mr. Spalding and his assistant, Mr. Degarmendia, made strong representations to the French officials in charge of the sports, who finally agreed that as Saturday is a national holiday in France the sports should be begun on that day.

Recently they found that on account of the military parade to be held in the vicinity of the grounds it would be impossible to begin the contests at such an hour as not to conflict with this great review, and on the arrival of the American athletes the latter discovered that many of the events had been set for Sunday. This situation aroused some feeling, and the teams from Princeton university, Pennsylvania and Syracuse stated emphatically that they would decline to take any part unless modifications should be made. This brought about a meeting between the captains and managers of all the teams, Messrs. Sullivan and Degarmendia and the French officials controlling the games.

Mr. Sullivan for New York, Mr. Ellis for Pennsylvania and Mr. Martell for Georgetown explained the American contention and the strong feeling of the American colleges against participating in Sunday games, and they suggested certain modifications in the programme. The Princeton university men and those from Pennsylvania were especially emphatic in the position that it would be impossible for them to contest in such circumstances, and the Frenchmen agreed to do all in their power to arrange modifications.

The meeting then took the form of a schedule committee, and after hours of deliberation and work the whole programme was satisfactorily arranged.

All the American athletes are now in Paris, the last contingent to reach here being the Pennsylvania men, who arrived last evening from London and went immediately to the hotel at Versailles, where they will be quartered. The Princeton men are at Neuilly, and the Syracuse, Georgetown, Michigan, Chicago university and New York Athletic club men are at various hotels in this city. All the contestants are in splendid condition except George W. Orton of University of Pennsylvania, who seemed a little overtrained. He came ahead of the rest of his team and yesterday took light exercise at the track.

All the men felt the effects of the English climate, but say that the few days spent here have done much to improve them.

Central's Petition Denied.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Application by the New York Central railroad for a mandamus to compel the municipal assembly to permit the tax commissioners to have access to the tax rolls and to compel the tax commissioners then to strike out the assessment of $7,666,000 on the road and personal property of the railway company has been denied by Justice O'Gorman in the supreme court. The company declares it has been assessed twice, by the state board of taxes and the tax board of the city of New York. Justice O'Gorman says the application of the railway company comes too late, as the members of the board of taxes are now without the power to perform the act which the relator seeks to compel them to perform.

Mr. Peck to Reduce Salaries.

PARIS, July 12.—Mr. Ferdinand W. Peck, United States commissioner general to the Paris exposition, has decided to make a general reduction in the salaries of the employees of the commission, and notices to this effect were sent to nearly all on the salary list informing them that after Aug. I their compensation would be at a lower rate, the reduction ranging from 10 to 30 per cent.

Boy Shoots His Father.

HONESDALE, Pa., July 12.—Oscar Sisco was shot and instantly killed by his 12-year-old son, Allen, at South Canaan while beating his wife. The boy fired in defense of his mother. The ball from the revolver passed diagonally through the man's head from neck to ear. Sisco was intoxicated at the time. He was a civil war veteran. Mrs. Sisco had him sent to jail for abuse three years ago.

Storm In Western New York.

LYONS, N. Y., July 12.—A severe electrical storm passed over Wayne county yesterday. It was acompanied with high winds and a downpour of rain. A number of farm buildings were struck by lightning. Many orchard trees were uprooted by the heavy wind. The damage to the fruit crop is great.

Coler Exonerated.

ALBANY, July 12.—Governor Roosevelt has announced that on the advice of the attorney general the charges against Comptroller Coler and Judge Cowing of New York city have been dismissed. In the opinion of Attorney General Davies there was no basis for the charges against the comptroller.

Cold and Snow In Bavaria.

BERLIN, July 12.—Severe cold weather and snowstorms are reported to have occurred in the Bavarian Alps. At Ammergau snow fell three days. The district around Lake Constance is also reported to have been visited by severe storms and cold weather.

Names For Submarine Boats.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The secretary of the navy has selected as names for the six submarine boats Grampus, Shark, Pike, Porpoise, Adder and Moccasin.

WATCH YOUR KIDNEYS!

Never for one moment forget that your constant duty to yourself, to your business, to your family, is a constant watch on your kidneys. As the careful engineer watches each pulsation of his delicately tended engine, so should you give the closest scrutiny to your kidneys, for are they not the great engineers of human life? The kidneys filter the blood, all its impurities are left in the kidneys, to be, in turn, passed to the bladder and so find escape from the human system. Can you not readily see how with improperly working kidneys the blood scatters its poison, and before you know it you are in the clutch of Bright's Disease and death is upon you.

Hundreds of the sudden deaths you hear and read about are due to neglect of the signals nature gives, such as weak back and pains across the small of the back. If you ever have backache, don't hesitate, but seek the best and surest and quickest acting remedy at once

M'KINLEY NOT AFRAID.

Assassination Story Has Little Effect—Notification Today.

CANTON, O., July 12.—The publication of the alleged plot against President McKinley did not disturb him in the least. He drove out with Judge Day in the morning and walked about the lawn and porch, chatting with visitors, during the afternoon, as if fear of assassination was the farthest thing from his thoughts.

President McKinley shortly before lunch took a walk of several blocks, accompanied by Postmaster General Smith, who is his guest, and Postmaster George B. Frease. There was a large number of callers at the house during the day, and active preparations were made about the lawn for the notification today. Senator C. D. Clark of Wyoming, accompanied by a party of Hawaiians, arrived in the afternoon for a call, and Senator Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana, chairman of the state convention that first nominated McKinley and chairman of the resolutions committee of the last convention, arrived in the evening and is to be a guest of Judge Day. Comptroller of the Currency and Mrs. Dawes arrived and are being entertained at the Day home.

The campaign of 1900 in Canton will not be a duplicate of the campaign of 1896. It is not the present intention of President McKinley to make speeches to delegations who may visit Canton during the summer and fall, even if he should remain here all the time. The president will be so much occupied with public business that he will have but little time to devote to the campaign. Four years ago he was a private citizen and as the candidate of his party felt justified in taking the active part he did in the campaign. Now he is president of the whole people and feels that he should give his attention to the many questions of government that are pending and which are constantly arising.

The local committee having charge of the arrangements say the notification today will be much more of an event than it was four years ago and that a larger number of people will be present than on that occasion. The business houses of Canton are to be closed for part of the day to afford employees an opportunity to participate in the demonstration to their townsman.

THE GOEBEL MURDER

Republican Witnesses Must Attend the Court.

JUDGE CANTRILL DIRECTS ROUND UP.

Ex-Governor Brown Pleads For Time In the Case of Powers. Third Day of the Great Conspiracy Trial.

GEORGETOWN, Ky., July 12.—The third day of the Goebel assassination trials found interest centered in the question of the readiness of the defense to go into the trial of Caleb Powers. The friends of the prosecution declared that the defense would attempt to get a continuance of the cases of Caleb Powers and H. E. Youtsey on the grounds of political policy. The prosecution admitted, they said, that the cases against Captain John Davis, Holland Whittaker and "Tallow Dick" Combs were weak, and it was believed that the defense wished these to come to trial first.

One of the notable arrivals yesterday was Colonel Jack Chinn of Harrodsburg, who is called as a witness.

Commonwealth Attorney Franklin began promptly his argument against the affidavit for the defense regarding absent witnesses. He said of the 80 absent witnesses only 14 were set forth as proving any fact in connection with the case. Of these, he continued, Judge W. H. Yost of Greenville had said that he would be present. No subpœna had been issued for J. K. Dixon, one of the other witnesses, and in several other cases the subpœnas were issued very late and were not executed. Due diligence was therefore not exercised.

Franklin further asserted that the greater number of the 15 important witnesses could be summoned by telegram. In case they could not be present their affidavit could be submitted subject to objection as to competency and relevancy.

Ex-Governor John Young Brown replied for the defense. He said that the defense had asked for the personal attendance of the witnesses named in its affidavit and that on that request alone the court should grant a continuance. He read authorities in support of the argument that even if the prosecution should admit all that the affidavit of the defense stated it would prove a continuance should still be granted.

He further said that the defense had had opportunity to confer with but few of the witnesses, and the attorneys could know the facts to which the witnesses were to testify only through hearsay. Under this state of affairs, he argued, the defense could not go into a trial of such gravity.

Judge Cantrill read an opinion in which he offered the defense the compulsory process of the court to force the attendance of absent witnesses. The court decided that the attachments should be made returnable next Tuesday and that if the witnesses were not then present an affidavit from them should be admitted as evidence.

The Educators Busy.

CHARLESTON, July 12.—The members of the National Educational association put in a busy day, two sessions of the general organization and many meetings of the departments taking up their time. Booker T. Washington, the negro educator, drew the largest crowd of the convention at the Auditorium last night, speaking on the advancement of the colored man along educational lines. The nominating committee will meet at noon today and decide upon a candidate for president. California is expected to present the name of Professor Foshay of Los Angeles, but the sentiment of many of the delegates is that the honor should go east. Professor J. M. Green of Trenton has many friends, and although he is not pressing his candidacy the chair is likely to go to the New Jersey man.

Girl Traveled as a Boy.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 12.—A girl giving her name as Josephine Adams and her age as 23 is in the Vassar hospital here, and the authorities are trying to find out something concerning her. She was brought to the hospital in boy's attire, suffering from injuries to her back, sustained by being knocked down by a wagon yesterday. She says she was born in the south, and when asked for her residence simply said: "You can put down Albany. I was trying to walk there from New York." She refuses to tell anything further concerning herself. When she was picked up yesterday, she gave appearances of having traveled a long distance.

Canal Engineer Dead.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The isthmian canal commission has received a cablegram from Darien saying that Francis R. Torrington, an engineer in the employ of the commission, is dead. The message came from Boyd Ehle, an assistant engineer of the commission at that place. It gave no particulars. Mr. Torrington was employed by the old Nicaraguan commission for two years and had been with the present commission about nine months. He was from Fernwood, Pa. The commission received a letter from Mr. Torrington several days ago, and there was nothing in it to indicate that he was in bad health.

For Governor of West Virginia.

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., July 12.—The feature of the Republican state convention here yesterday was the keynote speech of Senator Stephen B. Elkins as temporary chairman. The addresses of Hon. Charles T. Caldwell in presenting the name of Hon. A. B. White for governor and of Mr. White in accepting the nomination and other addresses were notably brilliant and were received with marked demonstrations. Mr. White was nominated with unusual unanimity and enthusiasm.

Shaw Found Guilty.

WOODSTOCK, Vt., July 12.—Frank Shaw, the young game poacher, who, with his father, broke out of Windsor county jail and afterward held at bay and fought with their rifles the Vermont sheriffs, was found guilty of murder in the first degree for killing Deputy Sheriff Hoffman. Sentence is withheld, as Shaw's counsel will appeal to the supreme court.

Rioters Sentenced.

BERLIN, July 12.—Twenty-two of the rioters who wounded 20 hussars and all the local police officers at Stolz, Pomerania, during the recent anti-Semite riots there, have been sentenced to various terms of imprisonment, ranging from four months in jail to three years in the penitentiary.

At this time more than any other political partisanship is wont to assert itself in an emphatic manner, and yet in the face of the tightening political lines between Republicans and Democrats, the G. O. P. members of the Common Council find themselves unable to agree on a successor for the seat of their recent President, Mr. Smith, who resigned to accept the office of City Collector. With Mr. Smith out of the Council, the remaining ten members have divided themselves into two factions over the question of selecting a successor. Both sides, from all appearances, seem determined not to give in to the other, and if this attitude is continued it looks as though a deadlock would prevail until the next city election.

This is not as it should be. The Fourth ward is entitled to be represented in the Common Council by the number of representatives permitted by the city charter, and as long as the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Smith continues to exist the people of that ward—the largest in the city—are technically put at a disadvantage with other portions of the municipality.

The prospect of a long deadlock in the Council over the election of a successor to Mr. Smith has suggested to the minds of many who take an active interest in city affairs that it would be a generous action on the part of the Republicans in the Council if they would settle upon some substantial, representative Democrat in the Fourth ward to elect as Councilman to serve out the unexpired term. Such a choice would not in any way lessen the influence or power of the Republicans in the Council, as the political complexion would be ten to one, but it would obviate the deadlock which ensues through Republican factional feeling. Besides it would give the Fourth ward its proper representation, and at the same time be recognized as generous partisanship on the part of the Republicans.

There are many Democrats in the Fourth ward whose selection would be creditable and representative.

An Ugly Charge.

An ugly charge has been made in the Common Council in Bayonne to the effect that a corruption fund of several hundred dollars was raised among local saloon keepers to secure the passage of an ordinance that would restrict the granting of licenses to the members of the Bayonne Liquor Dealers' Association. Inasmuch as a large number of the saloon keepers of that city are not members of the Association, the effect of such a rule would deprive them of the privilege necessary to the conduct of the business they are engaged in. Such a condition would result in a monopoly for the chosen few, and the publicity given the scheme has started an investigation in the Council that may bring out some startling developments. It is undoubtedly true that the number of bar-rooms in Bayonne could be materially reduced without detriment to the town or inconvenience to its thirsty citizens, but if such reform is to be brought about it should not come in the way in which a clique of selfish and conscienceless liquor dealers have planned.

The city of Montclair has long prided itself on the claim that it has a clean, model municipal government, but it is now thrown into a state of despair and sorrow by the report of an expert accountant who has been investigating the books of the town officials. This expert makes the startling statement that the official records have been kept in a most lax manner and that they are now in a confusing mess. The claim is made that the inaccuracy has caused a loss of several thousand dollars in the collection of taxes, and the Board of Education is severely criticised for alleged discrepancies on figures of cost of educating children. Altogether the ideals that the Montclair people thought they possessed in their local government have been sadly shattered, and there is need of turning over a new leaf and commencing all over again.

Always entertaining, vigorous and versatile in his thoughts and experiences, "Farmer Orator" James E. Martine will return home from the west this week bubbling over with enthusiasm of a political nature. Mr. Martine has been active and prominent in the political affairs of New Jersey for thirty years, and yet, strange to say, in all that time he never attended a National convention until the one held in Kansas City last week. It is not too little to say that there was no man in Kansas City who enjoyed himself more hugely in participating in the political business of the hour than the "Farmer Orator."

Congressman Daly emphatically denies the report that he is a candidate for the vacancy on the Supreme court bench made by the death of the late Judge Lippincott. Mr. Daly declares that a position on the bench would take him out of active political life, and he has no desire to accomplish such a result. The Hon. Mr. Daly proposes to do his best to make his "paramount issue a successful factor in the present campaign, and if he donned the ermine he would be compelled to simply look on. Such an attitude is eternally contrary to the Hudson county statesman's make-up.

The organization and purpose of the Plainfield Automobile Company is to be commended. The scheme of operating horseless carriages in this city to provide convenient and rapid transit for those people residing in sections not accommodated by trolley lines—and also to afford pleasureable short excursions into the better residential streets of the city—is one which ought to prove popular with the people and profitable to the company. It will provide a unique feature of municipal life that will add attractiveness and fame to the town.

Lieut-Gov. Timothy L. Woodruff, of New York, is now in Europe, but is expected home in two weeks. His friends say that as soon as he gets back he will make formal announcement that he is a candidate for the nomination for Governor to succeed Roosevelt. We bet he will see Platt first, though.

A story from Trenton has it that Col. William Barbour, of Paterson, is a Republican Gubernatorial possibility for next year. Col. Barbour was one of the late Garret A. Hobart's most intimate friends.

"He who laughs last best," is now heartily appreciated by the members of the Citizens' League, of Scotch Plains.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Daly says he did it; that is, he subordinated 16 to 1 and made imperialism the momentous, stupendous, preeminent, paramount and burning issue. We dislike to dispute Mr. Daly's claims, but we of Union county are bound to wait and hear what Martine has to say on this point. And just now Martine is on the Pacific coast.—Elizabeth Journal.

While Frank Story, clerk at C. E. Hepburn & Company's pharmacy, is on his vacation, Mr. Hepburn's son is assisting at the store.

Mrs. J. P. Mosher, of West Fifth street, has gone to Ocean Grove to attend the summer school of the Primary Teachers' Union.

Mrs. R. A. Frazee, of West Sixth street, has just returned home from a very pleasant trip through New York State, also visiting the Great Lakes and Niagara Falls.

Gentlemen:—I must say in regard to GRAIN-O that there is nothing better or healthier. We have used it for years. My brother was a great coffee drinker. He was taken sick and the doctor said coffee was the cause of it, and told us to use GRAIN-O. We got a package but did not like it at first, but now would not be without it. My brother has been well ever since we started to use it.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, July 12—The sparks from a passing locomotive yesterday set fire to a large hennery belonging to John Ward, who lives in one of the houses belonging to the Eight Row. Before the flames were discovered the frame structure was nearly destroyed and the house which stands nearby was threatened. Fortunately it was seen in time by a number of men who were passing and the fire was prevented from spreading to the house. The hennery was totally destroyed.

Detective Dougherty, of the Central Railroad, attempted to catch four tramps who were riding on a freight train Tuesday, but the wily hoboes outwitted him. The engineer of the train slowed up near the station to enable the detective to jump on. The tramps then jumped off, Dougherty following them, and the engineer then started up again. The tramps ran a short distance and then leaped on again, and before their pursuer could follow them, the train was going too fast, and he was forced to abandon the chase.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Scotch Plains, July 12. — Scotch Plains' courts and judges have been kept busy this week. Last night Charles Sellers and Ferdinand Meyers, both boys, were arraigned before Judge Clark charged with fighting and being disorderly upon the streets Monday afternoon. The evidence given by several witnesses was that the affair was only a boy's quarrel, in which Sellers was the agressor, as Meyers' part of the affair was one of defence only. Strange to relate, though Meyers plead guilty and Sellers entered a plea of not guilty, the judge considered from the evidence that Sellers was guilty and as the boy had been before him upon several occasions before, he said he thought that leniency in his particular case was not warranted so sentenced him to pay a fine of $5 and costs, or take 30 days in the county jail. Sellers' stepfather refused to pay the fine for the boy, so he was put in the lockup and was taken to Elizabeth to serve his sentence this morning. Meyers was fined the cost of court amounting to $4.80. There was quite a little argument among the spectators as to how the court could fine both boys the costs, but Judge Clark said he was right in the matter and Meyers paid his while Sellers will probably have to serve his fine out in the county jail.

In contract case of Frech against Lamade, in Judge Clark's court, judgment was rendered for the full amount. Execution has been issued and goods levied on, and will be sold at constable sale on July 14th. In case of Morel against Ogden judgment was rendered and execution withheld pending settlement.

The refusal of the court to grant W. S. Emery's license yesterday was a great surprise to many in town as it was thought the old stand had been run as a hostelry so long that the court would grant the license.

HUNTERDON FARMERS HAPPY.

With Few Exceptions all Their Crops are Large.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Flemington, July 12.—Every indication points to a prosperous year for the farmers of Hunterdon county. The strawberry and cherry crop was the largest in many years, and thousands of bushels were shipped from each of the various railroad stations. The raspberry yield is exceptionally large, and gratifying prices are being realized. The yield of blackberries will be the largest and the fruit the finest in many years. The truckmen say they expect a yield of 100 bushels to the acre. The crop of peaches will be immense. All the growers report that their groves are loaded with fruit.

The grass crop was somewhat below the average. Aside from a few fields in some sections, where the Hessian fly attacked it, the yield of wheat was up to the average. The corn, potato and tomato crops will also be good, barring a drought later in the season. The pea louse has not made its appearance, and the truck men are reaping a fine yield. The farmers report that the apple and pear crop will come up to the standard this year.

WATER LAND IN MILLBURN.

Purchased by the Elizabethtown Water Company This Week.

Negotiations have been under way for some time between the Elizabethtown Water Company and the owners of a large tract of land along the "Seven Bridges," near the boundary line of South Orange and Millburn townships. The tract of land on which the water company will erect an auxiliary water plant contains about 105 acres, is covered with trees and is in a somewhat swampy district. The plans are to clear off this timber and sink artesian wells.

Until Tuesday nothing definite could be learned, except that the increased demand upon the Morris avenue pumping station necessitated an enlarged supply.

When the latter plant was installed it was expected that a daily output of 5,000,000 gallons would result, but this is seldom, if ever, reached, 3,000,000 gallons being about the average every 24 hours.

While the supply is amply sufficient at present, the rapid growth of demand made some such move on the part of the water company, as outlined here, necessary in the near future.

Sayreville Gets Trolley Line.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Sayreville, N. J., July 12—Sayreville, which has the largest brick-making plant in the United States—that of Sayre & Fisher—which employs 1,000 men, and has an output of 3,000,000 bricks per week, is at last connected with the outside world by trolley. The New Brunswick trolley, through Milltown and South River, now comes into Sayreville as far as Blew's Hill. At least a month will be required before connection can be made with South Amboy.

HINTS TO THE SUMMER GUEST.

Some of the Little Things She Owes to Her Hostess.

BY CALLA ROBELY HAINES.

This is the season in which those who are bound in by city walls look forward to the time when their country friends will remember them and offer a few weeks' hospitality in their woodland and seashore homes. Some few hints as to the demands a hostess makes upon a guest will not be out of place nor, I hope, unkindly received.

The first obligation on the part of the guest is to keep the date originally decided upon and to arrive at the stated time instead of postponing the promised visit to the possible intrusion upon the hostess' plans for other guests.

If for some unavoidable reason a guest should be unable to arrive at the appointed time, she ought not to expect to remain longer than the original date. A hostess would naturally press her to remain a few days longer, but don't, I pray you, no matter how jolly a time is on hand. That there are times when to refuse would be to offend is not unusual, but as a rule it is best to be on the safe side by not remaining long enough rather than by spoiling a visit by even a day.

When you do arrive, make yourself at home just as soon as ever you can. A hostess is so much more comfortable if you will roam into the library and pick out the book you want and find some place to enjoy it if you desire or take a ramble in the fields for an hour without her having to tag after you, always anxious lest you chance to be lonesome or lacking amusement.

During certain hours of the day the mistress who attends to her own housekeeping has some duties to which she must give her personal attention, and if as a guest you can amuse yourself, giving her the leisure to attend to them, you will go down on her list of visitors as one of a cherished few. She will get as much pleasure out of your visit as you do, which, on the whole, is no more than right.

There are few duties imposed upon a guest, but one of them is to keep her room orderly. Usually the guest chamber is the best room in the house and often has the prettiest furnishings. That guests fail to appreciate this is only too evident, judging from the manner in which belongings soon become scattered about and dishevel the whole apartment. Often a hostess is truly ashamed to leave the door of her guest room open when it is occupied because of the disorderliness within, and yet what lady with the least little bit of consideration for her friend's feelings would dare to right that untidiness or permit her maid to do so?

GUESTS SHOULD ARRIVE WHEN EXPECTED.

A friend of mine while speaking of a mutual acquaintance remarked that Miss X was the dearest girl, but she added sotto voce, "She is so untidy."

My silent response was, "She has visited you too, has she?" But of course I did not express it.

To inquire the time of the family meals and be punctilious in keeping it is a duty. To you a few minutes' delay will make little difference, while a meal kept a half hour after it is ready for the table is usually spoiled.

If your hostess is accustomed to an afternoon siesta, it would be very considerate on your part to retire to your own room or if you are not one of the sleeping kind find out some shady spot and leave her for awhile. Many an overanxious hostess has suffered by reason of the inroad made by thoughtless guests upon that hour sacred to Morpheus.

To provide entertainment for a guest is the one object of a hostess, and she is particularly happy when friends assist her in giving you a good time, but don't if you prize friendship ever be tempted to accept an invitation in which she is not included. To accept one unless it comes from a member of her own family would be the greatest insult that you could offer to her. Concerning the person who extended the invitation no remark is necessary.

Thoughtless persons with the most tender hearts have no idea how often they hurt the friend with whom they are visiting. Only remember that you are the guest and that with your hostess rest the manner and the means of entertainment.

The pleasure of entertaining would be greatly increased if only guests would remember to do as they would be done by and not forget those little things which annoyed them when they in turn were the hostess.

"I have suffered," said she, "about everything possible from weak stomach and chronic constipation, and many a night have had to sit in bed, propped up with pillows and get what sleep I could that way. I could not lie down; if I did I would feel a terrible choking sensation which made me gasp for breath. Everything seemed to ferment the moment it got into my stomach, and often I felt bloated and generally miserable. Since I began using

PORTO RICAN AFFAIRS.

Since the Settlement of the Tariff Question They Have Assumed a More Hopeful Aspect.

After the enactment of the Porto Rican legislation, it was thought advisable still further to safeguard the interests of good government in that island, especially in the matter of franchises. To this end amendments were adopted by congress which provide that all franchises shall be approved by the president of the United States before going into operation, and that all charters "shall be subject to alteration, amendment, or appeal." Stock-watering is forbidden; the government is empowered to regulate charges for service; and it is provided that the property of corporations holding franchises may be purchased by the government at a fair valuation. Gov. Allen was duly inaugurated on May 1, and an admirable beginning was made in the administration of Porto Rico's fiscal affairs in the appointment by President McKinley of Dr. J. H. Hollander as treasurer and Mr. John R. Garrison as auditor of the insular government. Dr. Hollander, says the American Magazine, has for several years held a chair in the Johns Hopkins university at Baltimore, and has won national recognition as a student of finance; he was sent to Porto Rico several months ago to report on the island's system of taxation and revenue. Mr. Garrison has had a long experience in responsible positions connected with the treasury department at Washington. By these appointments, following that of Gov. Allen, the administration has given the best possible guarantee of a clean colonial government. Since the settlement of the tariff question trade between Porto Rico and New York has quickly revived.

(Treasurer of the Colonial Government of Porto Rico.)

BRITISH WAR MEDAL.

Elaborate Ornament to Be Given to the Tommies Who Fought Against the Boers.

On the authority of South Africa the medal for the campaign against the Boers will be the most expensive and the most ornate issued by the British war office in recent years. The medal proper is to be a five-pointed star with a gold center surrounded by a ring of bronze, on which the words "South Africa" appear in raised letters. In the center of all is a miniature of the queen. The medal is the same size as the Khedival star of 1881. The ribbon is of four colors, a stripe of khaki in the center, two of white and one each of red and blue. There will probably be a bar granted for each important engagement. Both ribbon and star are exceedingly attractive in appearance, and will, doubtless, be worn with much pride by the happy recipients when the war is over. Even up to the present, the important engagements have been sufficiently numerous to provide bars to satisfy Tommy's most ardent desire for martial decorations. To name only some of them there are Magersfontein, Colenso, Belmont, Graspan and Paardeberg.

BRITISH WAR MEDAL.
(To Be Granted for Military Service in South Africa.)

A New Post Office Swindle.

A device for swindling the post office has just been discovered at Brussels. It consists in pasting a piece of thin transparent paper over postage stamps after these have been affixed to the letters. The transparent paper receives the postmark. When the letter reaches its destination the transparent paper is removed by damping, and there is the stamp unused and ready for further employment. The practice has been extensive with respect to stamps of high value.

Antipodean Mouse Story.

A flight of Australian fancy is given in an English paper. The readers were asked to believe that mice swarmed in such quantities that 1,000 were killed in one hotel in three nights. A man had to be employed to drive them away while the horses were fed. They ate the whole carcass of a sheep in one night, destroyed acres of corn, and have attempted to eat people in bed.

NED AND THE JUDGE.

The Story of a Dog and a Cat That Live in Harmony and Go Out Fishing Every Day.

A little girl in Maine owns a cat and a dog that have formed a strong friendship for each other and furnish constant entertainment for their small owner by their cunning ways. The cat, when only a tiny ball of fur in appearance, was presented to the little girl, who immediately prepared to enjoy herself by dressing up the kitten in doll's clothes that promised to fit him to perfection. He, however, proved to be a dignified cat, and objected so seriously to this that his owner named him Judge, and concluded to take him with her on her fishing expeditions, when he could simply sit and keep her company.

A water spaniel known as Ned also shared the fun of these fishing excursions, and the cat and dog would sit, one on each side of their mistress, while she fished for the little chubs that are to be found in the shallow portions of the lakes. As each fish was caught the child would hand it over to Judge, who ate it and anxiously watched the "bob" on the line for another bite.

Ned did not share Judge's liking for fish, but watched the line with as much interest as the cat, and wore an expression of great satisfaction when the bob disappeared and another unwary chub was brought to the surface for Judge.

One day the fishing became very poor, and after watching the line with great impatience Ned saw a reckless little chub swimming near the surface of the water about a foot from the shore. Ned sprang up, and before the chub could get away he caught it in his mouth, and, taking it over to Judge, laid the fish on the grass and watched the cat eat it.

Ned learned that he could catch fish quite as skillfully as his little mistress, and from that day on he followed a regular plan for catching the chubs. He would go to the edge of the lake, and, by touching the surface of the water, attract a little shoal of chubs, for when any slight disturbance occurs on the surface the chubs rush up to see whether some food has dropped in. Ned would then make a snatch at the foolish little group and always catch at least one fish. Sometimes they failed to come up in shoals, and then Ned would stand perfectly still, seeming hardly to breathe, and wait until a solitary chub came along, when he would catch him.

NED AND THE JUDGE FISHING.

The cat and dog do not wait for their owner to accompany them now, but two or three times a day the dog will go down to the water's edge and begin to fish, and the cat will observe that he is meeting with success and join him. Sometimes they seem to hold a consultation on the matter of going down, and will start off together, walking side by side until they reach the lake, when the dog will go to the water's edge, and the cat stand near, waiting, as in the picture. If one of the other cats from the house happens along Judge will refuse to eat until the other cat has had all it wants and goes away.

Judge is something of a hunter himself, and sometimes disappears into the woods, where he remains for two or three days, living on the small game that he catches. He captures small birds occasionally, and brings them to his mistress, and, although he has learned through frequent punishments that this trait does not meet with approval, he is so vain of his accomplishments as a hunter that he cannot resist the temptation to catch one occasionally.

At about five o'clock every morning he gets lonesome and declines to be comforted until some one gets up to keep him company. If another cat comes around he gets jealous, and, going a long way off, will sit alone until he sees that the rival has gone away. He has one pleasure that the other pets do not share, for almost every day he accompanies his little owner to school, and, taking his seat on the top of her desk, is permitted to remain there until school is dismissed, when he walks home at her side.

He has a strange taste for food, and likes vegetables better than meat. He will take an ear of corn and eat off the kernels with great enjoyment, and enjoys raw pumpkins, squash and turnips. When the cat goes away for one of his vacations to the woods Ned gets lonesome and insists on going with the family on all their trips, and sometimes when they start out in the boat and forget to take him he has been known to swim a mile and a half to follow them and be pulled into the boat.—N. Y. Tribune.

Germs in Walking Skirts.

A Philadelphia bacteriologist who made a microscopic examination of the train of the walking skirt of a woman of that city found it contained "200,000 germs—many bearing diphtheria, pneumonia and tonsilitis—also collections of typhoid and consumption germs."

Plainfield Citizens Should Weigh Well This Evidence.

Proof of merit lies in the evidence
Convincing evidence in Plainfield

The statement of a Plainfield citizen.

Mrs. R. Wortman living with her daughter Mrs. S. E. Cook of 204 Somerset street says:—"I used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results for severe pains across my back and hips, which no doubt was caused by the kidneys being out of order. It was painful for me to stoop or bend forward and I could not sit ten minutes in one position, but had to be constantly changing about. I used many different kinds of medicine recommended for kidney trouble, but I could not see that any of them benefitted me. Doan's Kidney Pills were procured for me at L. W. Randolph's drug store and it is the only remedy I ever used that gave me any relief. I always keep a supply of them on hand and would not think of being without them."

SO ANXIOUS TO MEET HIM.

An Appeal That Touched Even the Heart of the Railway Station Gateman.

A few minutes before the afternoon train from New York got into the Pennsylvania station the other day a beautiful young creature in a new spring suit wafted herself over to the man stationed at the exit gate and proceeded to hypnotize him, says the Washington Post.

"Will you please let me through?" she said, appealingly.

"Can't do it, miss, it's against the rules," said the man at the gate.

"But I do so want to meet him when he gets off," said the beauteous young thing, looking into the man's face searchingly with her imploring violet eyes. "And he will be so disappointed if I am not right at the car to meet him when the train gets in."

The man at the gate looked and hesitated.

"Please," said the lovely young creature, rustling her silk skirts nervously, and seeming to hang on the gateman's nod.

"Well, maybe I can take a chance," said the gateman, and he pulled the gate open and admitted her.

"S'pose she's only been married a little while," reflected the gateman, "and her husband's coming back after being away the first time since they were spliced, and she wants to hand him out the big hug before he's more'n landed from the car steps. Well, I guess we all have it that bad, once in our lives anyhow," and he looked thoughtfully down the siding where the radiant young creature stood, impatiently tapping her foot.

The train pulled in a couple of minutes after. The young woman ran alongside the baggage car and the baggagemaster handed her out a miserable little specimen of a stuck-up, hideous-muzzled pug dog, which she took in her arms and loaded down with caresses.

As she passed out of the exit gate with the pug in her arms, she bestowed a bewitching smile upon the gateman.

"And I was come-on enough to pass her through, and to weave pipe-trances about the reason why she wanted to get through," said the gateman, disgustedly, to the station cop. "Say, I don't belong here. I ought to be the dog catcher."

PROFIT FROM A MISTAKE.

Wrong Grade of Iron Sent to Japan Comes Back and Makes Money Here.

A curious illustration of the economy with which modern commerce and transportation is conducted, is given in a report of the "Foreign Markets" section of the department of agriculture. It is there stated that the farmers of Denmark find it profitable to buy American bacon and butter for their own consumption and send that which they themselves produce to the English markets, where, by reason of its long established reputation, it commands a higher price than the American product.

Another example of a similar sort, which also shows the phenomenal advance in iron prices which took place last year, was the experience of a prominent export house in New York city.

In 1898 this firm shipped a lot of pig iron to Japan. The grade sent was found to be unsuited to the Japanese market, however. The demand there is said to be for a soft iron which can be readily broken up into small pieces for use in the primitive forges, and the American pigs proved difficult to fracture in the customary way.

Most of the shipment was therefore returned to the New York export house. By the time it reached here, however, the price of iron had risen so much that, after paying the freight on the consignment half way round the world and back again, the exporters still made a profit on the transaction.—Engineering.

GETTING ON A JURY.

The Process in Vogue in Chicago Described in Detail.

It's a Sort of a Lottery in Which the Blanks Are Considered the Prizes by Business and Professional Men.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

HAVE you ever served as a juror? If you haven't you have missed half the excitement of your life.

Many a man who has been summoned to appear before one of the judges as a juror thinks he has been singled out among all his neighbors as a victim. He can't understand why Mr. Jones, who lives next door, has escaped, while he himself has fallen into the clutches of the law, so to speak. "Oh, Jones has a pull with the politicians,"

HAS FORMED AN OPINION.

he grumbles, as he goes down to the courthouse, fixing up all kinds of excuses to get off. If he happens to be a resident of Cook county there is about one chance out of two hundred thousand of his ever getting on the jury at all. If that chance fell to him and not to Jones that isn't Jones' fault. Somebody has to serve on the juries. The causes must be tried. That is why the present system was formed. In the old days it was a comparatively easy matter to get three or four men in the jury box who would be favorable to a certain cause. Now such a thing is practically impossible. But the average man who receives a notice that he is wanted for jury service has little or no idea of the manner in which his selection was brought about. It all happens in this way:

Three jury commissioners are appointed by the judges and clerks of record—one for three years each year. The first step of the commissioners is to take the names from the registration lists and verify them by the city directory. These names are all written on cards and carefully classified in alphabetical order in cabinets in the rooms of the commissioners. Whenever a man is incapacitated for jury service, or whenever he has already served, a record to that effect is made on his card, and it is filed away in the proper place. Each year when new lists are prepared the names are compared with those on file, and, if a man has already served, or if for any reason has been incapacitated, his name is omitted.

The law requires that one who has already served as a juror shall not be called upon again until all the other names in the county have been exhausted. There are 200,000 names on file to-day in the office of the Cook county jury commissioners. When it is necessary to impanel juries at least 15,000 of these names are put into a box about 2½ feet square. This box is swung on a pivot and is rapidly revolved, thus thoroughly mixing up the contents. The clerks of the court then reach their hands in through an opening and take about 100 names. These names are handed to the sheriff, who serves the summons. The man who is summoned is expected to answer to the court either in person or by letter. If he pay no attention to the first notice a second one is sent to him, and if he still is obstinate he receives a third notice. Then if he fails to respond a deputy sheriff is sent after him, and he is liable for contempt of court.

So, you see, after all, it is not such an easy thing to get on the jury. It is much like a lottery—only the majority of men do not care to be the winners. The men who have nothing to do, and are anxious to serve at the rate of two dollars a day, are the very ones whom the judges do not want.

In the selection of a jury one may see all sorts and conditions of men. The world in miniature is lined up before the bar of justice. There you may see the prosperous dry goods merchant standing next to the driver of a laundry cart. Next will come a banker and then a hod carrier, and then a druggist, and a millwright, and a baker, and a butcher, and a barber, and so on through every walk and trade in life. And it is just this class of citizens that goes to make up the juries of the United States. You may go to every other land on the face of the globe, and you will not find such an average group of intelligent and fair-minded men as you can find in any county seat in your own country. But even from this gathering of ordinarily intelligent men a careful sifting is made; first by the judges who pass upon the general fitness of the jurors, and then by the attorneys who are to try the causes. This examination of the judge of the times proves an instructive lesson, and is the means of bringing out queer phases and traits of human nature. After a general summons has been served the court proceeds to select his panels.

"All those who have been drawn as jurors," says his honor, "will step forward."

There is a shuffling of feet and 30 or 40 men pass within the railing before the bar.

"Hold up your right hands," says the clerk, and the oath is solemnly given.

The judge takes up the list of names and reads: "Michael Mitchell."

"Here," says Michael.

"How old are you?" asks his honor.

"Thirty-nine," says Michael.

"How long have you lived in Cook county?"

"Thirty-eight years."

"Born in this country?"

"Yes, your honor."

"Where were you educated?"

"Chicago public schools."

"What grade did you go through?"

"Fourth."

"Do you understand the ordinary terms of the English language—such words as lawyers use?"

"I think I do, your honor."

"What does the word 'preponderance' mean?"

"Well, I know, but I can't exactly tell."

"Tell me as near as you can."

"Kind of a good thing."

"No, it doesn't mean that. What does the word 'conclusive' mean?"

"I can't quite explain myself."

"What would a lawyer mean by saying 'the evidence is conclusive?'"

"He would mean that it was 'no use,'" replied Michael.

"A good many of them probably think that sometimes," smiled the judge, "but I hardly believe they would care to have the jurors take it in that way. I am afraid you will not do, for you see we have not time to explain the words as we go along. The persons whose causes are on trial have a right to expect that the jurors who hear them can give their full attention to the points at issue without stopping to think out the meaning of the words. Words, you know, are the tools with which jurors work. You may step aside, please."

The next man answered the educational requirements. He knew what all the words meant. Then his honor asked him:

"Are you prejudiced against any race or class of men?"

"I am afraid I am prejudiced against some, your honor."

"What class, for instance?"

"I don't like the Poles."

"Any others?"

"I don't like the English."

"Any others?"

"Well, to be frank with your honor, I haven't much use for the Boers. I can't stand the Turks, and the Norwegians set my teeth on edge. I am a little prejudiced against negroes and Chinamen, and I hate southerners."

"What nationality are you yourself?" asked the court.

"I am an American," said the man.

"And how about the Americans?"

"Oh, just fair to middling."

"You appear to be at variance with nearly everyone. We will excuse you from service."

After that it came easier, and two panels of jurors were soon formed who were to report to the judge every day for two weeks. Now when the lawyers got through with their sifting processes it is safe to say that the cause on trial was in fairly competent hands. So, you see, after all, you do owe a little duty to your county, and incidentally your country, and should be willing to serve cheerfully as a juror when called upon.

SPORTING.

GOLF

One of the best golf matches of the season was played at the Baltusrol Golf Club links yesterday afternoon, when the St. Paul's School team, of Concord, N. H., of which Frank O. Reinhart, of this city, is captain, defeated the Baltusrol Club, 10 to 1. The games were played in a high wind, but notwithstanding this, the scores all around were low. Reinhart made the course in 81, against L. P. Bayard, Jr., the former intercollegiate champion, who made an 85. Frank C. Talmage, of this city, anotner member of the school team, was defeated by the well-known golfer, F. J. des Raismes, one up. The team scores were as follows:

Every once in a while we hear of some phenomenally long driver, and whenever such a player enters into a tournament or competition on strange links the curious ones invariably gather around the first tee, for, say what you will, there's a charm about long driving. Several men, famous for their tee shots, had entered into the amateur championship, but none of them came up to expectations. Report has it that there is a young man in Worcester, Mass., who has been handling a driver only a few weeks, yet in that short space of time has acquired the knack of getting the gutty to speed away tremendous distances. It is claimed that his drives average all the way from 220 to 225 yards. Provided he can keep this up and at the same time perfect his short game to a fair degree he will have a wonderfully successful career as a golfer.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

There will be no racing at the Gentleman's Driving Park next Saturday as the members have accepted an invitation to be present at the opening of R. A. Fairbairn's track at Westfield. Those from this city who have been attending the usual Saturday meets at the park will be made welcome at the opening Saturday. A large number will be present from Woodbridge and other places.

The Morristown Field Club, at the earnest request of many owners of good horses in or within driving distance of Morristown, has resolved to hold their third horse show at the Driving Park, Morristown. October 11th, 12th and 13th. They have again engaged the able services of W. S. Blitz, to whom all inquiries should be addressed at the office of the show, 59 Wall street, 4th floor, Room 2. The prize list will be ready for distribution about July 18th and their boxes as heretofore sold at auction at the club house in September.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Night cycle racing in this district will begin for the season at the Vallsburg cycle track tonight. The electric lighting plant that has just been installed at the track has been tested, and it proved satisfactory. The programme for the night will include a half-mile scratch race and a five-mile handicap event for the professionals. The amateur events will be the usual quarter-mile novice dash, a half-mile handicap, and a two-mile tandem handicap. The special event will be an amateur pursuit race, in which Tom Firth, G.G. Embleton, Sam B. Wheeler, James Hunter and Willie Dobbins will compete.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The conductors on the cars of the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company continue to have their troubles with the complicated ticket system which prevails on that line. They are sometimes required to make long explanations before the passengers can be brought to understand what is required of them. It is not so bad during week days in the day time but Saturday nights and Sundays, when the cars are packed, the employes of the trolley company are simply unable to accomplish the necessary work that their position demands. The result is that some of the passengers don't pay at all and others are asked for their fare after they have paid it.

There was considerable excitement early in the week in Newark about the reappearance of "horrible monsters" in the city water. Several of these translucent creatures came through a faucet at 46 Hillside place on Sunday. The horrible in connection with the wiggler lies chiefly in its name, for otherwise it is quite harmless. Last year it was erroneously called a "cyclops," which is an entirely different breed of entomostraca. The proper name of the crustacean found in the Pequannock water is "Branchipus" of the order of branchipoda, indicating by its name that somebody once thought that it breathed with its feet, like the branchiogastropoda. The branchipus is a perfectly innocent little critter, and his presence in the water is an indication that it is wholesome. Country folk call these creatures fresh water shrimp and trout culturists seek to cultivate them as food for their fish.

To Plainfielders who are accustomed to run into New York on every occasion, there is naturally nothing strange in leaving the train at Jersey City and being ferried over to the great metropolis. People who have never visited New York before, however, generally expect to be carried to that city direct. Two young women from the west, who have been visiting in a Plainfield home, made their first trip to New York the other day in company with their hostess, a young Plainfield woman. Of course, they went in by the Jersey Central.

"Jersey City," bawled forth the brakeman as the train pulled into the train shed at the terminus of the line. Everybody in the car rose except the westerners. They sat in their seats and waited. "Come on," called their friend as she hurried toward the door.

"But, Mary," remonstrated the visitors. "This is only Jersey City. What do we want to get out here for. The train will not be here long enough to see anything." It required quite an explanation before the situation was thoroughly understood.

* * * * *

A rich geological discovery was made one day last week at Boonton, where the men are digging out the bed of the Rockaway River to make the foundations for the big dam to hold in Jersey City's new water supply. A huge slab of rock was loosened, and on splitting it open the men noticed a number of strange impressions on the surface of the rock. Whatever the animal or bird was it had three toes eight inches long in front, and one of a smaller length behind and the steps were at regular distances of a few feet apart.

"Golly," exclaimed a colored workmen, "dat's a pritty big chicken dat walked about in dem times. Wonder where dey roost hereabouts?"

The State Geologist's assistant was informed of the "find" and he rushed hastily to the spot to preserve it. He wouldn't say what genus of prehistoric animal it was. It might be a huge saurian, pterodactyl, megatherium, or goodness knows what. He was positive of one thing and that was they were the footprints of a huge beast which walked on the earth millions of years ago when the fossil fishes, recently dug up in the same place, swam in Pliocene streams, free from the small boy and his fishing rod. The slab will be carefully preserved in Trenton.

BIG NEW DEAL IN 'PHONES.

The articles were filed by the lawyer who has filed all of the incorporations of the companies organized by the Widener-Elkins-Whitney syndicate.

TO DRAIN WATCHUNG AVE

STORM SEWER ON THAT THOROUGHFARE TO BE EXTENDED.

Contractor Patsy Christmas Broke Ground This Morning—Two New Catch Basins to Carry Water.

Ground was broken under the Watchung avenue railroad bridge this morning for the extension to the present storm sewer. A gang of Patsy Christmas' men are doing the work. The present storm sewer under Watchung avenue is an egg-shaped brick sewer, 25 inches by 36 inches. There was one catch basin under the railroad bridge that drained into it. On the occasion of every heavy fall of rain the water gathered under the bridge in great puddles, the single catch basin being insufficient to carry the water away fast enough.

The change to be made is an extension of some fifty feet to the sewer. A twenty-four-inch sewer will be laid to Fourth street, with two twelve-inch branches leading to a catch basin in the gutter at either side of the road. A single length of nineteen-inch pipe will be laid out of the man-hole to prepare for a storm sewer out of Fourth street, when one in that direction shall be deemed necessary.

This improvement will prevent the flooding of Watchung avenue under the railroad bridge, and will be completed in a week or so. After the storm sewer is completed, the work of lowering the trolley tracks will be started.

Mrs. Fingerhuth Released.

The Court of Pardons at Trenton yesterday granted a pardon in the case of Mrs. Henrietta Fingerhuth, who was found guilty of killing Paul Roehricht at Somerset Park last September. She has served seven months and would have had to remain sixteen months longer, being unable to pay the fine of $500.

WESTFIELD CITIZEN STRANGELY MISSING.

L. E. Westbrook, Grand Trunk Passenger Agent, Not Seen Since Monday.

WROTE GOODBY TO WIFE.

TOLD HER NEXT TIME SHE SAW HIM HE WOULD BE DEAD.

Fear Mental Derangement—Investigation of His Books Has Thus Far Show No Excuse for His Absence.

L. E. Westbrook, ticket and passenger agent of the Grand Trunk Railroad in New York city, has been missing from his home in Westfield since last Monday morning. His family and friends fear that he has committed suicide or has become a wanderer while suffering from mental aberration.

Vigorous search for him has been going on along private lines since Monday, but with scant clews. In fact, there is practically no trace to be found since he left his home in New Jersey at 8 o'clock Monday morning to come to his office in this city. He was seen to leave the tran at Rahway, and there the trail ends.

Mrs. Westbrook, with her two children, had been visiting friends at Port Jervis. While there she received a note from her husband, presumably written some time between Saturday afternoon and Monday morning.

In this note her husband bade her farewell, and urged her to make no attempt to find him, as the next time she would see him he would be dead.

Westbrook left his office early on last Saturday afternoon, saying that he was going to Westfield to see an amateur baseball game in which some of his friends were playing. When he failed to appear at the Broadway ticket office of the company on Monday there was considerable surprise, and as the morning wore on one of the clerks telephoned to Westfield to inquire if he was ill. The answer came back that he had left as usual at 8 o'clock in the morning for New York.

Search was made of his books and papers for a possible clew to his disappearance. His business affairs apparently were in excellent shape. Not only has investigation failed to reveal any shortage that might account for his absence, but in his safe was found a large amount of cash and negotiable paper, together with funds of his own.

Friends discredit the theory that an entanglement of any sort might have caused his departure, and the only theory they can advance is that his mind has become deranged from overwork.

While his health has been the best, the absence of his assistant on vacation had thrown considerably more work on him than usual, and during the hot days of last week he complained frequently of feeling the effects of the heat.

Westbrook is described as about thirty years old, of blond complexion and light hair, with a slight mustache, tall and of athletic build, and wearing eyeglasses. Before coming to New York he had been connected with the Grand Trunk and also the Lackawanna as outside passenger agent at Buffalo.

Several secret societies of which he is a member are taking active part in the search for him. His wife is prostrated, but is loath to believe that he has killed himself.

LOCOMOBILE SCARED HORSE.

Justice Kitchen and Constable Wyckoff Were Deluged With Buttermilk.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, July 13.—A locomobile, two jugs of buttermilk, a spirited black horse, Justice David Kitchen and Constable Dennis Wyckoff figured in an exciting runaway here Wednesday afternoon. Justice Kitchen and the constable were driving home from a dairy farm with a supply of their favorite beverage when their horse bolted at sight of Voorhees T. Van Fleet's locomobile. To stop the animal they had to turn it into a post. Meantime, both men had been deluged with buttermilk.

Looks Spick and Span.

The hose wagon of No. 1 hose company, of the Plainfield fire department, has just been repainted and varnished. It will be ready for duty the last of the week. Meanwhile the supply wagon has been used as a substitute. On the return of the wagon, the chemical engine will go off duty for a week for the first time since it was purchased. It will be thoroughly overhauled and repainted.

WILL LOWER THE GRADE

PROPOSED CHANGES TO BE MADE UNDER WATCHUNG AVE. BRIDGE.

Greatest Cut Will be of Six Inches—Slope Will be Gradual—Work Will be Started Soon.

As soon as the extension is made to the storm sewer in Watchung avenue, the Plainfield Street Railway will begin on its proposed improvements to Watchung avenue railroad bridge. The great trouble at present, as is generally known, is that the new cars of the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company can only pass under the bridge with difficulty while some of the cars of other lines cannot get under the bridge at all. A temporary change was made nearly two weeks ago that permits some of the big cars to pass, but more room is still needed to enable all.

The permission was granted by the Common Council last Monday evening for the lowering of the grade of the street at that point. It was granted, however, under the specific condition that the street railway company was to bear all the expense and must put the street back in just as good condition as it was before, and that the changes should be so made as not to disturb the general symmetry of the place. This will necessitate changes that will cost the street railway company from $1,000 to $1,500.

At the northern end of the bridge the grade will be lowered six inches. At the other end four inches will be amply sufficient. Watchung avenue will be affected out to Fourth street and as far as the northern crossing at North avenue. North avenue will be slightly lowered as far as the present crossing. Fifty feet of East Third street will also be changed. A gradual slope will thus be made that will permit the lowering of the grade without leaving any bad hummocks or ridges.

If the change in the change in the grade of the street leaves the curbing and sidewalk too high, the company will have to lower them as well.

These changes, it is estimated, will occupy two or three weeks in the making, when it will be possible to run any car under the bridge.

ABANDONED BABY FOUND IN A HEDGE.

Refused Admittance to the Industrial Home When Taken There Late Last Night.

TAKEN CARE OF BY POLICE.

ITS PLAINTIVE CRIES HEARD BY L. V. F. RANDOLPH'S FAMILY.

The Waif is a Boy About Four Months Old and Appears to be Healthy—Nothing to Identify the Parents.

For some time last evening the members of L. V. F. Randolph's family of East Front street, thought they heard the shrill cries of an infant coming from some point on Farragut road near their residence. Finally, when at 10 o'clock the cries still continued, an investigation was made and to their surprise a bright little baby was found lying in the hedge that skirts their property. The police were telephoned for and Captain Kiely immediately went to the spot. He picked the child up and carried it to the police station.

Here it was found to be a boy baby, between three and four months old, and very healthy. It was dressed in long clothes of plain white material, but with no marks that would lead to identification. A new lace cap was on its head. The child was quite cold from lying on the ground, where it had been for nearly two hours, but upon being placed on a hastily-constructed bed on the station floor, it became quite cheerful and smiled gleefully at the officers.

The problem that then confronted the police was what was to be done with the little waif. As the city has never had any provision made for such cases, the police were at a loss as to where it could be taken until the Captain thought of the Industrial Home. He attempted to get Superintendent TenEyck on the telephone, but failing to do so he called a cab and resolved to go up to the home.

In company with two reporters the start was made but upon their arrival it was found that Mr. TenEyck had been gotten on the wire and had been informed of their coming.

As the carriage turned into Rock avenue the Superintendent was seen to come out of the front door of the home and lock the door after him. When the Captain stepped from the carriage he was informed in polite but forcible terms that the institution was for old and not for young people, and under no circumstances would he permit the child to be left there. Mr. TenEyck even refused to let the Captain enter the building to use the telephone, saying that once the officer got in he would leave the child. He was finally prevailed upon to let the Captain enter. Mr. TenEyck afterward agreed to let the waif remain if one of the women inmates would take care of it until morning. One of them was awakened, but in loud tones she declined to act as nurse.

There was nothing else to do but take the waif back to the police station and place it in Doorman Flanigan's care until morning. A supply of milk and a bottle was secured, and the child was made comfortable for the night.

This morning Acting Overseer of the Poor Huston made arrangements to have it properly taken care of by the city and it will probably be placed at the Industrial Home. The police have small hopes of finding the party that abandoned the waif as there are no marks of any kind upon the clothes to aid them.

MR MARTINE WAS NOT AGGRESSIVE ENOUGH

That Is Why He Was Not Selected as Jersey's Representative on Platform Committee.

DALY HUSTLED FOR VOTES

DELEGATES DID NOT KNOW OF MARTINE'S ASPIRATIONS TILL TOO LATE.

The "Farmer Orator's" Experience With the New Jersey Delegation Was Not a "Turndown" Nor Humiliating.

Since the Kansas City convention there has been much newspaper comment in New Jersey—and in the New Jersey departments of New York papers—about the alleged "turning down" of James E. Martine as a candidate for a place on the platform committee of the National convention. The incident in which the "Farmer Orator" has figured in this respect has been much magnified and exaggerated, however, and Mr. Martine has been represented as being humiliated and ignored in a serious manner by certain leading members of the New Jersey delegation. No such state of affairs existed, however, as Mr. Martine's desire to on the most important committee of the convention was not pronounced or aggressive enough at any time to warrant construing his failure to be named as an indication that he had lost prestige with his colleagues in the delegation. The plain facts about the matter are these:

When the New Jersey delegates departed from Jersey City for Kansas City it was understood that Congressman Daly desired to be chairman of the delegation. Mr. Daly at that time solicited the vote and support of Mr. Martine for the position, and the latter assured the Congressman that he would aid him all that was possible in this direction. Up to that time Mr. Martine had expressed no preference for honors of any kind at the hands of the delegates, but shortly after the trip was commenced some of his friends urged him to become a candidate for committeeman on platform and resolutions. Mr. Martine consented to the use of his name, and in doing so he was urged to make his determination known to the other delegates so that he might avoid a contest with any other delegate who might desire the same place. Instead of announcing himself as a candidate for the place, Mr. Martine remained silent to the other delegates about the matter until the situation became complicated and prevented his selection—not, however, in the desire of his colleagues to ignore his candidacy but rather because of his neglect to make his wishes known until a majority of the delegates had agreed to support Daly for committee on resolutions.

Daly's change of candidacy from the chairmanship to the committee on resolutions was brought about by William Gourley, chairman of the State committee. While Daly and Gourley seem to be good friends once again, the latter does not hesitate to say openly and above board that he cares but little for Daly's brand of politics. When Daly went to Gourley as the train was speeding towards Kansas City and asked the latter to support him for chairman, Gourley bluntly told him that he was unalterably opposed to his selection as chairman of the delegation. Then it was that Daly suddenly got out of the race for chairman, but in doing so he pleaded with Gourley to advocate and support his candidacy for membership on the platform committee. At that time Gourley was not aware that Martine desired to be on the platform committee, and in the absence of such information or any talk with the "Farmer Orator" about the matter Gourley agreed to support Daly in his new candidacy.

Daly is not one who, like Martine, waits for his friends to urge him to the front for honors at such a moment, and he started out immediately to importune the other members of the delegation to support him in his new candidacy. Daly did not tell of his unsatisfactory interview with Gourley about the chairmanship, but explained that his health was so bad that he could not perform the "arduous" duties of chairman. It is a fact, though, that membership on the committee on resolutions involved five times the work that the chairmanship did. It was not long before Daly had made the rounds of the delegates interviewing them about his new candidacy.

In the meantime Mr. Martine had done nothing towards advancing his claims for a position on the platform committee. In fact, a majority of the NEWSPAPER WOMAN ALLEGES AN INSULT.

Says That Colored Man Offended Her on the Street by His Remarks.

CASE HEARD IN CITY COURT.

HOTEL NETHERWOOD WAITER ACCUSED OF THE OFFENCE.

Prisoner Claims it is a Case of Mistaken Identity and in Order to Hear His Witnesses Trial Will be Continued Tomorrow.

While walking along one of the principal thoroughfares of this city at midday yesterday, Mrs. Lillian F. Bishop was repeatedly insulted by a colored man. The street was deserted at the time and she was compelled to seek safety in a store. William H. VanBlake, who is employed as a waiter at the Hotel Netherwood, was arrested on the charge of being the man. Mrs. Bishop was positive in City Court this morning that he was the man, while VanBlake was equally positive that it was a case of mistaken identity.

Mrs. Bishop is well-known in New York newspaper circles as Lillian Richardson, a special writer for the New York Herald. She is spending the summer at one of the cottages near the Mountain Park Inn.

Mrs. Bishop came down town early yesterday afternoon. She left the trolley car at North avenue and started down that street. She walked quite rapidly and passed several colored men. One of them, she says, made some very insulting remarks and called the attention of his companions to her. He continued to insult her, she says, for some distance.

She turned into Lister's bicycle shop and asked the lad there where she could find a policeman. The colored man passed by as she stood at the door and both Mrs. Bishop and the lad testify that he used further insulting language.

Mrs. Bishop afterwards made a complaint to Patrolman McCarty who arrested VanBlake as the man. Mrs. Bishop and the lad state that they are positive that he is the one.

VanBlake appeared in city court this morning with Law Student Willie Sweeney as his counsel. Judge Runyon informed the law student that, considering the provisions of the practice act, he felt it necessary to say that he could not recognize Sweeney as the legal representative of the prisoner and would expect him to get an attorney when the case came up. During the preliminary examination, however, the Judge allowed Sweeney to talk a little.

Mrs. Bishop and her witness told their story and then VanBlake explained that it was another man, who somewhat resembled him, who had caused the trouble, and that he, the prisoner, had not said a word to Mrs. Bishop.

The trial will be continued tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, when VanBlake's witnesses will be examined.

ACTED CRAZY.

Harris Rosenthal Raised Havoc in His Son's House Where He was Visiting.

The noise of breaking glass and loud shouts summoned Patrolman Meyers to North avenue at midnight last night. Patrolman Flannagan had also been called. Harris Rosenthal, of New York, came out to visit his son at 173 North avenue. In the night he imagined some one was pursuing him and trying to injure him and his son was unable to control him.

Rosenthal became quite violent and smashed the windows. When the officer came he emptied a pail of water over him. The shouts and cries attracted considerable attention. The officers found it impossible to quiet the man so they were compelled to lock him up.

In city court this morning the son explained to the Judge that his father had had a very narrow escape from a fatal accident recently and that the great shock had affected his nerves. The Judge released the man on the promise of his son to see him safely to his home in New York.

APOLOGIZED FOR CITY.

WALTER HOCKRIDGE EXONERATED IN CITY COURT.

Judge Runyon Declared That the Young Man Was Entirely Innocent of Charge Made.

Walter Hockridge, who was arrested on the night before Independence Day by Patrolman Myers for alleged participation in the bell-ringing episode at the Park Avenue Baptist church, was fully vindicated in City Court this morning. Hockridge's trial was set down for last week, but it was adjourned until this morning. Since that time City Judge Runyon and the police have made a careful investigation and found that Hockridge was entirely innocent of the charges brought against him.

It will be remembered that a crowd of young men and boys broke into the Park Avenue Baptist church the night before the Fourth to ring the bell. They did considerable damage. Patrolman Myers arrived on the scene in time to see the crowd scatter. Hockridge was standing on the corner and was placed under arrest.

When Hockridge was arrested he and his friends protested that he was merely watching the crowd but the officer thought otherwise and took him to police headquarters where he was subsequently released by Mayor Rockfellow.

In court this morning Judge Runyon declared that a careful investigation proved that Hockridge had had nothing to do with the breaking and entering at the church. Former Judge W. A. Coddington, as Hockridge's counsel, also made a statement telling how Hockridge and a few of his friends had simply watched the proceedings from the corner and had taken no part in them. He also told of Hockridge's excellent character.

The Judge expressed great regret that the arrest had been made and said that he wanted to publicly announce that Hockridge was entirely innocent of the charge and that the city was very sorry that the thing had happened. It was a complete vindication for the lad.

TROLLEY FARE CUT IN HALF.

Westfield to Rahway Rate Now Five Cents—Reduced Fare from Elizabeth to Boynton Beach.

The Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company has reduced the trolley fare from Westfield to Rahway from 10 to 5 cents, and passengers are now being carried from the Westfield to the Rahway depots for that price. The reduction of the fare was expected and is hailed with delight.

Since the main line of the company has been in operation between Plainfield and Elizabeth a system of tickets with coupons, good to the several places along the line, have been used. There have been many complaints about these tickets of an unwarranted nature, for the trolley company claims the coupon system of tickets was used to enable the passengers to be accommodated to the best advantage. When a fare is paid a coupon is given the passenger to his destination, if beyond Cranford or Westfield.

The company is now preparing a ticket which will be good for a continuous ride from Elizabeth to Boynton Beach for 20 cents, providing the passenger asks for the ticket when the fare is paid. The regular fare to Boynton Beach at the present time is 25 cents. This new ticket will be put in use at an early date.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

Miss Anna C. Ross Becomes the Wife of a Philadelphian.

The marriage of Miss Anna C. Ross, daughter of Mrs. A. H. Ross, of Plainfield avenue, to A. Lincoln Craven, of Philadelphia, took place Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's mother. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of which the bride is a member. The maid-of-honor was Miss Ida P. Ross, sister of the bride; the best man was Rupert Smith, of West Philadelphia, and the ushers were Walter L. Holmes, of Frankford, Pa., and Edward Field, of New York. After an extended bridal trip the couple will take up their residence in Philadelphia, where the groom is engaged in the publishing business.

KNOX SAID HE SPIT BECAUSE OF INSULTS.

Declared in City Court That Loizeaux Has Been Continually "Guying" Him.

COULDN'T STAND IT LONGER.

LOIZEAUX DENIES THE CHARGES MADE BY KNOX.

The Incident Occurred on the Arrival of the 5:30 p. m. Train From New York Saturday—Judge Reserved Decision.

The trial of Hugh R. Knox, of 330 Webster place, charged with spitting in the face of William Loizeaux, of Brook avenue, Saturday afternoon, was held in the city court before Judge Runyon this morning. Former Judge W. A. Coddington appeared for Mr. Knox while Mr. Loizeaux argued his own case. The Judge reserved his decision in the case until next Monday.

Mr. Loizeaux testified that coming out in the 5:30 train Saturday afternoon Knox had apparently tried to attract his attention all the way out. When the Plainfield station was reached, Loizeaux went out the other end of the car to avoid him but met him on the platform and that Knox deliberately spit in Loizeaux's face. Knox, he continued, afterwards declared that he was satisfied as Loizeaux and "two other drunks" had insulted him in the train. Loizeaux stated that he had never spoken to Knox in his life and hardly knew who he was.

Mr. Lough, who had been with Loizeaux, merely testified as to the spitting in the station and that regarding Knox's words afterward.

Mr. Knox's story was that Mr. Loizeaux had been making a practice of guying him where ever they met on the street or train and that one evening Loizeaux and two companions had make loud remarks casting grave reflections on Mr. Knox's former career as an army officer and on his ancestry. This, he said, happened in the smoking car one evening coming out from New York. He also stated other times, when, he said, Loizeaux had insulted him. Saturday afternoon, Loizeaux, he declared, had bumped into him with his dress-suit case with unnecessary force. He had, he admitted, tried to spit in Loizeaux's face.

Lawyer Coddington made an earnest plea in behalf of his client asking for a suspension of sentence, claiming that the circumstances were extenuating. Harry C. West, of Westfield, was put on the stand and remembered the incident on the train and was pretty certain that Loizeaux was the young men.

Loizeaux explained that he never rode in the smoking car and never said a word to Knox in his life. He was quite positive, that, if anything of the kind had happened, that it was a case of mistaken identity.

Loizeaux is a young man of excellent reputation in Plainfield. Mr. Knox is a traffic manager of a large New York manufacturing company with offices at No. 1 Broadway, New York. He is a Mason and has a large circle of acquaintances in this city among whom he is held in high esteem.

TO OPEN CAMPAIGN.

Republican Massmeeting Being Arranged, Which the President and Other Notables May Attend.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, July 13.—Arrangements are under way for a big Republican massmeeting to be held in Asbury Park some time in August. T. Frank Appleby, president of the City Council, and Frederick S. Gibbs, Republican national committeeman of New York, who has a cottage here, have the plan under discussion and are busy arranging for its success, which already seems assured.

Senator Hanna, who will then be at the Murphy cottage in Elberon, will be appealed to assist in making the meeting a memorable one. An invitation will be sent to President McKinley, and with the strong political influences that are at work, it seems almost certain that both Mr. Hanna and the Chief Executive will attend. Others who will be invited include Senators Platt, Depew, Sewell and Kean, New Jersey's representatives in Congress, Governor Voorhees, Governor Roosevelt and other great men of the Republican party.

Says It Is Useless.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—During the recent hot wave, when everyone suffered from the extreme heat, I was walking up Somerset street with a prominent resident of the borough. Said he: "The men who wanted to cut down these shade trees must have thought of it some cool day. Just imagine what it would mean for pedestrians if all these fine trees the whole length of the street were cut down? I tell you it is an outrage!" said he, warning up to his subject. "I've talked with property owners on both sides of the street, and they are almost unanimously opposed to the proposed widening of the street and consequent sacrifice of the trees. Just look at the logic of it: Here Somerset street has been and is the principal business street of the borough, and up to this time has been able to accommodate all the business wagons, teams, carriages, trolley cars, etc, and that without overcrowding.

"Now that the street has been relieved by the opening of Watchung avenue, and the prospective opening of Duer street, nothing will do for our economical Mayor and Councilmen but to spend the people's money for something they neither want nor need—that is, the widening of Somerset street. Wait, I say, until there is some evidence of a real need and if in five, ten or fifteen years the people want it, it will then be time enough to give it to them. What the Council should do this year, in my opinion, is to establish a building line with a view to a wider street, so that all buildings erected from now on shall be free from the liability of damage should the street be widened at any time.

"I have been interested in Borough property for many years, paying large taxes and doing all in my power to promote the prosperity of North Plainfield", said the boroughite, "but I fail to see the presesent need of tearing up the street which is now in good condition, sacrificing the shade trees and subjecting our people to the discomfort of half a year of torn up streets and blocked travel."

These remarks seemed to me so pertinent that I send them to you as another view of a question which is now of interest to many taxpayers.

WOOD COMING HOME.

Governor General of Cuba Will Leave Tomorrow.

ISLAND CONDITIONS SATISFACTORY.

A Majority of the People Content With What the United States Is Doing For Them—Marriage Law to Be Changed.

HAVANA, July 13.—Governor General Wood has definitely decided to leave for the United States tomorrow. He says he desires to consult President McKinley with regard to certain matters connected with Cuba. The governor general adds that the island is in as prosperous condition as it can possibly be until a definite future of some kind has been settled upon and that the United States government has gone in the direction of giving the Cubans self government as fast as possible under the conditions found. He is satisfied from assurances received from various parts of the island, given not only by the highest officials, but by men of wealth and influence who do not desire office, that a great majority of the Cubans are satisfied with what has been done toward keeping the promises made to the Cuban people.

Governor General Wood considers the proposed constitutional convention as one of the most important events in the history of the island, a practical capping to the stonework already erected. He says that in the recent elections the Cubans showed an example that might well be followed by other nations.

The governor general has decided to alter the law issued over a year ago making marriages by religious forms alone illegal and requiring a civil ceremony. The new law will make any priest or clergyman of a recognized religious denomination a civil official when performing marriages and will make it necessary for the officiating clergyman to report such marriages to the civil authorities. This will be welcomed by a large majority of the Cubans, especially the women, who never liked the idea that the only legal marriage was a civil one.

A number of employers have made application to Mayor Rodriguez to permit them to keep their stores open until 10 o'clock at night. A counter application will be made on behalf of the employees. The employers say that the decree obliging them to close their establishments at 8 o'clock is an invasion of the rights of taxpayers, who should have the right to purchase the necessaries of life as long as the stores choose to keep open.

Greedy Populists In South Dakota.

YANKTON, S. D., July 13.—Both Democratic and Populist conventions yesterday received the representative of the conference committee previously appointed. After a heated discussion a substitute for the report of the committee was adopted and the committees were instructed to confer again under instructions from the convention. The Populists claimed two electors, two congressmen, governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general and general commissioner of public lands. The Democrats stood out for one congressman and two electors, but were willing to concede any of the other offices. The conference committee finally agreed upon the substitute reported back to the Populist convention to their committee. The Democratic convention then marched into the Populist tent amid great enthusiasm. Joseph B. Moore and Andrew E. Lee were nominated for congress. D. H. Lien of Sioux Falls was nominated for governor.

Jacob Beam, a brakeman on the wildcat train, and Conductor Perry Singer jumped just in time to save their lives. In the wreck there are 40 ice cars and a number of other cars belonging to the wildcat train.

ROOSEVELT NOTIFIED.

Receives the Committee at His Long Island Home.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 13.—On the breeze swept veranda of Sagamore, his country home, Governor Theodore Roosevelt was officially notified of his nomination for vice president on the Republican national ticket. The ceremony was so simple as to be almost informal. Surrounded by the members of the committee on notification, a little party of invited guests, Mrs. Roosevelt and the rest of his family, the hero of San Juan listened to the address of notification by Senator Wolcott of Colorado, chairman of the committee. There was no attempt at ceremony. The party simply ranged themselves about the wide veranda which commands a magnificent view of Long Island sound, and Senator Wolcott, practically without preliminaries of any kind, delivered a short address. To this the governor responded briefly, and then luncheon was served. An hour was spent in general conversation on the cool porches, and then the party returned to Oyster Bay, where a special train was waiting to convey them back to New York.

There were a number of the members of the notification committee not present. A number of invited guests accompanied the party, most of them prominent New Yorkers. Members of the notification committee present were Senator Wolcott of Colorado, the chairman; J. B. Thompson, Colorado; A. J. Sloper, Connecticut; Alvin D. Connor, Delaware; C. S. Hernly, Indiana; J. J. Marsh, Iowa; J. T. Bradley, Kansas; Albert Pierce, Maine; Alexander Laverty, Nebraska; Albert Wallace, New Hampshire; F. V. Greene, New York; T. S. Rollins, North Carolina; G. C. Rawlins, Ohio; J. H. Murdock, Pennsylvania; L. B. Darling, Rhode Island; Emil Brauch, South Dakota; C. G. Smithers, Virginia; James Reynolds, Wisconsin; John E. Jones, District of Columbia; W. L. McWilliams, Indian Territory; John S. Long, Florida; O. C. Strong, Oklahoma.

BURIED FOUR DAYS.

Girl Hypnotized and Placed In the Ground Raised Well and Happy.

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 13.—Either charlatanism or magic of the most wonderful nature lies back of the apparent raising from the dead here yesterday of pretty 16-year-old Maud Matthews.

In the presence of a thousand persons, unbelievers, scoffers and the skeptical, Miss Matthews was raised from a grave which she had occupied since last Monday, and when the coffin was opened she stepped forth and met the half frightened onlookers with a cheery "Hello!"

Last Monday morning the young girl was put under hypnotic influence. A coffin, such as is ordinarily used, was procured, and she was placed in it. The body of the girl was then borne to Woodland park, and a grave having been previously prepared the coffin was lowered five feet into the grave and the dirt and stones thrown in and over it. To make the affair as realistic as possible the earth was mounded over. Then the burial party left.

Hodgson's Escape Marvelous.

ACCRA, Gold Coast Colony, July 13.—Sir Frederic Mitchell Hodgson, governor of the colony, who recently arrived here after having been besieged at Kumassi by rebellious tribesmen and who bears signs of the hardships and privations to which he has been subjected, in the course of an interview had with him said he considered his escape the most marvelous on record. He attributed its success to the secrecy maintained concerning the route chosen. The carriers who accompanied him became so weakened by starvation that everything was abandoned, and the party subsisted upon plantains. They endured great hardships. Fortunately the rains were not heavy. Had it been otherwise all would probably have succumbed. Lady Hodgson pluckily shared all the dangers and privations.

An Aerolite Explodes.

NEW ORLEANS, July 13.—A large aerolite or meteroic stone burst over the small town of Bellefontaine, in Webster county, Miss., between 9 and 10 o'clock Wednesday night, completely wrecking the general store and warehouse of Hodge & Mabry. The explosion was witnessed by a large number of persons who were standing near by, but none of them was hurt. It was a bright moonlight night. A large ball of fire dashed suddenly and rapidly through the air. It burst just over the store with a loud explosion, and the air was filled with hundreds of shooting stars.

British Seize an Island.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 13.—The steamer Miowera, from Sydney, brings the story of planting of the British flag on Nieu or Savage island by the British cruiser Porpoise in June. The island is situated 300 miles northeast of the Tongan group, exports 700 tons of copra annually and has a fertile soil. The Miowera also has news of the reappearance of Falcon island, which disappeared in 1898, supposedly from the action of a submarine volcano, and now stands out on the waters in the form of a whale's back.

Many People Burned.

BOSTON, July 13.—It is believed that more than 50 persons were burned or otherwise injured by the explosion of an oil tank on a freight car in the Mystic Junction freight yards of the Southern division of the Boston and Maine railroad at East Somerville about 10 o'clock last night. Two of the cases at the Somerville hospital are believed to be fatal, and there are 11 other patients there suffering from burns all over their bodies. At the Massachusetts General hospital in this city there are many more.

Bank Cashier Arrested.

NEWARK, N. J., July 13.—Charles R. Westervelt, secretary and treasurer of the Dime Savings bank of this city, is under arrest, charged with stealing between $38,000 and $40,000 from the bank. The arrest was made on the strength of the examination of the affairs of the bank now being conducted by State Bank Examiner Martin Lager of Asbury Park.

Narrow Escape From Drowning.

GENEVA, N. Y., July 13.—Six persons narrowly escaped drowning in Seneca lake by the capsizing of a sailboat. They were in the water for nearly two hours. Owing to the high wind it was impossible to reach them sooner. Much damage is reported in this vicinity from the storm. It was the severest storm on Seneca lake for some time.

Treaty Ratified by Italy.

ROME, July 13.—The chamber of deputies has approved the commercial treaty between the United States and Italy.

M'KINLEY NOTIFIED.

Official Committee Greets the President at Home.

CROWDS WITNESS THE CEREMONIES.

Senator Lodge's Announcement and the Nominee's Reply Enthusiastically Received by Throngs in Attendance—Other Speeches.

CANTON, O., July 13.—Under an azure sky, with the sunlight glinting through the leafy trees, with the banner of the republic draped above him, William McKinley was yesterday officially notified of his second nomination by the Republican party for the highest office in the civilized world. Grouped about him were leading men of his party, while surrounding his Canton home were the friends among whom he has lived for more than 30 years, together with vast crowds from the surrounding towns of his native state. The scene was inspiring as, to the eloquent words of Senator Lodge, the president responded in a ringing speech. There was enthusiasm enough and to spare, and to many of the pointed utterances of both Senator Lodge and the president there was hearty and cordial approval shown.

Important features of the speech of notification by Senator Lodge and the response by President McKinley were the references to the Chinese situation. This caused a great deal of discussion during the conferences following the formal speechmaking, and the impression created was that these utterances were a notification to the world that the United States intended to preserve all its rights in China. The impressive portions of the president's speech were his references to the maintenance of the gold standard and the financial public faith, the preservation of a protective tariff, the enlargement of our market and especially the catchy phrase, "Prosperity at home and prestige abroad."

When he asked, "Shall we go back to the tariff of four years ago?" there were shouts of "No, no!" from every part of the audience. A prolonged cheer greeted his words relative to the maintenance of our authority in the Philippines. There was a most impressive shout when he declared that there should be continued legislative control over the territory possessed by the United States and another outburst when he said such authority would be coupled with "liberty and humanity." His declaration that the United States had reclaimed "10,000,000 human beings from imperialism" was a decided hit, and there were many requests for him to repeat the sentence. This turn of the word used so much by the opposition was considered one of the adroit features of the speech.

The president seemed at his best. His appearance indicated splendid health, and his voice rang out in clarion tones, reaching the outskirts of the vast throng which surrounded the house and extended over the lawn and across the street. Speaking from the same place where he received the formal notification four years ago and in the presence of men in hearty accord with his policy and principles, he could not but create a favorable impression and receive, as he did, the most hearty applause of his listeners.

While the speech of the president closed the formal notification there had not been oratory enough for the gathering, and other speakers were called for. Senator Fairbanks of Indiana, Senator Hanna, chairman of the national committee; Charles Emory Smith, postmaster general; Colonel Parker of Hawaii and Senator Lodge were heard, the last named speaking twice.

In his second speech Senator Lodge resented the criticism of President McKinley by his opponents and pointed out the difficulty Bryan would have in selecting a cabinet from the men prominent in the conventions at Kansas City and Sioux Falls. The notification committee and party came from Cleveland on a special train, making the run in an hour and 21 minutes. They were met at the station and in carriages escorted to the home of President McKinley. The Tippecanoe club of Cleveland was given the place of honor next to the band. The American flag floated from many business houses and residences along the route of the procession. Other delegations from nearby cities and towns helped to swell the large throng which gathered to honor one of Canton's famous citizens and to contribute their share toward making the second notification of Mr. McKinley a day long to be remembered as a historical and interesting event in the city of Canton.

After the luncheon had been served the party leaders went with the president into the house. There were a number of informal conferences, but the time was devoted almost wholly to giving the visitors an opportunity to become personally acquainted with the president. While there was a considerable discussion of politics and future policies this was confined largely to the members of the national committee. As the afternoon wore on the crowds about the president's home gradually dispersed. At 4:40 p. m. the last of the Cleveland party, including Senator Hanna, Mr. Bliss, Mr. Payne and others, left the McKinley residence to take the train for home. President McKinley accompanied them to their carriages and bade them goodby. The people who still lingered about the premises cheered the president. He returned to the house, and the notification ceremonies were over.

BOERS DEFEAT BRITISH.

A Sharp Fight Near Pretoria—Imperial Troops Lose Heavily.

LONDON, July 13.—Lord Roberts' dispatch reporting still another unfortunate occurrence throws a serious light upon the state of affairs in South Africa. There has been some comment recently regarding the virtual absence of progress by the immense army under command of Lord Roberts, but few could have been found to believe that the scattered Boers were able to inflict such a defeat so near Pretoria.

Instead of the surrender of all of the remaining Boers being imminent, as recent telegrams had hinted, it seems they have been making a concerted attempt to surround or recapture Pretoria.

Lord Roberts reports to the war office, under date of Pretoria, July 12, as follows:

"The enemy, having failed in their attack upon our right rear, as mentioned in my telegram of July 9, made a determined attack upon our right flank yesterday and, I regret to say, succeeded in capturing Nitral's nek, which was garrisoned by a squadron of the Scots Grays, with two guns of a battery of the royal artillery and five companies of the Lincolnshire regiment.

"The enemy attacked in superior numbers at dawn and, seizing the hills commanding the nek, brought a heavy fire to bear upon the small garrison.

"Nitral's nek is about 18 miles from here, near where the road crosses the Crocodile river. It was held by us in order to maintain road and telegraphic communication with Rustenburg.

"The fighting lasted, more or less, throughout the day, and immediately on receiving information early this morning of the enemy's strength I dispatched reenforcements from here under Colonel Godfrey of the King's Own Scottish Borderers. Before, however, they reached the spot the garrison had been overpowered, and the guns and a greater portion of the squadron of the Grays had been captured owing to the horses being shot; also about 90 men of the Lincoln regiment.

"A list of the casualties has not been received, but I fear they are heavy."

Dutch Consul a Prisoner.

AMSTERDAM, July 13.—The Red Cross society has learned that the Dutch consul at Pretoria and members of the Second Dutch ambulance corps were sent to Pretoria as prisoners yesterday. It is charged that they carried letters into the Boer lines. The Dutch foreign office has telegraphed the embassador of the Netherlands in London to take measures for their release.

Arrested For Forgery.

SARATOGA, July 13.—A man dressed in United States infantry officer's uniform and who gave his name as Major Fred Noble of Los Angeles was arrested here on the charge of passing forged checks here, at Ballston Spa and other places. He says that his real name is Jackson Frederick Gillette, but that "Fred Noble" was the name he used in the army. He claims to have served on the frontier, in Cuba and in the Philippines, but refuses to state what command he was attached to.

Surgeons Ordered to Nome.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—As a result of a conference yesterday between Assistant Secretary Taylor and the officials of the marine hospital service two additional surgeons have been ordered to proceed at once from San Francisco to Seattle and thence by boat to Cape Nome to assist in stamping out the smallpox now epidemic at that point. They will be fully supplied with fumigating apparatus and materials and will take with them 5,000 additional vaccine points.

Joe Patchen Is Fast.

DETROIT, July 13.—The fastest mile thus far made this season and the fastest ever gone in Canada was paced on the Windsor track yesterday by Joe Patchen. The black stallion also went one of the fastest quarters ever seen, covering one of his last quarter miles in 29½ seconds, a 1:58 gait. The match race between Patchen and John R. Gentry was a fine, hard driven contest and was won by Patchen in two straight heats by a couple of lengths in both cases.

Canned Salmon For Europe.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 13.—Seven vessels with a capacity of 414,000 cases have been chartered to carry this season's pack of the British Columbia salmon canneries to European markets. Last year there were nine vessels with a capacity of over 500,000 cases. This is an off year for salmon, and besides this the pack was probably curtailed by the fishermen's strike on Fraser river.

When a Check Becomes a Note.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Jersey City, July 13.—Judge Blair decided in the Hudson County Court yesterday that a man signing his name to a worthless check did not commit forgery. John S. Kruger was a grocery of Hoboken, and his place was destroyed by fire. It was insured, and, anticipating receiving the insurance, Kruger made a check and dated four days later. A wholesale firm pressed him hard for the settlement, and he assigned to them the claim against the insurance. The check returned marked "no funds," and the holder of the check had Kruger indicted for forgery. His lawyer made a motion yesterday that the indictment be quashed, as a check dated several days later than that on which it was drawn made it a note. He also contended that Kruger's signature was genuine and not a forgery. Prosecutor Erwin cited authorities to sustain his contention that the indictment was proper, but Judge Blair ordered the indictment quashed.

Troubles Of a Minister

To benefit others Rev. J. T. W. Vernon, of Hartwell, Ga., writes: "For a long time I had a running sore on my leg. I tried many remedies without benefit, until I used a bottle of Electric Bitters and a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which cured me sound and well." Sores, Eruption, Boils, Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum show impure blood. Thousands have found in Electric Bitters a grand blood purifier that absolutely cures these troubles. Satisfaction is guaranteed or money refunded by L. W. Randolph. Large bottles only 50c.

HOW TO ECONOMIZE.

SOME men economize so closely on the number of words in a telegram that the receiver cannot understand it. This is not sensible economy. Neither is it sensible economy to ruin garments of value with cheap soap or powerful chemicals that eat into the fabric. True economy uses Ivory Soap in the laundry. It is the most of pure soap that can be sold for the money. Chemically it is as innocent as water. Yet it does everything you can ask of a soap. Try it!

AS TOLD IN SHANGHAI

Only Peking News Comes From That Source.

TUAN'S ATTACK ON THE LEGATIONS.

All Foreigners Again Reported Dead. Prince Ching Killed and Troops Defeated—Li Hung Chang Will Not Leave Canton.

LONDON, July 13.—A terrible veil of silence enshrouds Peking, and there is nobody but believes the worst has happened. It is taken for granted that all the powers have exhausted every means to get direct news from their legations, and the fact that their efforts have been vain leaves but one interpretation.

The Chinese representative in Berlin denies the statement that Li Hung Chang had sent to him a hopeful telegram. He says that, on the contrary, no direct telegram has been received by him from Li Hung Chang for some time past.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Mail says the following story regarding the position in Peking emanates from Chinese official sources:

"The two remaining legations, the British and Russian, were attacked in force on the evening of July 6, Prince Tuan being in command. The attackers were divided. Prince Tuan commanded the center, the right wing was led by Prince Tsai Yin and the left by Prince Yin Lin. The reserves were under Prince Tsin Yu.

"The attack commenced with artillery fighting, which was severe and lasted until 7 o'clock in the morning, by which time both legations were destroyed and all the foreigners were dead, while the streets around the legations were full of the dead bodies of both foreigners and Chinese.

"Upon hearing of the attack Prince Ching and General Wang Wen Shao went with troops to the assistance of the foreigners, but they were outnumbered and defeated. Both Prince Ching and General Wang Wen Shao were killed.

"Two foreigners are said to have escaped through the gates, one with a heavy sword wound in his head.

"Prince Tuan, in celebration of the victory, distributed 100,000 taels to the Boxers."

The Canton correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, wiring July 11, says:

"Li Hung Chang has decided to remain here, and the American gunboat which was waiting to convey him en route to Peking will sail tomorrow."

MINISTER WU'S DISPATCH.

Its Validity Shaken by London Reports—Recent Washington Plans.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The good impression made by the edict of the Chinese government given out by Minister Wu Wednesday threatens to be offset to some extent by the reports from London stating that Prince Tuan was the real author of this edict and that some of its most forcible antiforeign language was omitted from the version given out here. But at the Chinese legation these intimations from London are dismissed as groundless. The dispatch was received here in Chinese—that is, in the numerals by which the Chinese government transmits its official code messages. This in itself, it is said, indicates that it came with the sanction of those in imperial authority, as the official code is not known outside of this limited circle.

The Japanese legation has received a dispatch from Tokyo giving briefly the details of the assassination of Baron von Ketteler at Peking and the fighting round Tien-tsin. The dispatch was sent from Tokyo July 4, but was in some way subjected to great delay along the Siberian route. It states that the German minister was killed by a shot and that it is not known whether the mob element or the soldiery is responsible for the shooting. The Japanese report of the fighting around Tien-tsin is similar to that already conveyed in the press dispatches.

It is inferred at the war department that Colonel Liscum and the two battalions of the Ninth infantry which arrived at Taku on Friday have reached Tien-tsin. Colonel Liscum was given free hand in the matter of an advance, and it is thought by prompt movement he already has reached the beleaguered city of Tien-tsin, where, according to today's advices to the British admiralty, re-enforcements were urgently needed.

In view of the prospective military operations in China the quartermaster's department is favorably considering the advisability of establishing a regular service between Taku and Nagasaki and using the transport Logan and the freight ships Flintshire and Wyefield for that purpose. The Logan carried the Ninth infantry from Manila to Taku, and it is now at the latter port. The Flintshire and the Wyefield are scheduled to leave Manila today with two battalions of the Fourteenth infantry and a battery of the Thirteenth artillery for Taku.

Italy's Purpose Defined.

ROME, July 13.—The Marquis Visconti-Venosta, minister of foreign affairs, responding in the chamber of deputies to an interpellation regarding the intentions of the government as to China, said: "The cabinet has no political intentions toward expansion or intrigue in China. Its programme is to maintain perfect accord between Italy and the other powers. A fleet and some troops represent the participation of Italy in the common task. We cannot leave entirely to others the protection of our national rights, nor are we disinterested in the work of mutual interests and civilization which the powers are seeking to carry on in China."

Germany Engages Transports.

HAMBURG, July 13.—The Boersenhalle announces that the Hamburg-American line has leased four and the North German Lloyd line six steamers to the marine minister for the transportation of 12,000 troops and ammunition to China.

Educators Elect Officers.

CHARLESTON, July 13.—The National Educational association elected J. M. Green of the State Normal school, Trenton, president of the association. L. C. Greenlee of Colorado was chosen treasurer to succeed Pearse of Omaha. Irwin Shepard of Winona, Minn., holds over as secretary.

Consul Hay Coming Home.

CAPE TOWN, July 13.—United States Consul Adelbert S. Hay of Pretoria is about to return to the United States. Batches of prisoners are arriving here daily from the front. One lot contained 38 English and Irish names.

Patagonia and Australia Were One.

PRINCETON, N. J., July 13.—The senior department of Princeton university will shortly issue a series of elaborate geographic volumes as a result of the recent scientific expedition to Patagonia. Probably the most important of the publications is now being compiled by Professor W. E. Ortman, which will treat the geology of that region. Previous work by the native investigators is shown to have been precisely upside down. The extensive observation on the strata of that region made by Dr. John B. Hatcher, coupled with the studies of Professor Ortman upon the fossils, will entirely wipe out the almost incompressible statements heretofore published. The invertebrate fauna that will be dealt with by Professor Ortman is of unusual interest, as it demonstrates that Australia and southern South America were in late geographical times connected in one land mass. Imbedded in the ancient sea beaches which are now far inland, both in Patagonia and Australia, fossil shells were discovered which are exactly alike, proving to the investigator the continuation of an unbroken coast line of both continents.

Invasion by Italian Paupers.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Commissioner General Powderly has received a telegram from the immigration officials at Eagle Pass., Tex., in which they state that they have information that about 1,200 pauper Italians are on their way north from Mexican ports with a view to crossing the Mexican line into the United States. Forty-three of these Italians, it was said, already have been stopped and turned back, but in view of the large number on the way the officials ask for authority to appoint ten mounted men to patrol the Rio Grande and prevent their crossing. This authority has been granted, and the additional men will be appointed at once.

Strike Leaders Arrested.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., July 13.—Three of the leaders in the Bell island mining strike, St. John, Shepperd and McCarthy, are in jail, and the police are keeping the remainder at bay. These cut the cables by which the ore wagons are moved, and it is feared that other damage will be done. The strikers are becoming desperate, and the situation excites apprehension.

Responsibility of the Voter.

In an address to his townsmen at Lincoln Col. Bryan gave some excellent advice about the responsibility of voting that is worth being quoted not as Democratic campaign matter but as sound principles that applies pointedly to the American voter whether he be Democrat, Republican, Populist, Prohibitionist or advocate of any of the dozen political parties of this country. Mr. Bryan said:

"It is a great privilege to be an American citizen, but there is a grave responsibility that goes with it. We are living under a government whose policy is determined by the people, where the citizen possesses his own opinion, where the policy of the nation may be determined by the vote of our citizen. Let me leave one thought with you. That is, that when you go in to vote you vote as though you knew your vote will determine the next election. Remember what it means. Your vote may determine the result in Nebraska, and the result in Nebraska may determine the result in the nation. Your vote may determine the election of a Congressman and that Congressman may determine the fate of some great policy. It may determine the complexion of the next State Legislature which sends two Senators to Washington, who may be called upon to determine the nation's position among other nations, in defence of the doctrine that Government comes up from the people."

Col. Bryan's words quoted above are plain truths, and they may and ought to be heeded by every voter in the land. Of course, Mr. Bryan's idea in uttering this sage advice is his belief that an application of it will aid and strengthen the cause he represents. Considered above mere partisanship, however, the words are commended to the serious consideration of every voter. When the voter goes to the ballot box next November he ought to be prepared to vote intelligently, conscientiously and honestly for the best interests of the country. Individually, the American voter is a small atom of the aggregate power of the country, and yet, as pointed out above, the ballot he casts may determine the fate of the nation. This is to be a campaign of great principles, with great men arrayed on all sides, and the average voter owes it as a noble, yet easy, duty to his country to study the issues involved and to vote as though his ballot was the one upon which the result actually depended. In this way the highest ideal of American citizenship asserts itself.

With the passing of the bicycle as a fad and its adoption as a general convenience, there has come a great change in the general equipment of the wheel. While there are still a number of riders, and probably always will be some, who turn out with low dropped handle bars, racing tires and toe-clips, and go spinning along the county roads, the great majority of wheelmen in this city are beginning to regard the comfort of wheeling. Up-turned handle bars are the rule rather than the exception; saddles that are patterned for comfort rather than lightness are now to be found, while the other details of the bicycle are planned with an eye to the enjoyment of the rider.

The Newark Advertiser is taking a peculiar political attitude in this campaign. It tacitly advocates the election of President McKinley, but urges the defeat of every Republican Congressman. The Advertiser reasons that with McKinley in the White House there is no danger of Bryan's financial theories being advanced, and with the Democrats in control in Congress McKinley's foreign policy can be checked. Whichever side wins The Advertiser is bound to be satisfied to some degree.

The Common Council owes a duty to the city before it acts in the interest of politicians, and this is peculiarly true in reference to filling the vacancy in Fourth ward made by the resignation of Frank H. Smith. Whether or not the politicians are exactly pleased, that vacancy should be filled and the most populous ward of the city allowed its right representation in the Common Council.

Senator Jones, chairman of the Democratic National committee, has informed the Democratic Congressional committee that the notification of Messrs. Bryan and Stevenson of their nomination, respectively, for the Presidency and Vice Presidency, will take place in Indianapolis August 8th.

Items that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

"The livery business in Plainfield," said a well-known liveryman the other day, "is better than ever this season. There is a excellent and steady demand for up-to-date stylish rigs that has never before been so noticeable. When the bicycle boom was at its height, the livery business suffered considerably. It was fashionable to ride a wheel and we found business decidedly slow in consequence. Last season there was a decided pickup in the trade and this year it is still better. The bicycle has largely gone out of fashion as a means for pleasure alone. There are lots of wheels ridden but they are rather as conveniences than for pleasure giving. The interest in the game of golf helps us to a certain extent although many people who would otherwise go driving, now spend their Saturday afternoons on the golf links."

Charles Walters, of Newark, is back from the Klondike, with a remarkable tale of luck and disaster. Four years ago Walters left Newark with $5,500. With the balance he held when he reached the gold fields he bought a claim, procured a mining outfit and assistants, and panned $68,000 within a short time. Then he becan to build air castles. Believing he could become immensely rich by establishing a big miners' outfitting business, he bought a store and stocked it at great cost. Then came the big Dawson fire, and his whole fortune went up in flame and smoke. In utter despair, he started for San Francisco. When he got there he had to pawn his watch. Part of the way he "bummed" and the rest he walked. When he got home he was a shadow of his former self, and had to tell his friends who he was. On the Dawson trail Walters barely escaped the avalanche that swept away eighty-three gold-hunters, and at Dawson City received a dangerous stab wound in a riot that followed a celebration over six barrels of whiskey.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, July 13—Peter Schneiderwin is greatly puzzled over the actions of a new trotter which he has purchased. Upon taking him out for a trial trip last evening, with a great deal of urging assisted by a persuader, about four miles an hour was all the speed that could be gotten out of him. After going a few miles at this gait Peter became disgusted and resolved to return home and to his surprise, after turning, the animal started out on a 2:30 trot. It took the united efforts of Peter and a friend to hold him back, but he didn't mind it. Peter is so mystified at this sudden burst of speed that he invites the opinion of experts upon the matter.

Scotch Plains, July 13.—The funeral services of the late Ernest Marsh were held from the home of his parents yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. The home was filled with the friends of the deceased who gathered to pay their last sad respects to the one they had loved in life. Rev. J. S. Braker, a former pastor and friend of the family, assisted by Rev. Mr. Woodruff, of the Methodist church, conducted the services which were very impressive. Rev. Mr. Braker text was taken from Psalms 23:4, and his remarks were filled with consolation for the bereaved family and sorrowing friends. Rev. Mr. Woodruff, who had been with Ernest a great deal during his illness, spoke reminiscently of his visits and talks with Ernest and of his cheerfulness and fortitude during his last few weeks of life. During the services a quartette, composed of Mrs. Maguire, Mrs. Hoppell, Miss Hollingsworth and Miss Trautman, sang very impressively two favorite hymns of the deceased, "Saved by Grace" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." Interment was made in the family plot in the Baptist cemetery.

END OF LINDEN RACE TRACK.

Interstate Fair Association Secures Grandstand and Club Buildings.

The Interstate Fair Association is to purchase the clubhouse, betting pavilion and grandstand formerly used by the Linden Park Racing Association, now at the Linden racetrack, and the buildings will be moved to the fair ground at Trenton, to take the place of the buildings burned last Saturday.

The determination to make such a provision was reached yesterday afternoon at the special meeting of the fair's board of directors, and the step was taken at the suggestion of the executive committee, the members of which have recently looked over the situation.

The Linden stand, it is said, cost upward of $50,000, and the betting pavilion could not be re erected for twice the cost of Trenton's old exhibition structure.

Close Call for Veteran Railroader.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, July 13.—George Townley, the veteran baggagemaster for the Jersey Central at its main station here, who has held the position almost since the road was build, was crossing from east-bound to the west bound track with a truck yesterday when the royal blue line train for New York swept around the curve. The engineer saw Mr. Townley's peril and blew his whistle generously. Baggagemaster Townley leaped backward, and in an instant the train flashed by him within three feet of where he stood. The veteran was unnerved by his thrilling experience.

delegation were unaware that he was a candidate for the place. Without this information they readily agreed to support Daly when he made the request of them.

After Daly had got pledges from a majority of the delegates—and before the latter knew of Mr. Martines's aspirations—the news spread among the delegates about Mr. Martine's desire. Of course, it was too late then. Unquestionably many of the delegates felt very friendly towards the "Farmer Orator," but they had already pledged their support to Daly, who had been working among the delegates while Martine had been admiring the scenery along the route, swapping stories with friends and enjoying himself generally as plain practical politics do not warrant at such times and under such circumstances.

Mr. Martine's desire to be on the committee on the platform was not satisfied because he did not personally importune the delegates to support him as Daly had done. Had the "Farmer Orator" been aggressive in his own interests from the outset the result would have been different.

Martine's candidacy against Daly never reached the point where it might be termed a "contest," and therefore his failure to be named on the platform committee was neither humiliating or a "turn-down" in any way.

ELIZABETH MYSTERY SOLVED.

Body Found in River Was That of Miss Eva Plaesck.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, July 13—The body of the young woman found in the Elizabeth river has been identified as that of Eva Plaesck. She was a pretty girl and, as far as is known, had no reason to take her own life.

Tuesday night Miss Plaesck, who was nineteen years old, was seated with the other members of the family on the piazza of the Plaesck house, 815 Pearl street. After 8 p. m. Eva arose from her seat and, without saying anything to her companions, walked down Pearl street toward the river. When she failed to return at midnight the family became alarmed and started out to make a search. Harry Geslte was one of the search party.

In the bottom of the Elizabeth river he saw an object which looked like a bunch of rags. It proved to be the body of Miss Plaesck. An investigation was made, but failed to show any marks of violence. The police gave out the statement that Miss Plaesck must have been sitting on the parapet of the bridge and had fallen. There was no autopsy, but an inquest will be held. It is believed that additional facts will then be brought to light. The girl's family insist that she was a victim of foul play.

Found Dead in Bed.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, July 13.—J. Stanley Joyce, who lived with his mother, Mrs. Harriet T. Joyce, on Paterson street, was found dead in bed yesterday. He was about forty years of age and was prominent as an entertainer, being known to lodgemen and secret societies throughout the State. It was thought at first he had committed suicide, but medical examination disproved this rumor.

A certain German grocery man in Brooklyn has by thrift and close attention to business become so successful that his neighbors have not failed to notice that he is constantly adding to his wealth. He recently began the erection of a block of five flat houses on lots adjoining his store. One day a friend, congratulating him on his success, said that a man who is able to erect houses in these times ought to be very happy indeed; whereupon Mr. Gootschen responded: "What's the good of money if you don't got good health?" He then related that he was just getting off a sick bed, having been laid up with a bilious attack, and he added: "I don't feel good yet." A lady customer who was at the moment standing near heard what he said. She was a believer in Ripans Tabules, and happening to have some in a little handbag she was carrying, she thereupon offered him half a dozen and begged him to try them. This he promised to do. Two weeks later the same lady inquired of him how the Ripans Tabules had affected him, and he said enthusiastically: "Dose are worth more to me by the dozens than anything I ever tried, and I've swallowed many stuffs for dat biliousness—dat's a good medicine and it stops by me after now."

WANTED—A case of bad health that R·I·P·A·N·S will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word R·I·P·A·N·S on the package and accept no substitute. [Special Chicago Letter.]

OURS is a country of secret societies. It is hard to find a man much over 21 who does not belong to one or more of them; and although we pretend to be proud of the democratic principles which have made the United States the most favored nation in the world, yet we are equally proud of the "titles" bestowed upon us by the high priests, and eminent commanders, and regents, and archons, and princes of the various fraternal organizations of which we may have become members.

Some of these societies are powerful in numbers as well as social influence.

DR. B. F. STEPHENSON.
(Founder and Originator of the Grand Army of the Republic.)

Others contribute vast sums to the relief of widows and orphans. Most of them are entitled to public respect and confidence. Yet none has ever become so dear to the people at large as the order known as the Grand Army of the Republic. In volume of membership it is outstripped by several other institutions; in point of wealth it is one of the lowliest. But the fact that none but military or naval veterans of the great civil war can participate in its rights and benefits makes membership in it a badge of patriotism; and the simple "comrade" of the Grand Army, clad in his plain blue coat and primitive slouch hat, is a greater man in public estimation than the "plumed knight" and regalia-bedecked "potentate" whose gaudy accoutrements are without significance to the uninitiated. The faded uniform tells a story of hardships and privations endured for the sake of the flag we all love, of bloody struggles for the perpetuation of the union, of devotion to a cause whose justice is now recognized by those who once thought of finding political happiness and national greatness in the creation of a new republic out of detached fragments of the old.

The idea of organizing the veterans of the civil war into a compact, easily-managed secret society originated with Dr. Benjamin Franklin Stephenson, surgeon of the Fourteenth Illinois infantry, and Chaplain W. J. Rutlege, of the same regiment, while both were still at the front. After the surrender of the confederate forces at Appomattox Courthouse, and immediately following the historic parade of Grant's and Sherman's armies at Washington, Stephenson and Rutlege consulted a number of ex-soldiers in regard to their plan. These "talks" resulted in the organization of the "department of Illinois of the Grand Army of the Republic" at Springfield, in March, 1866. Twelve veterans residing at Decatur, Ill., were so pleased with the principles of the new institution that they applied for a charter and were constituted the first post of the order, April 6, 1866. In less than four weeks the department of Illinois had 28 posts, and applications for charters poured into the offices of the order from every northern state. A ritual was framed by experienced secret society men and accepted by the general officers in May, 1866. On July 13, of the same year, the provisional department organization was made permanent, with Gen. John M. Palmer as commander.

APPOMATTOX COURTHOUSE.
(Where Gen. Lee Formally Surrendered His Army to Grant.)

On November 20, 1866, the first national encampment of the Grand Army was held at Indianapolis, 228 representatives from 70 posts constituting its membership. A permanent organization, with Gen. Stephen A. Hurlburt, of Illinois, as commander in chief, was effected, and the Grand Army at once entered upon its glorious career. Gen. John A. Logan succeeded Gen. Hurlburt as commander in chief, and was in his turn succeeded by some of the most gallant and famous veterans, the present commander being Col. Albert D. Shaw, of New York, a man long prominent in the political and military life of the Empire state.

The thirty-fourth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic will be held at Chicago, beginning August 27 and continuing until September 1. Owing to the extreme age attained by many members of the order, which may prevent them from attending future meetings, it is proposed to make this year's gathering the most notable in the history of the organization. The encampment was given to Chicago on account of its central location and the liberality of its citizens, who agreed to contribute $100,000 for the appropriate decoration of buildings, the construction of arches and incidental expenses. Two magnificent arches will be erected along the line of march of the naval and military parade, one to represent the naval branch of the service and the other the army. At equal distances between these arches, forming a patriotic court of honor, will be placed heroic figures of civil war heroes, decorated with corps badges, flags and other patriotic emblems. At night the arches and decorations will be a perfect blaze of electric lights. Another attraction talked of by the committee in charge is a reproduction of Appomattox courthouse, but its construction is by no means certain.

Among the programme features of the encampment are a land and naval parade, a naval battle and reception to Admiral Dewey, all of which will take place Monday, August 27. On the 28th committees will receive President McKinley and visiting governors, who will review the annual parade of the Grand Army of the Republic. In the evening the veterans will be received by the president and Commander in Chief Shaw. On the 29th the thirty-fourth national encampment will convene in annual session. On the 30th there will be a grand sham battle in Jackson park, with an illuminated industrial parade in the evening. Besides these official entertainments there will be parades and reunions every afternoon and evening and private illuminations and band concerts of great attractiveness and interest.

On June 30, 1899, the Grand Army consisted of 6,905 posts, with a total membership of 287,981. It is supposed that 100,000 of this number will visit

COL. ALBERT D. SHAW.
(Commander in Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.)

Chicago during the encampment, constituting indeed a "grand army" in every sense of the word. The business sessions will be presided over by Commander in Chief Shaw. No matters of vital importance will come before this year's encampment, but considerable interest seems to be taken in the election of Col. Shaw's successor. It has long been a custom not to reelect the commander in chief and to give the office one year to the east, the next to the west. The west is entitled to the honor this year, and a generous rivalry between several good men is sure to spring up before August, although at present the politicians of the order seem to think that Senior Vice Commander Irvin Robbins, of Indianapolis, is sure of promotion.

The Chicago committees are in close touch with the officers of the Grand Army, both working together in perfect harmony. One decision has been arrived at by the local committee on free quarters which will undoubtedly please the veterans. There will be no outdoor camps and sleeping on damp ground. The school board will place as many of its magnificent school buildings as may be needed at the disposal of the old soldiers, and comfortable cots will also be provided for them. Camp life is very pleasant to war veterans, as a memory, but when a man gets to be 60 and over he prefers a comfortable bunk to a bed in a canvas covered tent.

Another pleasant bit of news is that the line of march of the grand army parade will be very short. The gallant boys of '61 and '65 were very fond of following martial music in the days that tried men's souls, but 30 odd years have wrought many changes in their tastes and one of them seems to be a preference for light, easy marches. While they are still enthusiastic enough to follow the flag, and ever ready to practice the cardinal virtues of their order—charity, fraternity and loyalty—yet the weight of years has taught them the value of comfort and temperance in things physical.

The Woman's Relief corps and the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, two organizations closely identified with the grand army, will hold their annual convention on Wednesday, August 29. It is needless to say that these patriotic women will receive as hearty a welcome from the people of Chicago as their fathers, husbands and brothers, and that they will be afforded every opportunity to get a good view of the various entertainments provided for their instruction and amusement.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning July 15—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—How mission work will gain success—Acts i, 6-14. (Quarterly missionary meeting.)

The success of mission work in the past is a guarantee of the success of mission work in the future. All has not been done that we would like to have seen done, but much more has been done than many imagine. Christianity has been tremendously felt in the whole civilized world. Christianity rules today in the rulers, laws and institutions of the nations which control and govern the earth. The poetry, philosophy and science of the world are and have been predominantly Christian. The grain of mustard seed has become a great tree, the little leaven has leavened the whole lump, and the stone has become a great mountain that is filling the whole earth. What has done it? What has been the secret of missionary success in the past? The answer to these questions will solve the problem of missionary success for today, and they are answered by Christ in this passage from the Acts. Two essential elements of missionary success are pointed out—(1) divine power and (2) human effort in presenting Christ to the world. The early church was a remarkably successful missionary church, and its success was based upon these two elements. So it must be today if missionary effort is to gain success.

1. Divine power is necessary to missionary success. "Ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you." The apostles waited at Jerusalem until they received this power of the Holy Ghost, and then they went forth and preached Christ with great success. The most essential element of successful mission work is the power of the Spirit. It is absolutely impossible to gain success without it. There are other things that are very necessary, such as wealth, organization, knowledge, but these are all secondary to the one great essential quality of spiritual power. Paul had no wealth, no great organization, but he had divine power, the power of the Spirit, and with that he was the most successful of missionaries. In mission work, of all work, it is not by might or by power, but by the Spirit of God.

2. Human effort is necessary to missionary success. "Ye shall be witnesses unto Me." Divine power is to be coupled with human effort. We are to be colaborers with God. God is to supply the power. Man is to be the channel through which the power is to be transmitted and diffused. It should be a delight and an honor to all men to bear witness unto Christ through the power of the Spirit. Let us do it faithfully both at home and abroad, at Jerusalem and in Samaria. Sincere human effort put forth in the power of the Holy Ghost will make missionary success absolutely assured. "The sword of the Lord and of Gideon" won the victory over the Midianites, and it can win the victory over sin, unbelief, idolatry and heathenism and can win the world for Christ.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Use the United society's special programme or let one be arranged by the missionary committee.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. lxxii, 8-20; Isa. xxxv, 1-10; xlii, 20-23; Zech. iv, 6; Nah. i, 15; Matt. xxviii, 19, 20; Acts xiii, 1-3; Rom. x, 14, 15; I Cor. iii, 5-7; Rev. xxii, 17.

The Helpful Church Member.

Just what the good, helpful church member is in church he is at home, with an open heart and an open hand, never content unless his friends are coming and going, never angry unless they will not stay and have a meal with him, never so full of joy as when he is doing a good turn or going over old days with those to whom he is bound by a hundred ties of kindly words and deeds. As he has dealt with all men, strangers and friends alike in his church and in his house, so will God deal by him, and for him we may feel sure there will be a hospitable welcoming waiting where the churches of earth have changed into our Father's house.—Ian Maclaren in February Ladies' Home Journal.

The Cure of Loneliness.

Selfishness is one great cause of loneliness. If a man builds walls around himself, so that he may keep all that he has to himself, he soon finds that he has built walls around himself which shut out all that might come in to him from others. So the cure of loneliness may be the overcoming of selfishness. The medicines for this disease of loneliness are potions of generosity, of thoughtfulness for others, of self sacrifice, taken in large doses. Even when the loneliness comes from the bitterness of loss and sorrow, forgetting self, going out of self and doing for others is the only cure that God has given on earth for its healing.—Sunday School Times.

God's Due.

Our time is due God. Few of us devote enough of our hours to distinctively Christian service. An honest investigation of the amount of time that we spend in private worship in God's house and in his work will surprise us and humiliate us, too, when we contrast it with the time we devote to selfish and secular ends. Not many of us are tithers of our time.—William T. Ellis.

Innocence.

One source of spiritual strength is the consciousness of innocence; that motives are sincere, thoughts clean, desires pure. Tennyson is not always to be followed, but forceful is the statement of his Sir Galahad, "My strength is as the strength of ten, because my heart is pure." The blood of Jesus Christ alone cleanses, purifies the heart.—Episcopal Recorder.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning July 15, "How Mission Work Will Gain Success"—Text, Acts i, 6-14.

"All continued with one accord in prayer and supplication." Well equipped schools, hospitals, churches, orphanages and devoted teachers, physicians and preachers are indispensable in mission work. But we may have all these and abundant funds and still make no real success unless the heart of the church at large is deeply engaged in the work. Without doubt the cause of God among the unevangelized at home and abroad is engaging more attention now than ever before. Indications are abundant that a more intelligent conception of the responsibility of the Christian church to preach the gospel to all people is coming into recognition than has previously been held. Even if some positions of the old theology have been overthrown, there is rising a truer spirit of helpfulness and humanity than has been seen before among men. The miseries of the unfortunate and wicked are arousing sympathy and stirring the activities of the followers of Christ for their relief and suppression. If there is less anxiety manifested about the eternal destinies of men, there is more care for their present necessities. To relieve the starvation of millions in India the church pours out her treasure as freely as to tell these same multitudes of future salvation through Jesus. The physical pains and fearful needs appeal more powerfully to some than the religious condition of these heathen. Perhaps this is God's own best way to do His work. The gift of food may draw the hungry to the missionary and secure faith in his God when long years of preaching would have failed to shake faith in the old idolatries but for famine. The starvation of millions of human beings appeals to the generosity of many in Christian lands who would never contribute a dollar for regular missionary work. This enlisting of co-operation is singular, but effective. The man who gives $10 to keep a boy and girl from starving to death will be quite likely to keep up his gifts to educate them in a Christian school. So in a peculiar manner God makes famine work for the furtherance of His kingdom.

But the one factor which can never be spared in this work is the united, ceaseless supplication of the church. Let the heart of God's people feel the needs of His poor sheep and continually present their needs before Him lest they forget and neglect to help and so lose from their own hearts and lives the blessings of divine co-operation.

Chinese Missions on the Pacific Coast.

Visitors to San Francisco from the east feel that they have not fully seen the city unless they have visited Chinatown. Most travelers can tell a great deal about its heathenism. How many of them take time or even have a care to investigate the efforts made to Christianize the Chinese? Yet in this very city of San Francisco is one of the most helpful and hopeful centers of mission work. There are about 75,000 Chinamen on the Pacific slope and 40,000 scattered over the eastern part of the country. The Methodist Episcopal church began work among them in 1868 by forming classes for them in the larger Sunday schools of the coast. Rev. Otis Gibson, D. D., was the pioneer worker. In 1870 a mission house was opened in San Francisco. Evening and day schools, rescue home and preaching have been regularly conducted since then. Branch missions are now established in all the larger cities of California and Oregon. Over 550 converts have been received and baptized and 373 women and girls rescued from shame and slavery. About 250 members remain on the coast, while the influence of those who have returned home to China is attested by all missionaries in Canton to be of great value.

A true life is a silent preacher, but it is an eloquent and a persuasive one.

Longing.

Of all the myriad moods of mind
That through the soul come thronging,
Which one was e'er so dear, so kind,
So beautiful as Longing?
That thing we long for, that we are,
For one transcendent moment,
Before the Present, poor and bare,
Can make its sneering comment.

Still through our paltry stir and strife
Glows down the wished Ideal,
And Longing molds in day what Life
Carves in the marble Real.
To let the new life, we know,
Desire must ope the portal;
Perhaps the longing to be so
Helps make the soul immortal.

Longing is God's fresh heavenward will
With our poor earthward striving;
We quench it that we may be still
Content with merely living.
But would we learn the heart's full scope
Which we are hourly wronging,
Our lives must climb from hope to hope
And realize our longing.

Ah, let us hope that to our praise
Good God not only reckons
The moments when we tread His ways,
But when the spirit beckons,
That some slight good is also wrought
Beyond self satisfaction,
When we are simply good in thought,
Howe'er we fail in action.

BRIDGE WORK
in Dentistry is the best substitute for nature's work that can be done. Sound roots may be built up and crowned and thus fill up an unsightly space. It has to be made of a material that has strength and durability and one that will not discolor. Gold is the one that stands the test. That is the secret of the expense. But the advantages of a bridge over a plate are many times more than the cost of one compared to that of the other.

AUTOMATIC BOOTBLACK.

Slot Machine Which Shines Shoes Quite as Thoroughly as the Proverbial Small Boy.

The latest slot-machine is for blacking boots. It comes from Paris, and is thus described in Cosmos:

"We have automatic venders of all sorts; but until the present time there has been none to aid in the details of the toilet. This want is now filled; we can not yet, it is true, have our hair cut or be shaved by dropping a nickel in the slot; but we can have our boots blacked.

"The automatic bootblack has three rotary U-shaped brushes, which inclose the top and sides of the shoe; these brushes are contained in a metal cylinder having two openings for the introduction of the foot. In the lower opening the shoe is attacked above and on the sides; in the upper one (see illustration) the heel is treated by the brush. The stages of the operation are as follows:

"The user, after dropping his nickel in the slot, takes hold of the horizontal bar, introduces his foot into the first brush-hole, and turns a handle. At once a small electric motor sets the axle of the rotary brushes in motion, and in the twinkling of an eye the shoe is cleaned.

"The man next passes to brush No. 2, which puts on the blacking; this brush takes up the desired quantity of polish by means of an ingenious mechanism similar to that of the inking part of a printing press. Brush No. 3 polishes the shoe. One foot having received the desired attention the operation is repeated with the other.

"A needle that moves on a scale after each stage of the process indicates to the user what he must do next; he has even a mirror before him, so that if he wishes he can arrange other details of his toilet while the blacking is proceeding. The only care he has to take is to turn up his trousers, an important precaution when one thinks what the machine might do to them if this were omitted."

In closing, the writer of the notice remarks that there is a great future for slot-machines of this general type, for use in hotels, colleges, etc. Many of the offices now performed by servants may in certain cases be rendered expeditiously and well by such devices as these.

Many Bacilli Are Beneficial.

A magazine devoted to scientific topics sagely remarks that the bacterium has something else to do in the economy of nature than in originating maladies. It continues the topic by noting a paper in a French magazine by M. Matruchot, on the agency of bacteria in forming the colors of flowers. It is something to check the microbian craze of the popular press in regard to the supposed viciousness of these humble vegetable organisms. It is true that they are operating in innumerable directions—but the number that are associated with disease are very few—and even these few, if the animal be healthy, are digested by the gastric juice as easily as would be an oyster. The majority, indeed, are essential to our health and happiness.

Testing Balls of Steel.

Cast steel balls when made require to be examined in order that faulty ones may be cast aside. This examination involves much time and labor, and even then faulty balls are not always detected. A German has devised an apparatus for testing them in accordance with physical laws. The balls are placed on the top of a cylinder in which works a piston rod; each ball is struck with the same force by the rod and falls on an inclined surface; at the end of this plane it strikes against an impact surface. If a ball is perfect it will have enough elasticity to rebound beyond a fixed barrier, but if it imperfect it has an inferior degree of elasticity and falls short. All balls which do not pass the barrier may safely be rejected as faulty.

Ancient House Beneath Modern One.

During the demolition of a house in Old Bridge street, Kingston, says a London exchange, an interesting discovery was made, some ten feet below the roadway, in the form of a building about 20 feet long and 12 feet wide. The structure is built of chalk bricks with a vaulted and groined roof, and at a recent meeting of the town council Dr. Finny, the ex-mayor, stated it was apparently the remains of an old bridge house, used in guarding the entrance to the town over the bridge crossing the Thames. He said the building was interesting and valuable to the town as a specimen of the architecture of a bygone age.

South Is Full of Coal.

Two decades ago the south produced annually but 6,000,000 tons of bituminous coal. That product has now passed the 40,000,000 mark, and of the 47,000 square miles of coal fields in the south, only about 1,000 are under development.

Cleanliness.

The woman who scrubbed the coalbin before the coal was put in carried cleanliness a little too far.

Our coal is as clean as coal can possibly be—free from dust, slate or other foreign matter.

SPORTING.

GOLF

A close follower of golf, and more especially the doings of the leading amateurs in this country, recently remarked to the writer that the average American player has been handicapped in learning the game more than anyone realizes. He went on to explain that the young or even middle-aged American usually tried to learn the game in several different ways. This may sound strange at first, but upon reflection one will detect a deal more than appears on the surface.

The caddie question continues to bother the average green committees, and probably always will. A western club, however, has formed some rules, which, if lived up to, are liable to do away with a great deal of past annoyances. The organization also shows its appreciation of a good caddie by the fact that it has been decided to offer prizes at the end of the season to the best behaved caddie and also to the one losing the fewest number of balls. Here are the rules:

No caddie will be allowed to serve without his badge.

Fees for caddie service are fifteen cents per round; twenty-five cents for two consecutive rounds by the same player.

Caddies will remain in part of grounds provided for them, and under no circumstances will they come on the course until engaged for service.

They must be neat and bear themselves in a respectful manner toward the players.

They must be prepared to caddie for any player upon being called.

They must observe strict silence while the players in their party are making their shots.

They must report to the green committee, or to the greenkeeper, when the rule regarding replacing the turf is violated.

It's a fact that nearly every golfer who began playing the game in this county during the last five years has been guilty of repeatedly changing his style. This usually occurs through one's getting off in his long game. He begins to splice or pull his drives, and then suddenly rushes to the conclusion that either his stance, grip or swing is all wrong, whereupon he begins to experiment, trying all kinds of new methods. Very likely he has at some earlier period taken a course of lessons from a professional, who has long since gone to some other part of the country. Now, if the amateur seeks the advice of another "pro" it's almost a certainty that he will be told to do things which conflict with the teachings of the earlier coach. Adopting a new idea the amateur is very apt to get away a good ball from the tee and at once becomes convinced that he has at last struck the proper style. Later on, when playing with some rival amateur, the golfer with the newly acquired swing gets a little off his game, and then the first thing he knows he is playing neither one style nor the other.
